Woman Hit By Car, Seriously Hurt Near Norwood

NORWOOD (Staff)—A 78-year-old Asphodel township woman is lying critically injured in Civic Hospital as a result of walking into the side of a car Tuesday afternoon, a half mile west of Norwood. The injured woman is Mrs. Mary Buck, widow of the late John Buck, who lives on the north side of Highway 7 in Asphodel township. She was dashed to the highway so violently that both legs were broken, her left arm was mangled, one hip was punctured and a shoulder was dislocated. Shortly after being admitted to hospital her right leg was amputated above the knee.

Hospital authorities said that her condition was as good as could be expected.

Mrs. Buck, who lives alone, was crossing the highway to get her mail from the mail box when the accident occurred. The mail box is directly across from her house on the south side of the highway.

STRONG WIND

A strong wind was blowing at 2.15 p.m. Tuesday, just before the thunderstorm began. Mrs. Buck is said to have had her head down, apparently protecting her face from the flying dust, as she started across the highway.

Mrs. Helen E. MacDougall, of Westport, driver of the car involved, said she saw Mrs. Buck come to the shoulder of the highway; Mrs. Buck's head was down and she didn't look up or down the highway before venturing across.

Trying to avoid an accident, Mrs. MacDougall swung her car to the left but Mrs. Buck kept on coming. The elderly woman was struck almost in the centre of the road by the right front fender. She slid back along the fender and dropped on the road, unconscious.

Mrs. Buck was picked up and laid on her own lawn until Dr. A. H. Atkinson arrived. She was given brief medical treatment and then taken to Civic Hospital.

Shortly after she was admitted her right leg was amputated.

O.P.P. Corporal Jack Munro and Harold Armstrong investigated.

PIONEER FAMILY

Mrs. Buck is a descendant of one of Norwood's pioneer families. Her husband, a stonemason, built much of the stonework in the village and surrounding district.

She has a son, Harold, in Detroit, and four daughters: Mrs. Warren Brown (Nellie), of Detroit, Mrs. Edward Hicks (Lillian) of California, Mrs. George Kinsey (Minnie), formerly of Norwood, and Mrs. Marjorie Dorset, of Detroit.

Seven of her grandchildren are living, including three Peterborough district women — Mrs. Harold Blondin, of Aberdeen Ave., Mrs. Fred Clark, of Bethune St., and Mrs. Donald Dalton, of Bridgenorth.

8 Flying Saucers Seen By Two Pilots

MIAMI, Fla. (CP)—Two airline pilots reported seeing flying saucers moving at an estimated 1,000 miles an hour over Chesapeake Bay Monday night.

They said eight of the saucers, 100 feet in diameter and about 15 feet thick, glowing like red coals, passed directly beneath their Pan American Airlines plane, wheeled sharply and zoomed out of sight.

First Officer W. B. Nash, 35, and First Officer W. H. Fortenberry "Watched the manoeuvre" for about 10 seconds.

DEFINITE OUTLINES

Nash said they "had definite outlines—there was nothing fuzzy about them. . .they were brilliant, far more intense than ground lights."

He said the plane was flying at 8,000 feet and the objects passed beneath them at an estimated 2,000 feet, approaching from the southeast over Newport News.

Nash said he had no doubt in his mind they were missiles of some kind operating under intelligent control.

28 Arrested Had 'Weapons'

MONTREAL (CP)—At least 28 men were arrested in suburban Verdun today on charges of carrying offensive weapons — baseball bats cut to police night-stick size —after the polls opened for the Quebec general elections.

They were arrested in trucks and taxis in the vicinity of the polls and were carrying the bats.

There were no disturbances.

Police Director Pierre Gatineau of Verdun said the men claimed they were out "to maintain law and order." He said they will be held in cells and released after the polls close at 6:30 p.m. They will appear in court at a later date.

Later, a woman identified by police as Mrs. Jean MacRitchie was arrested at a poll in Montreal St. Henry riding and charged with impersonation.

Business Drops Due To Highway

BARRIE (CP)—Merchants and service station owners here are complaining of a serious drop in business since the Toronto-Barrie highway was opened July 1.

The highway skirts the town and most holidaying motorists stay on the road until it meets No. 11 north of here, rather than take the longer route and stop off in town.

Operators report week-end gasoline sales have dropped by hundreds of gallons.

Expect Commonwealth Ministers Meet In Nov.

LONDON (Reuters)—Commonwealth ministers are expected to meet in London in November to discuss all aspects of Commonwealth financial, economic and trading problems, a usually-reliable source said today.

The source said that senior Commonwealth finance officials and economic experts are likely to meet in London in mid-August to review the current situation of the sterling area.

These officials would privately examine the balance-of-payments positions of the sterling area, consider its gold and dollar reserves and scrutinize its trading trends. Their summation of the Commonwealth and sterling area's economic and financial state would provide a brief for the ministerial discussions.

2 Brothers Sentenced For Fire In Sutton

NEWMARKET (CP)—Two Sutton brothers were yesterday convicted on a charge of arson as a result of the $3,000 Riverside Lunch fire July 1 in Sutton.

Gordon Foster, 29, was sentenced to three years definite and Alvin to two years less a day definite and one year indefinite. Both pleaded guilty.

Evidence was that the brothers started the fire in the back of the restaurant because of a grudge against the co-owner who had ejected them from the restaurant.

Red China To Recognize Germ Ban

Geneva Conventions Conditionally Accepted By Reds

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China today conditionally recognized the Geneva conventions banning germ warfare and setting rules for treatment of war prisoners. United Nations officials here and in Korea would make no official comment on the Red announcements, made in separate broadcasts by Peiping radio.

Observers speculated the statements possibly meant: 1. The Reds had found a way to break the stalemate in Korean armistice talks over prisoner exchange.

2. Or it was a continuation of Communist charges that the United States had employed germ warfare in the Korean fighting. The U.S. repeatedly has denied the charges.

Added significance was attached to the Peiping broadcasts since they quoted Foreign Minister Chou En-Lai. Important pronouncements by the Red radio frequently have been reserved for Chou.

RECIPROCAL ACTION

One broadcast said Chou had been authorized to recognize the Geneva protocol of June 17, 1925, and acceded to by Nationalist China on Aug. 7, 1929. It prohibits the use in war of poisonous gas and germ warfare.

The radio said, however, that "all other contracting and acceding powers" must observe them reciprocally.

The U.S. has not ratified the germ-warfare provision and has withstood efforts of Russia's Jacob

Lawyer's Tip Cracks Case

OTTAWA (CP)—A tip by an Ottawa lawyer today started police on a fresh trail in their hunt for two men believed to be the leaders of a counterfeit ring, now believed in the Toronto area.

The lawyer, Gordon McMichael, said today he was approached last night by two men who sought to engage his services in connection with the arrest of two girls being held here on charges of being in possession of fake $10 bills.

The girls, Rita Bourdeau, 18, and Rita Gatt, 27, both of Jackson's Point, a Lake Simcoe summer resort, appeared in magistrate's court today and were remanded for one week without plea and without bail.

Mr. McMichael said he was approached by the men at nearby Rivermead Golf Club after he had finished a round of golf. They introduced themselves as "Watson" and "Martin."

Meanwhile, police were throwing a net around the area.

Elect Avery Brundage Committee President

HELSINKI (AP)—Avery Brundage of the United States was elected president of the international Olympic committee today.

Brundage and Lord David Burghley of Great Britain had been the two men prominently mentioned as possible successors to J. Sigfrid Edstrom of Sweden who is retiring after the Helsinki Olympic games.

Krim Announces Movement To Liberate Morocco Fails

CAIRO (Reuters)—Abd el Krim, a living legend to millions of North Africans for three decades, announced yesterday his movement to "liberate" Tunisia, Algeria and Morocco has failed.

The 70-year-old "wolf of the Riffs" said he is through with the North African Maghreb (Morocco) Liberation Committee.

He formed the organization after escaping in 1947 from the exile which followed his defeat 21 years before by the French and Spanish foreign legions in Morocco.

MOVEMENT FAILS

"Conflicting personal and political interests within the Liberation Committee have caused a failure of the liberation movement," Krim said.

The Committee had been made up of representative of various political factions in North Africa and had been in close contact with the Arab League.

Krim jumped parole in 1947 when the French were bringing him and his family from his exile island of Reunion, in the Indian Ocean off Madagascar, to the south of France for his health and the education of his children.

He escaped dramatically from a liner at Port Said and sought protection in Egypt. Since then he has been living with his family in a villa given him by King Farouk.

REBELLED IN 1921

It was in 1921 that Krim, who had worked for the Spanish administration for many years, disappeared into the hills of the Riff, a wild country on the Mediterranean coast of Morocco, and organized a successful rebellion against the Spaniards.

Rounding up a motley band of adventurers and ex-soldiers of many nationalities to train and help equip his tribesmen, Krim seized control of most of Spanish Morocco and held it until 1925. One of the Spanish officers who fought him was a young major, Francisco Franco, now ruler of Spain.

In 1925 he began dreaming of a united Spanish and French Morocco under his leadership, and he attacked the French. A combined force of 200,000 French and Spanish troops swooped down on him in 1926 and he surrendered to Marshal Henri Philippe Petain. The French then exiled Krim to Reunion, allowing him to take his four wives, his children, some relatives and 20 servants along. He was granted a life pension.

JEFFREY RAY POINTS CHEERFULLY to the Atlantic island of Bermuda on this airlines map as he anticipates his air trip there that will start this Sunday. Since last November, when he started delivering The Examiner, Jeffrey, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Ray, 333 Sherbrooke St., has been saving for and planning this journey. He was born in Bermuda and came here seven years ago with his parents. His month in Bermuda will be spent with relatives there.—(Parks Studio Photo)

Expect Trouble As Quebec Voters At Polls

QUEBEC (CP)—The voters today took over the sizzling Quebec election campaign.

They will select from among 234 candidates the 92 members who will make up the 24th Legislature.

The list of registered voters contains 2,248,546 names. Heavily attended campaign meetings indicate the turnout at the polls may be a record. More than 1,500,000 voted in 1948.

Active campaigning, hard-fought and sometimes bitter, ended last night at midnight and the main party leaders now are in their home constituencies to await the results — Premier Duplessis in Three Rivers and Georges Lapalme, Liberal leader, in Joliette.

Mr. Duplessis' governing Union Nationale party, seeking to duplicate its election victories of 1944 and 1948, has 91 candidates in the field. The Liberals have entered 92, the C.C.F. 23, Labor-Progressive party four and miscellaneous groups 24.

The Union Nationale won 81 of the 92 Legislature seats in the 1948 contests and held a 71-member majority when the House was dissolved May 28 last.

COUNCIL UNAFFECTED

The voting does not affect the non-elective Legislative Council, whose 24 members are appointed for life by the government in power. Its membership now includes 16 Liberals and seven Union Nationale. There is one vacancy.

The Montreal police department has placed 1,000 men on special duty against possible disturbances, often a feature of Quebec voting.

In Three Rivers, Mayor J. A. Mongrain has invoked emergency powers to appoint 100 special constables. The rigorous Three Rivers mayor, opposing Mr. Duplessis in a seat the Premier has represented for 25 years, has said in platform addresses that he expects trouble.

Diplomatic Reception To Be Given By Queen

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen is expected to be sufficiently recovered from a cold to attend a mass diplomatic reception tonight.

The Queen is to receive some 2,000 diplomats and their families today in the first big diplomatic affair of her reign. The high-ceiling state rooms of rambling Buckingham Palace will be brightly lit as the Queen meets her guests, each one resplendent in the formal dress of his native country.

The slight cold prevented her from attending an afternoon wedding yesterday of her cousin, Gerald Lascelles, to former actress Angela Dowding.

Paper Boy Saved Earnings Takes Air Trip To Bermuda

Delivering The Examiner for the past eight months has paid off handsomely for 14-year-old Jeffrey Ray, 333 Sherbrooke St. In that short time, he has saved enough money for a trip by air to Bermuda, and on Sunday he will start his flight from Toronto. Jeffrey will spend a month there with relatives.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Ray, are enthusiastic about their son's part-time job. They have helped him budget his money so that he would have enough for the trip.

BORN IN BERMUDA

Jeffrey was born in Bermuda, and flew from there to Canada with his parents when he was seven. He doesn't remember too much about the island, but is looking forward to seeing it again. When he left there, a ban against all but essential cars existed; it has since been lifted, and he wants to see the island now that pleasure cars are allowed on its roads.

In the last two years, he has spoken to his family from time to time about returning to Bermuda for a visit.

Said his mother: "We wanted him to have the trip, but told him he would have to make the money for it himself. As a rseult, he started his newspaper route."

Since last November, Jeffrey has been carrying an average of 92 Examiners each weeknight, and has banked his profits steadily. Not all his earnings, however, have gone into savings. He has used a part to pay for clothing, and other needs.

Jeffrey says he has the cost of the trip figured pretty closely. He thinks that about $137 will buy his airlines ticket and cover any other expenses he may have.

BANKED $150

In the eight months he has been delivering The Examiner, Jeffrey has banked more than $150, and when his week's earnings are deposited, he expects there will be about $175 in his account.

He says that his savings plan has been simplified by using the banking scheme set up by the Examiner a year ago for its newspaper boys.

After his month in Bermuda, Jeffrey will be back on his paper route again, saving for something new.

1,000 Leave Homes To Escape Zinc Fumes

PHILADELPHIA (AP)A zinc oxide fire in a Philadelphia smelting plant today spread nauseating fumes over a mile-wide area forcing nearly 1,000 people to leave their homes.

Forty-nine persons who live in a row of houses across from the plant were made violently ill by the fumes.

Bogus Money Ring Uncovered

TORONTO (CP)—Provincial Police here said today their search for two men believed to have $1,800 in counterfeit $10 bills has centred on a Lake Simcoe summer resort.

Inspector Charles Wood of the criminal investigation branch of the Ontario Provincial Police here was assigned to the case following the arrest in Ottawa yesterday of two girls on charges of passing worthless money.

One gave as her address a Jackson's Point, Lake Simcoe, lodge operated by a Toronto man. The man was arrested earlier this year in the United States on a shopbreaking charge.

Police said one of the men sought now is on bail from Don jail, he and another Toronto man are said to have fled from a tourist camp just before police raided it.

President Truman Enters Army Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman entered the army's Walter Reed hospital today for a checkup.

The President was stricken with a mild virus infection on Sunday. It had been described by his aides as not serious, but all his appointments had been cancelled this week.

Press secretary Joseph Short told reporters the President may remain at the hospital for "two or three days."

The virus infection, Short said, has been pretty much cleared up. He said Truman's fever "has about gone."

White House reporters could not recall that Truman ever entered a hospital for as long as two or three days since he became President more than seven years ago.

Alexander Gets Petition Signed By British POW's

By BILL BOSS

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA—(CP)—A peace petition signed with the names of British soldiers in enemy hands was delivered to Earl Alexander when he was in Korea last month. The petition included the names of two missing Canadians believed killed.

Existence of the petition has not been disclosed officially but Boss's story about two Canadian names being included was approved for publication by censors.

The petition—the number of signatures is not known—was forwarded to the British Defence Minister through the enemy's delegation at the Panmunjom armistice negotiations.

TO SCREEN PRISONERS

It still is in the theatre, in the hands of senior British officers who will screen the returning prisoners if an armistice is reached.

The document follows the usual Communist propaganda line and pleads that Alexander and Great Britain press for a speedy end to hostilities.

Authenticity of the signatures is being checked.

Possibility that the two Canadians were connected with the petition is a recent development in investigations that have been going on since the document was received. A check of Canadian records in Tokyo showed two of the signatures compare with those of Ptes. J. A. Bellefeuille of Hull, Que., and J. T. Allain of Rexton, N.B. These two members of the 2nd Battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment, were listed as missing, believed killed, after the Van Doos' epic five-day stand last November in defence of Hill 227.

Their signatures are the first indication authorities here have had that they may be alive and in enemy hands. So far the Communists have reported holding only one Canadian prisoner of war—Gnr. O. J. Jenkins of Hamilton, a member of the 2nd Regiment, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery. His name did not appear among the signatures.

SIX KNOWN MISSING

Besides Bellefeuille and Allain, six other Canadians are listed in army records as missing, believed killed: L. Cpl. Paul Dugal, Quebec, Pte. Joseph George Tremblay, Amos, Que., Pte. Robert Gendron, Donnaconna, Que., all of the 1st Battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment; Pte. William Albert Stone, Stewiacke, N.S., 1st Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment; Pte. Arthur Baker, Montreal, and Cpl. John Richard Toole, Hamilton, both R.C.I.C. No other Canadians are listed in any "missing" category in army records.

Bellefeuille and Allain were virtually given up for dead after patrols led by Capt. Pat Tremblay of Quebec — now back in Canada—reported seeing part of their bodies above the ground, but could not recover them.

Damage Reported At Million Dollars, Visitors Evacuated

JASPER, Alta. (CP)—Jasper Park Lodge, reputed to be the largest log building in the world, was destroyed last night by a fire which broke out as guests danced in the ballroom of the Rocky Mountain luxury resort. One hotel official was badly burned. The fire did not spread to the surrounding bungalows where most of the 500 guests of the Canadian National Railways resort were housed. The fire broke out in a checkroom shortly before 10 p.m. As some one opened the door of the check-room, flames belched out and quickly spread through the log building. Some 200 guests in the lodge, dancing and playing cards, made an orderly exit.

25 YEARS OLD

The lodge, built some 25 years ago as the centre of a 4,200-square-mile mountain playground, was largely given over to dining and recreational facilities. It contained some guest rooms.

A special train arrived here this morning from Edmonton, 225 miles east, to evacuate the hotel guests. A C.N.R. official in Edmonton said it was assumed the hotel operation would be suspended immediately and that all guests would leave as soon as travel accommodations could be arranged.

No official estimate of the fire damage was available, but one source said it probably will run to around $1,000,000.

Len Peters of Ottawa, secretary to the lodge manager, was severely burned and was brought to Jasper hospital. Jasper town is 4½ miles from the lodge. Two or three other persons suffered superficial injuries.

The lodge staff and employees of the Jasper National Park manned pumps and hoses to assist the Jasper fire brigade in preventing the fire from spreading to the luxuriously-appointed bungalows which fan out from the lodge, some located only 30 feet from the building which burned.

Boat Explodes 4 Missing Police Report

DETROIT (CP)—Four, or possibly five, men were missing today after their 24-foot speedboat exploded and burned at the police harbormaster's dock on Belle Isle in the Detroit River.

The occupants of the boat are believed to have been stealing gasoline for their boat from the police pump when the explosion tore their boat apart.

Closest witnesses were three police officers and two fishermen who left the dock a moment before to look for a drowning victim.

SAW FOUR IN BOAT

They said the speedboat came to the dock as they were leaving and a man asked to buy gasoline. He was told the dock had none for sale and the boat moved away. A fisherman said "there were four or maybe five men sitting in the boat."

The explosion which occurred a few minutes later ripped the deck of the boat, hurling it 100 feet across the water.

Police said they believed the speedboat returned to the dock after the fishermen and officers left. The nozzle of the dock gas pump was found dangling in the water and the gas meter showed 22 gallons had been pumped.

N.B. Election To Be Sept. 22

FREDERICTON (CP)—Premier John B. McNair announced today that the New Brunswick provincial general election will be held Monday, Sept. 22.

The election will be Canada's fifth provincial contest this year, making it the busiest year for voters since 1949, when five were also held.

In announcing the proposed action Monday, Mr. McNair said the issue would be his Liberal government's refusal to recognize an international union as bargaining agent for provincial public servants.

He was referring to a proposed walkout tomorrow by maintenance employees of the publicly-owned New Brunswick Electric Power Commission, who want their union —the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (T.L.C.-A.F.L.) —recognized by the government.

He added that any power commission employees stopping work will have "voluntarily discharged themselves from the service."

The election will be the first in Canada with recognition of a government employees' union as the major issue. The nearest similarity occurred in 1937 when Premier Mitchell Hepburn opposed entry of the C.I.O. into Ontario. Mr. Hepburn's government was elected.

Find Stolen Plane Left On Hudson River

NEW YORK (AP)—A seaplane, reported stolen from a plane rental base at Ridgefield Park, N. J., made a forced landing in the Hudson River off Manhattan early today.

The craft was abandoned by a man and a woman after it was tied to rocks on the shore, police said.

A 26-year-old man was found wandering in the park shortly after the plane was discovered. He told police he saw the plane land apparently in trouble. He doffed his clothes and swam out to aid its occupants.

When the plane was moored to the rocks, the couple got out and disappeared in the park, he said.

The fuselage on the left side of the plane and one of its pontoons were damaged in the rough landing at night.

Hope To Change Criminal Code To Cover Riots

TORONTO (CP)—A new offence —"prison insurrection"—may go into the Canadian Criminal Code as a result of the July 5-6 riot at the Ontario Reformatory at Guelph.

Reform Institution Minister Foote announced yesterday the Ontario government will ask the federal government to amend the Criminal Code to provide a charge to deal with prison rioters.

Meantime, his deputy, Col. Hedley Basher, said 121 prisoners have been singled out for possible punishment in connection with the riot. He said an investigation into the uprising is continuing and that upon its completion a variety of charges will be heard in Guelph magistrate's court.

MANY CHARGES

Col. Basher said the charges will include malicious damage, assaulting a police officer, attempting jailbreaking, unlawful assembly, possessing offensive weapons, refusing to obey orders, arson and breaking the rules of the institution.

Starting July 21, prisoners will again be allowed to see visitors on the same basis as before the riot.

Mr. Foote in his report to the government on the riot recommended that Ontario set up separate institutions for incorrigible prisoners not deemed worthy of reform institutional care. Under this system, first offenders and others who desire rehabilitation and prove worthy of it would not be exposed to hardened criminals.

The separate institutions, "maximum security" jails, would house the estimated 10 per cent who cannot be rehabilitated.

Mr. Foote said Ontario reformatories are being loaded with prisoners who receive concurrent sentences for disturbances in the federal penitentiaries. He said that when these prisoners complete their terms in the federal institutions, they are frequently returned to Ontario reformatories to serve periods of two years less a day for infractions of federal laws.

These men, hardened criminals, are a bad influence on those who sincerely seek reformation, the minister said.

Of the reformatory riot, he said only 96 men of the prison's population of 931 prisoners were "the hard core of troublemakers."

He said press reports exaggerated the amount of damage, reported as high as $200,000. The largest items were $10,000 damage in broken plumbing and a similar amount in broken glass, he said.

"In addition, there was a certain amount of damage done to bedding and food.

"The damage would have been considerably greater but for the fact that the staff and police were able to get the riot under control within relatively few hours.

"This trend of viciousness is something that was not apparent in the early days of the institution and it now appears to have been greatly accelerated during the last few years."

FROST AGREES

Premier Frost said he agreed with Mr. Foote that a separate institution is needed for hardened offenders. It probably would not be at Guelph.

He said there was no specific or just cause for the Guelph riot.

"There was no rough treatment and the food was of the best. The young incorrigibles just don't understand reform methods and don't want to. They caused the riot."

Bennett Chosen Premier For British Columbia

VANCOUVER (CP)—W. A. C. Bennett, who bolted the Progressive Conservative party last year, will become Social Credit Premier of British Columbia in a few weeks. He was chosen last night by his 18 fellow members-elect. He told reporters soon after his election that a Social Credit cabinet will be formed as soon as he is called upon by the Lieutenant-Governor to form a government.

This is expected to be at the end of the month. Outgoing Liberal Premier Byron Johnson said last week he will recommend that the party with the largest number of members in the 48-seat Legislature form the next government.

FINAL RETURN JULY 31

In the June 12 election, Social Credit elected 19 members, the C.C.F. 18, Liberals six, Progressive Conservatives four and Labor one. Counting under the alternative voting system was completed only Saturday and re-counts are to be held in several ridings, delaying the final official tabulation probably until July 31.

Mr. Bennett, 51, was first elected to the Legislature as a Progressive Conservative in 1941. He failed twice in efforts to wrest the Conservative leadership from Herbert Anscomb.

He followed his party into the Liberal -Progressive Conservative coalition and was re-elected in 1945. In 1948 he made an unsuccessful attempt to take the Yale federal seat but was again re-elected in the 1949 provincial contest.

At the 1951 session, he crossed the floor of the House with Mrs. Tilly Rolston and both sat as Independents. They quit the coalition and the Progressive Conservative party in a row over the province's compulsory hospital insurance scheme.

Early this year Mr. Bennett announced he had joined the Social Credit movement and during the spring session of the Legislature fired the opening salvos for the party in B.C. He continued to sit as an Independent.

SECRET BALLOT USED

Mr. Bennett was chosen by secret ballot, the first time in B.C. history a party leader had been so selected. The party declined to say whether there were other candidates for the leadership and said Mr. Bennett's selection was unanimous.

"As far as we are concerned, nobody else ran," said Eric Martin, Social Credit member for Vancouver-Burrard.

"Social Credit does not regard itself as a minority government," Mr. Bennett told a press conference. "We look on ourselves as the duly elected government with full power to conduct the affairs of the province. It will be the policy of the Social Credit government to bring confidence and stable government to the province."

He said the first problem to be tackled by his government will be the strikes by 32,000 lumber workers and 3,000 carpenters—if they are not settled by the time he takes office.

He said his government will go ahead with its campaign policy of putting hospital insurance on a voluntary basis. Under present B.C. law, families must pay $42 and single persons $30 a year for hospital care. He also promised immediate action on the province's labor, liquor and workmen's compensation laws.

Three cabinet posts will probably go to Mrs. Rolston, Lyle Wicks, president of the B.C. Social Credit League, and R. E. Sommers, elected in Rossland-Trail. Mr. Bennett and Mrs. Rolston are the only two of the 19 Social Credit members who have had legislative experience.

Planes End Search For Missing Seabee

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—Canadian and United States planes called off their search yesterday for a missing United States Seabee which disappeared Friday on a 45-mile flight from Houghton, Mich., to Isle Royale in Lake Superior with four persons aboard.

The amphibian left in foggy weather and was last heard from 10 minutes out from Houghton.

Collect Funds To Catch Rustlers

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—District cattlemen are organizing a canvass for funds to post rewards for rustlers making nocturnal raids on on herds throughout Middlesex and Elgin counties. Objective is $1,000.

Already part of this sum has been contributed voluntarily by members of the Elgin Livestock Protective Association, an organization set up recently to combat the wave of thieving, believed to be the work of one gang familiar with the territory.

Plans to raise the remainder will be discussed at an association meeting next Tuesday in the county agricultural office at St. Thomas. Stewart Brown, of Shedden is chairman. Cattle men from several counties have been invited to attend.

So far Elgin appears to have been the hardest hit although herds in Middlesex and Kent also have been raided.

Canada May Authorize Taxing U.S. Guides

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada is considering taxing United States fishing guides who bring boatloads of Americans and their equipment into Canada to fish in waters common to both countries.

Revenue Department officials said yesterday a decision is expected before the summer ends

It is understood the argument in favor of such a tax is that Canadian guides are left idle by fishing parties which enter Canadian waters from the United States with a guide hired there.

Issue Warrant For Man After Stabbing

CHATHAM (CP)—Police today issued a warrant for the arrest of Allan Hurst, 40, charging him with attempted murder in connection with the stabbing last night of Mrs. Laura Gregory outside an east-end hotel.

Hospital officials said the woman, suffering knife wounds in her chest and abdomen, is in serious condition.

A province-wide search was launched for Hurst after city police failed to capture him after the attack. It was believed he may have fled to Hamilton or Windsor where he is known to have lived.

He and the woman have lived together here for the last year, police said.

Witnesses said Mrs. Gregory came out of the hotel beverage room shortly after midnight and met a man on the opposite side of the street.

Following a conversation the down a dark street. The woman underwent surgery early today.

Union Holding Special Meeting

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The 170-member wage-policy committee of the United Steelworkers union (C.I.O.) meets in Pittsburgh Monday to decide the union's future course in the stalemated strike that has made 1,500,000 wage earners idle in the last 45 days.

President Philip Murray called the policy committee meeting after a brief negotiating session with the industry ended in a deadlock yesterday.

Murray and Joseph M. Larkin, vice-president of Bethlehem Steel Corp., issued a joint statement saying both sides agree they can find no common meeting ground on the controversial union-shop issue. There was no indication when another meeting would be held.

Some observers said the next move is likely to come from the White House.

The industry said the roadblock to a settlement "continues to be union insistence upon compulsory unionism."

Industrials, Metals Push Slowly Higher

TORONTO (CP)—Industrials and base metals pushed slowly higher today in early afternoon dealings but other stock market sections made little headway.

Trading slowed from a steady opening. Volume for the first three hours was 787,000 shares.

Papers, refining oils and banks led industrials' advance with a scattered list of moderate gains. Steels and miscellaneous issues also drew firm support but utilities, foods and manufacturing companies slipped.

Western oils dipped as Anglo-Canadian, Canadian Atlantic, Gas Explorations, Pacific Petroleum and Sapphire turned downward. Canada Southern and Husky added fractions.

Base metal leaders were firm but lower-priced issues tended lower. Cassiar, East Sullivan, Hudson Bay, International Nickel, Labrador and Silver Standard traded higher.

Senior golds showed little trend in sluggish trading. A few junior producers and prospects added pennies but most issues drifted.

The exchange's 1 p.m. indices showed industrials up .62 at 321.17, golds down .45 at 93.32, base metals up .42 at 191.34 and western oils down .83 at 138.70.

Fight Off Red Attack Against Key Hill

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—United Nations infantrymen last night fought off a tank-supported Communist attack against a key hill position on the Korean central front.

Allied troops wrested the hill from the Reds last month. Five Red tanks shelled the hill for four hours last night. Then for two hours Communist troops battled unsuccessfully to reach its heights.

Elsewhere on the front, there were only sporadic patrol skirmishes.

Low-hanging clouds limited air strikes but F-80 Shooting Star jets destroyed 26 supply shelters northwest of Chorwon.

U.S. Dollar At Discount

MONTREAL (CP)—The American dollar was at a discount of 2 27.32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today, EDT. Tuesday's noon rate was 97 cents. The pound sterling was $2.70⅞, up ⅛ from Tuesday.

Red China

Malik in the United Nations to force the U.S. to sign.

A second broadcast said Red China will recognize part of the Aug. 12, 1949, Geneva convention dealing with the treatment of prisoners of war. This also was signed by the Nationalists.

On the surface this suggested that the Chinese Reds might be willing for the U.N. to turn over to a mutually-agreed neutral third power or organization the captured Reds who resist repatriation.

Red China has not signed either convention.

Korean armistice talks at Panmunjom have been bogged down for weeks over the fate of nearly 100,000 captured Communists who say they will resist return to Red rule. The U.N. refuses to force anyone to return. The Communists demand back all their soldiers.

The 1949 Geneva convention provides that disputed prisoners can be turned over to a third power or "a humanitarian organization such as the international committee of the Red Cross."

MAKES RESERVATIONS

Chou made these reservations to Red China's adherence:

1. That the substitute for a protecting power shall be subject to the consent of the power to which the protected persons belong. Chou's reservation implied that Red China and North Korea reserved the right to agree to the substitute organization and thus might object to the Red Cross, which the Communists long have claimed is not neutral.

2. That the detaining power shall not be allowed to be absolved of its liability even after the prisoners of war or the wounded and sick have been transferred to another power.

3. That the prisoners of war who have been convicted of war crimes according to the principles established by the international military tribunals of Nuremberg and Tokyo shall not be entitled to the benefits of the Geneva convention.

Police Catch Sleepy Gunman

KENORA — (CP). — A two-day hunt for a shotgun-wielding gunman ended Tuesday with the arrest of 26-year-old Francis Guy Lavallee.

Ontario Provincial Police Constables R. J. McGarva and C. G. Flewelling surprised Lavallee as he lay sleeping in a shack in the Ingolf district, about 30 miles west of here.

He offered no resistance. A loaded, cocked shotgun lay beside him.

Police described Lavallee as dangerous when he fled into the woods Sunday after threatening to kill Flewelling.

"He would shoot just as soon as look at you," one official said.

Caused Disturbance "Drunk" Says Man

"I was drunk," said James J. Eades, 51, of McIntyre St., North Bay, when he pleaded guilty to a charge of causing a disturbance on Charlotte St., Tuesday night.

He was fined $10 and $2.50 costs or ten days in jail.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw asked Magistrate W. R. Philp to take into consideration the one day James Watson, Anstruther township had already spent in jail when Watson pleaded guilty to vagrancy.

He was fined $5 and $2.50 costs or five days, with the one day already served to be taken off the sentence.

Court Dismisses Charge In Potato Theft

A charge of stealing potatoes against William Reynolds, 26, 139 Stewart St., was dismissed in police court today by Magistrate W. R. Philp after the crown's evidence was completed.

Reynolds, who was charged with stealing a quantity of potatoes valued at more than $25 from Ronald Pace during June and July, elected summary trial before Magistrate Philp and pleaded not guilty.

On Monday, Reynolds' brother Robert pleaded guilty to the same charge and was sentenced to one month in jail.

SOLD POTATOES

O.P.P. Constable Russel Pollard said that he interviewed Reynolds near Minden where he was working and Reynolds denied stealing any potatoes. Constable Pollard testified Reynolds said he sold some potatoes for his brother who was hard up but said he only sold "one, two, three and not more than ten bags." He said he received one, two, three and not more than $10 from his brother for selling the potatoes, Constable Pollard told the court.

John Currelly who defended Reynolds asked for dismissal of the charge because the crown's evidence only showed he sold the potatoes for his brother. "There are millions of bags of potatoes in the world," Mr. Currelly added and emphasized that the crown had failed to prove that the potatoes Reynolds sold for his brother were the ones Robert Reynolds admitted stealing from his employer, fruit wholesaler Ronald Pace.

Magistrate Philp agreed with Mr. Currelly and dismissed the charge with the comment that in criminal charges, the offence must be proven in detail.

Damage Reported

Water was sprayed on the bungalow roofs. A light wind blew the flames toward Lac Beauvert, on the shores of which the lodge stood, and away from the guest cabins. Many of the guests were American tourists.

CAUSE UNKNOWN

It was not known what caused the fire to start.

The fire came at the height of the tourist season at the mountain resort, open annually from the middle of June to the second week in September.

The extent of Peters' burns was not known. He was caught by the flames while checking whether any one had been left in the building. He also attempted to save the office records.

The fire was brought under control shortly after midnight. Many of the hotel guests made the 4½-mile trip to Jasper town seeking accommodation but most of them later returned to their bungalows at the lodge.

A member of the hotel orchestra said the band was playing dance music when a guest in evening dress ran in shouting there was a fire. Seconds later flames flared through the main ballroom.

In a matter of minutes the whole interior of the building was in flames.

Western Firms Getting More Gov't Contracts

WINNIPEG (CP)—F.W. Hore of Ottawa said yesterday Manitoba firms are getting more defence contracts in proportion to their productive capacity than are eastern firms.

Mr. Hore, director of the small industries division of the Defence Production Department, said Manitoba and Alberta particularly are "doing all right" in defence contracts.

He said the defence program had been of a great benefit to the west in stimulating farm production and the development of oil and mining.

Employment in the west had increased during 1951-52 more than in Canada as a whole, largely because of the "boom in the defence-supporting industries."

The policy of placing defence orders outside the east where possible, with western firms getting "special consideration" where their prices are "competitive," will be continued, he said.

Oil Tanker Held For 28 Days

ADEN (Reuters)—The tanker Rose Mary, first ship to try to reach the outside world with Iranian oil since Iran took over the British-owned industry, must remain here for another 28 days, a Supreme Court judge ruled today.

Judge Ralph A. Campbell extended until Aug. 14 an injunction detaining the 632-ton vessel in this port, where she sought shelter in a storm.

During that time the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, ousted from its massive holdings in Iran last year, will prepare an answer to arguments filed today by the ship's master, owners and charterers, who are defendants in the case.

The International Court at The Hague has ordered that no oil is to be shipped until it decides on the rights of Iran's nationalization move.

Given Alimony

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Her husband more than once came home drunk, lifted her out of bed and locked her outside their apartment, Jacquelyn Ann Austin told the judge yesterday. The 27-year-old model said, what's more, she sleeps unclad. The judge gave her $200 monthly alimony from Robert M. Austin, 40.

Purse Returned

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Five days ago Mrs. Lydia Perry reported her purse containing $121 was stolen. Monday night, she says, there was a knock on her back door. No one was there, but the purse lay nearby. In it was $131—$10 extra for interest, she believes.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

By G. E. GROOMBRIDGE
5th. PETERBOROUGH ALL SAINTS

The pack spent a very enjoyable long weekend at camp recently, arriving on Friday evening with the first detail being to pick a chum for the camp stay. Once organized games of leap frog and somersault were arranged and stories of the jungle told.

Saturday morning found the pack up early and ready for the instruction periods and ball games. A treasure hunt had the lads searching all parts of the grounds for "Hidden Gold". At the Saturday evening Red Flower program, every Six put on "Skits" in a competition. Akela seemed to have trouble with the air in the tires of his bicycle and we understand had to do some walking in and out of town.

After a swim on Sunday morning a Cubs Own Service was held at which the Group Chaplain the Rev. M. P. Poole officiated.

Some of the Scouts were invited out on Monday to join the pack in a weiner roast. The theme of Tuesday was tests work and the cleaning up of the grounds, gathering of firewood for the next camp. The only casualties, one sick with hay fever and another with poison ivy.

The Braves won the silver cup for the best Six at camp, Fred Carveth received a special award for the best cub at camp and the following boys completed tests and received their First Star badges, Hugh Owen, Mormar Muffett, Keith Riches, Fred Carveth, Eric Carre, Ralph Connor.

Don Perks and his assistant prepared meals, Len Foskett, Ronald Beard and Dave Hatton of the troop and crew gave general assistance at the camp. Henry Jay, Jim Houghton and the group committee together with the Mother's Auxiliary did many of the chores.

9th PETERBOROUGH, PARKHILL PACK

Seventeen Cubs and six leaders attended a weekend camp at the Nassau Scout grounds over the last weekend, living in real camp style under tents. The boys got their first taste of camp life in the assisting in the pitching of tents, after which the boys were divided into groups, assigned to sleeping quarters and bedded down.

Mr. and Mrs. Pontin attended the camp for Saturday and cooked the meals for the group. Weather conditions were good and swimming and games carried out throughout the day, Red Flower program at night, completing the program.

On Sunday Mesdames Reynolds and Maloney took over the work in the kitchen. During the morning a very impressive Cub's Own church service was held in the Chapel in the woods. Jim Houghton was responsible for the splendid condition of the camp as a whole and the group committee, Mother's Auxiliary, and parents helped make the camp possible.

ROVER MOOT

From all reports the Rover Moot to be held in Windsor over the Labor Day weekend is shaping up to be the best yet. We attended a meeing recently at which some of the leaders for various events were appointed. It is our hope that Peterborough will be well represented at this affair.

GILWELL REUNION

Attention all Gilwellians — I have received a few application forms for distribution to any leader who holds the Gilwell beads to attend a reunion over the August Civic Holiday weekend.

ROVER VISITS

Charles Jefferies, former member of St. John's Rover Crew called in the other day. He informs us that he is now attached to the 1st Toronto Scout Group as a member of the Rover Crew and will be looking for the Peterborough gang at the Windsor Rover Moot.

Telephone Co. Catches Up, 800 Get Phones

Telephone service will be provided to 800 more people in Peterborough by this weekend, E. G. Baker, Bell Telephone manager said today.

New equipment being installed in the local exchange has made this extended service possible, and when finished will permit the addition of 2,000 telephones to the present number. Mr. Baker said this is expected to be enough to meet the demands of the community for some time.

NOW INSTALLED

New telephones for the 800 new subscribers are already installed in homes and offices, and will start receiving calls as soon as the equipment is ready. Many are already operating.

Provision for service to about 200 people in rural areas around the city is also planned. This will be available by next summer, when the special equipment needed can be prepared and installed, said Mr. Baker.

Mr. Baker pointed out that the new service will bring to 11,712 the number of telephones in use here, compared with 7,921 in 1945.

Negotiations Resume In Firestone Strike

HAMILTON (CP)—Negotiations between representatives of the 1,400 strikers at the Firestone plant here and officials of the company were due to resume again this afternoon.

Bill England, secretary of Local 113 of United Rubber Workers today commented that the situation at the moment was "pretty static."

This is the sixth week of the strike, which began June 3. The workers are seeking a monthly pension on retirement of $125 and a 20 cent an hour increase in wages.

Mrs. James H. Carr

The funeral for Mrs. James Henry Carr, the former Alice Coleman, 258 Mark St., who died Sunday, was held Tuesday from the Comstock funeral home.

The Rev. Walter S. Crone, of the Church of the Open Bible, conducted the service.

Pallbearers were Frank Blackburn, Robert Wilson, Jack Gardner, Harold Carr, Arnold Parrington, Arthur Lomax. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

District Of Muju Under Martial Law

PUSAN, South Korea (Reuters)—Defence Minister Shin Tai Yung said today the district of Muju, southeast of Taejon, will come under martial law from midnight tonight.

Shin said Communist guerrillas in the area are becoming more active and urgent counter-measures are necessary.

New Supply Of Cortisone

LONDON (Reuters)—A cheap and plentiful source of cortisone, rare and expensive hormone "wonder drug" used in the treatment of rheumatoid arthritis, has been found in the sisal plant which grows prolifically in parts of Africa the 1951 report of the British Medical Research Council stated today.

Investigations in Kenya showed that one of the most promising natural compounds for the manufacture of cortisone-hecogenin occurred in sisal waste and in still higher concentration in the juice of the sisal plant. It could be easily and cheaply extracted.

The raw material for cortisone has so far been obtained from animal (mainly ox) bile, which is scarce and costly.

Now, says the report, material becomes potentially available in a large amount and at a low cost.

More Powerful Radio Planned

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department said today the Voice of America will be made a lot louder now that Russians may no longer learn about life in the United States from the magazine Amerika, which has been suspended.

The department said its radio programs beamed behind the Iron Curtain will be intensified by use of new transmitters and the addition of new languages and new features.

It believes this will offset the loss of the seven-year-old Amerika, the magazine which told Russians in their own language about the U.S. It was suspended by the State Department yesterday after years of squabbling with Moscow.

At the same time, the department ordered Russia to cease publishing its information bulletin in the U.S.

Arena Nears Completion

STOUFFVILLE (CP)—With space for 1,000 potential buyers, the largest cattle sales arena in the country is approaching completion near this community 20 miles northeast of Toronto. Two sales rings, a 10-ton set of scales and a cafeteria are incorporated in the $50,000 building.

Correct Eyes Early-Doctor

COBOURG (ENS)—The great importance of early investigation and correction of eye defects in children was emphasized by Dr. John S. Crawford at a recent meeting of the staff of the Northumberland and Durham Health Unit.

The speaker is an ophthalmologist on the Hospital for Sick Children staff, Toronto, and of the Faculty of Medicine of the University of Toronto. A specialist in all conditions affecting vision, he was trained in all phases of vision testing and treatment, including surgical operations.

Dr. Crawford emphasized that children can wear glasses at 18 months. If a child's vision is such that he is helped by glasses he will wear them, and any sign of visual defect should be investigated before the age of 18 months. He stressed the importance of early treatment of squint. Eye specialists advise that a child with a squint should not be left without treatment until he reaches school age. All cases of squint should be investigated as soon as turning of the eyes is suspected and put under treatment if necessary by the age of 18 months.

The various methods of testing vision of school children were reviewed at the meeting. Dr. Crawford and his colleagues have recently completed a survey of the vision of 2,000 school children in Toronto and made a study of the details of vision testing.

Health Unit staff nurses do routine vision tests on school children and check with the parents and teachers for any history of eye strain in cases showing doubtful tests. All children found on test to have signs of defective vision are reported to the parents and the family physician for further investigation. Over 11,000 vision tests have been done on school children by Health Unit nurses in these two counties.

Ireland In Red

DUBLIN (Reuters)—The Republic of Ireland had an adverse trade balance of 49,831,000 pounds for the first six months of 1952, compared with 73,604,000 pounds for the same period last year.

Get 2-Day Extension On Truce Talk Recess

MUNSAN, Korea (AP)—The Communists today got a two-day extension of a recess in secret armistice talks, shortly after the Peiping Red radio broadcast an announcement that could lead to a break in the deadlock over prisoners.

The broadcast said Foreign Minister Chou En-lai announced that Communist China adheres—with certain reservations—to the Geneva convention of Aug. 12, 1949, dealing with war prisoners.

The broadcast seemed to suggest that the Communists might agree to transfer of Red war prisoners who refuse to go home to a third, protective power or a substitute organization such as the all-Swiss international committee of the Red Cross.

The belief persisted here that the Communists were studying a new United Nations statement or proposal.

The five-man armistice delgations will reconvene Friday.

Case of Jaundice

COBOURG (ENS)—Only eight cases of communicable diseases were reported to the Health Unit for the week ending July 12. One case of infectious jaundice was listed at Hastings; three cases of red measles in the Port Hope area; two cases of mumps in Bowmanville and two cases of whooping cough, one at Colborne and the other in Haldimand township.

Untried Governors In B.C.

At long last the results of the British Columbia general election are known, and the Social Credit party emerges victor with a one-seat majority over its nearest rival, the C.C.F. which secured eighteen seats. The new government will be precariously poised. It has only one seat more than the C.C.F., and the C.C.F. can count on the one Labour member for support in most legislative divisions, thus equalling the strength of the Social Credit group. S.C. will have to govern with the compliance or support of the four Conservative members elected. Another handicap which the new Social Credit government will have is the inexperience of its own members. In the last legislature it had no members at all, and in fact did not exist in provincial politics. The new government must therefore consist of men and women who have had neither ministerial nor parliamentary experience.

* * *

The situation is not as black as it appears. The party has met to choose a leader (and Premier) and among several of the newly-elected members are persons who had formerly sat as Conservatives or independents. Among them is Mr. W. A. C. Bennett, a member of the legislature since 1948, a convert to Social Credit six months ago. The winds of Social Credit popularity have wafted him to provincial prominence. There are several such members in B.C.'s Social Credit party, but most of the new cabinet ministers will be rank greenhorns. How the Province's multi-million dollar business and budget will fare under them remains to be seen. (Ontario provided an example in the 1919-1923 U.F.O. government.) They will, however, have advice from the seasoned Alberta Social Credit government. We wonder how placidly British Columbians will accept this dependency? The voters were apparently undisturbed that an Albertan Social Creditor organized the party to victory in B.C.

The Problem of Presents

Our sympathy is extended to the Pope. His Holiness will never know it, but we are sorry for him. The reason? Because we read that some shepherds in southern Italy have sent him an eagle and a fox as presents, and as symbols of the dangers which assail their flocks. Now what on earth is an elderly extremely busy gentleman of scholarly temperament expected to do with an eagle and a fox? The Pope has sent them to a zoo, but we think it likely that he gave some serious thought beforehand to the problem of whether his action might not hurt the feelings of the donors.

Persons in eminent positions suffer constantly from the problem of presents. Wherever the Queen goes, she receives gifts which she cannot possibly use and which, in her heart, she does not desire. We suspect that the cellars of every royal palace in Britain are crammed with fantastic objects which people have given to the Queen and her ancestors, inspired more by loyalty than common sense. Queen Victoria, for instance, was given the head of a troublesome enemy of ners called The Mahidi (we do not know what his real name was) hollowed out and fitted as an inkwell, with silver mountings. Did she, or Prince Albert, we wonder, burn that grisly tribute, or is it still to be found in some obscure corner of Balmoral?

It may be questioned whether there is not too much gift-giving in the world. All of us, in some degree, suffer from the problem of the unwanted, the unsuitable, the fantastic, the utterly repulsive gift. But Popes and Emperors are the special marks for this sort of ill-considered benevolence.

The Cost of Conventions

General elections are costly to the principal political parties campaigning, but what scale of costs are we to witness for the American presidential elections next November when already it has cost the Republican party two million dollars merely to name a candidate at the Chicago convention? It is estimated that the Democratic convention next week will also cost about two millions.

The person in charge of money-raising for General Eisenhower estimates that his primary campaign will have cost close to a million dollars. Radio time for his major speeches cost $2,000 a minute—sixty thousand dollars for a half-hour. Eisenhower headquarters spent $75,000 on Chicago newspaper advertisements every day during the convention. There were lesser expenses, including $60 a day for a steam calliope. Senator Taft's expenses can hardly have been less. Headquarters of both major candidates for nomination had from seventy to a hundred hotel rooms in Chicago, and each candidate had a big ball room. The Eisenhower managers rented a theatre where entertainers gave two free shows a day.

With such large sums spent even before the party nominated a candidate; with the Democrats likely to be involved in equally high expenses for their convention; and with four months of election campaigning still ahead of both parties, the expenses of the American presidential elections will be towering—quite apart from the official governmental cost of holding the elections. Where does the money come from? From party supporters. Why do they give it? Because they are devoted and faithful to their party or particular people or branches of it. But even the most faithful will surely expect some reward for their time and money other than the satisfaction of winning. Thus do we come down to the hidden expense of electing a President. Patronage, valuable enough to compensate for millions of dollars voluntarily contributed, must be given to the faithful and the donors. This cannot help but cost the American taxpayers a great deal of money; for money or favours in kind do not come out of nothing.

No Stink, No Praise

For years there was a stink at the south end of Peterborough; and the hot weather brought it and cries of protests annually into prominence. Now work has been done on sewers along Park Street south, and the disposal plant has been expanded. Even in these hot days there has been no unbearable smell, and no outcry. On the other hand there have been no choruses of praise and thanksgiving. This is not remarkable.

In a democracy when affairs are going well and administration is proper, nobody thinks of saying so. Democracies advance on protests, under criticism, and by goads to remedial action. They do not flourish on soft soap. Democracies leave to totalitarian states the paeans in praise of the leaders and their wonderful work. Such states and their dictators may thrive on flattery and sycophantic adulation; it is a kind of national narcissism to feed their bloated egos and at the same time to distract the attention of the populace from what is wrong by trumpeting what may be endurable or even right.

In democratic societies such as this city, citizens expect the persons whom they elect over them or appoint as their civil servants, to do the jobs entrusted to them—and paid for by their taxes—well enough that criticism is not necessary. The absence of protest and criticism is itself sufficient praise for our officials.

It is not with the intention of showering praise, but merely to point to the efficacy of criticism, that we mention the improvement in atmosphere in the southern part of the city, that water was turned on promptly at the Victoria Park fountain after its dryness was criticized (the water is off again because of the present shortage); and that the Inverlea beach accommodation and equipment are now properly available. These may be small matters, but they illustrate the give and take and the delicate adjustments possible in democracies, especially when the instrument of government is neither too big nor too remote from the people. Local government is the best example of democratic society in action.

Children Should Be Warned

Two abduction cases in Ontario in a single week should arouse parents to the necessity of warning their children against accepting rides in cars from strangers. Two Toronto girls aged 9 and 12 went riding with a stranger, were kept for eight hours and were ill-used; in Guelph two girls of 12 and 13 accepted a ride in a car, were blindfolded and beaten, and left near Goderich. Parental warnings and common sense could have prevented both incidents.

It is not pleasant to warn children against strangers, for it suggests that all mankind is under suspicion. But it is possible to forbid children to go driving with strangers, and to warn them against attentions and gifts from strangers, without making them permanently hostile toward the human race. With the growing population of our country, the number of perverse and unstable people naturally rises, and children must be given the knowledge they need to avoid ugly incidents.

Few people offer children rides in cars without giving some reason, or without in some way showing that they know the children or the children's parents. Few people go about with candy which they offer to strange children; such benevolence is usually confined to children they know, and to their own homes. Therefore a child should be told never to accept rides or gifts from people they do not know, however tempting the offer may be. Such self-denial may cause a child a pang, from time to time, but it will also prevent abductions which have no forseeable ending.

NOTES AND COMMENT

French police now spray participants in Communist riots with an indelible blue dye, thus striking a blow at the old expression "true blue."

Teen-Age Girls Of East London

By MARGARET HIGGINSON
(a worker at Oxford House, Bethnal Green)

THEY ARE in general slight, delicate-featured, and pale beneath brilliant make-up. Their faces in repose are blank until occasion stirs them to vitality. They love noise and movement and are uneasy in quietude. Their hair, washed every Thursday (often in homes that possess neither bath nor hot water), is expertly curled. They wear platform shoes five inches high. They favour pencil-slim skirts and "drape" jackets of a peculiar long cut not seen elsewhere.

Their stockings, when they wear them, are the latest in black-heeled nylons; they sport ear-rings, bracelets, choker-pearls, and enormous plastic handbags (each containing its wad of beloved photographs). Their whole appearance suggests a longing for beauty expressed in the only way they understand. But their crimson finger-nails are often black-rimmed; with the instincts of a Helen or a Cleopatra they have to live in the ugly, inimical, unglamorous backparts of London.

YET THE INHABITANTS of the most elegant cities have no more love of their own places. The girls want to stay where they are. Chigwell and Hainault are all very well, but "I couldn't leave our street." "When I marry I must live next to my Mum." They do not seem to covet even the new flats. No place is more intensely conservative, in a social sense, than the East End of London. These girls are passionately united to their social group and can scarcely exist apart from it. If they remember the years when, as tiny children, they were evacuated to the country, it is usually with distaste or indifference—or they will proudly say: "I cried so much my Mum had to fetch me home after three days."

THIS WARM, almost hysterical attachment to the home, observable in boys, too, surprises people accustomed to the outward stoical independence of the Public School adolescent. What others would find intolerable, sharing a bed with mother or sister, becomes the assurance of security. Family affection is intense, and pocket-money lavishly given and spent. Indeed, present-giving remains a tremendous East End institution. A group of children on holiday first use all their money buying presents for the family, going to those chain stores they are familiar with at home; then they write home for more money—and generally get it.

These teen-agers are almost all in jobs of a repetitive and mechanical kind. They make our button-holes, fell our seams, solder our paint-brushes, count our football-coupons. Expecting to marry somewhere around twenty, they never complain of the nature of their work, just as they never complain of the nature of their schooling, though both are probably uncongenial. They have no articulate critical faculty. What they do react to in the strongest way is personality.

THEY PREFER an unhygienic little workshop to a large airy factory, even an unpleasant boss to a highly trained personnel officer. School reminiscences, for instance, are largely dominated by "my nice teacher", with scarcely a mention of what she taught. Sometimes they say :"I wish I was back at school," but always it is a wish not for more knowledge but for the kindly security they found there.

✧ ✧ ✧

MIDDLE-CLASS STANDARDS of young behaviour scarcely exist in this world. You act on impulse. If you feel like going to Club, you do; if you don't, you don't, even though you know your absence may ruin a rehearsal or choir practice. This, to the conventional, sounds shocking and exasperating, as indeed it is. Yet there are so many compulsions in these young lives from the moment they first go to work at fifteen, and so few chances for either body or mind to wander away from this ugliness, that a truculent, irresponsible independence is natural to them. They have no ambition to travel. They do not desire mental liberation. Very few of them read at all, although in schooldays they enjoyed "Little Women" and possibly "Jane Eyre" and "Rebecca". A "book" to them is a woman's magazine, and to read a page in one of these is for them a rare achievement.

✧ ✧ ✧

BOTH BOYS AND GIRLS of this type, up to the age of twenty and perhaps beyond, will apparently find enjoyment and satisfaction in a children's comic. Lack of concentration shows everywhere. Television, for instance, is in vogue as the symbol of social prestige, but no one seems to look at it for long at a time nor have any comment to make on it, unless to disparage "all those plays".

ALL THIS IS a disappointing outcome of years of educational effort. And yet there is an explanation. What are art and literature but shadows of life? The East End girls are interested above all in life itself. A trip to Southend means more to them than the Odyssey. They live intensely in the here and now, and they know time is short. They see that beauty fades swiftly after marriage in that district; they have none of that slow approach to maturity and expectation of reaching their zenith after thirty which is the lot of a luckier social group. So fulfilment must be emotional or nothing. Nature, art and thought scarcely exist for them: their world is all human beings. They are never bitter towards those with better chances; indeed they feel benevolent pity for their luckless contemporaries still mewed up in schools. "They don't see life, they don't."

The young daughter of a distinguished Labour M.P. came to visit such a Club. Afterwards she said, "They all seem so contented. I can't make it out." The educated idealist looks for the spark of divine discontent and is disappointed not to find it. Such contentment seems to him brutish. But so long as our society demands uncreative automatic labour from so many of its members, perhaps it is fortunate that those members do not desire to think. "A peasant," said Dr. Johnson, "has not capacity for equal happiness with a philosopher." He might have added, "He has not the capacity for equal suffering and anxiety." Perhaps it is the troubled, thinking minority who need the sympathy. Our civilisation seems to require super-normal intelligence at one end of its scale and sub-normal at the other, and while this is so the state of these young workers will remain a problem.

An American View: MANY A SLIP

Problems Of A Book Collector

(A. N. L. MUNBY IN LONDON NEW STATESMAN)

THE will-power necessary to get rid of books must be maintained at all costs. Even if one buys on a modest scale—say, one book a day on an average—they fill room after room with the inevitability of the rising tide.

I once visited a house in Blackheath after its owner had died. It was solid books. Shelves had been abandoned years before; in every room narrow lanes ran between books stacked from floor to ceiling, ninety percent. of them utterly inaccesible. In one of the bedrooms there was a narrow space two feet wide round the bed, and there the owner had died, almost entombed in print.

This macabre glimpse of the ultimate excesses of bibliomania has always been a warning.

Accumulators on the grand scale should be made to move house every few years. Sir Thomas Phillipps, the greatest collector of manuscripts the world has ever known, in forty years reduced the living space in his substantial Georgian mansion at Middle Hill, near Broadway, to three bedrooms and one sitting room. All the rest of the rooms were filled with boxes of books and manuscripts, to the distraction of his wife and family.

Nor did the move to the vastly larger Thirlestaine House at Cheltenham ameliorate their lot. "I am booked out of one wing and ratted out of the other", wrote poor Lady Phillipps in a letter to a friend. Most collectors' wives get acclimatized to the gradual contraction of their homes, though some have been known to insist that their bedrooms at any rate shall remain sanctuaries which the bookshelves must not invade. Fewer become resigned to the long hours of waiting in cars outside bookshops or contrive to conceal an air of martyrdom which is damping to the spirits. None to my knowledge collects books herself. Indeed, very few women collect anything at all, a fact which I have never seen convincingly explained.

The education of collectors' wives must be started early; a visit to at least one bookshop a day throughout the honeymoon is to be recommended. I have twice observed the fearful object-lesson of the secret book collector. Two men of my acquintance owned hundreds of books which they dared not bring home and which remained for years in parcels at their booksellers. Such a compromise between retaining one's books or one's wife seems to me a dubious solution, but I have the problem continually in mind.

For antiquarian booksellers I have the liveliest affection and admiration. Of course if a man adopts such a profession he publicly announces that he will spend his life dealing with collectors, that is to say that he will suffer gladly a higher proportion of neurotic fuss-pots than if he had chosen to sell blancmanges or bicycles.

But even so their patience, courtesy and helpfulness constantly surprises me. Every catalogue they issue must inevitably disappoint hundreds of would-be customers who apply for items which are already sold, and a disappointed collector can be extremely unreasonable.

Even more agonizing are the memories of old books which one might have bought but declined. At the end of the war I could have bought Gibbon's own copy of The Decline and Fall, bound in contemporary red morocco, surely the most desirable copy in the world of one of my favourite books. My gratuity was burning a hole in my pocket but my judgement was atrophied by years of absence from bookshops. I can hardly bear to think of it even now.

A Distinctive Canadian Observance

(Montreal Gazette)

St. Jean Baptiste Day comes at a time of year when scores of thousands of visitors from states across the border and from other provinces are abroad in Quebec enjoying the scenic beauties and outdoor recreations, and soaking up the historic lore which this province has to offer. What they see on this day becomes to them a part of Canada, and what they see and hear is actually a continuing scroll of history which has been unrolling for upwards of three hundred years.

They see French-speaking Canadians, often with their English-speaking fellow citizens, participating in ceremonies involved in paying honour to St. Jean Baptiste, patron saint of the former. The ceremonial fires of the preceding night and the processions of the day itself (Midsummer Day, June 24th) in practically every city, town, village and hamlet of this vast province have been going on for more than three centuries. They are part of a people's holiday, partly religious, partly secular. It is a day for adults and children, for marching, for praying, for feasting and for playing.

It is good and perhaps a steadying thing for visitors from outside the province, and for English-speaking residents as well, to witness these ceremonies in these uncertain times. For here, on St. Jean Baptiste Day are to be seen hundreds of thousands of a great people providing a tangible manifestation of belief in God, faith in religion and in themselves. It is a part of Canada as truly as are the Laurentians or the Rockies and a part of which the country at large may well be proud.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Hear ye the word of the Lord, O house of Jacob, and all the families of the house of Israel: thus saith the Lord, What iniquity have your fathers found in me, that they are gone far from me, and have walked after vanity, and are become vain? . . .

Hath a nation changed their gods, which are yet no gods? but my people have changed their glory for that which doth not profit . . . For my people have committed two evils; they have forsaken me the fountain of living waters, and hewed them out cisterns, broken cisterns that can hold no water . . .

As the thief is ashamed when he is found, so is the house of Israel ashamed; they, their kings, their princes, and their priests, and their prophets, saying to a stock, Thou art my father; and to a stone, Thou hast brought me forth: for they have turned their back unto me, and not their face: but in the time of their trouble they will say, Arise, and save us. (Jer. 2: 4, 5, 11, 13, 26, 27.)

O Lord, the hope of Israel, all that forsake thee shall be ashamed, and they that depart from me shall be written in the earth, because they have forsaken the Lord, the fountain of living waters.

Heal me, O Lord, and I shall be healed; save me, and I shall be saved: for thou art my praise. (Jer. 17: 13, 14.)

Words From Bird Songs

(New York Times)

One of the most difficult of all sounds to put down on paper is the song of a bird. The primary reason, of course, is that vocal music is essentially a matter of vowel sounds with the consonants giving a familiar form rather than a sound of their own.

Try to translate bird songs into recognizable words and you run into all kinds of stumbling blocks, variations in words, pronounciations, even in accuracy of hearing. For instance, while the familiar song of the chickadee is nearly always transcribed as chick-a-dee-dee-dee, it might as truly be et down as sip-o'-tea-tea-tea.

Just now, in certain places, the whippoorwills are sounding off every night. It is generally conceded that whippoorwills show an unusual variation in voice quality, but tradition has it that all of them always say, or sing, 'Whup-poo-ree," which has a persuasive quality when put in the mouths certain whippoorwills. But others, if one ignores tradition, certainly say "Bar-bar-ree", and still others, possibly rheumatic, iterate and reiterate "Rub-my-knee."

Thoreau translated a Baltimore oriole's song as "Eat it, Potter, eat it!" A mere change of consonants makes that "Beat it, rotter, beat it", which is just as logical. Another of the oriole's calls is quite clearly "I'm an oriole, suh!" uttered with the accent of the Eastern Shore rather than of Baltimore itself.

We don't all speak the same accents or hear quite the same intonations. That's one reason for all the possible variations. Another is clear as day when you listen to the song of a house wren. Who could put words to that little geyser of music

Commons Seats

(St. Catharines Standard)

All amendments, suggestions, etc., for making the rearrangement of House of Commons seats more equitable for all parties have been voted down to date. Nothing else could be expected. Finance Minister Abbott was quite right in his contention, that Members of Parliament are interested in self-preservation. Particularly so now there are the pension plums in the future.

Roseneath Women Fete Minister's Wife

ROSENEATH (ENS) — Mrs. R. C White was guest of honor at the July meeting of the W.M.S. of Roseneath United Church, held at the home of Mrs. J. A. Nichol.

Mrs. White, with her husband, the Rev. R. C. White, is moving to Bobcaygeon in August, having completed eight successful years in charge of the churches on the Roseneath charge.

An address of appreciation to Mrs. White was read by Mrs. Delbert Biesbin and the presentation of a gold life membership pin was made by Mrs. Andrew Brown.

Mrs. Isabel Brown, superintendent of the Baby Band, presented Mrs. White with a corsage of roses.

The president, Mrs. J. N. Lovelace presided over the opening exercises and business period with Mrs. C. W. Varcoe pianist. Included in the correspondence read by the secretary, Mrs. Fred Lewis, were two invitations, from Bethesda W.M.S. inviting the Society to attend their July meeting and Roseneath Women's Institute extended an invitation to be their guests at their cooking school.

The treasurer, Mrs. J. A. Nichol, reported having sent $29 to the Presbyterial treasurer as a payment on the second quarter's allocation.

Mrs. R. C. White gave her farewell address to the W.M.S. choosing as her subject, "We Are the Light".

Mrs. Lovelace was in charge of the study period, pertaining to refugee work. A dialogue "Dearth on the Earth," was dramatized by Mrs. Lovelace, Mrs. C. W. Varcoe and Mrs. Delbert Biesbin.

A card was autographed by the members and sent to Mrs. Albert Halstead, second vice-president of the society, who is critically ill in St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough.

Mrs. Andrew Brown was in charge of the program period. Mrs. A. J. Campbell gave a reading, Mrs. Douglas Coyle contributed a vocal solo, with Mrs. C. W. Varcoe as piano accompanist and Mrs. Andrew Brown read "Happy Homes".

Nickel Workers Get 7-Cent Wage Increase

SUDBURY (CP)—Wage increases ranging from 7½ to 10½ cents an hour for 16,000 employees of the International Nickel Company here and in Port Colborne were granted yesterday in an agreement between the company and the International Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, an independent union.

The settlement was reached after conciliation board hearings and ratification by union membership meetings.

The terms include a general 7½-cent boost, plus an additional three-cent hike for 1,500 first-class tradesmen. A second group of tradesmen will receive 1½ cents an hour over the basic boost

The new agreement brings the minimum for service laborers to $1.56 an hour at Sudbury and $1.50 at Port Colborne. The key wage for miners advances to $1.79 while smelter workers at Port Colborne will earn the same rate.

Tradesmen's wages advanced to $1.99½ while the top rate at Inco jumped to $2.09½ an hour.

GRANT EXTRA HOLIDAYS

The agreement also grants all workers an extra week of holidays. After one year's service workers will get a week's vacation with pay and those with two year's service two weeks. After 20 years of service, workers will get three weeks off.

Also stressed were changes for contract bonus miners—a major issue during negotiations. The new provisions covering contract miners include representation committees of miners and union representatives to meet with management to discuss the bonus There is also a provision which will allow more miners to earn the bonus.

The statutory holiday count was increased to seven and welfare changes include a boost of from $20 to $30 a week in sickness and accident benefits.

Life insurance protection was increased to $2,500 under a group policy as soon as a man is pensioned because of disability.

Try To Settle Lumber Strike In B.C.

VICTORIA (CP) — Union and management representatives meet here today in an attempt to settle the $1,000,000-a-day British Columbia coast lumber strike. It will be the first meeting between the disputants since the walkout began a month ago.

Chief Justice Gordon Sloan agreed in Vancouver yesterday to act as mediator. He announced a few hours later he has called a meeting with the two factions.

Meanwhile, the union said its representatives will meet southern interior negotiators here today. Operations in the northern and southern interior districts have not been affected by the coast woods strike.

Chief Justice Sloan, who settled a 36-day strike of woodworkers in 1946, accepted the role of mediator after union-management representatives agreed to his selection.

The 32,000 members of the International Woodworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) have been on strike since June 14 when wage negotiations became deadlocked.

The workers seek a 35-cent-an-hour pay increase. The basic wage in the 1951-52 contract was $1.29½ an hour.

COST HEAVY

It has been estimated that the strike has cost the workers and operators $31,000,000. The workers have lost $500,000 a day in wages.

The strike, which has closed the province's major industry, is the biggest in B.C.'s darkened labor picture.

Forty thousand workers, including 3,000 carpenters, and 5,000 allied tradesmen, are idle in wages disputes. Another 7,500 workers threaten strike action within the month unless pay demands are met.

GETS $2,000 IN HOLDUP

MONTREAL (CP)—An unobtrusive bandit escaped with between $1,500 and $2,000 in a holdup of a mid-town branch of the Royal Bank of Canada yesterday. The bandit waited his turn in line and then slipped a blank cheque with the words "c'est un holdup" to the girl teller and showed the butt of a concealed revolver. She pushed him a quantity of loose bills and he hurried away.

Toronto Edges the Petes In 9-8 O.L.A. Game To Tie For Second Place

TORONTO (Special)—One of those crucial games for both Toronto West Yorks and Petes Timber Structures took place at East York Arena last night. Peterborough, with a win could move into a first-place tie with Mimico, while Toronto by coming up with a victory could move into a second place tie with the Timber Structures. West Yorks came up with their best game of the season to take a narrow 9-8 win. Playing Coach Don McPhail got around Harry Wipper at 13:24 of the final quarter to give the Yorkers their all important ninth goal and the Yorkers just ragged the ball from that point on.

Geordie Johnson came up with his best netminding performance of the season as he overshadowed his opponent Moon Wootton, who also came up with some spectacular saves.

PENALTIES HURT

The break of the game came in the third quarter as Toronto, after trailing 3-2 at the end of two, roared back to outscore the Petes 6-3 aided greatly by two Petes' penalties to Grant Burns at 4:00 and Russ Slater at 6:46. The Yorks scored three goals while they were off.

Playing coach Don McPhail led his charges with three goals, assisting on one more while Leo Teatro scored two and got two assists.

Ross Powless and Don Ashby were the Timber Structures' stars with two goals each.

Peterborough — Wootton, O'Hearn, Wipper, Mason, Slater, Powless, Groves, Fitzgerald, Nickel, Ashbee, Robinson, Burns, Thorpe.

Toronto—Johnston, Webster, Banks, McNulty, McPhail, Scott, Teatro, Ferri, Lyons, Gowland, Timpson, Digby, King, Kapas, Arthurs.

Local Juniors Edged Out By Bowmanville

Bowmanville beat the Young Petes 13-9 here last night in a Lakeshore Baseball League fixture. The league-leading intermediates had to come from behind in the eighth frame to get the decision over the local juniors when the latter rallied for six runs in the seventh to take over the lead in the tilt. On earned runs it should have been 7-7, but local miscues in the last frames hurt.

Leo Sullivan pitched for the Menzies-Mein squad till out in the eighth, when Jerry Frizzelle took over, Sullivan being charged with the loss after a fair mound chore. He gave up 11 hits in 7 1-3 innings for 10 runs, seven earned, while fanned two, but he was wild to walk 10. Frizzelle gave two hits and two walks as he fanned four, the three runs being unearned.

USED TWO PITCHERS

Lefty Buttonshaw started for the visitors and in 6 1-3 frames he was nicked for five hits and three walks, fanning five, for seven runs, five earned. Cec Hall took over in the seventh and allowed three hits and a walk, as he whiffed three, for two earned runs off his delivery. Sullivan had four wild pitches and each of the other three flingers one each, Buttonshaw hitting one batter.

Frizzelle hit a triple for the losers in one trip, Gary Kearns getting a double and single in five, and Bus Jensen a triple and single in five attempts. The latter and Sullivan each drove in two runs. Hall led the winners with two for two and he drove in four. Stainton and Yourth each had two for four, and Hooper three in six trips. Yourth smacked out a double, and McArthur drove in three runs. Kearns turned in a smart fielding effort, and the visitors had two double-plays, Yourth to Hooper, and Gallagher to Bird to Hooper. Teams:

Bowmanville — Bagnell, lf; Yourth, 2b; Hooper, ss, c; Gallagher, 1b; McArthur, c; Bird, ss; Stainton, cf; Cox, rf; Hall, p; Falls, 3b; Buttonshaw, p, rf.

St. Kitts Whip Hamilton 12-9

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

St. Catharines Athletics tightened their hold on fifth place in the senior Ontario Lacrosse League last night defeating Hamilton Tigers 12-9.

Playing coach Don McPhail notched Toronto's winning marker in the final three minutes of play. It was his third goal of the evening.

St. Catharines raged through the last quarter scoring four goals. Rookie Johnny Dewart rammed home three for the winners while Hamilton's Blain McDonald duplicated this performance.

Bethany Victors

BETHANY (ENS)—In Monday night's game of the North Durham series, Bethany defeated Millbrook here 11-4. Edmunds hurled good ball all the way. They took the lead with two runs in the first inning, adding three in the third, two in the fourth and four in the fifth. McGill, Edmunds and W. Rowan were the heavy batters.

Kerr started on the mound for Millbrook, walked a run in the fifth and was replaced by Wright in the sixth. Ross McGill had the only homer of the night, Lord and Don Edmunds getting doubles. They remained scoreless until the fifth when their count was two, adding two in the seventh.

Teams:

Have To Use Borrowed Boats At Games

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HELSINKI (CP)—Canada's oarsmen and basketballers realize they are in for the biggest battles of their athletic careers.

The sweep-oared crews are resigned to the fact that they'll represent Canada in the Olympic Games in borrowed boats and the Canadian champions of the court game, with two victories under their belts in the preliminary rounds, must win the next one to keep the Maple Leaf flying when the Games officially start this week-end. Both are on the short end of betting odds if such an expression may be used in connection with the world's extravaganza of amateur sports.

HAVE LITTLE CHANCE

Whichever way you look at it Canada has not much chance against the cream of the world's amateur athletes. In practically every sport the country has entered —from fencing to wrestling—Canada is behind the eight-ball when experts gather to discuss probabilities.

The oarsmen are particularly hard hit. Since their boats were bashed in during a North Atlantic storm a week ago, they have been training more or less on borrowed time. They've used boats unfamiliar to them. They've juggled crews around so much that the pattern existing during the three years they have set their sights on these Games is almost lost.

They have boats from Sweden that needed numerous rig and structural changes before they could be put in the water. They received word yesterday that there is no chance of replacements arriving from Canada in time and they will have to go out July 20 and make the best of it with what they have.

The oarsmen were dejected when word was received from Toronto that the plane scheduled to take off with the boats would not be coming, but soon shed their woes and now are determined to give their best when they meet the starting gun.

"We're here to represent Canada to the best of our ability," said Art Griffiths of Hamilton, "and if we have to do it in a borrowed boat we'll be in there digging just as hard as if we were in our own boat."

The doubles were out yesterday despite choppy waters and are gradually becoming accustomed to the scull lent by Sweden.

EGYPT TOUGH TEAM

The basketball team came up with a second straight victory in the preliminary tournament, defeating Romania 72-51. One more win will shoot the Canadians into the 16-country Olympic championship but they are still in for a hard time.

The Canadians meet Egypt tomorrow and it's touch and go whether they can make it. The Egyptians have a classy club and are favored over the Canadians.

Out At The Kawartha

CLUB CHAMPIONSHIP

The one match played resulted in a win for E. Hanbidge over R. Buchanan.

MEN'S TWO-BALL

Once again some keen competition took place, resulting in a lot of fun for winners and losers.

Florence Riley and H. McLean defeated Joseph O'Brien and C. McDougall.
Helen Kelly and D. Ouimet defeated Elva Chamberlain and J. Condon.
Anne Reed and D. Chamberlain defeated Lorraine Connors and A. Thompson.

KAWARTHA CUP

Moving into the fourth round were T. Giardino with a win over C. Corbett, L. Longo over P. Pryde, and D. Menzies over G. Webb.

Despite the increased number of matches completed over the weekend there are still a few to be played. Once again the match committee wear those scowls which seem to register threats of something to those people who are lagging behind.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Television broadcasts in Canada begin this fall and the Kitchener columnist raises an interesting point in that connection. Says: "Down in St. Catharines last hockey season, they found that Friday night, formerly a good one for them, had become a liability. Games were shifted on Saturday and an upswing in attendance was noted for the junior Teepees. Friday is a big TV night and Wednesday is another. A few years ago Art Ross of Boston Bruins said when TV hits Canada it will change the entire living habits of the country. The tims is close at hand and we are doubtful if Canadian sports groups have given enough thought to the impact of the new device on their future operations."

* * * * * * *

There are quite a few television sets in Peterborough now, and there'll be plenty more when Canadian broadcasts commence. This could affect attendance considerably at sports events, particularly on certain nights. It has cut into minor pro ball plenty in the States as a great many diamond followers prefer to sit home and view a major league game on the screen, rather than hit through heavy traffic to attend a game of lower category. More cars and cottages cut into Saturday ball games here some years ago as folks went away for the weekend. Just how will TV affect such sports as hockey and football here in the fall and winter months?

Heads-Up Ball By Petes

Kingston Monarchs play the Petes at 8:30 tonight (Wednesday) in Riverside Park, weather being okay. A C.O.B.L. fixture and we look for another swell senior ball game. The Petes have started to hit their true form and are rolling these days, downing the K's last meeting and twice taking the league-leading Belleville Redmen in recent starts. Fans enjoyed that joust here Monday when the locals bunted in a 5-3 victory o'er the Reds in one of the best tilts seen here in a couple of years. If they keep hustling like that, they'll draw bigger and bigger crowds, and they should take over second slot right away. Lefty Bill Dadson may do the pitching for the Petes in this one.

Bowmanville Roses are atop the Lakeshore Intermediate League but they were plenty worried here last eve. The local juniors darned near beat 'em out ere finally bowing 13-9. Roses had to come from behind in the eighth to grab it, and they were plenty burned up. Hooper knocked Bigford flying as he tagged him in a rundown, and the fans didn't like it a bit. Each side used two twirlers, and Leo Sullivan—who was left in quite a while as Al Menzies and Shockey Mein want to use him more on the mound—did okay, though he was wild in spots. Losers kicked the ball around some, too, but turned in a most creditable showing against a strong club. Don Bigford's in-the-park homer was a mighty smash to the wall in left-centre. The boys are off for Port Hope tonight.

Some Keen Bowl Action

U.E. male softballers downed Revoy's 8-3 at the Bowl last gloaming while Seabrooke's squeezed out an 8-6 win o'er Lindsay. These two are pacing the pack with the schedule due to close in two more weeks. Howie Dalton pitched a sound game for U.E. and his side came through in the late innings with some potent plate work, Jack White hitting a grand slam homer. Catcher Tom Walton was sidelined in the sixth with a broken finger. Lefty Doris and Haddy Eakins hooked up in a hurlers' duel in the nightcap but a 10th inning error cost Haddy the close tussle. Some smart ball served up in the twin bill. Thursday, it's Lindsay vs. U.E., and Revoy's vs. Lakefield.

That was a toughie to lose, that O.L.A. senior fray in Toronto last p.m. The Yorks pulled out a 9-8 verdict over the Timbermen to move into a second-place tie with the Thorpe team, two points back of Mimico, who have 26 now. Hamilton dropped a 12-9 verdict to St. Catharines and now have 20 points, four back of the second squads. St. Kitts moved up to 12, Owen Sound has 10 and Fergus eight. Hamilton comes here Friday. Penalties hurt the Petes last eve, especially in the third quarter as Yorks got six goals. Thorpe and McNulty tangled in the first frame and Digby mixed it with Wipper next heat in a rather rough affair. Scotty McPhail scored three and aided on one for them, with Leo Teatro tallying two and helping on a pair. Ross Powless and Don Ashbee led the losers with two markers each, and the rival netters shone.

Russians Trick Diving Champion

HELSINKI (AP)—The Russians tricked Maj. Sammy Lee into wearing Pablo Picasso's Communist peace dove for a while yesterday and the little Olympic diving champion is sizzling about it.

"If they show a picture of me wearing that dizzy peace dove it's a mistake, brother, and I mean a mistake," the American-born Korean said.

Lee, strongly anti-Communist, got pulled into the "peace dove" manoeuvre while practising diving at the Olympic pool.

The Russian swimmers and divers talked with Lee, a native of Fresno, Calif., through an interpreter, and soon a Russian newspaper man joined the group.

Then a Russian swimmer pinned a white ivory "peace dove" on Sammy's swimming jacket. The dumpy dove has become almost as much a Communist symbol as the hammer and sickle.

"I didn't really notice what it was, because most team members have pins of one kind or another," Lee said. "I thought it was just a friendly gesture. I stood between two monstrous Russians and this Russian newspaper man took our pictures."

Revoy's Beaten By U.E.W. In 8-3 Contest

U.E.W. and Revoy's currently occupying second and third places respectively, in the men's senior softball derby, hooked up in a rare duel Tuesday night at the Bowl, with the Legrow squad the victors, 8-3, after nine innings of red-hot action.

Howie Dalton opposed Dave Hayes in a neat twirling duel for seven innings of scoreless battle as hitters on both teams went down like ninepins . . . then it happened. The big bats of the union crew rang out in the top of the eighth, to blast out four runs, on hits by Tony Giardino, Reg Leether, Buck Legrow, Howie Dalton, Jack White and Bruce Taylor to defeat Revoy's chances of the second slot.

Continuing their offensive in the ninth, U.E. poked out four hits which, with a walk and a fielder choice, netted four more runs.

Jack White's great drive over the left field fence with the bases plugged climaxed the rally.

George Hawkes' plucky band rallied in the final frame to tally thrice, on hits by Bob Nelson, Doug Whalen, Perc Elmhirst and Hope's double; but the stunning rally of the top lads proved too decisive to overcome. Dalton fanned five, yielded eight hits and walked but one in a good display; Hayes twirled well to the eighth, giving up but four hits and walking three. Revoy's were minus their two regular pitchers, Dick West and Bert Fife. Tom Walton, veteran catching star for U.E.W., suffered a broken finger in the sixth which will sideline him for some time.

Red Wins Clip Montreal In Doubleheader

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The eyes of the International League are focussed on Rochester today.

Just when it looked as though the Red Wings were ready to fold before the league-leading Montreal Royals, they hauled off and whipped the boys from north of the border 5-1 and 5-3 last night.

With the fourth game of a five-game series coming up tonight, George Condrick goes for Rochester against Royals' Hamp Coleman. It will be up to Condrick to keep Montreal from improving on its three-game margin.

LEAFS, A'S SPLIT

In other games last night, Syracuse blanked Baltimore 2-0; Buffalo walloped Springfield 14-3 and Toronto and Ottawa split a pair, Ottawa taking the opener 3-2 and the Leafs the windup 4-3.

Willard Schmidt, recently optioned from St. Louis Cardinals, beat the Royals' brilliant rookie Ed Roebuck in the opener at Rochester with a four-hitter. Roebuck had his run of 31 scoreless innings snapped and also a six-game win streak.

In the nightcap, Pete Riggan and Don Richmond, first two men to face Montreal's Bob Alexander, tagged homers.

With their new manager Burleigh Grimes coaching at first base, Toronto rallied for three runs in the ninth to capture the nightcap after Ottawa had won the opener with a big sixth frame. Mkie Goliat homered for the Leafs in the second game.

Grimes, who managed the Leafs the last time they won the pennant in 1943, took over from Joe Becker, who was fired Monday night.

Lindsay Bows By 8 to 6 To Seabrooke's

Red Sullivan and his madcap band of male softballers, under the Seabrooke Motor banner, picked up their winning ways where they left off July 8, by a loss to Lakefield, after a nine game undefeated string when they trimmed Lindsay Combines 8-6 in the nightcap of Tuesday's sizzling double-header at the East City Bowl, before a fine crowd.

The win enabled Seabrooke's to hold their first place perch with a three point margin over the U.E. crew, hot on the heels of their hickory-wielding rivals. Lefty Doris was skipper Sullivan's choice against the Scugog battlers and Russ Hanson countered with Haddy Eakins, who pitched a grand game and eventually tasted bitter defeat through no fault of his own. A costly error in the tenth frame, enabled the visitors to punch over what turned out to be the winning runs as Scriver's muffled drive tallied Byrne and Thompson, after two were gone in the extra frame.

It was strictly a pitchers' battle as the speedy Eakins matched the graceful southpaw artist throughout the first nine frames to a 3-3 draw. Then came the decisive tenth, with the breaks a big factor, though Doris yielded not a whit in the skilful duel. Eakins struck out 11 men, gave up 11 hits and passed six; Doris was nicked for but six singles, one a homer by Carl Deyell with two on in the eighth, and walked three; he fanned four. Wyatt hit two triples, drove in two and scored one; Speedy Curry drove in the tie-breaker in the tenth; and Thompson hammered home a pair. There was smart fielding jems in both games.

Dropo Ties Rare Ball Record But Tigers Drop Twin Bill

By RALPH RODEN, Associated Press Sports Writer

Walt Dropo, the amiable "moose" from Mosseup, Conn., once again is striking fear into the hearts of American League pitchers. Dropo, who has experienced many ups and downs in his bid for stardom, has been the hottest batter in the league this month. The husky first baseman of Detroit Tigers shunted the pennant races to the sidelines last night by tying a rare major league record—12 consecutive hits. Pinky Higgins set the record in 1938 with Boston Red Sox.

Dropo missed a chance to break the record when he fouled out in the seventh inning of the second game of a doubleheader against the Senators in Washington. The 28-year-old slugger then singled home two runs in the ninth.

DROP TWIN BILL

Despite Dropo's lusty hitting the tail-end Tigers dropped both ends of the twin bill to Washington, 8-2 and 9-8.

Dropo began his streak Monday with five straight hits against New York Yankees. He collected four straight singles against Walt Masterson in the twilight portion of last night's doubleheader, tripled with the bases loaded in the first inning of the second game, singled in the third and tied the mark with a double in the fifth.

Since games of July 4, Dropo has been banging away at a .523 clip and raised his average from .259 to .296.

Meanwhile, Cleveland Indians cut the Yanks' lead to 2½ games by downing the Bombers 7-3 at Yankee Stadium. The Red Sox took over third place from Chicago by beating the White Sox 7-5 and Philadelphia Athletics swept a twin bill from St. Louis, 7-6 and 11-3.

GIANTS MOVE UP

In the National League, the second-place New York Giants climbed to within five games of Brooklyn's pace-setting Dodgers by turning back St. Louis Cardinals 6-3. The Dodgers' game with Cincinnati was rained out. In other games, Philadelphia Phillies trounced Pittsburgh 10-3 and Boston Braves walloped Chicago cubs 10-3.

Early Wynn, backed by a nine-hit attack that included home runs by Harry Simpson and Luke Easter, coasted to his 10th victory in the opener of the important five-game series at Yankee Stadium. Home runs by Yogi Berra, Joe Collins and Mickey Mantle accounted for all of the Yanks' runs but by the time the New Yorkers found the range the Indians were enjoying a 7-0 lead. The crucial series resumes today with a doubleheader.

Rookie first baseman Dick Gernert clouted two home runs and George Kell one to account for all of Boston's runs in its victory over the White Sox.

The A's pulled the opener out of the fire from the Browns with a six-run ninth-inning rally that was climaxed by a grand-slam homer by Eddie Joost at the expense of Satchel Paige. Venerable Bobo Newsom went the distance in the second game and scattered 10 hits.

Lefty Dave Koslo, although relieved in the sixth by relief ace Hoyt Wilhelm, gained credit for his 12th straight victory over the Cardinals since mid-season of 1950.

Curt Simmons breezed to his ninth victory in beating the Pirates. Rookie Mel Clark's grand-slam homer in the third, his first of the season, staked Simmons to a 4-0 lead.

The Braves scored seven unearned runs to beat the Cubs. Shortstop Roy Smalley was the guilty party, committing three boots.

Grasso Refuses Fans' Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mickey Grasso, the Senators' fiery catcher, let it be known yesterday that he wants Washington fans to quit sending him money.

After Mickey was fined $100 for getting into a rhubarb with New York Yankees July 4, his supporters began showering him with money. Grasso said he appreciated it, but insisted on paying his own fine and returning the contributions.

Among the letters that accompanied contributions was this note from a little girl named Sally Nelson:

"I think they were very mean to fine Mickey Grasso all that money. I want to help him because he is my favorite because once when I was at the ball park I waved to him and he smiled at me and waved back so I think he is very nice so I am sending you this week's allowance to give him 10 cents."

Wide-Open Field Starts In Tourney Ferrier Considered Strong Threat

By FRASER MACDOUGALL

WINNIPEG (CP)—As wide-open a field as the Canadian Open Golf championship has ever seen sets out today in the hunt for Canada's top golf classic and $15,000 in prize money.

With 147 entries in the opening 18-hole round of the 72-hole four-day tournament, there wasn't an outstanding favorite in the lot although one of their number was big Jim Ferrier, transplanted Australian who plays out of San Francisco, winner of the title in the last two years.

A number of younger pros from the United States, including Earl Stewart, Jr., Dallas, Texas; Fred Hawkins, El Paso, Tex.; Dave Douglas, Newark, Del.; Shelley Mayfield, Cedarhurst, N.Y.; and Al Besselink, Escondido, Calif., were rated a good chance to take first money of $3,000.

FERRIER A THREAT

But there were formidable veterans in the field. Despite a sour putter which has hampered his play on the U.S. tournament circuit, Ferrier is a real threat. By winning he could become the first man to win the Canadian Open three times in succession.

The comparatively short fairways of Winnipeg's St. Charles course, lined with trees to plague the inaccurate hitters, favor the big fellow who concentrates on hitting straight off the tee and sinking long putts.

Two other former Canadian champions are in the field—Lawson Little, 1936 winner, and Dutch Harrison, who finished first in 1949.

Many liked the chances of Robert de Vicenzo of Buenos Aires, lone entry from outside Canada and the U.S. He holds the Open titles of his native Argentine, Mexico, Belgium and Italy. The handsome De Vicenzo shot a three-under-par 69 in a practice round yesterday.

Other veterans in the field include Dick Metz of Maple City, Kan., runner-up in 1946 and 1948; Jim Turnesa, U.S. Professional Golfers' Association champion; Ed Oliver of Lamont, Ill., who tied for second place with Hawkins a year ago, and Ellesworth Vines of Los Angeles.

BIG CROWDS EXPECTED

Canadian hopes rest with Pat Fletcher of Saskatoon, Canadian P.G.A. champion; Stan Leonard of Vancouver, top Canadian last year, and Bob Gray of Toronto, runner-up in 1941.

Golf fever gripped Winnipeg for the first Canadian Open ever to be played on the prairies. Yesterday, galleries for practice rounds ran into the hundreds. Officials reported a heavy advance sale of weekly tickets—about 2,000—and prepared for thousands more each day.

OLYMPIC HOPE—Roger Bannister, 23-year-old Londoner, is considered Britain's best bet in the 1,500-metre event at the summer Olympics. Six feet two inches tall, he flashed into prominence four years ago and has had the Olympic metric mile as his objective ever since. He has been the target of some criticism because he chooses to train his own way and is called a "lone-wolf" type. He has an unusually long stride—7½ feet.

Bride Enjoys Honeymoon At Golf Course

WINNIPEG (CP)—North America's best golfers will be pounding the fairways out at the St. Charles Golf Club here this week and their wives will be right beside them.

One, Mrs. Al Balding, a freckle-faced Toronto bride is on a honeymoon which most girls would consider ideal. She sits back and supervises while her husband works.

Her husband, assistant pro at Toronto Islington, is entered in the Canadian Open.

The Badings were married in Toronto nine days ago and a few hours later were on a train bound for Winnipeg. Since then, Mrs. Balding has been following Al around with a collapsible stool.

Some of the American golfers who make the rounds of the continent's major golf tournaments have reduced living almost to a science.

TYPICAL FAMILY

A typical golf family is Mr. and Mrs. Earl Stewart, Jr., of Dallas, Tex., and their two young children. They make the rounds in a 35-foot trailer and set up housekeeping right at the course.

Mrs. Stan Horne of Montreal met her husband playing golf.

"It's always summer and always like being on a holiday wherever we go," she says.

Mrs. Rudy Horvath of Windsor, has been accompanying her husband to the tournaments he enters for four years now and hasn't missed one yet. She says she gets to know him better by making the rounds.

Here And There In Sports

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Royal Copeland will play the 1952 football season for Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four.

Copeland returns to his native city after two seasons playing manto-motion back and pass receiver in the T-system of Calgary Stampeders. Argos President Bob Moran said the star of Argo championship teams of 1945-47 will begin practice tomorrow.

The Stampeders plan to trade Copeland for fullback Bob Westlake of the Toronto team, who is on his way to Calgary. But the Argos' right to trade Westlake is being challenged by Hamilton Tiger-Cats under the Big Four waiver rule.

Coach Carl Voyles of the Cats says he will try to get Westlake this season and has the right to him under the waiver rule. According to the rule, Westlake must play for whatever Big Four team wants him after his release from Toronto and only after he's freed from the Big Four can he go to Calgary.

Voyles said the former Tiger-Cat player told him he wanted to play for Hamilton.

But Moran said Westlake applied for his release from Toronto because he wanted to move outside of football and go to Calgary to accept a job. But Westlake also wanted to be free to "play football out there if he could," Moran said.

Meanwhile Copeland will play the season for Argos while Westlake's position remains uncertain.

In Hamilton, Voyles said he would consider a deal with Argonauts that would bring Joe Krol to Hamilton. In return, Voyles said he would agree not to pick up the waiver of Westlake.

NO TV, RADIO

Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, announced in New York yesterday there will be no radio broadcast, home television or theatre television of the July 28 heavyweight fight between Rocky Marciano and Harry Matthews. "The only way fans can see the fight will be to come to Yankee Stadium," said Norris. He also ruled out all foreign radio broadcasts.

NO-HITTER FOR JOHNNY

Johnny Vander Meer, who 14 years ago pitched successive no-hitters for Cincinnati, hurled another no-hit masterpiece at Beaumont, Texas, last night as Tulsa walloped Beaumont 12-0 in the Texas League. The 37-year-old left-hander walked three and hit one batsman. A fifth Beaumont batter reached first on an error.

SWIMMERS WARM UP

Twenty swimmers are training at Folkestone and more are expected before the end of the month to prepare for the annual English Channel swim to France. The first Canadian to swim the channel, Mrs. Winnie Roach Leuszler, 25, who came in seventh in last year's race, is training in Toronto and hopes to go over for another try.

Olympic Athletes Have Big Appetites

HELSINKI (AP)—Five thousand hungry athletes eat an awful lot of food during the Olympic Games.

The giant tent restaurant of the main Kapyla village expects to use 37 tons of meat, 60 tons of potatoes, 19,815 gallons of milk and 350,000 eggs.

Mrs. Suoma Palo and 50 girls who have graduated from cooking school run the show in five sections

Orient Wins Fleet Honors

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (AP)—Paul Smiley's 65-foot cutter Orient won over-all fleet honors as well as victory in her own cruising-A class in the 28th annual Port Huron-to-Mackinac yacht race.

Smiley, Monday skippered the Orient through the slowest weather conditions since 1941 in finishing the 235 miles on Lake Huron in 45 hours, 23 minutes, 52 seconds.

The Orient was acclaimed over-all winner late yesterday on the basis of corrected times. Orient's elapsed time as scratch boat and pre-race favorite was five hours, 34 minutes, nine seconds better than the nearest challenger on corrected time—Nick Geib's 39-foot ketch yawl, Fleetwood.

The two-boat racing class competition was taken by John Blunt's eight-metre yacht, Rangoon, from Sarnia, in 54 hours, 39 minutes, 15 seconds.

BRITISH RUNNER—Bill Nankeville, 27, is one of the fastest members of the British Olympic team. His time for the metric mile, three minutes 48 seconds, set in Brussels two years ago was the fastest by any British runner since 1936. He is five feet 10½ inches tall and weighs about 130 pounds.

Boxing Boss Scolds Maxim And Gavilan

NEW YORK (AP)—Robert K. Christenberry, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission which governs boxing here, yesterday took to task world boxing champions Joey Maxim and Kid Gavilan.

Christenberry charged that both Maxim, world light heavyweight ruler, and Gavilan, world welterweight titleholder, have repeatedly bucked the No. 1 contenders in their respective divisions.

"It perturbed me no end when I learned that Jack Solomons, British promoter, tried to line up a London title bout between Joey Maxim and Randy Turpin," Christenberry said.

"Archie Moore of St. Louis has been by-passed too long by Maxim. He is the legitimate light heavyweight contender and not Turpin.

"I feel more perturbed about Gavilan not giving Billy Graham a return bout. Gavilan recently stopped Gil Turner, a legitimate defence by the way, but he again by-passed Graham, the No. 1 contender."

SWIMS HUDSON

As practice for a try at the English Channel next month, Gene Texeira yesterday finished a 140-mile swim down the Hudson River from Albany to New York. Swimming by day and resting by night, the 18-year-old Westport, Mass., boy spent a total of 55½ hours in the water. He began his trip July 3.

Overtime Rally Gives Russia Win

HELSINKI (AP)—A desperate overtime rally by the Red soccer team saved Soviet Russia from defeat last night in its first appearance in Olympic Games competition.

The Russians eliminated an Iron Curtain neighbor, Bulgaria, 2-1 in an overtime contest at Kotka, 32 miles from the Russian border.

Neither team had scored by the end of the regulation 90 minutes of play. Bulgaria went ahead 1-0 after four minutes of the 30-minute overtime period, but the Red Army team came back strongly to save the prestige of the Soviets, chiefly on the star work of Vsevolod Bobrov, the Russian captain.

Because of the huge entry list in the games of the 15th Olympiad, which open here Saturday, eliminations were necessary in soccer, field hockey and basketball.

In other soccer games, Yugoslavia, one of the favorites, crushed a partially bare-footed Indian team 10-1, Hungary nosed out Romania, Poland ousted France and Denmark beat Greece, all by 2-1 scores

Rioting Convicts Indulged In "Bestial Sex Orgy"

LANSING (AP)—Rioting convicts indulged in a bestial sex orgy beyond description during the bloody April riot and mutiny at Southern Michigan prison, State Attorney-General Frank G. Millard reported today.

The attorney-general said investigators of the $1,000,000 riot obtained testimony "which certainly should not be reduced to print."

"The testimony definitely shows," Millard said, "that so-called 'wolf-packs' roamed the prison at will, forcibly attacking numerous inmates and otherwise indulging themselves in those cases where force was not necessary. We have been able to definitely charge only a very few by reason of our inability to obtain evidence directly identifying many of the offenders, even though medical testimony was available as to acts committed."

In his first report yesterday of his six weeks long investigation of the riot, Millard asked warrants against 14 convicts for kidnapping, against six for sodomy and against three others for both kidnapping and sodomy.

Millard cited homosexuality at the prison in listing overcrowding as a contributing cause of the riot.

Among the causes of the outbreak listed by the attorney was failure on part of the state corrections department to channel all orders and directives through the prison warden.

The report declared that charges of brutality by guards or inmate hospital help were unfounded.

English Drivers Bring Buses To City Sunday

Charles W. Price, formerly of the passenger department of the Cunard Steamship Company, is the officer in charge of the three buses from London, England which arrive in Peterborough next Sunday evening.

Mr. Price was subsequently shipping manager of one of Britain's largest travel agencies, conducted many cruises, some of them to Canada, and is now holiday development officer of the British Travel and Holidays Association. He was Midlands regional welfare officer of the Ministry of Labor and National Service, 1940-47, with special responsibility for the welfare of thousands of workers transferred for war production in that area.

He joined the British Travel and Holidays Association in 1947, and is now engaged in developing facilities for tourists from overseas and for the British holiday trade.

In charge of London Transport personnel is Edwin Thomas Bunny, inspector of rolling stock. He was with the Royal Flying Corps in the First World War. In 1940 he became inspector of rolling stock for the London Transportation System. In 1950 he surveyed the 5,000 mile route through eight European countries for the four London buses that advertised the Festival of Britain which was held last year.

Reginald G. Hills is assistant divisional engineer for London Transport. In 1918 he was an apprentice in engineering to the National Steam Car Company at Chelmsford on its steam buses. In the last war he was released for army service in the R.E.M.E. in 1940 and held the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel on leaving the forces in 1946.

He was appointed assistant divisional engineer for Trams and Trolley Buses in 1948 moving to Manor House offices. In July 1950, he was transferred to his present position as assistant divisional engineer for the Northwest Division at Dollis Hill which controls the engineering arrangements for 21 garages.

The buses and other rolling stock will be parked in front of the Armouries Sunday evening, but may be transferred to the city hall area adjoining the police department for the night.

That arrangement was suggested Tuesday by Mayor Waddell, and Chief John Thompson was asked to confirm the authority. The London double-deckers have made a long tour of the United States and are on the last leg of their journeying on the continent. The members of the party are just about worn out by their constant travel, and in book for them Sunday night is a long rest at a local motel.

U.S. Steel Shortage Slows Hydro Jobs

TORONTO (CP)—The current shortage of steel caused by the steelworkers strike in the United States has slowed the expansion program of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

Chairman Robert Saunders is reported to be seeking steel orders during his present tour of Europe.

Work was held up last week on installation of a power line at the new Sir Adam Beck-Niagara No. 2 station by a shortage of steel towers.

Justice Genest Dies In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Mr. Justice Jean C. Genest, 53, the second French-speaking Canadian to be appointed to Ontario's Supreme Court, died in hospital here last night.

He was a leader of French-Canadian thought and before his appointment to the Supreme Court in 1946 was one of Ottawa's most prominent legal figures.

He moved to Toronto in 1947 and was spending the summer holiday here. He had been in failing health and had not been well enough to hear cases since last March.

Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier, former Liberal Member of Parliament for Ottawa east, was the first French-speaking Canadian named to the Ontario Supreme Court.

Mr. Justice Genest's father, the late Dr. Samuel Genest, was a former chairman of the city's separate school board and led a successful 10-year fight against a regulation forbidding the use of French for instructional purposes in Roman Catholic schools.

He had wide interests in French-Canadian culture and was a life member and former president of l'Institut Canadien Francais.

He is survived by his widow and three children.

Prolific Writer Quits

WASHINGTON (AP)—William D. Hassett, chief "ghost writer" of Presidential letters for 17 years, resigned as a White House secretary yesterday. Hassett wrote more than 300,000 letters over the signatures of the late President Roosevelt and President Truman. Intimates said the secretary had the knack of writing "no" so engagingly it virtually turned disappointment into happiness.

New U.S. Liner Enjoys Being Queen

NEW YORK (AP)—The new liner United States settled into a Queen's throne yesterday and defied the maritime world to unseat her.

The fastest passenger liner afloat, she docked to a triumphant New York harbor welcome after wresting trans-Atlantic speed laurels from the bigger British liner Queen Mary.

Asked about the Mary's chances of regaining the title, the United States' skipper, Commodore Harry Manning, told reporters:

"I wish her luck but I doubt very much that she could do it."

The Queen Mary had held both east and west trans-Atlantic speed records since 1938. The United States broke them both within two weeks.

REGULAR SCHEDULE

The United States' owners, the U.S. Lines, said the new speed queen now will settle down to a regular schedule of five-day Atlantic crossings.

The United States docked at pier 86 in the Hudson River, four blocks from where the world's largest liner, the Queen Elizabeth, broke out welcoming bunting.

Bands played. The skyscraper bluffs of lower Manhattan were draped in bunting. Fireboats banked the United States with plumes of spray. Ships piped her home with a throaty sympony of whistles.

68 Inches Of Rain For Village In 3 Days

CHERRAPUNJI, India (Reuters)—It has been raining in this hillside village for three days and 68 inches of rain has been recorded in that spell.

The current downpour, which has unleashed widespread flooding through the surrounding countryside of Assam, is just another annual proof of the claim that Cherrapunji is the wettest spot on the face of the earth.

Before the year ends, Cherrapunji will have had about 450 inches of rain.

Floods following 10 days of heavy rain in Assam and West Bengal have so far caused $5,000,000 worth of damage to crops, property and livestock, unofficial estimates indicate.

Cherrapunji set its own record for rainfall—905 inches—in 1861.

Hope To Prevent Bridge Traffic Jams

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Immigration and customs officials here said last night that all traffic lanes on the United States side of the Peace Bridge would be manned during the weekend in an effort to prevent traffic jams.

The Fort Erie, Ont., council decided Monday night to forward a request to Washington that the traffic bottlenecks be eliminated.

Omemee News

Miss Ruth Smith visited her sister, Mrs. Red Goheen in Barrie over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Cran Nichols of Rochester, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dick last week.

Miss Helen D. Veals who is on the staff of the Private Patients' Pavilion of Toronto General Hospital spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Weir.

Cecil Thorn of Kitchener, is making a two weeks visit in the vicinity of Omemee where he is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Ingle and of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. James Barker of Toronto are holidaying with Mr and Mrs. Harold Dick.

Mrs. Fred Hart and daughter, Phyllis, and Mrs. O. Grandy and daughter, Ruth, of Mount Horeb, were Sunday visitors in Omemee. Phyllis and Ruth sang a special number in Trinity United Church at the morning service.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Johnson were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stinson of Cavan.

Jet Engine Inventor Gives Up Advisory Job

LONDON (Reuters)—Sir Frank Whittle, inventor of the jet engine, announced last night he is giving up a top advisory job with Britain's major state-run airline.

He denied reports that he intends to emigrate to the United States following clashes of opinion on jet-development technique with British officials.

The 45-year-old engineer-airman gave no reason for his decision to quit his honorary post as jet adviser to the British Overseas Airways Corporation.

Plumbing Code Ordered

TORONTO (CP)—Health Minister Phillips yesterday announced a new minimum standard for plumbing installation throughout Ontario. Dr. Phillips called the new regulations a "floor" over which municipalities may build their own regulations. The new regulations are effective April, 1953.

15-Day Sleep Ends

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Hospital authorities reported yesterday that Mrs. Gertrude Wallis, 36, unconscious since July 1, awoke at noon. Mrs. Wallis, seven months pregnant, had been unconscious since she collapsed at her farm home near Granton after a blood vessel burst in her head. Her condition was reported "slightly improved."

Ask Millbrook Curb Violations Of Road Laws

MILLBROOK (ENS)—Village council was asked at its July meeting to take some action to curb "a few motorists who seem to delight in making our streets unsafe by their utter disregard for highway traffic laws."

The petition came from the village Chamber of Commerce, represented by Douglas Sheppard. It cited, as well as motorists who disregard traffic laws, others who make "public nuisances" of themselves by unnecessary horn-blowing and noise making.

Council promised it would take some action on the matter, and appealed for the co-operation of citizens.

Accounts totalling $1,909.69 were ordered paid, largest item being $1,098.34, the first instalment of the Durham county high school grant. Other major items were: $104.70 for hydro, $43 for relief, and $98.50 for hospitalization.

Representatives of the Millbrook branch of Canadian Legion told council they needed framed photographs of the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh, and suggested that council might want to contribute these. Council promised consideration.

Grant Scientist Passport To U.K.

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Dr. Linus Pauling, scientist who was denied a passport to visit England last May, has won a reversal from the State Department.

He said yesterday he plans to leave for a six-week visit to France and England. He will return via Toronto.

Dr. Pauling said the State Department has notified him it is issuing a passport "on the basis of new evidence and re-evaluation of old." There was no further explanation, he added.

The head of the chemistry department at California Institute of Technology was invited to attend a meeting of the Royal Society at London to discuss his discoveries into the molecular structure of proteins.

A Congressional committee cited Pauling as one of the leaders of a Communist-sponsored peace conference in New York in 1949. He has denied that he was a Communist.

Expect Plenty Of Fireworks Over Democratic Candidate

By RELMAN MORIN

CHICAGO (AP)—The two leading contenders for the Democratic Presidential nomination were heading for Chicago today, plunging into a battle royal unlike anything the party has seen in 20 years.

Senators Estes Kefauver of Tennessee and Richard Brevard Russell of Georgia were both on the scene of the convention.

It opens formally Monday, but the pre-convention pace already has reached a high point in accusations and denials. The situation—involving five avowed candidates, seven "favorite sons" and a number of other probables—is riotously confused.

Spokesmen for two of the supposed "probables," President Truman and governor Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, issued statements yesterday that should remove both from the list.

TRUMAN OUT

Regarding the President—National Chairman Frank McKinney said Truman told him: "I meant what I said about not running. . .I've served my time."

Regarding Stevenson—his biggest booster, Jacob M. Arvey, said: "The Governor has tied my hands. As a matter of practical politics it is almost impossible to nominate a man under these circumstances."

But the party still has a wide choice left.

It includes W. Averell Harriman of New York, Senator Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma and Vice-President Alben Barkley.

Kefauver is the pivotal point of the storm.

'BRIBERY' CHARGED

His campaign manager, Gael Sullivan, claims that some of the other Democrats are teaming together to stop the senator, and said he had "reports" of efforts to bribe some of Kefauver's California delegates.

Sullivan named no names, and other candidates lost no time in denying the story.

Estimates of total delegate strength for the various candidates, at this point, put none of them within striking distance of the nominating minimum—616.

Russell's camp says he has more than 300. Kefauver's lieutenants do not even put up a round figure, but point out that he entered 14 primary elections and won in 12.

Port Arthur Fetes Miss Universe Visitor

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—Armi Helena Kuusela, 18-year-old winner of the recent Miss Universe beauty contest in Pasadena, Calif., was feted yesterday in this northwestern Ontario city.

Canada's largest Finnish community here treated the pert young lady from Finland with a civic dinner and dance. She was the guest of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Nilo Kyro.

It may not be a beauty hint but she disclosed that she took a steam bath every day while in the United States.

Decries Graft

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (CP)—Trinidad's police commissioner said in his annual report yesterday that there is "a considerable amount of graft and double-dealing in all quarters of the community." He did not elaborate.

Operates Luxurious Motel To Keep Cat Visitors Happy

by JACK QUIGG

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Thirteen years ago Mrs. Mildred Alexander built three cages and put them in the back yard of her small home in the San Fernando valley.

She erected a sign which said: "Motel for cats."

Today, Mrs. Alexander's back is covered with cages, now called cottages. There is even a "honeymoon cottage."

Feline guests take their ease on miniature, human-style beds and chairs. The menu includes lobster and caviar.

The motel has been a second home to Clark Gable's Siamese and Arthur Kennedy's red Persians. Larry Parks, Lucille Ball and Mrs. Brian Donlevy have treated their pets to the luxury of Mrs. Alexander's care.

CAT'S LIFE

Mrs. Alexander stands ready to prepare and serve, at any hour, cooked or uncooked, chicken, steak, bacon and eggs, fish courses, or even, as one person ordered, buttered string beans. So far, no one has ordered mice.

She has catered to a cat that drank only from a crystal goblet placed on a linen napkin and another that would eat only off a chopping block.

On Christmas each cottage gets a tree with trimmings and each cat a stocking filled with toys and tidbits.

Record Vote Polled In B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia polled a record vote in the June 12 provincial election which defeated the Liberal administration and gave Social Credit more seats than any other party.

Final first-count returns under the alternative voting system show the vote was 744,300. The previous record was 698,086 in 1949.

The C.C.F., which elected 18 members, got the largest share of the vote, 30 per cent, compared with 35.1 in 1949. Social Credit, which elected 19 members and is expected to be called upon to form the new government, got 26.6 per cent of first-choice ballots. It had only 1.6 per cent in 1949 and, until the June election, never had elected a member in B.C.

The Liberals took 24.2 per cent and Progressive Conservatives 17.4 per cent. In 1949 the two old parties as a coalition, took a total of 61.4 per cent.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

CANCEL BASEBALL GAME

The C.O.B.L. baseball game scheduled to be played here at 8:30 tonight has been postponed. The Kingston Monarchs announced late this afternoon that they would be unable to field a team. At present they are in a second-place tie with the Petes.

AIR SHOW CANCELLED

The air show and paratroop jump scheduled to take place August 4 at the Skyboro airport under the sponsorship of the Peterborough Rotary Club has been cancelled. The army, after reviewing the site, decided a jump on that location would be too dangerous.

MEETING OF MASONS

The 97th annual communication of the Ancient Free and Accepted Masons in Toronto is being attended by a number of delegates from Peterborough and district. Altogether, 4,000 from 582 lodges are expected to attend the meeting. Among those attending from Peterborough are: Ross L. Dobbin, Harry Baptie and Lewis Ingram. The meeting opened today.

LIKES BALL TEAM

"One of the best I've seen in five years at least," was Milt Fowler's rating of the Belleville game here Monday night. "The team has real spirit, the park is one of the best in Ontario, the lighting is excellent, and most of that ball team are Peterborough lads. It's a tight league at the top. For the rest of the home schedule we should have a big increase in the crowd."

Thrown By Barrel Man's Rib Cracked

Injured Tuesday morning when his glove caught in the hoop of a barrel of condensed milk he was rolling up a ramp, Kenneth Freeburn, 40, 368 Downie St., is in Civic Hospital recovering from a gash on his head and a cracked rib.

His condition is described as satisfactory today.

Mr. Freeburn, an employee of Silverwoods dairy was rolling the 600 pound barrel up the ramp from one floor level to another, when his glove caught in one of the hoops. It rolled backwards, throwing him down on a concrete floor among other drums.

Ben Ackerman Navy Expert In Demolition

One of the handful of Canadians who has received training as a "frogman"—that is an expert at underwater swimming and demolition work—is 32-year-old- B. F. (Ben) Ackerman of Peterborough, now an ordnance lieutenant in the Royal Canadian Navy.

Lieut. Ackerman recently completed a six-months course on bomb disposal and "frogmen" tactics at the United States Navy school, Indian Head, Maryland. Today he is packing his things preparatory to leaving for the R.C.N. base at Esquimalt, B.C. where he will be the officer in charge of Explosive Ordnance Disposal (the Navy's less vivid title for his dangerous job).

PREDECESSOR KILLED

He succeeds Lt.-Cmdr. Ted Borradaille who was recently killed and a number of petty officers severely injured while trying to take the stinger out of a Japanese mine. The Second World War mine had come loose and drifted onto the British Columbia shore.

Numbers of these mines continue to be washed up on the coast line from time to time and it will be one of Lieut. Ackerman's jobs to dispose of these.

"You're only permitted one mistake," he said.

Mention of "frogmen" conjures up some of the exploits of these underwater pioneers in the Second World War.

The Italians were the first to equip their men with a self-contained air unit, fins on their feet and hands to help propel them through the water, and demolition charges that they could attach to ships.

The British, Germans and Americans all later adopted the idea and developed this new technique of warfare in their own way. An Italian frogman was captured by the Royal Navy and was being interrogated in a ship that he had already fastened a limpet bomb on when the charge went off. He survived.

A British frogman had a similar experience on a German naval vessel.

SECRET WORK

Lieut. Ackerman said that while much of the work is secret—particularly the methods of rendering different types of mines and underwater booby traps harmless—the routine work of Explosive Ordnance Disposal Units (known as E.O.D. to the R.C.N. and as frogmen to civilians), is pretty well known. A number of magazine articles have outlined the work done; and there has been a movie made on the subject, and an excellent book written.

Frogmen preceded the allied invasion of the Normandy Coast and in future wars their role is likely to become even greater.

The variety of mines that are now laid in protected waters eliminates much of the value of sweeping. Now there are mines that are magnetically controlled; others that are guided by sound; and some by shadows.

"The only thing to do is send down a swimmer with non-magnetic equipment and a knowledge of mine disposal," said Lieut. Ackerman.

While he wouldn't say so, flatly, he indicated that the greater freedom and mobility of the frogmen points the way to all types of future underwater operations. The diver in the big, cumbersome, heavy diving suit may become a thing of the past.

Equipped with a self-contained air supply the frogman can remain in the water up to six hours. And he can operate at depths of 100 feet.

"The accent is not on speed," said Lieut. Ackerman. "You have to just take your time. The body soon becomes exhausted in underwater work if you try for speed."

One of the big problems is body warmth. In Halifax where he did some underwater swimming and demolition work Lieut. Ackerman had to work in water of 30 degrees. American navy men in Korean waters were faced with the same problem. When they surfaced they were soon covered with ice.

Part of his training is in bomb demolition work on land. And there Lieut. Ackerman has a point to make:

DELAYED ACTION

"In the next war there will be more of the delayed action type of bomb. And it will need trained personnel to tell where this kind has dropped.

"The Germans found that the delayed type was the most effective. It meant that the whole area had to be cleared while the bomb was hunted for and finally rendered harmless. If it had gone off immediately the damage is repaired and everybody troops back into the area.

"This technique, perfected by the Germans, will have to be carefully studied by our Civil Defence organizations."

A DROWNING was narrowly averted at Inverlea Park shortly before midnight when Muriel Panter, 30, of 620 Frank St., was found floating unconscious in the bathing area. Courtney Craymer (left) of Union St., and Delbert Outwater (right), of Dublin St., heard faint screams and splashing as they were fishing near the Parkhill Road bridge. The two 16-year-old fishermen saw Miss Panter in the water and ran to the home of a nearby resident, John S. Hicks, of 77 Parkhill Road (shown below, right). Mr. Hicks waded out and brought her to shore. She is recovering in hospital.—(Park Studio Photos)

Woman, 30 Saved From River

Fireman Praised By Doctor For Quick Skill

Smooth and efficient teamwork by an inhalator crew of the city fire department is credited with saving the life of 30-year-old Muriel Panter of 620 Frank St., Tuesday night. Miss Panter was discovered at 11:15 p.m. floating, unconscious, in about 18 inches of water at Inverlea Park.

Today her condition is described as "very good" as she recuperates in St. Joseph's Hospital from her near drowning and from shock.

WORKED AN HOUR

The firemen under Captain Bill Sorrie worked on Miss Panter for an hour using the inhalator and resuscitator in conjunction with artificial respiration. They continued to work on her as she was whisked away to hospital in Kaye's ambulance and until the hospital equipment was ready in the emergency ward.

Others in the four-man crew were Firemen Adelard Vinette, Clarence (Soup) Campbell, and Chris Cummiskey.

Dr. J. M. O'Brien, attending physician, said today:

"Those firemen did a topnotch job. When they arrived Miss Panter was in a very bad way, but they brought her round so that today her condition is very good. The men deserve a lot of praise for their teamwork and skill."

Miss Panter was pulled from the water, fully clothed, by John S. Hicks, of 77 Parkhill Rd. He lives only about 300 feet southwest of the bathing beach and was summoned by two 16-year-old boys who saw her floating in the water.

"When I heard there was a woman in there I just dropped everything and ran over to the beach. She was only out about 10 feet from shore; the water wasn't up to my knees.

"I pulled her out of the river," said Mr. Hicks, "and when I got her on the bank I held her by the waist, face downward, to get some of the water out of her."

ARTIFICIAL RESPIRATION

By this time, Algia Hickling, a hydro lineman who lives at 91 Parkhill Rd., came up and began

Nighthawks Dive Bomb Woman

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Victor Caswell, of Toronto, has twice been attacked by two nighthawks and she now carries a stick to fend them off.

The first attack came Saturday when she took her dog out and one of the birds hit her head with its wing. She went out again Monday with her stick, but "they came tearing at me." She managed to hit one of them.

The hawks, with 20-inch wing spans, last night screeched and whirled about a school yard within inches of onlookers. A zoo official said he thought they might have a nest nearby with one or more young.

A bird expert commented, "any damage caused by nighthawks would be insignificant because they have very weak bills."

Motorist Sees Fire In Home Turns In Alarm

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — About $150 damage was done by fire today to the home of Frank Brown on Highway 30, two miles south of Campbellford. The blaze, believed caused by an overheated wood stove, broke out about 10 a.m.

Nobody was in the house at the time, but Mr. Brown, who was driving along the highway to Belleville, saw smoke and investigated. He found the wall behind the stove ablaze, and turned in the alarm.

Firemen from the town responded quickly and put the fire out. Mr. Brown is a scrap metal dealer in Campbellford.

16,462 At Playgrounds In First Two Weeks

Attendance at city playgrounds since they opened July 2 until July 12 was 16,462.

The attendance for the first week was 6,756 and the second week 9,706. Inverlea had the largest attendance with a total of 5,318 for the two weeks.

Attendance at the remaining playgrounds was: All Saints, 641, Braidwood, 834; Fleming, 1,081; Hamilton, 2,536; King Edward, 3,005; Riverside, 1,358; Turner, 1,689.

3 Touring British Buses To Arrive In City Sunday

The three British double-deck buses, which have been touring United States and Canada since their arrival in New York March 18, will arrive in Peterborough Sunday night. An official welcome will be extended to the group travelling with the buses by Mayor Hugh Waddell at 10 a.m. Monday in front of the City Hall. At this time Charles Price, leader of the tour, will present the city with a scroll bringing greetings from Great Britain.

After the ceremonies, the buses will be stationed on George St. where they will be open for public inspection and will take anyone interested on a free ride.

They will remain in Peterborough until early Monday afternoon, leaving after members of the tour have been guests of the Rotary luncheon meeting.

The two-storey buses have already covered 8,000 miles in the United States and they expect to travel 2,000 miles in Canada before leaving. From Peterborough they will go to Lindsay and then to Toronto. After an extensive tour of Western Ontario they will return through Port Hope, Kingston, Brockville and Prescott where they will leave the country for New York and the ship home.

One of the buses is exactly as it was when it left its run through Piccadilly and St. Paul's a few months ago. This bus will take spectators on free rides. A second bus is fitted out as an information centre, and a third is a mobile workshop used for servicing the vehicles.

Driving the buses will be three of their original Cockney drivers, all veterans of many years with London Transport, which operates a fleet of more than 5,500 such buses.

This tour is sponsored by the British Travel Association.

Expert Suggests Get Europeans To Put On Plays

TORONTO (CP)—Tyrone Guthrie, British actor, producer and playwright, says Stratford, Ont., intent on producing a Shakespearian festival next summer, should select European stars to form the nucleus of the company.

One of the world's leading authorities on Shakespeare, Mr. Guthrie gave a press conference here yesterday while on his way home after compiling a report on the proposed festival for a group of business men.

He suggested that someone go to Europe to round up a group of stars schooled in the Shakespearian tradition to help form the company, which would produce two plays during the first season.

IDEAL LOCATION

The park in central Stratford is an ideal location for the festival, he said. He favored some sort of structure which would both protect the audience against bad weather and provide space for an Elizabethan type stage.

"I would not be against a tent. . . it can be a thing of considerable beauty if designed properly."

Although scenery was not necessary he favored use of lavish costuming and adequate lighting.

"Nor do I think that Stratford should go into the 'ye olde' atmosphere too much. I don't think it should dress its policemen in ruffles or usherettes in Elizabethan costumes."

One-time administrator of both Sadlers' Wells Ballet and the Old Vic theatre, he said he would "be glad to do what I can" in finding suitable European actors. "However, I have commitments to keep me busy from now until the end of May."

Cars Damaged In Two Accidents

Two traffic accidents Tuesday evening resulted in damage to the vehicles involved but no one was injured.

Both drivers involved in a collision at Park and Chamberlain Sts., blamed a parked car for their accident as they told police it obstructed their view.

Thomas G. Tully, 42, 618 Chamberlain St., was going south and was just turning west on Chamberlain St. At the same time, Robert Gillis, 37 Stewart St., was driving east on Chamberlain St., and approaching the intersection when the two cars collided causing about $150 damage to each vehicle.

Constable J. P. Gillis investigated.

An estimated $275 damage resulted when a car driven by Harold Smith, 49 Argyle St., slid into a parked car owned by H. A. Mitchell, 601 Gilmour St., on Charlotte St., in front of the Medical Centre.

According to police, Smith was driving west on Charlotte St., and was attempting to pass a city bus driven by E. Frizelle, 568 Chamberlain St., just as the bus swung out to pass a vehicle ahead of it.

Smith had to turn out farther to the left and applied his brakes. In doing so, he skidded into the car parked on the south side of the street.

Constable Gerald Emmons investigated.

Harvest Comes Before Mining

CALEDON (CP)—Five amateur gold miners who believe they are within a few feet of their treasure have suspended operations until they have harvested their hay crop.

The four farmers and a quarry operator have gone down 54 feet and are confident they will strike gold at a depth of 60 feet.

Gold speculation in the area, 35 miles northwest of Toronto, has been going on for the last 130 years when a visiting Indian is said to have found a number of gold nuggets.

The shaft is being sunk on property bought 45 years ago by Hugh Jackson and now owned by his sons, Hugh and John.

New Separate School Requires More Nuns

KITCHENER (CP)—Erection of a new separate school here has necessitated engagement by the separate school board of an additional community of teaching nuns.

Sisters of the Immaculate Conception, with mother house at Ancaster, Ont., have purchased a residence here which will be remodelled as a convent.

The nuns belong to the Eastern Rite of the Roman Catholic Church and are the first of that rite to come to the city.

VISITING DEER

Mrs. Earl Johnston today saw a deer on her farm on the Lindsay highway about two miles west of the Chemong turn. She said she saw another one, not the same deer, about two weeks ago. The deer this morning calmly crossed a field and went into a bush on the farm.

60 Workers Strike On Northland Railway

COCHRANE (CP)—Sixty maintenance employees of the Ontario Northland Railway went on strike today.

The men, members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway employees (C.I.O.), struck to enforce demands for an increase in hourly pay to 70 cents from 60.

PUC Boardroom Vanishes In Demolition

The boardroom of the Utilities Commission at the old City Hall has vanished into memory. The vacant vault disappeared Tuesday as the demolition squad crushed its walls and kept on wrenching at nails and partitions on their destructive way to the ground level.

The elected commissioners of Peterborough' public utilities, water, electricity and gas, conducted their authorized business in a room on the second floor fronting on Simcoe St.

Without any break in continuity Gordon Matthews has attended the Commission meetings for 26 years, with only one instance of absence in all that time, as he cited at a meeting some months ago. He was elected Commissioner in January, 1926, and became chairman in 1928.

The Commission regularly meets twice a month, and on that basis Mr. Matthews attended approximately more than 600 meetings in his service as an administrator of the utilities.

Originally, the office of the gas department under Harry Beel was in the Lundy block, afterwards acquired by Ben Chesler, on the west side of George St., north of King St.

The gas works was at that time a property of the Peterborough Light and Power Co., which owned the old street railway. The office of the waterworks was in the present Bamforth and Kelly fuel office at Hunter and Bethune Sts. The first headquarters of the Utilities electric department was in a building on Aylmer St. adjoining the sub-station. Gradually, under public ownership, these utilities were amalgamated, and directed from the western section of the old city hall on Simcoe St.

Morrow Estate Cheque Came From Balance

National Trust Company's cheque for $9,192.36 from the estate of W. G. Morrow for the City Hall building account was paid out of the cash balance, as explained in a letter which Mayor Waddell mentioned yesterday.

It was drawn on the cash balance in the capital account. In the passing of the accounts of the executors, the National Trust Co., there was the balance of $21,723.07, less compensation costs of $10,231.73, less the overdraft in the revenue account, $2,298.98, after the passing of the accounts. At some indefinite time in the future, there may be other payments to the city, when the subsidiary terms of the will are fulfilled.

Cobourg Starlings Like Peterboro' Spray

COBOURG (ENS) — Perhaps the starlings in Cobourg are a more sturdy variety than the ones in Peterborough.

The spray used on the birds in the Liftlock City is said to have dispersed the starlings and the town council here was hopeful of the same results.

However, the spraying in Cobourg had apparently no effect. The birds are still here. They stayed in the trees after they were sprayed and came back next night, and nights following. One resident, who is bothered by the starlings, remarked wryly that he figured the spray must have killed off the parasites that were on the starlings because the birds seem to be sleeping better at nights.

Vermont Angler Sets Record On Brown Trout

NEW YORK (CP) — The big brown trout which Alfred O Palmer, Readsboro, Vt., angler, caught near the Canadian border last month has turned out to be the largest of its kind hooked in the eastern half of the continent.

The brown trout which the bespeckled Vermonter caught in Sherman Pond, near Whitingham, Vt., a few miles from the Quebec border, scaled 22½ pounds. The only bigger brown trout caught in North America was taken in California.

Records of Field and Stream Magazine show that Palmer's fish was the second biggest taken on the continent. Seven years ago, Dave Hanny took a 24-pound brown trout out of California's Regulator Lake using a heddon rod and salmon eggs for bait.

Next in line, and placing behind Palmer's fish is a 22-pound trout taken in Oven River gorge in California in 1950 by Bill Shunkwiler.

Palmer caught his fish on a fly rod from which he had been casting a worm.

But all of the brown trout caught on this continent are small compared with the world's record That was a 39½-pounder taken out of Loch Awe in Scotland in 1866.—

40-HOUR WEEK URGED

TORONTO (CP) Establishment of a 40-hour work week by Feb. 1 for employees of the Robin Hood Flour Mills at Humberstone is recommended in a conciliation board report released yesterday. It would be the first such work-week in the flour milling industry in eastern Canada, officials of the Ontario Department of Labor said. A general wage increase of nine cents an hour is also recommended, retroactive to Feb. 1.

OCEAN HOPPERS — Flt. Lt. W. J. Watson, of Ottawa, right, and FO. Arthur Titus of Ottawa and Dartmouth, N.S., study the map of their 3,560-mile hop to England before taking off from Ottawa. Behind them is the twin-engine Beechcraft expeditor plane they fly. It is the first R.C.A.F. ocean flight by such a plane and possibly the first Atlantic flight by anyone in an expeditor type. They have arrived at the R.C.A.F. base at North Luffenham, Eng., where the plane will be used to transport airmen throughout the United Kingdom and Europe.

UN Headquarters Expecting Something Break In Korea

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—There is an air of hopeful expectancy at United Nations headquarters. For good or bad something seems about to break in the cold war. The break may be in the form of a move by world Communism dictated by Moscow.

Some highly-placed persons here express the feeling that a peace in Korea—however nervous it may be—will come to pass, perhaps in August. If it does, it will fit into place a section of the whole jigsaw puzzle of Soviet world policy.

Many eyes are turned toward the chief Soviet delegate to the United Nations, Jacob A. Malik, at a time when his vacation in the Soviet Union from his duties here is overdue and he has created the impression of a man awaiting important orders.

Some sources here tie up their expectations concerning Korea with the United States political scene. They put it this way:

With the nomination of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower by the Republicans for President, the U.S.S.R. faces the prospect of a dogged determination to keep South Korea out of Communist hands and to continue the western resistance to Communism elsewhere in the world, regardless of which party wins the U.S. election. The Korean adventure, costly to both Red China and the Soviet Union, may be considered no longer worth the trouble.

BOND DRIVE IN OCTOBER

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada will launch her seventh peacetime savings bonds drive in October. Terms of purchase likely will be announced shortly.

Discover Site Of Famous Indian Village

PENETANGUISHENE (CP)—Charred remains of timber from eight longhouses and part of a palisade have been recovered at a near-by site believed to have been the village of St. Louis, where the Jesuit martyr priests Brebeuf and Lalemant were captured by Iroquois.

The discoveries were made by students of the University of Western Ontario's summer school of Indian archaeology, directed by Wilfrid Jury. Other interesting finds include several iron knives, awls and copper scraps and prayer beads. Most unusual are a carved copper lynx and a turtle made of lead, probably melted down from a bullet.

The site of the longhouses and palisade is about two miles from Georgian Bay on a winding river.

Evidence indicates this was the St. Louis the Iroquois attacked at dawn March 16, 1649, after demolishing a neighboring village named St. Ignace. Brebeuf and Lalemant, captured at St. Louis, were dragged to St. Ignace and killed.

Later the same day, Hurons from Ossossannee village retook St. Louis. The Iroquois finally captured it for good, destroying it by fire and murdering the inhabitants.

Canada's Wheat Crop Bigger Than In '51

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's wheat-crop condition at June 30 indicated a yield 24 per cent better than the long-term average and 15 per cent better than last year, the Bureau of Statistics reported yesterday.

The all-Canada percentage figure for wheat, based on weather factors and expressed in terms of the long-term provincial wheat yields, was put at 124 compared with an average of 100 and last year's figures of 109.

Suggest Changes In County Home

WELLAND (CP)—A citizens' committee investigating the Welland county Home for the aged yesterday recommended either construction of a new building or alterations and additions to the present structure.

The investigation resulted from a sermon by Rev. G. H. Knighton of Port Colborne May 4, in which he termed conditions at the home "disgraceful."

The committee suggested that the provincial Welfare Department be asked to serve in an advisory capacity in a review of administrative procedures or in renovation or new construction.

Diligenti Quintuplets Celebrate Ninth Birthday

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters)—Argentina's Diligenti quintuplets had their ninth birthday yesterday but there was no party for them.

Their millionaire father, Vallota Diligenti, worked as usual. Their mother is away for a few days.

The quintuplets, two boys and three girls, seldom meet and have been sent to separate schools to avoid fuss and to ensure their development as individuals.

But yesterday four of them were together staying with friends.

Father Diligenti kept the birth of the quintuplets—his wife had previously had triplets—from the world for eight months and has since protected them from publicity.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Special Menu Of Barbecued Weiners

A quiet, cool supper on a tray under the peach tree—that was my plan for I was alone. But just as I was ready to sit down Pete strolled up the driveway with Kaye, his buddy. That was okay—I could provide for two more without much trouble. But when five minutes later Marianne drove up with Art in tow, and Art in turn had Jim in tow, and Jim is his artist friend from Philadelphia—well, I had to start from the beginning. Nothing was ready that would feed four trenchermen and Marianne and me.

You may be sure I gave everyone of them a job when they offered to help. My mind clicked at the double-quick to assemble this menu:

Tomato chicken soup (see note).

Barbecued Wieners in Blankets (see notes).

Salad Platter (see notes).

Rye Bread Ice Cream

Chocolate Sauce Nuts

Iced Coffee. Milk.

I knew everybody's talents so I delegated the jobs like this: Pete the chocolate sauce; Kaye the barbecue sauce; Art the soup, milk and coffee; Marianne and Jim set the table in the garden and bought the ice cream. (Art is the official boy friend but such a good guy he looked on this pairing off—pro tem—with a twinkle in his eye).

What did I do? The wieners and salad things. Two of the boys don't like mayonnaise so I arranged everything in groups on the salad platter without dressing and put dressing on the tray separately.

The soup was 1 tin canned condensed tomato and 1 tin condensed chicken mixed together and diluted and heated in top of double boiler (Art's job). As you have guessed I didn't have 2 tins of 1 kind and the combination turned out to be popular with everybody.

The wieners were 2 lbs. which had been bought for a rainy day and which were frozen at the back of the freezing unit—it didn't rain but it did pour. These I unwrapped and plopped into boiling water to thaw. Then I drained and split them and spread them with Kaye's sauce (see below) and wrapped them 2-3 way round with slices of crustless white bread. (Remember I had to improvise fast for this hungry crowd.) I broiled them from choice and because there was no room for the likes of me at the top of the stove. It was already occupied with 3 boys with a pot each.

BARBECUE SAUCE (for wieners)

In top of double boiler beat 1 egg until frothy then add 1 tablespoon sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons dry mustard, and ½ cup vinegar. Stir over boiling water until the mixture is as thick as cream. Remove from heat and stir in 1 tablespoon salad oil or butter. Keep warm over warm water until wieners are heated in water and split, then spread this sauce in the split, wrap your slices of crustless bread around, leaving split top open and fasten with toothpicks and toast under hot broiler.

CHOCOLATE SAUCE (for ice cream)

Stir in a saucepan over low direct heat ¼ cup butter (4 tablespoons with 1½ squares unsweetened chocolate shaved or chopped. When melted add, mixed together, ¼ cup cocoa, ¾ cup sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt and ¼ cup cream. Bring the whole thing slowly just to boiling point. Don't stir after it is once mixed. As soon as it boils, remove from heat and add 1 teaspoon vanilla. Serve warm on ice cream, sprinkled with nuts peanuts will do if they are all you have on hand—which was the case that day with us.

The success of this meal was in the participation of all concerned—and the fact that they were very hungry, but they always are.

What's Right?

You receive a letter from a friend and think it might be nice to send it on to a mutual friend.

WRONG: Do so without considering whether or not there is anything in the letter that might have been meant for you alone.

RIGHT: Read the letter carefully to make sure that the person who wrote it would not mind its being sent on to someone else.

Two Sisters And A Niece Attend Rose Heffernan

St. Joseph's Church, Douro, was the scene of a pretty wedding Tuesday morning when Rose Emmeline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Heffernan of Douro, became the bride of Mr. James Hickson, son of Mrs. Catherine Hickson and the late Robert Hickson of Peterborough. The Rev. J. J. McCarthy performed the ceremony and said the nuptial mass.

The church was decorated with roses and white and pink carnations. Mrs. Victor Kennedy was organist and Mr. John Sheehen and Miss Catherine Zenhenko sang "Ave Maria" and during the signing of the register sang "Wilt Thou Look Upon Me Mother".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of white Chantilly lace and net over satin. The off-the-shoulder neckline had a yoke of nylon net outlined in seed pearls. Panels of lace over the hips concealed small hoops which added a graceful charm to the net skirt which fell into a short train. Her fingertip veil was caught in a bandeau of tiny seed pearls with orange blossons, and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

She was attended by her sisters, Miss Rita Heffernan, as maid of honor, and Miss Lucille Heffernan, as bridesmaid. They wore similar gowns in pastel shades of mauve and green taffeta with bodices shirred at the waist, scooped neckline with roll cape collars and short puff sleeves. Headdresses and mittens were of matching material and they carried cascade bouquets of sweet peas and rosebuds.

Mary Anne Johnston, niece of the bride was the little flower girl and wore a yellow, floor-length taffeta dress with a long mauve sash and headdress of yellow and mauve flowers. She carried a nosegay of sweet peas and forget-me-nots.

Mr. Thomas Hickson was his brother's groomsman. Ushers were Gerard Heffernan, the bride's brother, and Don Booth, brother-in-law of the groom.

The wedding dinner was served at the Empress Hotel. The bride's mother received the guests wearing a pale blue crepe dress and white accessories with a corsage of red roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother who wore a black figured dress and white accessories with a corsage of white roses.

The bride and groom left later for points west. The bride chose a pastel blue gabardine suit and white accessories and she had a corsage of pink roses.

They will live at the groom's home, Chemong Road.

Woman Of Year Speaks For More Equality

VANCOUVER (CP)—The problem of "equality" for women hasn't ended.

It is one of the most-talked-about subjects at the 13th biennial convention of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs in session here.

Four hundred delegates from Newfoundland to Victoria are here to discuss their problems during the four-day convention.

Margaret Hyndman, Q.C., Toronto, selected as the Federation's "woman of the year," said yesterday that women in the working world are willing to stand or fall on their merits.

"We think women on the whole do as good work as men," Miss Hyndman said in an interview.

She would like to see equal opportunity and promotion for all business women.

Prime Minister Takes Guide Salute

SOUTH MARCH (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent yesterday officially opened the 12-day national Girl Guide camp.

Some 1,200 guides between the ages of 13 and 16 marched with precision behind their provincial standards past the reviewing stand where the Prime Minister took the salute.

Mr. St. Laurent spoke briefly in French and English on the theme of the camp, "our Canadian heritage."

St. Peter's Alumni Going Forward With New Officers

St. Peter's Alumni organization met this month in the school to elect and install new officers who will commence activities in September.

The object and aims of this alumni are to provide scholarships and bursaries for students and religious teachers, to augment the library of St. Peter's School, and to make known and practice a Mary's Day Donation.

An award has been inaugurated, to be known as the "Sister Lucretia Award," in appreciation of Sister Lucretia's achievements in the school among the students. Sister Lucretia holds the office of Federation Sister on the new executive, as well as on the previous one which has guided the organization successfully through its pioneer days since reorganization in 1950.

New president is Mr. George Sullivan. Vice-presidents are Mr. Joseph Shaughnessy and Mr. Jack Hayes; corresponding secretary is Mrs. Jack Lane; recording secretary, Miss Helen Strano; and treasurer is Miss Barbara Hickey.

Parish representatives are: St. Peter's, Mrs. John Begley; Sacred Heart, Mrs. Leo Martyn; St. Anne's, Mrs. Max Gilbert; St. John's, Mr. Al. Shaughnessy; St. Alphonsus, Mr. Wm. Roche; Douro, Miss Isabelle Heffernan and Miss Marcella Heffernan; Keene, Miss Bernice Sullivan. Mary's Day convener is Mrs. S. J. Houlihan.

Retiring president Mrs. Gus Torpey installed the new officers and extended wishes for a successful term on behalf of the retiring executive.

Mrs. Gene Sheedy, chairman of the ways and means committee outlined plans for the 1952-'53 term. A fashion show is to be held in the auditorium of St. Peter's School on September 24 and 25. This will be one of the first functions in the new auditorium, now under construction.

A reunion weekend is to be held in the near future for former students of the high school but definite arrangements will not be made until the next meeting.

In the past two years the alumni has successfuly sponsored two bingos, in St. Alphonsus Hall. A formal dance was held at the Kawartha Club for former students and the graduating class of '51 was entertained at a formal dance.

Judge's Daughter Wed In Toronto

Daughter of the late Judge Lawrence Vincent O'Connor and Mrs. O'Connor, formerly of Cobourg, Frances Adele O'Connor, Reg. N., exchanged wedding vows with Peter Gerald Hopperton in St. Michael's Cathedral, Toronto, on Saturday.

She was given in marriage by her brother, Lawrence Gerrard O'Connor, of Chatham, and wore a ballerina gown of white sheer over taffeta with fingertip veil held by a Juliet cap and she carried a prayer book with a corsage of gardenias and coral roses.

Miss Maureen Upper of Belleville was her maid of honor and Miss Patricia Hopperton was junior bridesmaid. They were frocked in orchid and lime green and wore matching lace capes and headdresses and carried bouquets of summer flowers.

The groom who is son of the late Capt. Harry Edward Hopperton and Mrs. Hopperton was attended by Mr. Hugh Edward Hopperton. Ushers were John Roche and Mel O'Donohue.

Mrs. Lawrence O'Connor, the bride's sister-in-law, and Miss Joan Hopperton, sister of the groom, received in the Royal York Hotel after the ceremony.

Star Salad---Cool Eating

Has the summer heat caught up with you? Now, what should you do about it? Keep calm and cool, and relax as much as possible. Plan your dinner in advance and prepare it in the cool of the morning to be served at the family dinner hour.

An excellent idea for keeping cool is to eat lightly. Star Salad with cold cuts, salmon or tuna is your answer to light but delightful eating. Start off with some cold tomato juice or a tasty, easily-prepared tinned soup and you have a wonderful hot-weather dinner.

Here's how to prepare Star Salad. Remove any bruised leaves from a head of lettuce. Wedge-cut head into five equal sections. Place in a wooden salad bowl to form a five-pointed star as illustrated. Fill in the empty spaces with crisp, thoroughly washed, uncooked spinach. Its dark green provides an attractive contrast to the pale lettuce. Serve your salad with an oil and vinegar dressing made this way:

OIL-VINEGAR DRESSING

Combine in flask or jar—
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
¼ teaspoon paprika
Add—
¼ cup vinegar
¾ cup salad oil
Shake well. Chill. Shake before serving. Makes 1 cup.

B. & P. Women Convention Discuss Women Who Work

VANCOUVER (CP)—Women who work in Canada was the main topic of discussion yesterday at the 13th biennial convention of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

Ruth Hamilton, women's employment adviser for the Unemployment Insurance Commission, Ottawa, as chairman of the panel discussion said age is "almost an imaginary line" in employment of the older worker but admitted the employer has the right to set his own policy in this regard She stressed that Canada has an "aging population."

Sidelights of the employment-of-women situation across Canada were given by members of the panel, all regional advisers on women's employment.

Quebec region (Miss E.R Cornell): "The situation varies greatly in regard to the policy of the individual company. The small firm is more inclined to test the market and accept the most competent worker. The medium-sized and large companies have a definite age policy and tend to bring in youngsters to offset the older element."

Ontario region (Margaret McIrvine): "Employment of married women is related to supply and demand of labor. When there is a shortage of labor, married women are accepted. In Ontario, the situation for employment of women now is much more limited than at any time since before the war."

Queen Has Cold Misses Big Wedding

LONDON (AP)—The Queen took to her palace room with a slight cold yesterday and missed the wedding of her Royal cousin and a former showgirl.

The fashionable affair in St. Margarets Church united in marriage Gerald Lascelles, 13th in line for the throne, and Angela Dowding, step-daughter of insurance executive Sir John Fox. He is 28 and she is 33.

A crowd numbered by police at up to 10,000—society women, "hepcats" and plain curious—lined the streets to see the culmination of a romance that blossomed in jazz clubs. They were disappointed when the Queen did not appear. But they thrilled at the sight of the Duke of Edinburgh and Princess Margaret.

Both Lascelles, owner of one of the biggest libraries of jazz records in Britain, and his bride are jitterbugs. They met at a fashionable ball 2½ years ago. They grew to love each other at jam sessions of jazz clubs. When not playing his jazz records, Lascelles works for a London automobile firm.

The wedding reception was held —with the Queen's permission—in the state rooms at St. James's palace.

French Designer Fashions Dernier Cri For Britain

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON (CP)—The first Rembrandt-Balmain collection to be seen in London brings French haute couture one step closer to Britain's working girl.

For the next 20 years, clothes designed by Pierre Balmain exclusively for the middle-income British market will be found in home stores priced between 9½ and 19½ guineas.

Tired of the numerous bad adaptations of French designs seen in Britain, the wholesale company named Rembrandt decided to go straight to the master. Now Balmain designs that have not been shown in Paris will be made in the Rembrandt workrooms for sale on the home market, along with their own collections.

This means that middle-class women can buy unmistakable couture designs at a time when they are still the "dernir cri," instead of factory reproductions that are already out-of-date by the time they reach the retail market.

Balmain's designs-for-Britain will give the simplicity of tailoring essential to British markets, with a trick here and there—tabs, folds and fastenings that are the Balmain trade mark.

A whispering of falling leaves rustling down the French boulevards might have been evoked by the swishing skirt of a black, mauve and white plaid Saxony dress with checks smartly styled in deep V's on the button-front top. The X-and-O checking on the skirt gave chic contrast.

VARIETY OF OUTFITS

Made up in worsted flannels, worsted crepe, grosgrain and a new flannel-like material called vigoreux, the 14 Balmain models shown included day dresses, apres-midi (afternoon) outfits and short evening dresses.

Slim lines were eased by side draping and knife pleats that flicked outwards on each calf like the crease to a smart pair of pants. A street dress in grey vigoreux had gently-flared skirt with front inverted-fold pleat and long slim sleeves, button-tight at the wrists with cuff winging outwards. With long, split lapels ending above a double-button panel stretching from bra to hips, it would be suited to town or country.

An emerald green "apres-midi" dress in "peau de peche" (peach-skin) had star-gathered corsage at the foot of a deep-V neckline. The loose, folded skirt was caught through a specially-designed belt to show the sheath-tight underskirt.

One of the smartest dresses in the show was a dark grey worsted flannel dress designed by Rembrandt. Highlight of the slim, classic design was the fine arrow-head pleating fanning from waist to rounded yoke at back. It was a notable factor that Rembrandt's own designs got equal, or even more, praise than the French designs. "Too fussy," said one of the audience referring to the Balmain models.

COCKTAIL FASHIONS — Pierre Balmain of Paris designed this severely-styled black cocktail dress to sell to middle-class customers in the British home market. It is in Givrine noppe grosgrain with a stand-up, tabbed collar, hip pockets and fly-buttoned skirt.

DOROTHY DIX

Fiancee Becomes Restless When Boy Enters Service

DEAR MISS DIX: What are my obligations to a fiance who is stationed overseas? I am 18, a senior in high school, engaged to a boy 23. I have been engaged five months, and Neil won't be home until November. In the meantime, there are many local activities in which I would like to participate, but naturally I don't feel free to attend. I have always been popular in school, and have been missing the parties, dances and outings that go with Senior year. I'm always alone while the gang is having fun. Of course Neil would want me to stay home—if I went out at all he wouldn't like it.

Would you advise me to break the engagement now, or wait until Neil comes home to see what the outcome will be? We have no immediate plans for marriage—in fact, the engagement was rather hasty as I didn't even know I was getting the ring. A. P. G.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your problem is being shared by countless girls all over the country who yielded, too hastily, to the importunities of a lad leaving the country and contracted too-sudden engagements.

NOT REALLY IN LOVE

Some girls who are engaged to boys overseas are mature enough to know, even at 18, that they are truly in love, and that their peculiar situation will necessarily entail much loneliness and sacrifice. Others, like yourself, are already resenting the state of being tied down—and this is by no means a reflection on the girls. Eighteen is the age for fun—the last of life's carefree periods. It should be enjoyed and, if you are convinced that an engagement hampers your social life to the point where you are becoming bitter and resentful, the only fair thing is to give back the ring.

Of course, the whole basis of your unrest lies in the fact that you are not, and undoubtedly never have been, in love with Neil. You were hastily persuaded into the engagement without having the emotional equipment to carry it through.

While it is perfectly true that news of the type you must convey to your fiance is upsetting—to say the least—its consequences will not be as tragic as you fear. He must realize that you didn't have time to consider the engagement in as serious a light as you should have, he certainly must know that you are not too much in love with him, and he is young enough to recover quite rapidly. Perhaps he may even feel the same as you do. When he comes back, you will have had a taste of freedom, and will be in a better position to evaluate your mutual relationship and give really serious thought to the future.

It's an [illegible] girl or boy in high school to become engaged. Each is a major experience in itself, and each should have its own place in life.

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm a woman of 36, and have fallen madly in love with a married man in our office. I do everything I can to be near him, to get him to notice me, and occasionally have managed to make him kiss me. I am trying to get his wife jealous, because I feel I should be in her place. Am I lowering myself by acting this way? My heart tells me to go after him, but my friends tell me I'm foolish. I feel that I'm entitled to what I can get out of life. JANIE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You are lowering yourself exactly to the level of a snake. How much lower can you get? You surely would be indignant if someone in the office stole your purse, or a piece of jewellery, yet you are no better than the commonest, meanest thief when you go to such extremes to steal a man away from his wife and family. Your nasty disposition has undoubtedly driven away any eligible young men you could have had during the last twenty years, and you frustrations are making you jealous of anyone else's happiness. If there's even a small streak of decency in you, leave this man alone and expend your energies going after someone who hasn't family obligations.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My father is anxious for me to study a language in which I am not the least bit interested; it is, however, his native tongue. The course he wants me to take will be of eight weeks duration. I am 13 and hate to be tied down to studying something I don't like. Do you think I should try to please my father? EMILIE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your father is asking a really slight favor in return for all the kindness and love he has lavished on you. Eight weeks is not a long time to work on a project that means so much to him. Do as he asks, and see how proficient you can be at the task.

Woman, 30, Saved

artificial respiration. Mrs. Benson Dewar, of 77 Parkhill Rd., assisted.

Two 16-year-old fishermen made the startling discovery that a woman was in the Otonabee River. Both frankly admitted they were "scared."

Delbert Outwater, of 164¼ Dublin St., and Courtney Craymer of 613 Union St., had been doing some night fishing from the first span of the Parkhill Road bridge. About 11.15 p.m. they decided to stop for a while and string a fish they had just caught—a small pickerel.

"We were just walking behind the washrooms at Inverlea when we thought we heard a faint scream and a splashing noise," Craymer said. "It was coming from the water near the shore but it was dark and we couldn't see.

"We both ran down to the beach and I shone my flashlight out onto the water. There she was, floating just a little way out from shore. She was floating on her back and her face was clear of the water.

"I guess we were just scared. We ran for help and got Mr. Hicks."

Miss Panter has been ill for a number of years.

600 X-Rays Taken

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — Mobile X-ray equipment of the Ontario Department of Health took about 600 X-rays of workers in the town Tuesday. Examined were industrial workers, restaurant employees and meat handlers. The operation was carried out in conjunction with the Durham and Northumberland Tuberculosis Association.

Lawn Bowler Dies Suddenly

BRANTFORD (CP)—J.M. Littler died last night after suffering a heart seizure during a lawn bowling tournament at the nearby Paris Lawn Bowling Club.

He collapsed after finishing an extra-end contest with J.W. Kirkland and Myra Hymmen of Kitchener. Paired with Mrs. W.E. Belyea of Paris, he had finished fifth in mixed doubles.

Monday he and Bill Bell of Brantford won berths in the eastern section finals.

He was a past president of the Dufferin Lawn Bowling Club, vice-chairman of district three of the provincial Lawn Bowling Association and a director of the Brant Curling Club.

Smuggled Nylons Three Jailed

WINCHESTER, Hampshire, England (Reuters)—Three men were sentenced to prison terms today for their part in a smuggling ring which illegally imported 16,500 pairs of nylon stockings from the U.S. in 2½ years.

Two stewards aboard the liner Queen Elizabeth hid the nylons in passengers' trunks, removing them just before the ship docked in Southampton. Other members of the ring smuggled the stockings through customs.

Sentenced today were Alfred Miller, 43, one of the leaders, two years; Leonard Harris, 51, 18 months, and Nathan Mercado 51, one year.

Daley Holding Session To Try Ending Strike

ST. CATHARINES — (CP) — A meeting will be held in Labor Minister Daley's office in Toronto tomorrow in an effort to settle the strike of 81 production workers of the engineering tool and forgings plant here.

Members of the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) called the strike a month ago after the company refused to accept an arbitration board's recommendation of a 10-cent hourly wage increase, a 42½-hour week and one additional paid statutory holiday.

Says Past Prosecutions Not Very Successful

TORONTO (CP)—Attorney-General Porter of Ontario said today past prosecutions of charges of publishing obscene literature in Ontario have been unsuccessful.

Commenting on a suggestion by Justice Minister Garson that the present federal law be tested in the courts before it is termed unenforceable, Mr. Porter said:

"So far the courts have held that the cases submitted did not come within the province of the law."

Mr. Porter suggested that any prosecutions to determine the adequacy of the law should be launched by federal authorities.

58 U.S. Thunderjets Finish Big Flight

TOKYO (AP)—Fifty-eight United States Thunderjets darted down onto Yokota air force base near Tokyo today, completing the biggest mass jet overwater flight in history—10,895 miles across the U.S. and the Pacific Ocean from Turner air force base, Albany, GA.

Fifty-nine were due but one exploded yesterday over Iwo Jima, south of Japan, killing the pilot.

Trans-Canada Applies For Sault Airfield

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—A trans-Canada Air Lines link between this city and Ottawa and Montreal, through Sudbury and North Bay, may be operating by mid-1953.

G.R. McGregor, T.C.A. president said in an interview yesterday his line has applied to the Transport Department for an addition to the R.C.A.F. field under construction at Sudbury. With extra runways and lighting, T.C.A. could operate from that field.

Timmins may also be brought into the proposed link.

MISSING SCIENTIST — Albert Clark Reed, who worked in secret aeronautical research at California Institute of Technology, has been missing since July 7 and is being sought by the FBI. His wife said she believes he met with foul play at the hands of foreign agents.

British Parliament Decides To Leave 'Red' Dean Alone

By PHIL CLARKE

LONDON (AP)—The "Red" dean of Canterbury drew angry attacks in Parliament yesterday for his pro-Communist activities, but speakers in both houses agreed he couldn't be ousted just for speaking his mind as a British citizen.

Attorney-General Lionel Heald "still has under consideration whether in any other respect the dean has rendered himself amenable to British law," said the lord chancellor, Lord Simons.

Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons "free speech carries with it the evil of all the foolish, unpleasant venomous things that are said, but on the whole we would rather lump (endure) them than do away with them."

RULES OUT DEMANDS

Churchill ruled out demands for setting up a tribunal to investigate the 78-year-old dean, Dr. Hewlett Johnson. The dean has been in hot water since he returned from the Orient last week with what he said was evidence to back up Communist charges that the United States was using germ warfare.

The Prime Minister said establishing the tribunal would, in the opinion of the government, "invest the activities of the Dean of Canterbury with an importence they do not deserve."

The Dean's superior in the Church of England, the Archbishop of Canterbury, addressed the House of Lords in the same vein. The archbishop, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, said the dean was a nuisance and "a thorn in our side," but he violated no law and could not be dismissed from his job as administrator of the cathedral because of expressing pro-Communist views.

ENDURED WITH PATIENCE

The archbishop, a member of the Lords, said [illegible] that the dean "has to be endured with such patience as we can command unless and until he breaks some law, ecclesiastical or civil, or becomes a menace to public safety."

He appealed to the Lords: "Let us help each other by sharing this liability between us, believing it is a small price to pay to keep unblurred the freedom of speech which is a vital concern to the church and the nation." . . .

The archbishop said the dean could be removed by the church for "unbecoming conduct," but not if such conduct was a question of social or political opinion or activities.

Sailor Ignores Warning Dies From Gas Fumes

HALIFAX (CP)—The body of LS. George D. Manly of Georgetown, British Guiana, who died Saturday from cyanide poisoning, was sent yesterday to his parents in Toronto for burial.

The naval rating entered his rooming house for his bathing suit, ignoring exterminators' warnings that cyanide gas was being pumped into the building, and collapsed a few feet inside the doorway.

Lt.-Col. J. R. Dunlop Appointed Director

OTTAWA (CP)—Lt.-Co. J.R. Dunlop, 44, Ottawa, will become director of the army's electrical and mechanical engineering branch in September and will be promoted colonel, it was announced today. He will succeed Col. C.R. Boehm, 47, of Ottawa, who is going to the National Defence College.

Lt.-Col. Dunlop is commanding the R.C.E.M.E. Corps school at Barriefield.

Recover Youth's Body From Cornwall Canal

CORNWALL (CP)—The body of Fernand Racine, 19, of Montreal, was recovered yesterday from the old Cornwall canal about two hours after he suffered a cramp and drowned.

Racine and a friend, Paul Boileau, 20, of St. Hubert, Que., were hitch-hiking from Montreal to Toronto in search of work when they decided to cool off with a swim across the canal.

A Different Thing

BRISTOL, England (AP)—Two-year-old Roderick Downs is used to his family's Alsatian dogs. So when he found himself in front of the wolves' cage at the zoo yesterday, he stretched a friendly hand through the bars. The wolves snapped a tip off a finger. Roderick, not realizing just what had happened, ran off, exclaiming, "naughty bow-wow."

Four Die In Fire

VANCOUVER (CP)—Word reached here yesterday of the death of four persons last Thursday in a fire on the Kyuquot Indian reserve on the west coast of Vancouver Island. Mrs. Mabel Peters, 21, and her two children, Dominic, 18 months, and Lucy Susie, seven months, were burned to death. Gertrude Johnson, 12, a neighbor, died later.

U. Church Moderator Assigned Army Duty

HALIFAX (CP)—Rt. Rev. C.M. Nicholson, moderator of the United Church of Canada and a colonel in the reserve army, has been assigned temporary duty in Europe army officials announced today.

He will serve in the United Kingdom and with Soldiers of the 27th Infantry Brigade in Germany.

Peach, Pear Crops Lighter Than In 1951

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Peach and pear crops in the Niagara district will be lighter than last year's due to lack of rain, growers said today.

Rain would improve the size and quality of the crop but now is too late to bring the yield up to last season's.

The grape crop, thriving in the hot, dry weather, is expected to be heavier than last season.

City Officials Watch Smoke

WELLAND (CP)—City officials have turned smoke-watchers.

Council received complaints that some lake freighters plying the Welland Canal were giving off too much smoke.

J.H. Ramsay, superintending engineer on the canal, said he will take the complaints up with the ship owners if council supplies the names of the offending vessels.

Council last night authorized civic officials to keep an eye on the busy waterway and jot down the names of ships with what they consider excessive smoke.

Jailed 2 Extra Years For Escaping At Guelph

GUELPH (CP)—Bruce Barton, 18, of Kingston, today was sentenced to two years in penitentiary for escaping from Guelph reformatory. He was one of five men who broke away from a work party June 17 and the last of the group to be recaptured.

In addition to the prison sentence Barton must serve the remaining 42 months of his reformatory term in penitentiary.

OBITUARIES

JOSEPH ADRIAN BROOKS

Joseph Adrian Brooks, two-month-old son of Romuald A. Brooks and the former Mary Nelson of Centralia and formerly of Peterborough, died Tuesday in a London hospital.

Surviving besides his parents are one sister, Gail 6, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. James Nelson, Peterborough.

Burial took place today in St. Mary's cemetery, Young's Point.

ARTHUR THOMAS GARNER

Arthur Thomas Garner, 647 Reid St., died suddenly Monday in Sunnybrook Hospital, Toronto.

Mr. Garner was born in Manchester, England, son of the late Thomas Garner and Sarah Turner, and has lived in Peterborough since 1919. Formerly he lived in Belleville and England.

A veteran of the First World War, Mr. Garner served with the 39th Battalion and has received full disability pension since his discharge in 1919.

He was a member of Park St. Baptist Church.

Besides his wife, the former Minnie Parrot, he leaves two daughters, Mrs. M. Cook (Marie), Toronto, Mrs. P. Nicholson (Shirley), Peterborough, and one son, Lorne, Peterborough.

The funeral will be held Thursday at 2 p.m., from the Nisbett funeral home. The Rev. H. G. Douglas, of Knox United Church, will conduct the service. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

Supt. Contradicts Testimony In Investigation

WINDSOR (CP)—The medical superintendent of East Windsor hospital yesterday contradicted testimony given before a provincial government investigating commission that he took $903.32 from a hospital fund and did not return it.

Dr. P.J.G. Morgan told a public inquiry into the affairs of the 350-bed hospital for incurables that the money was paid him as a reimbursement for expenditures made in connection with a building fund drive.

He was commenting on statements made earlier to the commission by Mrs. Marie Fontaine, hospital bookkeeper, who said that Dr. Morgan was given a $903.32 hospital cheque to cover personal cheques of his own made out to the hospital. The personal cheques had been drawn to cover borrowings from hospital funds.

Dr. Morgan described the building fund drive which raised $30,000 in 1945 and involved the hiring of two organizers and the setting up of an office. He produced the $903.20 cheque voucher on which was written: "Recovery of expenses re building drive."

Commission officials said yesterday that more than 500,000 words of testimony have been taken down during the inquiry, now in its eighth week.

Dies From Shock

VIENNA (Reuters)—A year-old boy died from shock yesterday near Rohrendorf, lower Austria, after he was knocked down by the draft from a passing diesel train.

SLAIN ON CAMPUS — Pretty Eileen Fahay, 20, a secretary at Columbia University in New York, was shot to death on the campus a few minutes after arriving at her job. Her slayer was unidentified.

Says Steel Settlement Could Come This Week

NEW YORK (AP)—A settlement of the steel strike could come this week if top officials of the United Steelworkers Union could agree among themselves, the Iron Age, national metal working weekly, said today.

The basis for settlement, it said, would be an industry compromise offer of union security.

The Iron Age said Philip Murray, president of the big C.I.O. unions personally rejected the compromise offer last weekend. But, it declared, other union officials favored acceptance of the plan, which goes a long way toward meeting their demands for union security.

Given Medal For War Work

TORONTO (CP)—Frits des Tombe received his medal in the home of the Netherlands consul here, L.G.N.W. Rovensloot this week—at least two years behind schedule.

Capt. des Tombe was in charge of a small reconnaissance party in 1940 when German parachutists struck at the Waalhaven airport outside Rotterdam. A piece of shrapnel put his gun out of commission but he continued fighting until separated from his own men. He came across a group of infantry, reorganized them and took several German prisoners before he himself was captured.

He was freed when Holland capitulated to the German forces and slipped into the underground movement. By the end of the war he was directing 800 fully-armed men in North Holland. Later, he was liaison officer between the Dutch government and Canadian troops under Brig. Earl Suttie.

After being demobilized in 1948 he worked for 18 months in France before being sent to Indonesia.

By this time the Dutch government decided to award him the Bronze Cross for conspicuous gallantry. Government officials were unable to catch up with the world traveller until he settled down in Toronto to work for a soap company.

It Was Hot, Too

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Marjorie Steel, 30, and Wilfred Grignon, 34, were given suspended sentences when they appeared in court yesterday charged with throwing a 65-pound coal stove at their landlady in their suburban New Toronto home. Police said the stove was filled with red hot coals.

Approve Royal Budget

LONDON (CP)—A Labor demand that the Royal Family's budget be investigated at 10-year intervals was voted down in the Commons last night 249 to 224. The Commons then approved a new yearly budget of 475,000 pounds for the Queen and her family.

Milk Ban In Effect

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Milk Control Board ban on sales of vitamixed milk in Ontario went into effect yesterday. The low-priced milk, a low butterfat product reinforced by vitamins, was regarded by the board as being in the "patent medicine class."

Police Foil Attempt Seize Mandalay Airport

RANGOON, Burma (Reuters)—Burmese police patrols have foiled a Communist rebel attempt to seize Mandalay airport in central Burma, it was reported today.

Armed with machine-guns, the rebels attacked the airport from two directions yesterday, but patrols engaged them in a gun battle. The patrols held off the attack until the arrival of army reinforcements.

Child Saved

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A surgeon waited at the bedside for five hours for Margaret Myrons, 33, to die so that he might enable her unborn child to live. The child was born by Caesarian section a minute after the mother died, the hospital announced yesterday. The child was a healthy five-pound, two-ounce girl. Mrs. Myrons was admitted unconscious and dying from streptococci meningitis.

Indian Leader To Be Jailed

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters)—Dr. Y.M. Dadoo, South African Indian leader, today was sentenced to six months' hard labor for violating the union's Suppression of Communism Act.

Like two others sentenced yesterday, he will appeal. All three have been freed on bail.

Dadoo, president of the South African Indian Congress which champions the right of South Africa's large Indian population, was one of the first of several persons recently "named" under the [illegible]

A person so named is forbidden to attend gatherings other than those of an educational, social or religious nature.

Dadoo, defied the ban to address a public meeting here June 5. He said today he and his colleagues will fight laws they consider bad or unjust by every legitimate means.

Those sentenced yesterday on similar charges were Emil Solomon Sachs, a veteran trade unionist, and Moses Kotane, an executive member of the African National Congress. Sachs drew six months, Kotane four.

Jet Fighter Crashes R.A.F. Pilot Killed

LONDON (AP)—An R.A.F. jet fighter crashed today, killing its pilot. It was the 12th such mishap to R.A.F. jets since June 1.

Today's casualty was a Meteor jet flying in a training formation over Yorkshire. The plane touched another in the formation and plunged into a wheat field.

No Jobless In Quebec

MONTREAL (CP)—A spokesman of the Unemployment Commission said yesterday the number of jobless immigrants in Quebec is almost negligible. He said a situation of some months ago which caused hunger strikes in immigrant hostels is over and jobs could now be found for many more persons willing to work as domestics, farm labor and in skilled trades.

Privy Council Allows Winnipeg To Try Again For Taxes From CPR

LONDON (CP)—The judicial committee of the privy council ruled yesterday that the City of Winnipeg may make another attempt to collect about $500,000 a year in taxes from the Canadian Pacific Railroad.

The committee gave the city permission to appeal a 1951 decision of the Supreme Court of Canada exempting the C.P.R. from paying a business tax on its property in Winnipeg.

The point in question was an 1881 agreement between the city and the C.P.R. exempting the railroad [illegible] ever from paying taxes on its property there.

The Supreme Court agreed with the Manitoba Court of King's Bench that the 1881 agreement freed the C.P.R. from taxes. It knocked down a finding of the Manitoba Court of Appeals which had ruled that the exemption did not apply to business taxes or to that area of the city not incorporated when the 1881 agreement was passed. This area includes some C.P.R. shops.

Both the railroad and the city appealed the finding of the Manitoba Court of Appeals to the Supreme Court of Canada, which upheld the company. The Supreme Court decision ruled that the C.P.R. did not have to pay business taxes on C.P.R. property, property and business taxes on a railway and hotel, and on property outside the limits specified in the city charter before 1881.

The case reached the Privy Council because it had begun before the [illegible] Court of Canada was made the country's highest tribunal. Previously the final forum was the Privy Council.

Not Satisfied Man's Death Just Suicide

KINGSTON— (CP)— Police said last night they are continuing an investigation into the death of William Calhoun, 30, of Toronto, despite an announcement by Dr. M. J. Morison, Frontenac county coroner, that Calhoun died of self-inflicted wounds.

Calhoun's body was found in a ditch here Monday with several horizontal slashes across his chest.

Crown Attorney T. J. Rigney denied earlier reports that he was satisfied Calhoun killed himself.

"I have formed no opinion of this very odd case," he said, "and I won't do so until I have received all the reports from those investigating the case."

Dr. Morison's decision was based on a report from Dr. W. D. Hay, pathologist, who examined the body.

Dr. Morrison said there were 11 wounds in Calhoun's body, all within a circumscribed area four inches by three inches on the left side of the chest. Only one, he said, penetrated the heart.

Job Same In Korea, But Many New Faces

By BILL BOSS

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA (CP).—The job in Korea is the same. But new faces are getting it done.

The order of battle still reads "25th Canadian Infantry Brigade Group." But, apart from the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, which arrived last October and November, it's a different outfit from the one that was here three months ago.

Different in officers and men—but the same in assignment and performance.

Since last Nov. 27, the job here has been a nerve-wearing constant watch against enemy incursion, and the patrolling of no man's land.

Periodically it also means sitting and taking artillery and mortar pastings the like of which were unheard of a year ago.

STAFF CHANGES

During the last three months Brig. M. P. Bobert has relieved Brig. J. M. Rockingham as commander while the Royal Canadian Regiment, the Royal 22nd Regiment and the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery have moved in their first-line teams.

Lord Strathcona's Horse has replaced "C" Squadron with "A" Squadron and there has been similar rotation among the service units completing the brigade group.

The R.C.R. has introduced a new note.

Lt. Col. Peter Bingham, commanding officer, decided to use a wrinkle he learned in Burma during the Second World War. He sent his men out on 'jitter" patrols.

"They take bugles, bells, whistles and their firearms," he says, "and they creep up close to the enemy positions."

"Up there they start a little firing, make the odd noise, gradually build the clatter up to a crescendo. Then the leader shouts 'charge," but instead the men retire a little and watch.

REVEAL POSITIONS

"The object is to give the enemy the jitters. Then the unnerved Communists fire their weapons, thus revealing their positions.

"On these we call down artillery and mortar. Jitter patrols have been very successful and usually we have two out every night."

Bingham personally runs all patrols from his command post. Every R.C.R. officer has had at least three patrols, and most men have done five. Current classic is one led by Lieut. A. S. Peterson of Montreal.

Said Bingham "The plan Peterson worked out was carried through to the minute. They advanced 900 yards in 13 minutes. Twenty minutes after starting out they were engaging the enemy at the top. A known four Chinese were killed including one by Peterson. They took one prisoner, who tried to escape and was killed, but they brought back his credentials.

"They came back in just a shade over the allotted hour. That man Peterson must have ice in his veins." Peterson now is second-in-command of "D" Company.

HISTORIC LIAISON

More than usually close co-operation exists between the R.C.R. and the R.C.H.A.

"A" Battery of the R.C.H.A. has supported the R.C.R. in every operation it has fought since 1885.

Currently commanded by Capt. Bob Davidson of West Kildonan, Man., the battery last month was presented with the R.C.R.'s crest, with permission to wear it on its vehicles. The privilege is restricted to Davidson's battery.

The Vandoos and the Patricias have patrolled just as actively.

But the Patricias have chalked up another record.

By June 30 the battalion had been 293 days in the line—believed a record in the history of Commonwealth armies.

NO LETUP

The battalion relieved the 2nd Patricias Nov. 5. Certain elements had been committed with the 2nd Battalion previously. Since then, although the Brigade was technically in reserve between Jan. 19 and March 10, the Patricias have had an operational commitment without letup. During the reserve period they were in a blocking role, and the companies shared responsibility by taking turns in the trenches.

Early in May Lt.-Col. John Cameron of Ottawa became C.O., relieving Lt.-Col. Norman Wilson-Smith of Winnipeg, who became senior staff officer at Commonwealth Division headquarters.

A recent change at Brigade headquarters has been the appointment of Maj. Jack Leach of Kingston as brigade major, relieving Maj. Jim Allen of Calgary, returning to Canada for a surgical operation.

Expected shortly is Col. W. J. Moogk of Ottawa, the brigade's newly-appointed colonel in charge of administration. Like Bogert, he is a former R.C.R.

50-Year Fight Gives Danish Herds Clear TB. Bill

By GUY BETTANY

COPENHAGEN (Reuters)—As a result of a 50-year fight against tuberculosis in its dairy herds, Denmark now can guarantee that every drop of milk and every ounce of cheese it sells are from cows completely free from bovine T.B.

This record, which Danish authorities believe is unequalled by any other country, has been achieved through painstaking and persistent effort by the Danish farming industry with the advice of bacteriologists and veterinary experts.

Bovine tuberculosis first appeared in Denmark about a century ago, brought in by imported cattle, and gradually spread over the whole country.

COMBINE IN CAMPAIGN

It was not until the close of the last century that a sustained effort was made to fight the disease, which had also infected many humans.

At first the fight was local, but soon the whole farming industry, backed by scientific authorities and legislation, combined in a large scale campaign to eradicate the disease.

Professor Bernhard Bang, of the Royal Danish Veterinary College in Copenhagen, laid down the basic principles on which the campaign was planned:

They were use of the tuberculin tests to discover the infected animals; isolation of healthy cattle to protect them from infection; and weeding out sick animals.

When the drive was launched, 80 per cent of all Danish herds were regarded as tubercular.

Before 1932, the number of tuberculin-tested herds was less than 1,000. During that year it went up to nearly 2,500, but there were about 200,000 herds in the country.

COMPULSORY TEST

Then, a register of attested herds was opened by the Federation of Danish Dairy Associations and the Ministry of Agriculture ruled that as soon as 90 per cent of the herds in any area were free from tuberculosis, the remaining herds must be subjected to compulsory tuberculin testing and all infected cows destroyed. From November 1934 to May 1951, 318,000 infected cows were slaughtered under this provision.

During the war, between 1940, when Denmark was occupied by the Germans, and 1945, the percentage of herds completely free from tuberculosis increased from 25.4 to 84.7.

After April 1943 the owners of unattested herds were paid lower prices for their milk.

In May, 1952, the Ministry of Agriculture issued an order effective June 1, that dairies using the national trade mark for butter and cheese must receive their milk only from herds completely free from tuberculosis.—

Canada Reduced To Fourth Place In Trade Report

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada, once the third largest among the trading countries of the world, has slipped to fourth position although her business is booming. The answer to the paradox lies in the recovery of war-shattered France and Germany, aided to their feet through the aid program of the world's No. 1 trader, the United States. Third place was taken over in 1951 by France. And West Germany now is in fifth position close behind Canada.

The Bureau of Statistics, in its annual review of foreign trade for last year, said yesterday, however, that in relation to population Canada's world trade is greater than that of the three leaders, The United States, Great Britain and France. But it is less than the trade of Hong Kong or New Zealand on that basis.

The Bureau, quoting statistics compiled by the International Monetary Fund and adjusted to U.S. dollar value to account for currency differences, gave this picture of world trade for last year:

U.S. LEADS

The United States led with exports of $15,034,000,000 and imports of $12,439,000,000; United Kingdom second with $7,580,000,000 and $10,954,000,000; France third with $4,225,00,000 and $4,591,000,00.

Canada's exports for the year totalled $4,045,000,000 and imports $4,240,000,000 followed by the federal Republic of Germany with $3,473,000,000 and $3,506,000,000.

The Bureau said the outstanding change in the Canadian picture was the sharp increase in imports which were 29 per cent above the 1950 figure. It said higher prices contributed to this record value but the volume of imports also was 12 per cent above that of 1950 and 11 per cent above the previous peak year of 1947.

The export side of the picture also set a record, rising sharply in the second half of the year. Their value was almost 26 per cent above that of 1950 and their volume was 11 per cent above the 1950 level and about four per cent up from the previous record peacetime year of 1948.

Attlee Faces New Threat On German Split

LONDON (AP)—Labor voted in a stormy private meeting yesterday to oppose immediate British ratification of the West's new peace contract with Western Germany.

But the issue splintered Labor forces and threatened the party leadership of former Prime Minister Attlee.

Attlee's resolution on Western Germany was carried by only six votes after a session of about 150 Labor members.

Fiery left-winger Aneurin Bevan, critic of Attlee on many party issues, gained substantial support for a stronger resolution opposing ratification of the contract.

SHARP DIVISION

The six-vote margin for Attlee was one of the sharpest party divisions in months. It reflected the bitter struggle now under way in Labor ranks between Attlee's moderates and Bevan's left-wingers.

Attlee's resolution said "ratification of the contractual agreements by the United Kingdom is inopportune."

Labor now is bound to oppose ratification in Parliament when the issue is debated in the next 10 days.

Order 3 Men Reinstated

WINDSOR (CP)—Three Ford of Canada employees whose dismissals last Dec. 3 helped touch off the 12-day December Ford strike are ordered reinstated in an arbitration report made public today by company officials.

David Watson and John F. Hanlan, stock department employees and stewards of Local 200, the United Auto Workers (C. I. O.-C.C.L.) are ordered reinstated with 30-day suspensions. Ernest Ash is ordered reinstated as of Dec. 3.

The firings of 26 men on that date for alleged leadership of wildcat work stoppages is thought to have been the cause of the December strike. Today's three reinstatements brings to nine the number so far ordered in connection with the 26 dismissals. Seven discharges have been confirmed and 10 cases are now being heard.

Plane Crashes Into House

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A light plane, taking off in a soupy fog, crashed into a house today. The sheriff's office said four bodies were taken from the plane.

The house was unoccupied. It was set afire, and a neighboring home was damaged by flying debris.

It was the second instance in as many days of a plane hitting a house in this area. A navy pilot was killed late yesterday when his disabled jet hit a Santa Ana home whose occupants were out shopping.

Today's crash took place as the craft left Northrop airport.

French Red Leader Says War Not Necessary

PARIS (AP)—A notebook found on Jacques Duclos, France's No. 1 Communist, sets forth the Red leader's views that "war is neither inevitable nor necessary," the independent newspaper Le Figaro said today.

Le Figaro said the Duclos notebook was found on him when he was arrested May 28 during Communist-led riots against Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, whom the Reds called "general Microbe" in a propaganda campaign against alleged germ warfare in Korea. Duclos has been released from jail but the notebook has not been returned.

The writings admitted the French Communist party is on the decline, and one party leader was disclosed to have proposed even that the Reds work against overtime pay because it makes labor satisfied.

In Le Figaro's 10-column text of Duclos' jottings between April 7 and May 26, were these extracts:

"Third world war would end in a victory for us (Communists), but would involve immense sacrifices. The road of peace, then, is the road chosen by the working class to reach socialism."

5-Cent Cone May Return

OTTAWA (CP)—Possibility of a return to the five-cent ice cream cone was indicated today with the announcement of new standards lowering the minimum butterfat content of ice cream.

Cone prices now vary, selling in many places at 10 cents, and the nickel cone has become a rarity. Under new regulations, butterfat content which previously was 11 per cent for fruit ice cream and 13 per cent for plain, may be lowered to 10 per cent.

The new standards, along with certain regulations covering cheese and dry skimmed milk, were announced by the Agriculture Department.

The ice cream changes were recommended by the National Dairy Council.

W.K. St. John, executive secretary of the council, stressed that the 10 per cent is a minimum content, and that Canadians will still be able to get high-butterfat ice cream. The new standard, he added, is the same as that in the United States, which consumes more of the delicacy per capita than any country in the world.

The regulations also established at six months a period of validity for a Cheddar cheese grade certificate and set standards of composition for Swiss and Gouda cheese.

Mossadegh Resigns As Premier

Shah Asks Parliament To Choose New Leader For Iran

TEHRAN —(AP)— Premier Mossadegh, arch-priest of Iranian nationalism, resigned today and Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi asked the lower House of Parliament to choose a new government head.

The 72-year-old Premier's resignation was believed due to Parliament's failure to vote him powers to govern absolutely by decree for six months. He had said this was necessary to solve Iran's acute economic crisis.

Mossadegh's resignation was reported unofficially earlier today and later confirmed by an official of the lower house (Majlis), who said it was announced at a closed session of Parliament today by court minister Hussein Ala.

"SICK IN BED"

Mossadegh, himself, was reported at his home "sick in bed."

The veteran nationalists who steered his country through the nationalization of the billion-dollar British-operated oil industry, resigned July 5 when the new Iranian Parliament took office. He said, however, he would accept reappointment.

The Majlis immediately approved his re-installation. The Senate balked, however, and grudgingly approved only after the Shah intervened.

Mossadegh then demanded Parliament grant him unlimited powers for six months in the field of economics, finance, government personnel and banking.

The aging nationalist leader first took office 14 months ago.

He threw himself in the forefront of the campaign to nationalize the giant British-operated oil industry. Parliament voted the nationalization in May, 1951.

Pick Committee To Study Lake

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Governor Thomas Dewey of New York today appointed a committee to help federal and international agencies find a solution to the high-water level of Lake Ontario.

Dewey said he appointed the seven-member group "in order to co-ordinate the efforts and interests of state agencies and so that the residents of affected areas may be represented by a single state agency."

Dewey said "the problem is not easy of solution" because the state does not have jurisdiction over the water levels of the lake.

Owners of property on the New York State shore of the lake have protested repeatedly that the high water level was causing millions of dollars of damage.

U.S. Rocket Ship Travels At 1,238 Miles Per Hour

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The hottest plane in the free world, the D-558-2 Skyrocket, holds a speed record of 1,238 miles an hour, the United States Navy has announced. And the hottest test pilot, Bill Bridgeman, says zooming at that speed is "no different than flying 750 miles per hour."

The real kick comes, Bridgeman said in an exclusive interview last night, when the rocket-propelled Hummingbird runs out of power at a record altitude of 79,494 feet and swoops down 15 miles for a dead-stick landing on the desert.

MARKS CONFIRMED

Both the speed and altitude marks were confirmed by Navy Secretary Dan A. Kimball. Bridgeman flew the Douglas-built rocket ship to unprecedented heights last Aug. 7 and set the speed record Aug. 15.

The navy previously admitted only that the research plane had "climbed at 1,000 miles an hour."

Bridgeman said, the 40-foot ship rammed smoothly through the sonic barrier—which is reached at about 660 miles an hour at 35,000 feet and above. In pressurized suit and cockpit, Bridgeman says he was "not especially conscious of speed."

"You notice the high speed only when you make a mistake," the ex-navy bomber pilot said. "Then she really jumps and gets hard to control."

The record speed was made in level flight after the Skyrocket had reached the apex of her climb

WORST MOMENT

The moment that sends "your guts into your shoes," Bridgeman said, comes when the last of the four rockets used by the plane loses its thrust.

Bridgeman lands without power at 160 miles per hour. (The average jet plane lands at 110 m.p.h.) The entire flight, from the moment of release from the bottom of the B-29 to the landing, takes only 11 to 16 minutes.

The official world speed record is 670.981 miles an hour, set in 1948 by a North American F-86.

This is the first official announcement of a speed record beyond the sonic barrier.

The altitude record erases a mark of 72,394 feet attained in 1935 by U.S. army captains Orville Anderson and Albert Stevens in a balloon over Rapid City, S.D.

The Skyrocket is launched from a B-29 mother ship at about 30,000 feet. It has a turbo-jet engine with a rocket engine for the additional thrust to move into supersonic flight, and has wings swept back 35 degress.

It is 40 feet long and has a wingspread of 25 feet and weighs about 15,000 pounds.

Admits Shooting First Person Seen At College

NEW YORK (CP)—A 30-year-old R.C.A.F. and U.S.A.F. veteran of Boston confessed today he killed a Columbia university employee Monday because he was angry over rejection of his scientific theories.

Bayard Peakes was arrested by police in Boston and is being brought to New York for questioning in connection with last Monday's slaying of pretty 18-year-old Eileen Fahey.

Boston police said Peakes, who had been given a mental discharge from the U.S. air force, told them he just "wanted to kill someone" because he was enraged at the refusal of the American Physical Society to accept a thesis he had submitted on physics and electronics.

He described it as a "formula to preserve mankind."

Miss Fahey, a bookkeeper, was shot to death at her desk in the American Physical Society office on the campus as she read a letter from her fiance, Pte. Ronald Leo in Korea.

Leo, granted a 30-day leave, is flying here to attend Miss Fahey's funeral Saturday.

Boston Police Captain Francis Wilson said Peakes told of purchasing a .22 calibre pistol last June "with the intent of shooting someone."

Peakes, a Boston packinghouse worker, was arrested early today in Boston.

Miss Fahey "just happened to be the first person I met in the office," Peakes was quoted as saying.

Peakes told them he bought the pistol as he brooded over failure of the society to answer his letters on his theories of electronics.

Investigators said Peakes' only actual contact with electronics was when he was enrolled briefly in a physics course at Northeastern University, Boston, in 1946. They said he left by request because of eccentricities.

Peakes told police he joined the R.C.A.F. in 1942 and served in the European invasion. He said he was wounded in Belgium and invalided to a hospital in England. Upon discharge he joined the U.S. forces, serving until 1945.

True said Peakes had not been considered dangerous and had no police record.

Shots, Clubs Touch Off Que. Violence

Squads of Policemen Battle Crowd In Election Rioting

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec's rough-and-tumble political scene last night blossomed into violence at the climax of voting in a hotly-contested though one-sided general election.

Montreal and Levis, Que., where the Liberals gained five seats from the victorious Union Nationale, were the trouble centres. Shots were fired and clubs and bottles swung in Montreal committee rooms.

The mayor of Levis and the defeated Union Nationale candidate for that district today prevailed upon a mob of more than 500 rioters to disperse and go home peacefully.

FIVE-HOUR DEMONSTRATION

The rioters staged a five-hour demonstration early this morning near the home of Raymond Belanger, new Liberal member for Levis.

During the rioting windows were smashed, automobiles overturned and damaged, and a bonfire made of automobile tires. But police said Mr. Belanger's home itself was not threatened.

Mr. Belanger defeated the former member of the Legislature, Albert Samson, Union Nationale, by 77 votes in Levis in yesterday's Quebec general election.

Earlier Police Chief Leonard Arsenault had called for troops to help his 15-man force disperse the mob.

But no troops came because an order from the province's attorney-general, Premier Duplessis, was needed to bring them out. Mr. Duplessis was at home in Three Rivers, Que., where he was re-elected yesterday.

SQUAD SENT

A 50-man provincial police squad was sent from Quebec City just across the St. Lawrence River, but the crowd had broken up by the time they arrived.

75 Injured In Train Crash

NEW YORK (AP)—A rush-hour subway rolled backwards down a grade into a train behind it yesterday, knocking hundreds of screaming and panicky passengers to the floor.

At least 75 persons, by police count, were taken to hospitals.

Disaster squads hurried to the Fulton Street station in downtown Manhattan to aid the passengers, tossed into a human tangle below ground in sweltering 90-degree temperatures.

Lights on the trains stayed on.

An express train pulled out of the station at Fulton Street.

A local was moving up to its place at the station to load its own passengers.

For some unexplained reason, the express lost power as it moved up a grade outside the station and rolled backward into the local.

Liberal Strength Almost Tripled In Hectic Voting

QUEBEC (CP)—Premier Duplessis today launched his Union Nationale government into its third consecutive term of office after a provincial election almost tripled meagre Liberal strength. The Premier, a colorful figure in Quebec politics for the last quarter-century, led his party back to the 92-seat Legislature with a majority of 44, a drop of 28 from his record-breaking majority of 72 in 1948. The result of yesterday's election—Quebec's 24th since Confederation—compared with that of 1948:

| | 1952 | 1948 |
|---|---|---|
| U.N. | 68 | 82 |
| Lib. | 23 | 8 |
| Ind. | 1 | 1 |
| Nat. | 0 | 1 |
| Total | 92 | 92 |

VOTING TURBULENT

Mr. Duplessis' victory came after a turbulent campaign climaxed by election-day violence. Revolver shots were fired in Montreal during one of a series of clashes. Twenty-seven men were arrested in Verdun for carrying sawed-off baseball bats. Trouble was reported in other parts of the province.

In the voting, Liberal leader Georges Lapalme was defeated in his first bid for a seat in the Legislature. The 45-year-old lawyer, chosen two years ago to lead the Liberals, was defeated in Joliette by Hon. Antonio Barrette, Labor Minister in the last government.

George Marler, House leader for the Liberals for the last four years, was re-elected in Westmount-St. Georges.

While the votes still were being counted, another successful Liberal died, apparently of a heart attack. Henri Groulx, re-elected in Montreal-Outremont, collapsed and died while receiving congratulations on his victory. He was a former Quebec Health Minister.

COMMUNISTS TROUNCED

Mrs. Therese Casgrain, leader of the C.C.F. party, and her 22 supporters were defeated. Gui Caron, leader of the Communist Labor-Progressive party, and three candidates he had in the field were soundly beaten.

All but three of Mr. Duplessis' 20 Cabinet Ministers were re-elected. Defeated were three Ministers without portfolio—Hon. Marc Trudel in St. Maurice, Hon. Patrice Tardif in Frontenac and Hon. J. H. Delisle in Montreal St. Henry.

Centralia Flier Killed As Car Overturns

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A Centralia airman was killed and another hurt when their car overturned and burst into flame late last night half a mile south of Elginfield on No. 4 highway.

Identity of the dead man, who died after being taken to Victoria hospital by ambulance, was not released by authorities pending notification of next-of-kin.

The other, AC1 Albert Levesque, 18, was treated at St. Joseph's hospital for skull and arm lacerations. His condition was not serious.

Their car swept across to the side of the road, clipped off a telephone pole, turned around, upset and burst into flames, said Provincial Constable Larry Marshall.

Reds Transfer Dean, POW's To New Camps

MUNSAN, Korea (AP) — The Communists today said they have moved their prize captive, Maj.-Gen. William F. Dean, from a prisoner-of-war camp at the bomb-shattered capital of Pyongyang to another camp in North Korea. They did not give his new location.

The disclosure came in an exchange of letters by liaison officers of the United Nations Command and Communist truce teams.

The Red letter told of a large-scale prisoner transfer, involving Dean, former commander of the United States 24th infantry division, and numerous Korean captives.

DEMAND ACCOUNTING

The Allied communication demanded an accounting of 1,881 missing U.N. soliders believed in Communist stockades. The U.N. Command said it has been making the request since December with "totally unsatisfactory" results.

The Allies at the same time answered a similar request from the Communists for an accounting of 1,014 Allied-held prisoners with information on all but four captives.

Dean was captured in August, 1950. The Reds announced his transfer in notifying the U.N. that they have abolished three prisoner camps and set up six new ones. Four of the new ones are at or near Pyongyang, target of a destructive Allied air raid last week.

The disclosure came during the fourth day of a Communist-called recess in secret armistice negotiations at Panmunjom over the deadlocked issue of prisoner exchange. The five-man truce delegations are scheduled to reconvene tomorrow.

Wrong Data Given Tourists

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—Larry Morrison, tourist resort operator at Jellicoe 200 miles northeast of here today said tourists were being given false information about the condition of the Trans-Canada Highway linking Port Arthur and North Bay.

Mr. Morrison said tourists from eastern Ontario told him they had been "strongly advised" to take the United States route to the west coast.

He blamed the Toronto office of the Ontario Motor League, the Ottawa Tourist Bureau and service station operators in south-eastern Ontario in a letter to George Wardrope of Port Arthur, provincial M.P.

Mr. Wardrope said he would report the matter to Ottawa, the Ontario government and the Port Arthur Chamber of Commerce.

Has Hectic Schedule

Rockingham Now Has Eye On Paratrooper's Wings

By DOUGLAS HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Rocky wants to be a paratrooper.

That's one of the important current goals of Brig. John M. Rockingham, the husky, 42-year-old soldier who organized, trained and fought the original 25th Brigade through a year in Korea.

But it may be hard for him to work the necessary three weeks paratroop training into his six-month schedule before he leaves in late November for a year at Britain's Imperial Defence College. It's a hectic schedule.

As of now, he is director-general of military training, one of the four top men at army headquarters. He took the job over officially July 3 and almost immediately left his desk. He expects to be away most of the time between now and the early weeks of September.

TO VISIT BORDEN

He got back into Ottawa Tuesday night. He'll be away again Monday, heading for Camp Borden.

Before the summer is out, he wants to visit every regular-force unit in the country as well as every corps school such as the infantry school at Borden. He has already visited the Maritimes and Quebec and in the weeks ahead he aims to go across the country.

As the army's No. 1 training officer, his goal is simple. He wants to see that the army makes use of every week of good training weather. And he wants to "spread the doctrine," as he calls it, of the things he learned in Korea.

His plan is to go to the units, go out among the training men, watch what they are doing, offer advice, tell them whether he thinks they're doing things right.

Already, he says, a lot of the lessons of Korea have worked their way into army training. He finds his old 25th Brigade men wherever he goes and he thinks they bear the marks of Korea's year in their bearing, their maturity and their soldiering.

TO GO TO RIVERS

Once September comes, he hopes he can get out to Rivers, Man., to become a paratrooper as hundreds of his men have done. He wants to earn his wings because he feels an officer should be able to do anything he orders his men to do.

In late November, he and his wife and two teen-aged children will head for London and a year of study.

10 Families Homeless After Forest Fire

PRINCE GEORGE, B. C. (CP)—Ten families were made homeless and property damage of at least $50,000 was caused Tuesday when a forest fire swept a tiny settlement near Chief Lake, 15 miles north of here.

Women and children sought safety along the lake shore as the flames roared across 1,000 acres of woodlands into their homes.

Some 100 men, using 12 tractors, fought the flames for hours, attempting to divert them from the village, but they were forced to retreat. Today, however, the fire was reported under control.

Allies Have Answer To Deadly Red Jets

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Dismal weather blotted out the Korean air war today after United States fliers Wednesday reported shooting down one of the best Communist jet pilots they have met.

Fast U.S. Sabre jets were challenged in three dogfights over North Korea late Wednesday by a flight of 50 Russian-built MIGS, described as "the cream of the crop."

"The best MIG pilots I have seen up there yet," commented Capt. Arthur H. McCarthy, who was credited with destroying one of the Red jets.

The U.S. chief of naval operations meanwhile arrived in Korea with promise of a new Allied threat to the deadly Communist jets—faster carrier jets.

Admiral William L. Fechteler said the navy has two or three carrier jets in production which are equal to or better than the Communist MIG-15, and able to take off and land ona medium carrier.

Canadians Respected

No Doubt Now Who's Bossing POW Camps

KOJE ISLAND, Korea (CP)—There's no doubt who now is bossing Koje Island, scene recently of rioting by Communist prisoners of war.

Brig. M.P. Bogert, commander of the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade, and Lt.-Col. Ed. McNaughton, commander of the 1st Regiment, Royal Horse Artillery, visited Canadian troops on Koje just before they were recalled for duty with the brigade.

The things Bogert and McNaughton did and had happen to them would have been unthinkable on the rebellious prison island a month before.

They walked unarmed into the centre of the enclosure guarded by "B" Company of the 1st battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment and "B" Company of the King's Shropshire Light Infantry.

CHEERED BY P.O.W.s

The Chinese prisoners cheered them, delivered speeches of welcome and farewell, sang songs in their honor and decked the brigadier with a hand-made garland of paper flowers.

The Canadian commander was paid unstinted compliments by Brig. Haydon L. Boatner, the Island's commanding general, for the R.C.R. men's performance here under leadership of Maj. E. L. Cohen of Pembroke, Ont., and Ottawa.

Boatner said the discipline and bearing of Canadian and British soldiers had won the unreserved respect and admiration of the prisoners, who had started out by mocking their arms drill. The commonwealth troops' standards had not been matched by the rest of the island's soldiery, who nonetheless by normal standards were good.

At the Commonwealth enclosure, the prisoners had been advised of the impending visit and had arranged a sports program. As Cohen escorted the party through the gate, the prisoners' spokesman said in excellent English that it was a high honor to be inspected by "the Canadian General."

SONG OF WELCOME

Clapping and shouting continued as Bogert sat down to watch the events. Then the prisoners sang a non-Communist song of welcome. A compound leader presented a paper-flower garland on behalf of all the prisoners.

Bogert inspected the prisoners' quarters, kitchens and other compound installations, inquiring especially into the handling of rations. He was particularly concerned to see that controls existed to make sure compound leaders could not withhold food from their fellow-prisoners as a means of punishment.

An evidence of the R.C.R. influence on the Chinese was the amount of stonework going on in the laying out of paths, borders and compound signs.

Said the brigadier afterward: "The thing is extraordinary—and yet in the light of everything that's happened there, incredible. The whole spirit is good, and at the same time there's no question about who's running the show."

George Medal Awarded To Corporal

OTTAWA (CP)—A 27-year-old New Brunswick soldier is the first Canadian to win the George Medal in Korea.

The army announced today that L.Cpl. Sterling Lloyd Sinnott of Saint John has been awarded the G.M.—which recognizes acts "of outstanding bravery under non-operational circumstances"—for saving two companions from a fire when he could easily have escaped himself.

In going back to see that two companions got out of the third floor of a burning building, he himself was forced to jump from that height after suffering second-degree burns. In the fall he fractured his spine and now is in Montreal military hospital with paraplegia, an ailment which makes the legs useless.

11 PREVIOUS WINNERS

Only 12 Canadians have won the G.M. since it was created by the late King George VI. This is the first award of the medal to a Canadian since 1948.

L.Cpl. Sinnott was with the Medical Corps No. 25 field dressing station. While getting up the morning of March 16, he heard an explosion on the floor below—the second floor—of a building in Seoul. He ran down and saw that a space heater had exploded and flames were raging out of control.

He ran back to the third storey, told five men to get out, went back down to the second floor and then realized two other men were still on the floor above.

Although it was obvious he might be trapped, he ran back to the third floor, ordered one man out, awakened the other and ordered him to jump out the window since by that time there was no other way out. Then he jumped himself.

SURVEYING THE NORTHLAND—The R.C.A.F. plays a major role in the mapping and surveying of Canada's remote and sometimes inhospitable north country. Periodically teams are flown into these vast, wilderness-like areas to survey and plot by astronomical observations, locations which might have great strategic value to the country's defence. ## Lady Luck's Role Big In School Examinations

LONDON (CP)—You cannot stop "lady luck" playing a large part in school examinations.

Miss M. S. Smith, a Birmingham teacher, addressing the annual meeting of the Association of Headmistresses, said a toothache, an emotional upset or even a delayed train would each contribute to the possibility of a good scholar failing to make the grade in examinations.

Therefore, to satisfy the demand of employers for certificates or diplomas, educational institutes are holding their own school-leaving examinations—and others unable to reach the standards required for entry to the examinations.

Some of the delegates, however, referred to the possibility of a 'chaotic situation' developing from the increase in unofficial certificates and suggested it would be useless to have a national certificate if each school is going to produce its own "gilded document."

But the majority of the teachers supported a motion declaring against a system that would send girls into the world without some certificate of proficiency to show employers.

British Doctor Stays

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Dr. Frank Batley, the 31-year-old Briton who for the last 10 months has guided one of the most-closely watched anti-cancer battles of the 20th century with London's Cobalt Bomb, has decided to remain in Canada. Dr. Batley has been on loan from the Holt Radium Institute, Christie Hospital, Manchester, Eng.

Liberal Strength

Commenting on his party's success, Premier Duplessis said re-election meant the majority of the voters in Quebec approved the achievements of his government.

Farmers, he said, had manifested their "confidence in a regime that applies the principle that agriculture is the basis of enduring progress."

BLAMES 'MACHINE'

Mr. Lapalme, who resigned a seat in the Commons to lead the Quebec Liberals, congratulated his successful supporters.

It is difficult, said Mr. Lapalme, for the Liberals to "compete against the millions of the Union Nationale and their party machine."

He declined to discuss his plans for the immediate future.

Preliminary figures indicated a record vote was cast for the 236 candidates—92 Liberals, 91 Union Nationale, 23 C.C.F., four Labor-Progressives and 26 running under assorted banners. The list of eligible voters—largest in the province's history—totalled 2,248,546 compared with 2,036,576 in 1948.

With 8,506 of 10,627 polls counted, the Union Nationale had 49.4 per cent of the popular vote compared with 51 per cent of the total vote in 1948. The party vote totalled 654,394 compared with 773,746 in 1948.

LIBERAL VOTE UP

The Liberals had 45.9 per cent of the votes compared with 36.5 of the total vote in 1948. They polled 607,487 compared with 552,-359.

Votes for the C.C.F. increased to 14,318 from 9,126, or to 1.1 per cent from 0.5.

Part of the Liberal increase was attributed to the fact that l'Union des Electeurs, which contested all 92 ridings in 1948, did not enter any candidates this year.

Centre of interest in the campaign was Three Rivers constituency where Mr. Duplessis—holder of the seat for 25 years—was opposed by the city's fiery 43-year-old mayor J.A. Mongrain.

MAYOR SOUNDLY BEATEN

The 62-year-old premier polled 15,140 votes against 9,822 for Mr. Mongrain.

There also was particular interest in Richelieu where Gerard Cournoyer, who resigned his Liberal seat in the Commons to run provincially, defeated the Union Nationale representative for the constituency.

Sports fans watched Montreal Verdun where H. W. O'Connor, centre for New York Rangers in the National Hockey League, ran as a Union Nationale candidate. He placed second to Lionel Ross, Liberal member of the last Legislature.

Ticket Fixing Has Poor Show In New York

By SAUL PETT

NEW YORK (AP)—John M. Murtagh, New York City's chief magistrate, has nothing personal against motorists who think they can fix or ignore traffic tickets.

He just wants to make their lives as miserable as possible and thinks other cities ought to spread this type of misery. He has been conducting a continuing crusade on the matter in New York.

Murtagh fined one trucking firm a record-breaking $4,700 for ignoring [illegible] summonses. He fined one individual $2,200 and sentenced him to 30 days for trying to forget about 84 traffic tickets. The judge also had used his influence to go across state lines to get the licenses of out-of-state violators revoked.

FEW CONCEITS

The guy who tries to fix or forget a traffic ticket, Judge Murtagh thinks, is normal except for a few conceits.

"He has to think of himself above the common horde," the judge says. "He is too proud to submit to authority. His vanity demands special consideration. He is humiliated by paying a fine like anybody else.

With strait-laced judges and a complicated mechanical brain for processing tickets, Murtagh believes the fix is virtually impossible in New York City.

The mechanical brain consists of 39 machines rented by the city for $80,000 a year from International Business Machines, Inc. Judge Murtagh says New York is the only city in the United States using these machines.

REVENUE INCREASED

New York issues more than 1,000,000 traffic summonses a year. In the last month, revenue from fines was $60,000 higher than it was in the same month last year. Since the machines were installed early in 1950, the number of traffic violators who ignored summonses has dropped from 15 to 5 per cent.

Here's how it works:

A cop on the beat gives out a traffic ticket, on which there are two stubs. He keeps one, and turns the other into his precinct house. The precinct forwards the stub and the officer's affidavit to the traffic-summons control bureau by the next morning.

There the machines record, reproduce, and collate with other past offenses, the name and address of the violator, date of offense, license number, summons number, precinct involved, make of car and badge number of the ticket-issuing patrolman. The machines also automatically assign the case to a traffic court docket and later record in detail each disposition.

The machines handle about 5,500 tickets a day and, among other things, put the finger on missing summonses (all tickets carried by policemen are consecutively numbered), altered license numbers on tickets and judges with a tendency toward passing too many suspended sentences.

Shots, Clubs

Standing on the fender of Mayor Adelard Begin's tomato-stained automobile, Albert Sansom, the defeated Union Nationale member appealed to the crowd to be "reasonable and protect the good name of Levis" by going home. The crowd broke up at about 3 a.m. EDT.

PLAY HOSES ON MOB

Mr. Begin's earlier appeals had failed. Firemen had also unsuccessfully tried to break up the demonstration by playing their hoses on the mob.

Led by a small core of 30 agitators, the crowd at one time reached a peak of more than 1,200, Chief Arsenault said.

TROOPS CALLED OUT

Troops were called out to disperse a mob of 500 in Levis where Reynold Belanger gained a seat for the Liberals from the Union Nationale. Police turned fire hoses on the mob, demonstrating against the Liberal victory, but failed to disperse it.

Police called in the troops when they were unable to cope with the situation. The mob was armed with sticks, baseball bats and bottles.

At least 12 automobiles were overturned by the angry crowd, gathered in a vacant lot near the home of Mr. Belanger.

Shots punctuated the march of a group of men being conducted out of Three Rivers by police. No one was hurt. Supporters of Premier Duplessis staged a different kind of march with horns, rattles and toy flutes at news of Mr. Duplessis' personal victory over Mayor J. A. Mongrain, Liberal standard-bearer.

Two were sent to hospital in a wild melee in the Liberal committee rooms of Montreal Maisonneuve. Alcide Montpetit gained the seat for the Liberals from J. F. A. Gatien of the Union Nationale.

THREE SHOTS FIRED

A St. Michel man, 60, suffered serious facial cuts and a deep shoulder gash which police said was caused either by a broken bottle or one of three shots fired. Mrs. Leo Plante was struck by a swinging fire escape which was forced to the ground by people trying to escape from the Montpetit committee rooms.

The Montreal ridings of St. Ann and St. Louis, generally the most turbulent at election time, were the scenes of fist, chair, bottle and blackjack fights.

Windows were smashed, telephones ripped off walls and committee members threatened in St. Louis riding, which Liberal Dave Rochon retained. Mr. Rochon said he had to rescue his daughter when she was seized by an invading gang.

Another gang stole a ballot box from a St. Louis polling station. They poured ink over election documents and police closed the poll.

15 HURT IN RAID

In St. Ann, the story was similar. About 15 were slightly hurt in a gang raid on the committee rooms of Frank Hanley, victorious Independent, and George O'Reilly, Liberal. Police held four men who were armed with lead pipes and bottles.

A near-riot developed at a poll in Montreal Jeanne Mance which Liberal G. P. Noel won from the Union Nationale. About 120 persons demanded that police force a returning officer to register their vote although their names did not appear on the voters' list.

The returning officer said two sheets had been ripped from the list by a gang when the poll opened. He read them the Election Act which said they were not entitled to vote unless listed.

European Life Becoming "More Difficult, Uneasy"

OTTAWA (CP)—Life in Europe is much more difficult and uneasy than it was a year ago, says Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova of the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada. Prices have risen "out of all proportion to incomes."

The executive director of this relief organization for Europe's needy is on her annual visit overseas to see at first hand what is being done with Canadian contributions. In a letter to the U.S.C. headquarters she says:

"You witness the tremendous effort in each country to rebuild what has not yet been rebuilt since the end of hostilities. But, on the other hand, the armament race has begun against possible aggression."

In Greece, while the cost of living is high, the people appear to be better dressed than they were a year ago and there are many more goods in the stores.

In certain respects Greece has passed the emergency period and now is anxious to plan a more constructive program, says Dr. Hitschmanova. Welfare officials told her that projects to help raise the standard of living and provide work for the Greeks now have become as necessary as the emergency relief of food and clothing which Canada has been sending since the end of the war.

CROPS FAIL

However, Dr. Hitschmanova predicts that such projects must wait because another crop failure has struck the country.

Dr. Hitschmanova described the Eureka shop, opened in Athens this spring at the suggestion of Mrs. George L. Magann, wife of Canada's ambassador to Greece.

All goods are donated and all help, with the exception of one paid superior, is voluntary. In its first four weeks it showed a $5,000 profit, all for Greek relief.

Dr. Hitschmanova said the project needs clothing for adults and children, costume jewelry, ties, hand-bags—anything that is in good repair and "may appeal to those who need to buy but cannot afford the expensive prices in the Athens shops."

However, she said, shoes should not be sent because Canadian styles and fittings are not entirely suitable for Greece.

AGRICULTURAL LAND

The valley of the Mackenzie River north of the Arctic Circle has land with agricultural possibilities.

Will Allow All Chinese To Enter Games

HELSINKI (AP)—Both Red China and Natonal China were unexpectedly admitted to the Olympic Games today, but the Nationalists promptly announced they would not compete in protest against the "unlawful decision."

The action of the international Olympic committee in admitting two groups of athlets claiming to represent one country was unprecedented. The I.O.C. approved the question by a 33-20 vote.

Dr. Otto Mayer, Olympic chancellor, said that under no circumstances would East Germany be permitted to compete here. A strong West German team has been entered, however.

NO TEAM READY

Presumably the Red Chinese team is in Moscow or even closer, ready to come to Helsinki on short notice. There is no Nationalist team here.

Dr. Mayer said the committee acted on the fundamental principle of allowing the youth of the world to compete.

Mayer said that Red China, under the committee's ruling, could compete only in football, basketball and swimming because these are the only sports in which the Peking regime is recognized by international federations. He said the Nationalist China group is recognized in eight sports but did not name them.

Golds Show Strength On Toronto Market

TORONTO (CP)—Golds showed strength today in early afternoon stock market dealings but other sections made little headway.

Trading slowed from a dull opening. Volume for the first three hours was 936,000 shares.

Banks, liquors and refining oils led industrials upward with a majority of moderate gains. Textiles also strengthened but manufacturing companies and miscellaneous issues slipped.

Senior golds climbed slowly in sluggish trading. Leading junior producers and prospects, however, drew firm support. Holding companies were mixed.

Western oil leaders turned downward but lower-priced issues showed little trend. Britalta, Central-Leduc, Federated Petroleum and Gridoil traded lower.

Base metals declined slowly. Consolidated Smelters, Falconbridge, International Nickel and Quemont lost fractions.

The exchange's 1 p.m. indices showed industrials up .36 at 320.98, golds up .83 at 94.19, base metals down .13 at 191.80 and western oils down .67 at 139.27.

PEACEFUL AND PICTURESQUE Jasper Park Lodge, shown here in its serene Rocky Mountains setting, today lies in a smouldering mass of rubble after an early-morning check room fire spread like lightning through the $4,000,000 resort. Fifty-four luxurious cabins surrounding the main lodge including one named "Outlook" in which the late King George VI and Queen Elizabeth stayed during the 1939 Royal Tour, were saved. The Canadian National Railways, which operates the lodge, sent a special train from Edmonton to temporarily house the burned-out guests.

Parking Meters Foreign Banks

EDMONTON (CP) — Parking meters in Edmonton are serving as foreign exchange banks.

Coins from almost every corner of the world are represented in the daily collections. There are pieces from the United States, Holland, Arabia, Palestine, Belgium, Japan, France, Mexico, South America, Ireland, Hong Kong, Jamaica and India.

[illegible] the original owners believed when they put them in the meter.

Prize features of the collection are two gold coins. One is an 1863 minting of a 2.50 American gold piece, the other an English sovereign of 1907 vintage. The American gold coin, used in a meter as a penny, was quoted at a collector's price of $25 in 1930.

Besides coins, attendants find other "foreign" objects in the meters. A nickel was found with a piece of cord tied around it. The coin was notched so that the string would not slip when the motorist attempted to pull the nickel back after getting his hour on the meter.

"That sort of thing just doesn't work," one attendant said. "When those meters get the coins, they don't give them up."

Campbellford To Use Asphalt For Sidewalks

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) —A few years ago the local town council decided to try out black asphalt for resurfacing sidewalks and applied some of the material to a section of sidewalk on the west side of Front St. south. The new material seemed to work well, was much cheaper than cement, and when the new black appearance became weathered, it took on an appearance not unlike cement. It is much easier to apply than cement, and much smoother to walk on.

Satisfied with the earlier trials, the town now is going to have more of these sidewalks. This week, workmen will complete both sides of Front St. both north and south, and Bridge St. east.

To Study Donations

TORONTO (CP)—A Canada-wide study to find out how business firms go about giving the fund-raising campaigns will start next month. The study is sponsored by the Committee on Corporate giving in Canada, made up of a representative group of business executives. The survey will reveal the total per centage of corporate giving in relation to net sales before taxes.

National Road 1,250 Miles

PRETORIA (CP)—By the end of this year South Africa will have completed an arterial road stretching 1,250 miles from the Cape to the Rhodesian border at Beitbridge.

Over the whole route there will be only one untarred stretch of 15 miles over the Zoutpansberg Mountains in the northern Transvaal. The complete road represents one-quarter of South Africa's network of national roads, and is said to be of a standard comparable with any in the world.

Good progress also is being made on other main highways, notably the spectacular coastal road from Durban on the east coast to Capetown at the southern tip of the continent. Most of the work on this scenic link has already been done.

Britain To Export Some Arms To Spain

LONDON (Reuters)—The British government has decided to allow the export of certain arms to Spain, a Foreign Office spokesman said today.

But strict priority will be maintained for supplying Commonwealth and North Atlantic Treaty demands, the spokesman added.

Old Party Defeat In The West

The new method of voting in British Columbia and the rise of the Social Credit party in the Province have wiped out Liberals from the Legislative Assembly. In the last house there were 26 Liberals—a majority. In the new Legislature there will be only six. This is a major defeat for the Provincial Liberal party. The Conservatives fared as badly, dropping from 13 to 4.

* * *

Personalities of the candidates and special circumstances in individual ridings undoubtedly influenced the results, but we think that the chief reason for the Liberal defeat was the stigma of coalition. For ten years the Liberals and Conservatives had combined to form a coalition government. This was formed ostensibly as a war-time unity, but in fact was calculated to wipe out opposition, and prevent the rise of the C.C.F. party. With both older parties swallowing their differences in an attempt to thwart any opposition, they, Liberals and Conservatives, thought they were sure to save themselves and to hold a monopoly on government.

* * *

This ganging-up by the two older parties, excusable during the war, lost any patriotic appeal it had. After the war there was nothing left to justify coalition except the two parties' lust for office and their fear, if divided, of losing power. The voters have shown that they did not like this attempted monopoly. They rejected almost every candidate who had anything to do with the late coalition, including the Liberal Premier and Conservative leaders.

* * *

The Coalition lasted too long, far beyond any legitimate reason for having it. Internal bickerings developed; the Government was not united, except in fear of losing. Coalition members saw the handwriting on the wall last year; and the coalition was dissolved by the Liberal Premier, who, in the last months before the election, carried on a Liberal Government. It was too late. The Coalition of 26 Liberals and 13 Conservatives, holding all but nine seats, was torn to shreds months ago; the voters have now thrown even the shreds to the winds.

* * *

It is an unusual result of coalitions; and few parties ever survive one. British Columbia politicians must have known the risk they ran when they formed the Coalition; a risk they took to ward off the C.C.F. Opposition. It is ironic that not only have they not kept the Opposition party down: (the C.C.F. have 18 members elected to the new Legislature, only one less than the Social Credit); they themselves have been wiped out and a new and untried Provincial party has been reared in the gap.

* * *

It is unwise to generalize from Provincial election results to Federal probabilities; for instance, despite the power of Mr. Duplessis who held 82 of the 92 seats in the Quebec legislature — (the Liberals held only eight), Quebec voted solidly Liberal at the last Federal elections (1949); Conservatives secured only one seat, and the Duplessis party, Union Nationale, fielded no candidates. Yet the Provincial elections in Saskatchewan and British Columbia, in both of which Liberals and Conservatives lost ground, have a significance which the Federal Liberals and Conservatives cannot avoid noticing.

Post Haste

The Financial Post waxes wroth because one Saturday morning recently an army convoy was travelling along Number 11 highway, a busy road on week-ends since it leads to Muskoka. To make matters worse, all the slow-moving trucks were labelled "Explosives." Traffic was delayed for hours, so the Post says: "Surely if the army must move munitions or have week-end manoeuvres it could keep its vehicles off the main highways at least during the hours of heaviest traffic."

Has the Post in its haste forgotten that the army is an institution of national importance? Is not the Post one of the papers urging a bigger army, more defence spending, more military activity? Does it not know that soldiers, duty-bound, work even on week-ends while luckier people, like a writer on the Post can be driving for pleasure through Muskoka on a summer Saturday morning?

Far be it from us to discourage the army from working on week-ends, or even to encourage it to immobilize trucks for several hours so that holiday-makers' convenience can be served. We would criticize the convoy not on the fact that it was there, but because it apparently was not a good convoy. The army lays down rules for driving in convoy; one of them is that trucks must be kept uniformly spaced from each other to allow other traffic to get in and out and along. If traffic was delayed by the convoy, the drivers were not doing their spacing properly.

But it was probably good advertising for the army, as the Post admits; very cunning, too, of the authorities to have the trucks labelled "explosives." It commands people's respect; it impresses them—even Post holidayers—with the [illegible] with weapons.

Rifle Range Site

The extensive rifle range a mile east of the city limits along the old Norwood Road across the high level canal bridge is one of the few large areas on the periphery of Peterborough which has not been built over or pre-empted for building. It is the property of the Dominion Government and has been unused for years; its last intensive employment was during the war of 1914-18.

A thoughtful reader has suggested to us that the Rifle Range would make an excellent property for a new housing development. It is certainly worth keeping in mind, and if the need for it were adequately presented, there is little doubt that the Department of National Defence would release the range of a couple of hundred acres to a constituted municipal authority. At present the range is paying no taxes, and is preventing the building of houses there, which would add to the assessment and, when tenanted, would provide additional taxes for the Rifle Range school district. It was this school section and the one north of it which recently felt itself unable to build a good new school. If there were more ratepayers, more money would be available.

The east end of Peterborough has lagged in growth, compared with the south and west ends, and there has been no insatiable demand for housing sites east of the canal. Further, the rifle range property is rather far removed from city services, even though it is as close to the centre of the city as many south and west end developments. But the municipal authorities of the city and the county may at some future date consider the Rifle Range an invaluable suburban site. It is well to keep it in mind.

Russian Words

The most unusual bookseller's catalogue to reach us in several months came from a New York shop which calls itself the Four Continent Book Corporation. It begins with "Contemporary Literature," listing such books as YAZVITSKY, V: Ivan III—Gosudar Vseia Rusi—Kniga 1-2 Izd-vo Moskovskii Rabochii, 1951, 650 p. $1.75. We understand the last figures. Another one is: BARBIUS, Anri: Izbrannye Proizvedeniia. Vstupitelnaia Statiia V Nikolaeva. Moskva, 1950, 550 p. $1.50. We understand that the author is Henri Barbusse, and that the book was published in Moscow. Actually, the entire catalogue is of Russian books, and the firm issuing it calls itself "importers from the U.S.S.R."

Catalogues in foreign languages which one cannot read are entrancing. What richness lies waiting behind the undeciphered titles? What bibliophilic treasures and first editions may be had if one could only understand the catalogue! One gets an inkling that Number 182 "SATIRA i IUMOR v Poezii Naradov Sovetskogo Soiuza" deals with poetry, or may in fact be satiric and humorous verse. But how to assess its value beyond the list price of a dollar? We would be interested in seeing its three dollar map Politicheskaia Karta Europy. We bet that British territories will not be coloured red on that map.

It interests us that the list contains more than nine hundred titles, most of the books having been published in 1950 and 51; and we judge they are not all Communist propaganda. There is even one "De Luxe ed. Illustrated"—Shturm Berlina (Storm Over Berlin?), which is "Diaries and Memoirs of Fighters." The price is $4.85. Incidentally, this is the only book catalogued whose contents are explained in English. But $4.85 f.o.b. "our store" in N.Y. is rather a lot to pay. We shall take Shturm Berlina as read; and if we miss thereby a collector's bargain, well, we have missed it.

When first seeing the catalogue we wondered why the store had limited itself to "Four Continents." Why not six or seven? Now we wonder, in view of its stock being exclusively Russian, if it is not extending its name too far.

NOTES AND COMMENT

Talk of greatly augmenting and speeding up our defence facilities and operations not only frightens the Russians—it also scares the taxpayer.

The sixty-girl bagpipe band from the American midwest sailed this week for Scotland. The Montreal Star thinks that sixty girls from Iowa wanting to dedicate their holidays to this strange project makes a subject for sociologists or psychiatrists. Well, there's no law against bagpipes, and it is not illegal for Americans to go abroad to play them. But—magpies with bagpipes—perhaps Aberdonians are rightly suspicious.

U.S.S.R. MARRIAGE AND MORALS

Puritan Russia: No Pornography

By EDWARD CRANKSHAW

INSIDE RUSSIA one of the most effective aspects of the hate campaign against America arises from the striking contrast between the Soviet and American attitudes towards marriage, divorce and sex in general. The Kremlin makes much of this contrast and for once its propaganda has some truth [illegible]

I suppose [illegible] least notion of the serious and lasting damage done to the Western cause by such flashy aspects of the American way of life as Reno, with its easy divorces, films glamorizing gangster violence, the commercialism of sex appeal in a thousand and one ways.

✧ ✧ ✧

FOR THE SOVIET UNION is now a puritan country. Very few people who have never been there seem to have understood this. Most get their ideas from memories of the early days of the revolution when there was a breakaway from all conventional domestic morality in Russia. Divorce could be had for the asking; promiscuity was highly fashionable; abortion was legalised and was practised on a wide scale. But things have changed since Lenin's day in these as in most other matters; and although the Kremlin mocks at religion and the idea of an absolute moral standard, it has introduced a practical moral code, for reasons of its own, regulating marriage and sexual relations, which is almost as strict as any to be found in the world, and a great deal more priggish than most.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE NEW TREND got into its stride in 1936 with the law abolishing abortion. This law was important because before passing it, the Supreme Soviet proposed to take a plebiscite on it. But when the preliminary vote showed a clear majority against the law and for the continuance of legalised abortion, the plebiscite was quietly dropped, and the law was imposed, against the will of the people, by decree. Since then the people of the Soviet Union have not been consulted about any new measure contemplated by the Government.

THEY WERE CERTAINLY NOT consulted about the new divorce laws of 1944. Coming in the middle of the war, these attracted little attention outside the Soviet Union. But their effect was to make a divorce virtually impossible to obtain in the Soviet Union except by members of the new governing classes.

It is not so much the high cost of divorce, though this is prohibitive for many. In the early days either partner could obtain a divorce without even mentioning it to the other, by going along to the nearest registry office and planking down fifty roubles. Today it may cost two thousand roubles ($500) at the official exchange rate. This is often payable by both parties, plus lawyers' fees. But the real deterrent is the knowledge that the Kremlin frowns on divorce and has invented an obstructive procedure to limit it. In the first place the husband or wife desiring a divorce must put an advertisement in the local newspaper announcing this intention; and this is not the sort of thing people like doing.

✧ ✧ ✧

FURTHER, full details of all marriages and divorces have to be entered in the home passport which everyone must carry and show on every imaginable occasion, from changing a job to buying a railway ticket. So there can be no question of divorce being hushed up and forgotten; it follows the individual round wherever he goes, as long as he lives. And since divorce is officially disapproved of the implications of this are clear.

✧ ✧ ✧

ONCE THE preliminaries have been put in train the applicants must face the judges in the People's Court. Here husband and wife must appear together, and sole function of the judges or magistrates is to effect, if possible, a reconciliation. Quite severe moral pressures may be here applied. But even if both parties, having paid their money and submitted to a double public ordeal, still refuse to be reconciled, the People's Court can do nothing about it. All that it can do is register its failure to effect a reconciliation. This leaves the couple free to apply to a higher court for formal dissolution of marriage. Here, there are no written rules. Whether to grant a divorce or not is left entirely to the discretion of the judge of the higher court; and since, as already observed, the Communist Party frowns on divorce, the judge is apt to play for safety by refusing to grant one.

And so it may go on, through still higher courts, at still greater expense—with at the end of it all no guarantee of any divorce to show for the dreary expenditure of money and time. The fact that nobody knows what the law regards as reasonable grounds for divorce makes the whole affair an expensive gamble, heavily weighted against the individual applicants.

IN OTHER WORDS, as shown by the laws governing abortion and divorce, in twenty years the Soviet Union has swung from the extreme of legalised licence to the extreme of strictness. What one thinks of this development depends on what one thinks of the whole problem of marriage and divorce. There is no doubt at all that the majority of Russians dislike this new code, which, like all Soviet legislation of the past twenty years, is highly reactionary and in direct contradiction to the expressed ideals of the revolution. But though they may disapprove of the rigidity of the divorce laws there is no doubt at all that most Russians today would disapprove still more strongly of the looser aspects of the Western attitude towards sex, especially in America.

✧ ✧ ✧

AND HERE the more disreputable examples of the Western Press play into the Kremlin's hands by filling their columns with lurid accounts of the sort of life that hardly touches the great majority of decent people. It is easy for the Soviet propagandists to pretend that these stories reflect the whole of life in the West. And if, faced with the more garish Hollywood films, with strip tease, with banner headlines about the sex-life of film stars, and drug addicts, the apologists for the West tries to show that in fact these matters have really nothing to do with the way in which the vast majority lives, the obvious reply is "Then why do the films and the newspapers, the advertisements give so much space to it?"

✧ ✧ ✧

FOR THERE IS ONE THING about the Soviet Union which strikes the visitor most forcibly; and that is the total absence of pornography of any kind. There are no magazines full of pin-up girls; there are no leg-shows or strip-tease acts in the theatres; there is no glamourising of violence and sex on the films. This does not mean that the Russians are not as interested in sex as anybody else in the world; they are. But they prefer not to parade it. This is instinctive in them. Stalin, in his Cromwellian role, has developed this instinct and exploited it to strengthen the hand of the State against the individual. But the instinct exists in its own right. And all the Kremlin propagandists have to do to rub home their message of the degradation of life in the West is to point to the Western commercialisation of sex. This seems a pity.

"I YIELD THE FLOOR, WALTER"

Canada Needs No More Censorship

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

A FEATURE of the reports of the hearings of the Senate Committee on Salacious and Indecent Literature has been the suggestion, by various individuals and organizations, that a censorship board be established to say what books and other publications shall be sold in Canada. We believe the establishment of such a board would be entirely unwarranted, and it was gratifying to read, in Norman Campbell's column in The Toronto Telegram, that "it may be said categorically that the Dominion government will give no consideration to the idea of setting up a censorship board" for this purpose. Mr. Campbell usually writes authoritatively; it is to be hoped he did so on this occasion. This country already has more censorship over reading matter than it should have—and it needs no more legal protection against the sale of salacious and indecent literature than already exists.

We are quite sure that the members of the Senate Committee are genuinely concerned about the sale of such literature and sincerely desire to check or prevent it. That is a praiseworthy objective, but the machinery already exists for attaining it. An amendment to the Criminal Code last year allows any individual or organization to take action against a person or organization alleged to be selling salacious or indecent literature. There is a case pending at the moment, in which the City of Ottawa has charged a news company with this offence. Anyone who charges that such literature is being sold is thus provided with an opportunity to prevent sale and to seek punishment for the offender. That, in our opinion, affords all the legal protection that is necessary.

The chief concern of the committee, and of a number of witnesses appearing before it, is the sale of such literature to boys and girls. The son of one of these witnesses, while deploring the sale of obscene literature, said in effect that his upbringing made purchase unthinkable. There is a lesson in that for those who would advocate censorship. Sale of anything requires a purchaser, and children properly brought up are not likely to become purchasers of obscene literature. The most effective measures to promote and preserve the goodness and soundness of boys and girls may be taken in the home. These things cannot be created by prohibitory legislation; the reverse is sometimes the case, as it was with the prohibition of liquor in this Province, and with many a book that became a best-seller simply because it was prohibited.

We think that older generations of Canadians or a majority among them, will admit that they encountered some form of salaciousness, indecency or obscenity during their younger years. Smutty minds, the dirty story and salacious pictures are not innovations peculiar to this decade; we should hesitate to attempt to say how old they are, but in some form or other have been encountered by most people when younger—encountered and brushed aside. And the great majority were unharmed by the encounter. We predict the same general effect will be noted in today's boys and girls when they grow up to be men and women.

It should be clear that censorship is not the answer to this problem. It should be even more clear that censorship would only serve to create additional and far more serious problems. Once censorship is established in one field, the tendency to extend it into others would manifest itself, and it could come to be regarded as a proper function of government. We already have the spectacle of an anonymous censor in the Customs Department saying what books shall or shall not be allowed to come into Canada for Canadians to read. That is carrying censorship too far, and any attempt to carry it still farther should be resisted.

NOT BUSY

An official conducting a Government quiz called on Mrs. Jones and asked her what she did with herself all day.

"I keep the house clean, cook all the meals, wash the dishes, do all the laundry, mend the clothes and queue for food," she replied.

The official thanked her and made an entry in his notebook: "Mrs. Jones—Housewife—No occupation."

JUST OUT

Brown quarrelled with his wife and walked out of the house. He did not return for twelve years, and when he did so, walked in quite calmly as though nothing unsuual had happened.

"And where have you been?" his wife demanded, ominously.

"Out!" came the reply.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And Moses and the priests the Levites spake unto all Israel, saying, Take heed, and hearken, O Israel; this day thou art become the people of the Lord thy God. Thou shalt therefore obey the voice of the Lord thy God, and do his commandments and his statutes, which I command thee this day. (Deut. 27: 9, 10.)

✧ ✧ ✧

See, I have set before thee this day life and good, and death and evil; in that I command thee this day to love the Lord thy God, to walk in his ways, and to keep his commandments and his statutes and his judgements, that thou mayest live and multiply: and the Lord thy God shall bless thee in the land whither thou goest to possess it . . .

I call heaven and earth to record this day against you, that I have set before you life and death, blessing and cursing: therefore choose life, that both thou and thy seed may live: that thou mayest love the Lord thy God, and that thou mayest obey his voice, and that thou mayest cleave unto him: for he is thy life, and the length of thy days. (Deut. 30: 15, 16, 19, 20.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And, behold, one came and said unto him, Good Master, what good thing shall I do, that I may have eternal life? And he said unto him, Why callest thou me good? there is none good but one, that is, God: but if thou wilt enter into life, keep the commandments. (Matt. 19: 16, 17.)

Unconsidered Trifles

"Did you really cure your husband of sleepwalking by putting a tub of water beside his bed?"

"Yes, and I also cured myself of putting a tub of water beside his bed."

✧ ✧ ✧

"What is the plural of hippopotamus?" asked the teacher.

There was no answer from the class. "You try, Tommy," suggested the teacher.

Tommy stood up, "H-i-p-p-i-—. Oh, well, who'd want more than one, anyway?" he demanded.

Ahead Of The Joneses

(Saturday Night, Toronto)

A statistician in the Financial Post has made the discovery that the three commonest names in Canada do not include Jones. Smith and Brown are at the top, as everybody would naturally expect, but Wilson and Taylor are quite substantially more common than Jones which ranks fifth. The statistician's figures are corroborated by, if indeed they were not actually drawn from, the Toronto telephone directory; and we ought to add that in that directory the Smiths head the list without any aid whatever from the Smyths, the Smythes, the Smithes (yes, there is one), the Schmidts, the Smits, or any other variants, and the Browns come second without any help from the Brownes.

Our own theory about this unexpectedly poor showing on the part of the Joneses is that they are being worn out. For a generation or more everybody else has been busy trying to keep in the lead. This is an exhausting business, and is the kind of thing that would lead to smaller families, early mortality and even emigration, though not to the United States where keeping up with the Joneses is even more prevalent than here.

Without doing much statistical research ourselves we think that the Robinsons, the third member of the once famous trinity of Brown, Jones and Robinson, would come in sixth place. If the McDonalds and the Macdonalds would get together they could nose them out, but that of course is too much to expect or even to hope for.

Australia Forced To Cut Buying

SASKATOON (CP)—An unfavorable balance of trade with Canada has forced Australia to drastically curtail her purchase of Canadian products, James Payne, Australian trade commissioner to Western Canada, said here last night.

Mr. Payne arrived here yesterday for a three-day visit and conferences with businessmen and trade officials.

"Australia imported twice as much as she exported during the first six months of this year," Mr. Payne said. "Unfortunately the bulk of her imports were from the United Kingdom. So it now is necessary for her to reduce her purchases from all United Kingdom countries."

Mr. Payne said it is difficult to forecast the date of the removal of trade restrictions.

Ship Owner Pleased Case Finally Moves

LONDON (CP)—For nearly half his life-time, Evangelos Ambatielos, 68-year-old Greek ship-owner, has been waging a stubborn legal battle against the British government over a claim involving £1,000,000 damages.

Back in 1919, Ambatielos ordered nine ships worth £2,500,000 from British yards, He alleges that delays in delivery of the ships resulted in considerable financial loss.

He fought the case through several courts without reaching conclusive settlement.

But the veteran is still smiling. He has just received advice that the International Court of Justice at the Hague has ruled it is competent to decide whether Britain is obliged to submit the case to arbitration.

"You see," said Ambatielos, "things finally are moving."—

Enter Do-Si-Dos At Winter Fair

TORONTO (CP)—Square dancing will be an unusual feature of this year's Royal Winter Fair.

General Manager C. S. McKee announced a two-nation square dancing competition, with prizes totalling $1,100, will be held Nov. 19-22. Entries close Oct. 10.

It will be the first time for the Fair to feature square dancing, which saw a big popular revival since Queen Elizabeth, then Princess, danced in peasant costume at Rideau Hall, Ottawa, during her Canadian tour.

Sets of four men and four women from anywhere in Canada or the United States will be eligible for the contest. A junior division for dancers from nine to 17 will hold its contents Nov. 19.

The Fair will provide a competent caller, the orchestra and three independent judges, who will call the sets to dance any one of eight changes in the senior group or three in the junior class.

Aluminum Nails Can Save Repair Bills

By MR. FIX
Distributed by NEA Service

Although aluminum nails were once regarded merely as substitutes for iron nails when the latter were scarce, they have now earned a niche for themselves as special-purpose fasteners.

Aluminum nails are saving homeowners and builders the annual costs of puttying and repainting.

This is because the nailhead doesn't rust or produce the unsightly brown or reddish stains that are common on wood siding and trim from rusted nailheads.

It's a tedious job for the homeowner to correct this condition and an expensive one if a repairman does it. Every nail must be countersunk and covered with putty or glazing compound.

Moisture may still penetrate into the siding itself and cause the nails to rust. This weakens their holding power and may eventually result in "bleeding" through the paint.

It is one manufacturer's claim that the aluminum nail has all the holding power of the more common nails, but it won't rust. It is more expensive, but more economical in the long run, says the maker.

The same manufacturer says builders and owners can count on an average saving of $78 per house on longer paint life assured by aluminum nails.

These nails can be used on all siding and on almost all roofing—especially redwood, red cedar and asbestos.

In recent years the use of proper aluminum alloys has increased the strength of aluminum nails. In addition, etching—a process which roughens the surface of the nails microscopically and makes them absolute sterile, has increased holding power up to 100 per cent.

However, even aluminum nail manufacturers do not claim that these nails are suited to all purposes. But wherever water, moisture condensation, water-base paint, etc., are likely to reach the nail, the non-rusting aluminum nail can be employed effectively and economically, according to the largest manufacturer of aluminum nails.

In repairing and building garden furniture, porches and garages during the warm weather months, many home handymen are finding aluminum nails especially effective fasteners.

Among the most common types of aluminum nails are the sinker-head and casing-head wood siding nails, cedar shake and shingle nails, asbestos siding nails and roofing nails with neoprene washer and plain shank or screw grip.

Some are sold in vari-colored packages with the emphasis on the amount of nails required for particular jobs, rather than on the weight. This assures the buyer of the proper amount of nails and avoids wastage.

FIX-IT FORUM

Q.—Is there a putty made for use on metal?

A.—Yes, there is metal sash putty of two types. One for interior use and the other for use outside. They are not interchangeable.

Increased strength and holding power of most aluminum nails now on the market make them suitable, and desirable, for more uses.

Two Members Of Track Team Have Trouble With Leg Injuries

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HELSINKI (AP)—Canada's chances in track and field and rowing are studded with uncertainties as the hours tick off before the opening of the Olympic Games. Both sports start their 15-day program this weekend and the oarsmen are training desperately hard while the tracksters are tapering off.

Jim Lavery of Calgary and Shirley Eckel of Toronto are the biggest question marks on the track team. Both have leg injuries but their coaches are optimistic they'll be all right before 8,000 athletes from 69 countries start competition.

Lavery is the crux of the men's 400 and 1,600-metres relay team and he is posing a big problem with the recurrence of the old injury to his right leg. He will be scratched from the 400-metre relay and either Pete Sutton of Toronto or Bob Hutchinson of Victoria will take his place with Doug Clement and Jack Hutchins of Vancouver and Jack Carroll of Verdun, Que., in the other legs of the 1,600 relay.

OTHERS OKAY

The other members of the men's team are in good condition with Clement, centre of a controversy when he was chosen for the team, and Hutchins bearing down hard. Clement is anxious to show his critics he deserved a place on the team and is one of the hardest workers on the track.

The coaches figure Hutchins has a good chance to go through to the final in the 800. The Canadian will have tough opposition but is looked upon to finish fifth or sixth.

Apart from Miss Eckel's leg injury, the women tracksters are fit and rarin' to go.

Luella Law of Vancouver has been picked for the second leg of the 400-metre relay with Eleanor McKenzie, also of Vancouver, as anchor. The other two spots are still a toss-up among Miss Eckel, Tiny O'Halloran of Toronto and Rosella Thorne of Montreal.

Miss Eckel has not been over the hurdles this week and is causing some worry but officials are optimistic that she'll go all out today. Meanwhile, Alice Whitty of Vancouver is consistently high-jumping within a fraction of five feet, two inches, and Dawn Josephs of Victoria, without much difficulty, is going 18 feet in the broad-jump.

OARSMEN OUT

The Hamilton Leander Club's four-oared crew was out most of the day in its new boat and rapidly getting used to it. The Argonaut eight is still training in the shell lent by the Finnish club while other members of the team work around the clock to fix up the boat from Stockholm, borrowed to replace the one smashed in a North Atlantic storm en route from Canada.

Both the Leanders and the Argonauts have been held back considerably due to the lack of proper boats for training since their arrival and they'll do well to place in the first six during their events.

It was 9 p.m. curfew for the basketball team last night. They meet Egypt in a preliminary round this afternoon. If they win they'll be into the Olympic tournament proper, but if they lose it means at least one more game in the double elimination tournament.

Russian Star Wears Lipstick And Blushes

By WILL GRIMSLEY

HELSINKI (AP)—Nina Dumbadze, queen of the Russian track team, wears lipstick, paints her nails—and blushes.

She refuses to chew gum and she never heard of Babe Didrikson Zaharias.

The statuesque, good-looking daughter of the Ukraine, who can throw the discus 30 feet farther than any other woman, was the star of the show when a busload of Soviet athletes paid an unexpected visit to the American camp yesterday.

A dozen other Russian track and field stars were almost ignored as the crowd swarmed around Nina to chat through interpreters, take pictures and get autographs.

"You're not only a great athlete but you're damn good looking," said Gustavus T. Kirby of New York, president emeritus of the U.S. Olympic Committee.

Nina asked an interpreter what Kirby said. When the interpreter told her, she turned crimson and let out a high, tinkling laugh.

Clyde Littlefield, assistant track coach, offered her a piece of chewing gum. Nina refused.

"Don't you chew?" Littlefield asked. Nina said no.

Someone asked the Soviet athlete if she had heard of Babe Didrikson Zaharias.

"No, what does she do?" Nina asked.

Miss Dumbadze, who holds the women's discus record of 175 feet, one inch, is a tall, powerfully-built housewife of about 32. She is five feet 10 inches tall and weighs around 175.

IN FATHER'S SPIKESTEPS — Charley Moore, right, went to the Olympic Games a definite candidate for a new record in 400-meter hurdles 28 years after his father, Crip, sailed to Paris as a member of the United States team. The senior Moore, renowned at Pennsylvania State College, also was a hurdler. Junior competed for Cornell.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Soviet athletes in Helsinki for the Olympics stole a march on other nations this week when they offered a friendly hand to Canada, according to a CP dispatch. It says: "The Russians heard Canada's rowing shells were wrecked in a ship's storeroom during a North Atlantic storm and offered to fix things up. They said through an interpreter :'We are very sorry to hear about it and will do anything to help'. They had brought along spare single and double sculls and four and eight-oared shells. They offered them to the Canadian paddlers either for practise or for Olympic matches. Fair enough, eh? The Canucks turned down the offer with thanks.

Big Steve Oneschuk's lacrosse stay with St. Catharines was mighty short this semester. He played one game. Went out with the team at home Saturday when the Petes beat 'em, and the columnist there said he would not finish the season, adding: "Steve suffered a severe cut over the eye the first time he appeared on the crease and would have to miss the next few games because of that injury. With football workouts starting soon, Oneschuk feels that he would not be doing himself or the University of Toronto justice by continuing in lacrosse this summer." A tough break for the A's. Incidentally, U. of T. does not help pay tuition for athletes.

Those Hamilton Huskies

O.L.A. senior standing is plenty close in the upper brackets. Yesterday, Mimico was in front by just one game, having 26 points. Petes and Toronto were tied on their heels with 24 each, and Hamilton had 20. St. Catherines, Owen Sound and Fergus trail the field a piece back. Hamilton tackles the Timbermen here Friday night and a local loss would likely shunt the Thorpe team down to third slot just a game in front of the husky Hamiltonians. A Petes' win may well tie 'em for the top, depending on what the other clubs do the rest of the week in the hot race. It's a dogfight from here in, and Merv McKenzie and his cohorts from the Ambitious City will test Timbermen plenty. It rates a really hefty crowd.

Our senior baseballers were disappointed yesterday aft. when Kingston Monarchs sent word that they couldn't field their regular club, and asked for a postponement on the game billed for last eve. here. Seems seven of 'em work for the locomotive works there and the company had a rush order, so the fellows couldn't get time off. The Petes reluctantly agreed that they'd play it again rather than have the K's send a pickup squad of juniors, etc. But the Petes — Joe Stewart is taking over as manager-coach now — are hot and hoped to continue their winning streak to grab second spot in the C.O.B.L. Haven't word yet on when Kingston comes. The local are away twice next week.

Junior Ballsters Victors

Another win was racked up by the Young Petes last p.m. as they downed the intermediate Ontarios in Port Hope by a 6-1 count. This squad under Al Menzies and Shockey Mein has been coming right along lately and holds wins over Colborne, Lindsay and Port Hope, besides nearly dumping the leading Bowmanville bunch here in their last clash. Jerry Frizzelle pitched the win last p.m., with Mac McMartin finishing up nicely, as Gary Kearns, Johnny Cupoli and Don Bigford poled out two hits apiece off Harrison. Bigford blasted a triple in the seventh and then stole home. A good showing by the juniors. Port Hope plays them here next Monday.

Gord Campbell wrote last night in the Toronto Star: "'We're going to win the Mann Cup,' said Manager Don Holden confidently after the game with Peterborough, 'and I've got the players picked out we want to strengthen us for the final.' Funny thing about the whole senior setup in lacrosse is that every team seems to feel Hamilton Tigers are the gang to beat for all the loot. Don McPhail and playing-coach Bob Thorpe were agreed the fourth-place Tigers' vets are still getting into shape." Personally, we feel Mimico is the team the Timbermen have to beat out for the eastern crown this semester. But Holden figures the Yorks have it won now.

B'nai B'rith Wins

B'nai B'rith beat Salvation Army 14-6 last night in a Civic Softball League encounter. They counted two runs each in the first and sixth stanzas, and five apiece in the third and fourth. The losers were held to two runs in the fourth and four more in a belated seventh-inning drive. Six of them went down on strikes, but Wilfong hit a homer. Smith also clouted a homer. Teams:

Salvation Army — Parnall 2b, Brown p, Craig c, Braund lf, Slaughter cf, Parsons 3b, Jones ss, Wilfong rf, Ede 1b.

Don Gear and Len Caruso topped the Fergus scoring with two goals each.

Rochester Whips Royals 5-3, Third In Row

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Beat the big boys, they say, and the little ones will take care of themselves.

Failing in all other ways to overcome the season-long lead of Montreal Royals in the International League, Rochester Red Wings apparently have decided to try the direct approach.

The Wings whipped the little Dodgers for the third straight time last night, 5-3, behind the hurling of rookie George Condrick, although he needed help from Jack Crimian for the last two outs in the ninth.

Steve Bilko led their 12-hit attack against three Montreal pitchers with a double and two singles.

BIG 4TH WINS

Toronto Maple Leafs shut out Ottawa Athletics 5-0 behind the combined efforts of Duke Markell and Vic Lombardi. The latter got the win. Leafs scored all their runs in the fourth inning. During that stanza Charlie Bishop, Ottawa pitcher, was banished for arguing with umpire Joe Serafin.

Buffalo Bisons rolled to a 10-2 victory over Springfield Cubs after scoring six times in the fifth inning. Vern Fear was the victim of the barrage, which included home runs by Frank Carswell and Bill Tuttle. Hank Borowy went the distance for the winners.

The Syracuse-Baltimore game was rained out.

Davey Whips Basilio In Tough Bout

CHICAGO (CP)—Unbeaten Chuck Davey wiped out a blemish on his record last night by whipping Carmen Basilio in a blistering 10-round welterweight battle, but suffered enough damage to keep him out of the ring for the next two months.

The Detroit school teacher took a brutal beating about both eyes, despite the unanimous decision over the rugged Canastota, N.Y., belter who held him to a disputed draw in Syracuse, N.Y., two months ago.

This time, Davey gave a boxing lesson most of the way to Basilio, but when it was over, the winner looked as if he had been caught in a dark alley by an accurate bat-wielder.

Davey's white trunks looked like a slaughter-house apron from spurts of blood caused when the fast-finishing Basilio slashed open a cut near the left eye in the eighth round and a gaping slit on the right eye-lid in the ninth. Davey claimed he was butted in the ninth.

Basilio won the final two rounds and the patched-up Davey needed all of his boxing skill to avoid serious last-round trouble. The first round was even, the rest going to Davey.

It took three stitches to close Davey's right eye gash. Davey's manager, Hec Knowles, agreed Chuck needed at least a month properly to heal both eye wounds.

Another month of condition, he said, would follow before Davey could take on his next opponent.

Horse Drops Dead Jockey Suffers Injuries

VANCOUVER (CP)—Jockey Henry Matthews was taken to hospital last night after being thrown to the ground when his mount dropped dead at Lansdowne Race Track. Hospital authorities said his condition is "good."

Matthews was aboard Briar Pat in the fourth race when the gelding dropped dead at the head of the stretch. The seven-year-old chestnut, owned and trained by George Maltby, was running last when the accident occurred. It had one second in five races this year.

Quakers Triumph

Quakers defeated Marines 8-2 at Quaker Park last night in a neat fastball fixture in the Industrial League. They tallied three runs in the first frame, one in the third and two each in the fourth and seventh on nine hits, while booting four. Marines had seven hits and two miscues, scoring their runs in the ninth, when Broadhurst tripled. Byers of Quakers banged out his fourth homer in the last three games. Teams:

Marines—Gordonier, 1b; Downer, 3b; Plumpton, rf; Corrigan, cf; Halliday, 2b, p; Blakely, lf; Montgomery, lf; Broadhurst, ss; Mongraw, c; Doris, p; Morgan, 2b.

Young Petes Win Another Beating Port Hope, 6 To 1

The Peterborough juniors beat another intermediate team last evening in the Lakeshore Baseball League, trimming Port Hope Ontarios by a 6-1 score in Port Hope. They have recently beaten Colborne Dodgers twice and Lindsay Merchants once, as well as coming close on several other occasions. The Young Petes, piloted by Al Menzies and Shockey Mein, nearly upset the leading Bowmanville Roses here in their last start.

Port Hope plays the local squad here next Monday, and they play in Cobourg two nights later. The schedule winds up within two weeks, and the Peterborough pack will proceed into O.B.A. Junior A playdowns then.

FRIZZELLE WINS

Jerry Frizzelle started for the Young Petes last night with Mac McMartin finishing on the mound the former getting the win.

Harison hurled for the homesters. Port Hope was limited to seven hits and they booted two, while the winners bingled safe eight blows and fielded flawlessly.

Gary Kearns, Johnny Cupoli, and Don Bigford each had two hits in three times for the Young Petes in the seven-inning game, Bigford's bag including a hefty triple in the final inning, and he finished that off by stealing home. Douglas and Hotman led Port Hope with two for three each.

Bowmanville lead the league by a good margin, followed in order by Whitby, Lindsay, Cobourg, Colborne, Peterborough, and Port Hope.

Indians Miss Big Chance Bow To Yanks In Twin Bill

By RALPH RODEN, Associated Press Sports Writer

Yankee Stadium, graveyard of Cleveland pennant drives in the past, is haunting the Indians again. The Tribe startled the baseball world by winning their first three games there this year. This almost matched their victory total for the previous two seasons during which they managed to win only five of 17 games there.

But Cleveland's dreams of a happy hunting ground in the Stadium were rudely shattered yesterday. The Indians missed an opportunity virtually to tie the Yanks for first place by dropping both ends of a doubleheader, 8-7 in 10 innings and 7-4.

The long twin bill, started in the glaring sun and finished under the lights, was the key point of the five-game series which will be completed today with a twi-night doubleheader.

Early Wynn opened the series Tuesday night by pitching the Indians to a 7-3 victory. That cut the Yanks' American League lead to 2½ games. A sweep yesterday would have pulled the Indians to within a half-game, but instead the Indians were sent reeling 4½ games off the pace.

The Yanks were forced to come from behind to win the opener. Yogi Berra tied the score at 7-7 in the eighth inning with a two-run homer, his 20th of the season, and Hank Bauer broke it up by singling home rookie Kal Segrist from second base in the 10th.

Cleveland hopped on Johnny Sain for five runs in the third inning, two on a homer by pitcher Bob Lemon. Lemon was forced to retire after six innings because of the heat but Mickey Harris, Lou Brissie and Mike Garcia failed to protect his 6-4 lead.

The Yanks won the nightcap with a four-run rally in the seventh against Bob Feller. Gil McDougald's three-run homer was the big blow.

The defeats also endangered Cleveland's grip on second place as the third-place Boston Red Sox defeated Chicago White Sox 7-3 to move within a half-game of the Tribe.

Southpaw Bill Wight pitched Detroit Tigers to a 9-0 victory over Washington in the only other American League game. A twi-night doubleheader between Philadelphia and St. Louis was rained out.

Brooklyn maintained its five-game lead in the National League, downing Cincinnati 5-3, while the runner-up New York Giants eked out an 8-7 victory over St. Louis Cardinals in 10 innings. In other games, Philadelphia edged Pittsburgh 8-7 and Chicago tripped Boston 3-2 in 13 innings.

Three first-inning errors by Red catcher Andy Seminick helped the Dodgers score two runs and set a league record for most errors in one inning by a catcher.

U.S. Soccer Team Beaten By Italy

TAMPERE, Finland (AP)—Italy's soccer team yesterday booted United States kickers out of the 1952 Olympic Games before the main part of the Games had even started.

In the preliminary qualifying tournament, the Italians gave the lightly-regarded United States team an 8-0 beating. This eliminated the Americans from further competition although the 1952 Olympic Games won't begin officially until Saturday.

Leonard Leads Squad Of Nine To Break Par 72 On First Day

By FRASER MACDOUGALL

WINNIPEG (CP)—Canadian golfers, off to a running start yesterday in the $15,000 Canadian Open golf championship, have to show today whether they can stand the relentless pressure of tournament play.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver, for years this country's big hope for the national golf title United States players have dominated since 1915, led a squad of nine native shotmakers who broke par 72 on the first day of the 72-hole tournament.

Leonard shot a 66, a competitive record for the St. Charles Golf and Country Club, to share first place after the opening 18 holes with two U.S. invaders — Skee Riegel of Tulsa, Okla., and slight Johnny Palmer from Badin, N.C.

BACKS UP LEONARD

Henry Martell of Edmonton, 38-year-old former Canadian amateur champion, backed up Leonard with a 67, tying with Dick Mayer, a skilful tournament player from St. Petersburg, Fla. Each matched the old course record set three years ago by Wally Ulrich of Austin, Minn., who was four strokes off the pace yesterday with a 70.

A third Canadian broke 70—Lou Cumming of Toronto who carded a 69 with a hot 33 on the out nine. He shared his score bracket with five others, including Dutch Harrison who won the championship in 1949.

At 68 stood three Americans, two of them well known in Canada: Freddy Haas, Jr., who won the Canadian Amateur here on the St. Charles course in 1936; Smiley Quick, Pasadena, Calif., who won the Ontario Open title last year and Al Zimmerman of Portland, Ore.

FIELD BUNCHED

Within striking distance of the leaders in the wide-open field came 24 other players—nine with 70s and 15 with 71s—and six of them were Canadians.

One of them was the youngest professional in the tournament—blonde, crew-cut Buddy Loftus of the Moose Jaw Willowdale Club, a 22-year-old player who has earned his living at golf four four years. He shot a 70 despite a one-over-par 37 on the out nine.

Gordon Brydson of Toronto Mississagau peeled off a 70 and four Canadians carded 71s—Al Balding of Toronto Islington, Lloyd Tucker of Kitchener Rockway, Paul McGuire from Woodstock, Ont., and Bob Gray of Toronto Scarboro who blew a chance for a 68 by taking a seven on the par-four 18th.

Last Canadian to win the national Open title was Karl Keffer of Ottawa in 1914. Since then it has gone to the U.S. every year except 1946 when Bobby Locke of South Africa shot a record 268 to top the field.

Defending champion Jim Ferrier, with a chance to be the first man to win three Canadian Opens in a row, was in the 71 class. He complained about his late spot in the draw—he set out yesterday at 3:15 p.m. and was to go at 12:37 p.m. today—and said "this is my third and last trip up here."

The gallery of 3,500 to 4,000 persons, pulling hard for the native shooters, found plenty to cheer about in the Leonard and Martell rounds.

Leonard, whose putter was sour last week in the Canadian Professional Golfers Association championship, sank a 40-footer on the first green and from there he played faultless golf from tee to green. Once his tee shot got off the narrow fairways but he got out of trouble handily and finished with a card showing six birdies and 12 pars. Martell matched Leonard's birdie-production but went one stroke over par on one hole.

Marty Furgol, a U.S. tournament veteran from Lemont, Ill., quit on the 18th hole, when well over par. He broke his putter shaft in disgust on the eighth green after two three-putt greens in a row and threw the broken club up into a tree.

Tommy Bolt of Durham, N.C., nicknamed "Thunder Bolt" for displays of temper, stamped on his putter at the 13th and tried to throw it into the Assiniboine River on the 17th.

EASTERN CHAMPS — Harold Burrows (left) of Charlotteville, Va., beat Canada's Lorne Main for the Eastern Canada singles tennis championship at Quebec recently. The American also shared the mixed doubles with Montreal's Mrs. Hanna Sladek (right), and the men's doubles honors with Henri Rochon, of Montreal. Mrs. Sladek won the ladies' singles beating Toronto's Louise Brown. The new titleholder also holds the Czech and German titles, the Ontario and the Quebec championships.

Record Vote Reported Cast In Quebec

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec electors probably cast a record vote in yesterday's general elections. With 10 per cent of the polls still to report, the total was only 64,000 short of the record of 1,509,971 set in 1948.

In taking power for the third consecutive time, the Union Nationale party polled 50.2 per cent of the popular vote compared to 51 in 1948. Liberal candidates increased their percentage to 45.8 from 36.5 in 1948 when 9.5 per cent of the total went to Union des Electeurs candidates, not represented in this election.

With 1,446,771 votes counted, the party vote percentages were as follows, compared to the last two elections:

| | 1952 | 1948 | 1944 |
|---|---|---|---|
| UN | 50.2 | 51 | 38.2 |
| Lib. | 45.8 | 36.5 | 40 |
| UE | — | 9.5 | 1.2 |
| CCF | 1.1 | .5 | 2.8 |
| Others | 2.9 | 2.5 | 17.8 |

Here is The Canadian Press compilation, with all 92 seats decided, compared with the votes in the 1948 election (members elected in brackets):

| | 1952 | 1948 |
|---|---|---|
| UN | 726,860 (68) | 773,746 (82) |
| Lib. | 662,703 (23) | 552,359 (8) |
| UE | —— (—) | 140,050 (—) |
| CCF | 15,177 (—) | 9,176 (—) |
| Others | 42,031 (1) | 34,690 (2) |
| Totals | 1,446,771 | 1,509,971 (92) |

The above 1952 tabulation is incomplete with 9,508 of 10,627 polls.

Not So Good

WASHINGTON (AP)—The average United States family made more in 1951 than it did the year before—but it was worse off because rising prices and climbing taxes more than wiped out the gain in income. The Federal Reserve Board said yesterday its survey showed the average total income of families rose from $3,520 in 1950 to $3,840 in 1951. But consumer prices also went up, wiping out the income gain. And increased taxes tipped the scales against the average family.

Returns Home To Die

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—George Richardson, 78, left Toronto at the beginning of the month to return to the village of Stamford near here, where he had spent his boyhood days. He told friends he felt better as soon as he arrived. Yesterday he was found dead in a small cabin in which he had been allowed to sleep for the last two weeks.

Juice Averts Crash

LONDON (Reuters)—The pilot of an airliner carrying 29 passengers averted possible disaster last night by using four bottles of apple juice and a bottle of water. He found a leak in the hydraulic system and used the apple juice and water to keep up the pressure so that he could work the plane's undercarriage for an emergency landing.

First Elections

KARACHI, Pakistan (CP)—Women showed more interest than men in getting enrolled for elections next January in Sind Province, Pakistan. Nearly 1,500,000 persons, including 550,000 women, are eligible. It will be Sind's first election on the basis of the adult franchise.

8,000 Athletes Take Part In Olympics

HELSINKI (AP)—A record number of more than 8,000 athlete are competing in the Olympic Games here, the International Olympic Committee president, J. Sigfrid Edstrom, disclosed yesterday.

There is nearly twice the number of competitors, in the last Olympics in London in 1948 and 1,500 more than were expected here.

Edstrom praised as "perfect" the preparations of little Finland, with only 4,000,000 inhabitants, for handling this biggest of all Olympics.

There are 69 countries represented, compared with 59 in 1948.

11 Canadains Reach Second Stage Of Shoot

BISLEY, England (Reuters)—There will be 11 Canadians in the second stage of the Queen's Prize when 300 of the crack marksmen compete tomorrow for 100 places in the finals.

Nine are members of the official Canadian team, one is the team's armorer and the other an unattached competitor.

Last year's winner, Lieut. Gilmore Boa of Toronto, scored 95 in the first stage and failed to qualify.

Successful Canadians in the first stage included:

Lieut. Jim Boa of Toronto, 97; Wing Cmdr. J. A. Gordon of Ottawa, 99; Pte. G. W. J. Oakes of Hamilton, 98; Sqdn. Ldr. D. Reynolds of Ottawa, 97; Sgt. C. C. Wilson of Ottawa, 99; W. Strachan of Ottawa, 97 and armorer Sgt. W. J. Wood of Montreal, 100.

Improve Cenotaph

MILLBROOK — (ENS).—With the balance left when the Horticultural Society disbanded, and through the efforts of Herbert Kerr and Mrs. G. F. Harrington, a railing has been placed around the Cenotaph in front of the Town Hall. The councils of Millbrook Village and Cavan Township helped with contributions.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Bob Moran, president of the Argonaut Football Club, Toronto's entry in the Big Four league, says he has been advised by Calgary Stempeders that they will definitely not release Royal Copeland.

Moran said in Toronto yesterday he will force the issue by asking Copeland to sign an Argo playing certificate and then turn the matter over to the Canadian Rugby Union.

He reported:

"Calgary hasn't a leg to stand on. We have a letter dated June 19, 1952, which clearly states that Copeland had an automatic release clause in his contract."

The Stampeders have been seeking player and financial help from Toronto.

Copeland will be among the 65 players expected to turn out for Argos' first practice session tonight.

PIKE SIGNS AGAIN

Alf Pike, coach of Guelph Biltmores, 1952 Memorial Cup champions, signed another two-year contract with the junior A farm club of New York Rangers at Guelph yesterday.

Roy Mason, the team manager, said Pike's signing ended rumors that the ex-National Hockey League star would take a coaching position elsewhere.

Pike has coached the Biltmores for the last three seasons. The first year they won the Ontario Hockey Association junior A title and were forced out in post-season league playoffs the next. They won the Memorial Cup this spring.

LICENCE REVOKED

The New York State Racing Commission yesterday revoked the owners' licence of Louis Tufano on charges the New York contractor instructed his jockeys not to try and win with the horse Gondolier at Belmont Park May 12 and again May 29.

ROSEN HURT

Al Rosen, Cleveland's star third baseman, is playing despite a jammed right thumb and a painful bruise on his right foot that has slowed him to a walk. He hasn't had the foot X-rayed because, he said in New York yesterday, "the pictures might show a break and then I would have to go on the sidelines."

CALUMET WINS AGAIN

Calumet farm's champion filly, Real Delight, ridden by Jockey Eddie Arcaro, won the $46,050 Modesty Stakes by a nose at Chicago's Arlington Park yesterday to capture her seventh consecutive Stakes victory of the season.

4,500 FOR RICHARDS

Gordon Richards, Britain's greatest jockey, brought home two more winners yesterday to bring his lifetime total to 4,500. He has been riding more than 25 years.

TOPS GOLF PROS

Cary Middlecoff, the Memphis dentist who works where other dentists relax, on the fairways, has captured golf's money-winning lead from Jack Burke. Middlecoff's latest surge, official P.G.A. statistics show, raised his 1952 earnings to $13,506, topping Burke's $12,970. Burke had been the top cash-collector since late last winter.

FIGHT AFTERMATH

Arthur Wirtz Jr., executive vice-president of the Chicago Stadium Corporation, paid a $200 fine and $10 costs at Chicago yesterday on the city's complaint that he permitted overcrowding of the stadium during the Sugar Ray Robinson-Rocky Graziano fight April 16.

Remember When—

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Henry Armstrong, welterweight boxing champ, stopped Lew Jenkins, lightweight titleholder, in the sixth round of a scheduled 12-round non-title bout at New York 12 years ago tonight. Armstrong took a pasting in the first three rounds but weathered the storm to win when Jenkins couldn't come out of his corner for the seventh round.

Moscow Recalls Russian Attache

HELSINKI (Reuters)—The Russian Olympics attache here, Nikolai Kalinin, was recalled to Moscow after an argument with the western attaches and the games organizing committee, diplomatic circles said yesterday.

Earlier he had complained at a meeting between the committee and the foreign attaches that training facilities at the camp at Otaniemi, near Helsinki, arranged for the East European competitors, were inferior to those of other camps, particularly for runners and jumpers.

Warkworth Friends Shower Newlyweds

WARKWORTH (ENS)—A good sized crowd attended the shower held in Warkworth town hall for newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Howard Denike. Jack Atkinson was master of ceremonies, and a musical program was presented.

Mrs. Wilfred Sykes read an address to the couple, and Victor Morrow and Douglas Atkinson presented them with a mirror, a chesterfield pillow, and a purse of money.

IOWA SCOTS — There may be corn in Iowa, but there is nothing corny about the 60 members of the all-girl bagpipe band from the State University of Iowa who sailed from Montreal for Europe recently. The group, known as the Scottish Highlanders, has been looking forward to this trip for several years, and they have been working hard to bring their perforances up to perfection. William Adamson, leader of the group since 1937, was modest about their skill. "Of course, they are just amateurs, you know, and they are looking forward to learning all they can from the pipers in Scotland."

"Red" Dean Of Canterbury Renews Charges Of Germ Warfare By U.N. Fliers In China

LONDON (AP) — The "Red" Dean of Canterbury last night defiantly renewed his pro-Communist charges that United States airmen waged germ warfare in Korea.

Dr. Hewlett Johnson told more than 1,000 cheering admirers in a speech that he saw the evidence with his own eyes. He said "the Swiss Red Cross is not to be trusted" to investigate the germ charges.

The Swiss Red Cross, he added, "investigated Nazi concentration camps and said they were all right. In South Korea the Red Cross wear American uniforms."

The Dean addressed a meeting of the Britain-China-Friendship Association in a hall packed to the rafters with people shouting "long live the Dean." Many gave the Communist clenched-fist salute.

Outside the hall, other hundreds who couldn't get in chanted "we want the Dean." They half carried the 78-year-old clergyman to his car after he finished.

The Dean spoke only one day after he had been denounced in both Houses of Parliament as a Communist stooge and a threat to world peace.

His own superior, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury, told fellow members of the House of Lords that the Dean is a "public nuisance" and a "thorn in our side."

Several members of Parliament demanded Johnson's ouster, but Prime Minister Churchill and the Archbishop agreed that the Dean was protected by the right of free speech.

Several M.P.s questioned the Dean's sanity.

The Dean praised China as a "great surging land. It doesn't fear the future. It knows it can overcome germ warfare, devilish thing that it is."

Plan To Join Power Network France, Britain

LONDON (Reuters)—The British Electricity Authority yesterday approved in principle a proposal to hook up the electrical power networks of France and England and trade electricity between the two countries.

The Authority runs Britain's nationalized electricity industry. The plan still needs Parliamentary approval.

If the plan goes through, the west end of London may be lit from power stations in the French Alps; the boulevards of Paris may be illuminated by coal hacked from the British Midlands collieries.

An interim report approved yesterday was submitted by a joint committee of the British and French electricity corporations. It proposes to relay current under the English Channel through a submarine cable.

Peak consumption periods are different in the two countries. At breakfast time the French are preparing only a light meal of coffee and rolls, while Britons are grilling up a spread of sausages, herring, porridge and toast.

In the early evening, when British industry shuts down, the load is heaviest in France—elaborate dinners and shop lighting, as well as power for industry to make up for a long lunchtime shutdown.

It is expected to take at least another 18 months before work will start on the project and three years more before completion.

Police Discover Scout Knife

KINGSTON (CP)—Kingston police yesterday found a boy scout-type knife near the spot where William Calhoun's stabbed body was found Monday.

Dr. R. J. Morison, Frontenac county coroner, said the knife was hidden in grass alongside the highway and lay open.

It was taken to laboratories at Queen's University where an attempt will be made to determine whether it was the weapon used in the mystery death of Calhoun.

Young Actress Avoids Night Clubs

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Can a nice girl make the grade in the movies?

Ann Blythe, a girl any fellow could proudly take home to meet mother, is proof that virtue is its own reward—even in Hollywood.

This young and beautiful actress is one of the most talented and successful in the business. Yet her name is seldom mentioned in gossip columns.

Ann, it seems, spends most of her leisure time at church bazaars, a most unlikely hangout for gossip columnists. She has plenty of dates, like any other girl of 23, but so far nothing serious.

One of her steadiest beaux, Charles Fitzsimons, says a date with Ann usually entails dinner, a movie, with a chocolate soda afterwards.

NO PRUDE

Ann is not a prude about nightclubs.

"It's all right," she explains, "to go there to see some great artist perform. But to sit there in those dingy, smoke-filled rooms night after night is not my idea of fun."

Fitzsimons discloses something else about a date with Ann.

"Besides being one of the nicest girls I've ever met," says Fitzsimons, "she is surprisingly attentive when we talk."

Ann has three major pictures either just released or about to be. In "The World in His Arms," she plays a Russian countess who makes love to Gregory Peck; in "Sally and Saint Anne," she plays an 11-year-old girl, and in "One Minute to Zero," she plays a young war widow.

Last Of Fighter Jets Land At Jap Base

TOKYO (AP)—History's biggest trans-oceanic jet flight was completed at nearby Yokota air base yesterday when the last of 58 American F-84G Thunderjets landed from the United States.

By refuelling in the air over the long stretches, the fighter jets flew 10,895 miles with only seven landings. They took off from Albany, Ga., July 4.

'It is a significant achievement," said Gen. Otto Weyland, commander of U.S. Far East Air Forces, who greeted the flight. "The flight proves tactical airplanes can be moved to any part of the world at the drop of a hat."

Fifty-nine planes were expected but one exploded over Iwo Jima Tuesday, killing the pilot.

BITS OF ROCK and clouds of dust geyser upward as 320,000 lbs. of dynamite explode in a sandstone cliff at Buckhorn Wash, near Castle Dale, Utah. An area, extending about 4¼ miles in all directions from the TNT-filled caves, had been cleared of all animal life in preparation for the blast which will help to determine what type of air raid shelters will be required to combat the effects of atomic bombs. This photo was taken five air miles away from the gigantic explosion.

Murray Waits For Others To Make Move

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Philip Murray, president of the C.I.O. and the United Steelworkers Union, waited today for the White House or industry to take some step toward breaking the paralyzing dispute, now in its 46th day.

There has been no visible effort on either side to reach a settlement since Monday, when negotiations arranged by Presidential assistant John R. Steelman ended in deadlock.

A maze of rumors s ing up about possible secret settlement of the strike which has made idle more than 1,500,000 workers, but Murray brushed them all aside with:

"They are without foundation; that simply isn't so."

SOME DISAGREEMENT

Iron Age magazine, a trade journal, said Murray's rejection of the industry's compromise offer at the last peace talks did not meet with approval of his union lieutenants. But union officials said Iron Age's report is without foundation.

The issue of a union shop—which would require all workers to join the union—or some modified form of it appeared to be the big stumbling block in the path of a settlement. Murray wants compulsory membership, but the industry is holding out for union membership on a voluntary basis.

Murray has called the steelworkers 170-man wage policy committee to meet in Pittsburgh Monday. That committee makes all major union decisions.

Meanwhile the longest strike in steel history is costing the United States about $40,000,000 a day in lost wages and steel production alone.

In addition to the idle steelworkers there are nearly 1,000,000 breadwinners on furlough from industries that depend on steel for raw material.

Here Are Six Simple Ways To Clean Bass, Muskie

By CHAMBLISS PIERCE

There are more ways than one to skin a cat, and the some holds true for cleaning fish.

The object of most fishermen is to get the job done quickly, neatly and with a minimum loss of fish, knuckles and patience.

There is a series of pictures with this article which shows the major steps in preparing a fish. Doubtless, there will be some who disagree. I may alter the procedure myself, sometime, depending on the size of the fish or for some specific method of cooking out of the ordinary.

For average-size fish being prepared for the frying pan, however, I submit these directions with the hope that they will make the most distasteful part of fishing less of a chore.

This method does away with scaling, leaves a boneless fillet and by-passes the messy job of pulling fins, cutting off the head and disemboweling—all of which are needless phases of other operations.

1—Use a sharp knife. Cut the skin at the base of the skull and continue through along one side of the dorsal fin to the tail, just barely breaking the skin. Repeat this operation on the other side of the fin. From here on out, work on one side until finished.

2—Starting back at the original dinsertion, cut the skin downward behind the gill cover, then turn approximately 45 degrees toward the tail and continue the cut downward to the midsection. Continue the cut along the bottom of the tail. All of these cuts are only skin deep.

3—Slip the knife under the skin at the base of the skull, lifting up enough to get a firm grip on the skin between the thumb and blade. Grasp the fish firmly with the left hand, gripping the gill covers, and pull the skin toward the tail with the right hand, making the pull steady and close to the fish to prevent tearing.

4—With the skin off, retrace the original cuts, opening the flesh down to the back bone along the back and down to the ribs along the side. More specifically, follow the gill cover down to the lateral line. Then follow the lateral line to the back of the abdominal cavity and cut down to the midsection.

5—This shows the process of actually cutting the fillet away from the bones. Lay the blade flat against the back ribs and slice along the back bone in successive motions through to the tail.

6—This shows the fillet relation to the fish—no bones, a minimum of lost flesh, and no scaling. Repeat the operation on the opposite side and you will have used only three to five minutes in the entire operation after a few practice sessions.

This method is not recommended for trout or large fish, which I prefer baked. But for all sizes of bass or pan fish up to three pounds, I think it's the easiest way to clean a fish.

Now, all you need is something to work on.

TOBACCO CROP UP

Canadian-grown tobacco in 1951 had a farm value of $66,213,000 and the crop was almost 28 per cent larger than in 1950.

NO HOLDS BARRED—There is no easy way to clean fish, but these six steps show one method where the biggest problems are overcome.

Peace Rumors Sweep Japan

TOKYO (Reuters)—Peace rumors swept Japan today as truce negotiators in Korea prepared to meet again tomorrow after two possibly significant recesses called by the Communists.

Responding to the rumors, Japan's stock and money markets slumped. The market depression was based on the assumption that an armistice would cut United States buying from Japan and possibly bring on an industrial depression.

There was no official basis for the widespread belief that peace is on the way.

Japanese industrial sources said speculators were busy and were perhaps acting on information from Korean sources. Contractors who would be in line to undertake reconstruction of war-torn Korea were active.

Greek Archaeologists Find Queen's Tomb

ATHENS — (Reuters).— Greek archaeologists Wednesday reported the discovery of the tomb of Clytaemnestra, legendary Queen of Mycenae, who murdered her husband Agamemnon, brother-in-law of Helen of Troy.

The magnificent royal tomb, dating back to the 16th century B.C., contained a complete skeleton with a gold belt and a bronze sword, in addition to articles of pottery.

Four other tombs, the archaeologists said, were discovered at Mycenae near that of the queen, who is supposed to have joined her lover, Aegisthus, in killing Agamemnon when he returned from the Trojan War.

The war was started when Paris ran off with the famous Helen.

Epidemic Unlikely

TORONTO (CP)—Health Minister Phillips said yesterday Ontario probably will escape a poliomyelitis epidemic of any serious proportions. Dr. Phillips said that up until late Tuesday Ontario has reported only 20 cases of the disease, of which six had shown paralysis and one death resulted. Last year on the same date, Ontario's record was 97 cases, 32 involving paralysis and four deaths.

Truman Calls For No Betrayal Of Fair Deal

By JACK BELL

CHICAGO (AP)—President Truman's declaration against any convention "betrayal" of his political creed paced a new trend among Democratic Presidential aspirants today.

Without any apparent advance knowledge of Truman's blunt demand for endorsement of his "Fair Deal" program, at least two candidates moved to put themselves in a position—if they get the nomination—to lead a fight against what they called "Republican reaction."

DENOUNCES LABOR LAW

Senator Richard B. Russell of Georgia, plagued by his designation as the anti-Truman candidate of the south, bid for northern labor and "Fair Deal" support with a denunciation of the Taft-Hartley law he helped enact. The law containd measures to control strikes.

Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee called for a fight on what he labelled "Republican isolationism and reaction."

Their declarations seemed to indicate thinking among the Presidential hopefuls that the Republicans' choice of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will force the Democrats to pick a nominee who can call himself a progressive.

LEADS TABULATION

Kefauver leads in the Associated Press delegate tabulation with 256 votes to 120½ for Russell, based on pledges of support and known first-ballot preferences. Mutual Security Director Averell Harriman, an all-out supporter of Truman policies, is running third with 112 votes. It takes 616 to win.

Truman said in his message to delegates yesterday that no other political party has "done so much, so well, for so many people." He declared:

"There must be no turning back or faltering on the great course our party has pioneered. There must be no betrayal of the New Deal and Fair Deal."

Truman's message, apparently written well before he went to Walter Reed Hospital in Washington for a check-up after his tussle with a virus infection, exploded a new bomb under efforts of National Chairman Frank McKinney and others to compromise a civil-rights plank in the party platform.

NO COMPROMISE SEEN

Truman's call was interpreted here as reaffirming his stand that the party must not compromise on civil rights.

Platform drafters tackle the question today with organized labor and Negro leaders demanding a plank "at least as strong" as that in the 1948 statement of party aims. That declaration endorsed Truman's call on Congress to create a Fair Employment Practices Commission with legal power to prevent job discrimination.

Famous Melodrama 'East Lynne' Takes Stage In Mood, Form Of 60's

Next week the Summer Theatre revives a play which was for fifty years the favorite melodrama of audiences in England and the U.S.A. "East Lynne" first appeared in 1861, as a novel. Mrs. Henry Wood, the author, perfectly understood the taste of the mid-Victorian public, and the book was a best-seller in its day. It is still very good reading.

The play, which is first heard of about 1864, compresses the very long story into a stage form, and provided countless actresses and actors with "meaty" parts in the roles of the flighty Lady Isabel, the patient Barbara Hare, the almost too good Archibald Carlyle, and the double-dyed villain, Sir Francis Levison.

It contains lines which have passed into popular speech, such as—"Even now the lynx-eyed officers of the law are upon my track!" And in the character of Little Willie, the child who dies in his mother's arms without recognizing her, dozens of famous stars have made their earliest appearance upon the stage.

1860 COSTUMES

The Summer Theatre will play "East Lynne" not merely in the costumes, but in the manner, of 1860. Acting in those days made no concessions to a foolish naturalism. The audience expected an actor to behave like one. Incidental music was an important part of every melodrama, and music of the period has been sought out and prepared for this production; it will be played by the Austrian pianist, Otto Katzengebiss, who has been engaged for that special purpose.

Special scenic and weather effects have also been prepared for the occasion. And in addition, gifted members of the company will sing, dance and recite between the acts.

Brenda Davies will be seen in the role of the remorseful Lady Isabel, and faithful Barbara Hare will be played by Betty Leighton; the Hero and Villain will be played by William Needles and Gerry Sarricini. And in the role of Little Willie the Summer Theatre presents that sterling child actress, Little Kate Reid. They will be supported by the full company. The drama has been put upon the stage by Robertson Davies.

B.C. MEMBER — Mrs. Tilly Rolston, who left the Progressive Conservative Party, was elected Social Credit member for Point Grey in British Columbia's provincial election. Mentioned as a possible cabinet member, she previously waged a successful fight for the sale of colored margarine in B.C.

Preparing To Keep Jasper Lodge Open

MONTREAL—The main building which was destroyed by fire at Jasper Park Lodge Tuesday night was used principally for dining and recreational facilities and contained only eight bedrooms. All other bedrooms accommodation was unharmed. A spokesman at general headquarters of the Canadian National said Wednesday afternoon that the company hopes, therefore, that it will be possible to continue the operation of the lodge by provision of temporary kitchen and dining room facilities. A definite decision is expected within 24 hours.

Meanwhile, dining and cafe car equipment which has reached Jasper, together with the staff of the dining room, is proving sufficient to provide dining facilities for the time being.

Frederick J. Young

Pallbearers at the funeral Wednesday afternoon of Frederick James Young, 79, of Apsley, were Donald and Doug[illegible] Allison, and Elwood, Kenneth, Vernon and Melville Young.

Mr. Young was a lifelong resident of the Chandos and Burleigh-Anstruther district. He was a farmer and lumberman.

Monday he died after a short illness.

The funeral was at the Hendren funeral home, Lakefield, the Rev. Frederick Wilks, of Coe Hill, officiating. Burial was in Apsley United cemetery.

Mrs. Henry Goodwin

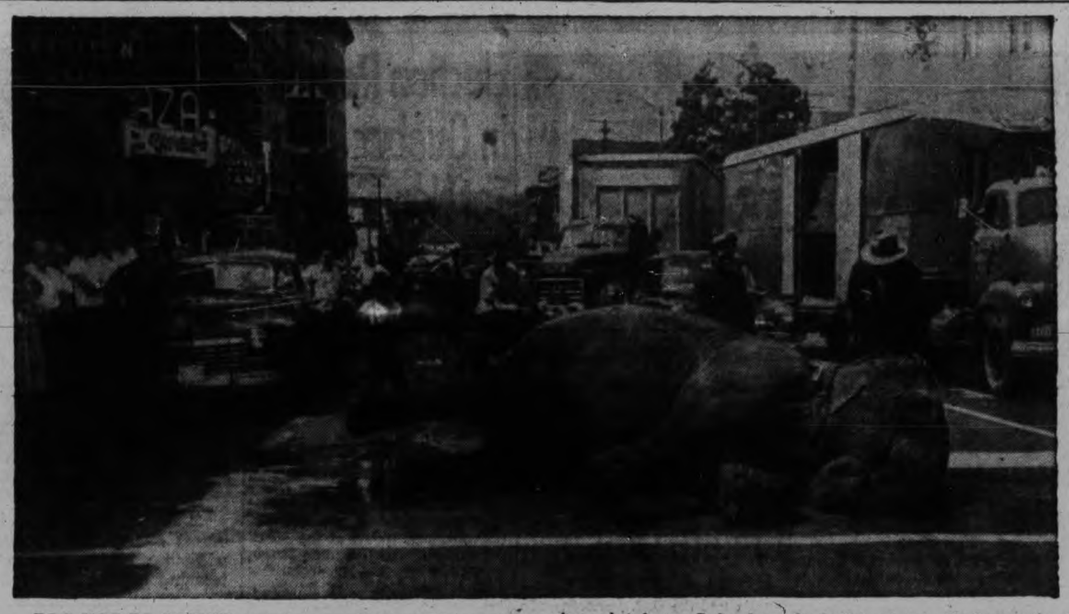
The funeral for Mrs. Henry Goodwin, the former Adelaide Mary Hughes, 336 Mark St., who died Sunday was held Wednesday from the Kaye funeral home.

The Rev. B. S. Morwood of Mark St. United Church conducted the service assisted by the Rev. W. W. Rowland.

Pallbearers were Donald Simth, William Johnson, Robert MacKirdy, Thomas Townsend, Robert Strickland, James Johnson. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.



TOO HOT TO BOTHER standing up, Babe, a 70-year-old elephant with a travelling show, stretches out on a main street in Lewiston, Maine, for a 20-minute snooze. Refreshed after a brief nap, Babe then climbed back into the big trailer, right, from which she had backed out to catch a little shut-eye. People—and elephants—throughout New England have been sweltering in the third day of a heat wave in the high nineties.

Candidacy Cheers NATO

PARIS (NEA)—There is widespread belief in Europe today that Dwight D. Eisenhower will be the next President of the United States.

And that belief, according to American diplomats in France, may speed up ratification by the N.A.T.O. parliaments of the European army treaty and the "peace contract" between West Germany and the Allies.

Ike's candidacy is receiving universal approval in the hard-pressed N.A.T.O. countries. To the common European his nomination spells good will on the part of the U.S.

The fear of American Isolationism had disturbed staunch supporters of the U.S. Now even German Social Democrats—without whose support Chancellor Konrad Adenauer will find it difficult to get the Bonn Parliament to ratify the treaties—seem to be relaxing in their opposition to a European army.

WINS ADMIRATION

Respect (and even admiration) for Eisenhower was recently expressed by Kurt Schumacher, leader of the powerful Social Democratic opposition in Bonn, in an interview with NEA Service.

The ailing socialist leader, who is slowly recovering from a long illness, said he feels that with Eisenhower in the White House the U.S. would be likely to adopt "a more positive and forceful foreign policy."

However, Schumacher and his suporters still cling to the argument—strongly denied by Chancellor Adenauer—that ratification of the treaties would make reunification of Germany more difficult. They believe that the Big Four—the U.S., Russia, Britain and France—should get together without delay to discuss German unity through free elections in all zones.

But so strong is the Eisenhower sentiment that the die-hard German Social Democrats are now also taking a more optimistic view of the West's ability to defend itself against Soviet aggression.

Eisenhower was once hated in Germany as a conqueror. But he gained favor with the German people because he was among the first American statesmen to advocate equality for the Germans and because of his pronounced "pro-European" attitude.

In France and Italy "le general Ike" has long been the most popular American. He has endeared himself to the common Frenchman and Italian—and Briton—because of his dogged championship of European unity.

During the months that Eisenhower commanded the NATO armies in Europe he seldom lost an opportunity to preach continental unity as the only dependable basis on which to build a lasting peace and European prosperity.

Even the French who were recently shocked by Ike's statement that France is "disintegrating" are willing to forgive and forget. Only the Communist Humanite, Moscow's mouthpiece in Paris, struck a sour note when it stated editorially that Eisenhower is the candidate of "big business" and of the "Taft-MacArthur Party."

Because of the turn the U.S. presidential campaign has taken, Russia's "hate America" campaign has suffered a serious setback. The European man-in-the-street now seems to be convinced that whether the Democrats or the Republicans win in the U. S. next November, there will be no return to American isolationism.

At no time in recent history have Europeans been so vitally interested in U.S. presidential elections.

THE EISENHOWER Europe remembers waves goodbye as he heads for home and politics.

16 Police Injured In Red Demonstration

TOKYO (AP) —Sixteen police were injured Wednesday when Communist demonstrators clashed with police at a Red peace rally in Nara, near the ancient capital of Kyodo.

Kyodo news agency said some of the 1,200 demonstrators hurled three Molotov cocktails and rocks. Police arrested nine Korean Reds.

Mrs. Lorene Allison

Funeral services for Mrs. Lorene Allison, 593 Bethune St., were held Wednesday from the Belleghem Funeral Home.

The Rev. C. G. Boyd of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church officiated. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

The pallbearers were: Fred Allison, Howard Allison, Harvey Allison, Leo McGarrity, John Hunter and William Madement.

B.C. Lumber Industry Faces Greatest Challenge Of History

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia's export lumber industry, with world-wide markets overstocked and hit by falling prices, faces the greatest challenge in its history, H. R. MacMillan said in an interview here.

Mr. MacMillan, chairman of the board of the multi-million dollar MacMillan and Bloedell Ltd., one of the world's biggest lumb[illegible]pers, reviewed world conditions and disappearing markets.

"We in this business have had our ups and downs before," he said. "I know we will work out of this one."

The United States and Canada now constitute B.C.'s only two immediate major outlets for the lumber industry, Mr. MacMillan said. British merchants are in no hurry to buy. They have more than a year's supply of lumber on hand.

"There is an additional 1,250,000,000 feet of first-class lumber in Sweden, Finland, Russia, Poland and Czechoslovakia, ready to ship. The British merchants would just as soon have that lumber as ours."

The once-big China market has disappeared; Japan has taken little and New Zealand is overstocked.

Mr. MacMillan said demand for B.C. lumber in the United States continued good.

"But it is an up-and-down country. It buys only three or four weeks ahead."

He said industrial techniques are being improved to provide the U.S. market with the kind of processed lumber B.C. hitherto has not produced in quantity enough to "push" on the U.S. market.

Mr. MacMillan said counter-measures are planned to restore export markets.

"We do not feel that we are ruined," he said. "The top operating firms in the industry have put millions of dollars into improving their manufacture and their sales."

Already, world markets are being ranged by Vancouver "scouts" seeking new buyers."

Two Priests Injured In Plane Crash

PENTICTON, B. C. (CP)—Two Roman Catholic priests on an aerial vacation were injured when their plane crashed on a mountain slope near here Monday.

First word of the crash came late yesterday when Father Vincent Myrich of Detroit walked into the R.C.A.F. station at Summerland, 10 miles north of here.

He reported the pilot, Father J. Lavoie, also of Detroit, had suffered a broken leg and other injuries.

The plane crashed eight miles from Penticton a few minutes after the take-off from Penticton on a planned flight to Vancouver.

Both men were knocked unconscious and it was not until 5 a.m. yesterday that Father Myrich was able to leave the scene of the crash.

He had suffered several facial cuts and bruises as well as a cut right hand but otherwise appeared in good condition despite the 100-degree heat.

The fliers had been without food or water since the crash.

4,000 Workers Ratify Pact

TORONTO (CP)—Some 4,000 employees in six plants of the Canadian Cottons Company have ratified terms of a settlement based on a five-cent-an-hour wage increase.

The workers, members of the Textile Workers Union of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.), also received one additional paid statutory holiday, bringing the total to six.

A conciliation board which heard the dispute, after the company and union had engaged in negotiations for almost eight months, unanimously recommended a general wage increase of seven cents an hour.

The new rate brings the minimum wage to 86 cents an hour and the top to $1.40, with the average for men and women now $1.10. Two cents of the increase is retroactive to Dec. 18, when the old agreement expired.

300-Acre Development Reported At Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto paper says in a newspage story a 300-acre industrial development will be built near Richmond Hill, about 12 miles north of here, by a New York corporation whose name has not been revealed.

The development will go ahead if the Ontario Municipal Board approves an application by Richmond Hill to annex the land from Markham township, the paper adds.

ON OPERATIONAL EXERCISES, Navy's newest sub, USS Tang, slides through sea off New England.

Newest U.S. Submarine Has All Latest Gadgets

BY RICHARD J. CONNOLLY

PORTSMOUTH, N.H., (NEA)—The USS Tang is a sleek, ultra-modern submarine that can dive deeper, remain submerged longer, travel faster and fight better than any other underseas craft in the world.

That's how the navy proudly describes the latest addition to America's formidable submarine fleet.

Built at the Portsmouth Naval shipyard as the first of a new class, the USS Tang is the namesake of a submarine which blazed a spectacular combat record during World War II. The new Tang has greater maneuverability, more endurance and can travel faster underwater than on the surface.

The Tang's Snorkel "breathing device," developed by the Germans during the last war and later perfected by the U. S., enables it to remain underwater for lengthy periods while recharging its batteries.

ELECTRONIC HELP

Armed with an extensive variety of super-secret electronic devices, the Tang is 268 feet in length, shorter than any of her war-time predecessors and carries a crew of seven officers and 75 enlisted men.

It was designed as a fast-attack submarine. It has a streamlined hull and reduced superstructure to enable it to dart more swiftly through the water than any other American sub ever built. The Tang's primary purpose will be offensive action against enemy surface and underwater craft.

Diving in the Tang is like being in a room without windows. Unless someone told you the sub's location, you'd have no idea you were far below the surface.

There is no trouble breathing, no pressure, only the sound of water flooding the ballast tanks and navy gibberish over the loudspeakers.

As an example of the vessel's maneuverability, the Tang raced ahead at full speed along the surface. suddenly, the skipper, Comdr. Enders P. Huey, called for a quick reversal. Within one minute, the Tang was "dead in the water," prepared to travel in any direction.

COMPACT

One of the outstanding features of the new submarine is its compactness. There are men everywhere—bending, stooping, crawling all over each other. Everybody has a guage to watch, a lever to pull, a valve to turn or an order to give. Confusion to the land lubber, but efficiency to the submariner. The Tang tick like a clock.

Each piece of equipment, from the radial-type diesel engines to the shiny coffee percolators, was designed especially for the Tang-class submarine which is roomier than any of the older-type subs, despite its smaller size.

Ask any man abroad the Tang how he feels about his ship, and he'll tell you she's the best. But you don't have to ask the stocky, red-haired Huey — he leaps at every chance to tell you she's "real hot."

He doesn't mean the temperature (the Tang has the latest air-conditioning) but he means that his pride and joy has more power, more endurance, greater maneuverability and dives deeper than any other American submarine.

Half-Naked Women Embarrass Deputy

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Deputy sheriff Arthur Willis stopped a car for speeding early yesterday and found it contained four women—naked from the waist up.

As they donned brassieres, the driver said to the embarrassed Willis:

"Well, men drive bare-chested, don't they?"

On a report to the sheriff, Willis added this note:

"By the way, I forgot to ticket them for speeding."

Average Crop

FREDERICTON (CP) — New Brunswick's farmers harvested an average strawberry crop of about 1,000,000 quarts. J. K. King, deputy Minister of Agriculture, described the quality as good.

Russia Claims Culture Gifts

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Russia told the U.N. yesterday she has enriched world culture with such inventions as the radio, while the United States has created nothing but items like the waffle iron and the electric chair.

The soviet claim was delivered before the U.N. Economic and Social Council by Soviet delegate G. K. Arkadyev.

Stung by a U.S. statement two days ago that Russia had "usurped" the fruits of western "inventiveness," he listed a score of purported Russian achievements.

He started with the claim that Popov invented the radio, then cited the discovery of periodic law in physics and other Soviet "achievements."

Election Results In Quebec Set New Record

QUEBEC—(CP)—Quebec's daily newspapers and the two national telegraph companies co-operated—through The Canadian Press—in giving Canada the result of yesterday's Quebec election an hour and 15 minutes after the close of the polls—the fastest result on record.

At 7:45 p.m. The Canadian Press announced the election of the Union Nationale government with a reduced majority.

In the 1948 election, return of the Union Nationale in a sweeping victory was announced at 7:53 p.m.

The Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Telegraphs carried constituency returns into the central compiling rooms at the Montreal office of the Canadian Press. Thousands of deputy returning officers were instructed by Francois Drouin, Chief Returning Officer, to telephone or telegraph the total vote at their polls to constituency returning officers at government expense. The move speeded collection of returns.

10th Polio Death Reported In Month

SIOUX CITY, Ia. (AP)—The 10th polio death in less than a month occurred here yesterday in an infantile paralysis epidemic.

A total of 153 patients from the Sioux City area have been taken to hospital here in the last six weeks and the current case figure is 102.

DESERTED CITY.—A lone woman walks across one of Rome's main thoroughfares without worrying a bit about the usually teeming traffic. The reason for the wide open spaces is a terrific heat wave that caused Rome to be a "deserted city" as Romans stayed indoors or flocked to seaside resorts to escape the city's oven-like heat.

Bubonic Plague Breaks Out In Part Of Saudi Arabia

LONDON — (Reuters) — Bubonic plague has broken out in Saudi Arabia.

An official of the Saudi Arabian embassy here said yesterday three deaths and one other infection were reported June 27 at the village of Binbishr in the desert country's southern area.

The village is about 580 miles from Mecca, holy city of the Moslem world, to which upwards of 500,000 Moslems make annual pilgrimage.

But the spokesman emphasized that the walled city of Mecca itself is untouched by the scourge and that no other part of King Ibn Saud's kingdom is affected.

Six weeks remain before the main body of Mecca-bound pilgrims begin this year's holy trek. Some who started early have been prohibited from crossing the plague-stricken district which lies in their path.

The sick at Binbishr have been isolated in a mobile hospital while their village is cleared of the rats which carry the plague and their fleas which transmit it to man the spokesman said.

One of the oldest diseases known to man, bubonic plague can take a week or a few hours to kill.

The most catastrophic outbreak of the disease, "the Black Death," started in 1347 in Constantinople and spread across Europe killing, authorities say, 25 to 75 per cent of those it infected. In 1664-1665 the disease wracked Britain during what was termed the "Great Plague."

Mrs. Mary Buck, 78, of Asphodel Township, is still lying critically injured in Civic Hospital. She walked into the side of a car on Tuesday afternoon, a half-mile mile west of Norwood on Highway 7, and was knocked unconscious. Her right leg has been partly amputated; the other is broken, and she has a dislocated shoulder and other injuries. Today she is reported to be slightly weaker.

Certain Knife Death Weapon

KINGSTON (CP)—Dr. W. D. Hay, pathologist at Queen's University, said today he is certain a knife discovered by two boys last night is the weapon which killed William Calhoun of Toronto.

He said the tapered, three-inch blade matched the incisions over the dead man's heart. No bloodstains or fingerprints could be seen on it, due, Dr. Hay said, to action of insects and weather for two days and handling by the two amateur detectives.

Ronald Gibson, 15, of Kingston, and his cousin, Donald Gibson, 13, of London, Ont., discovered the knife more than 80 feet ahead of the place where the body of Calhoun was found in the ditch beside a main highway last Monday. Dr. Hay said it was "quite possible" for a dying man to throw a knife that distance.

Authorities have decided Calhoun's wounds were self-inflected.

Former Resident Goes To Study UK Methods

Albert William Bethune, Ph.D., formerly of Peterborough but now a resident of Toronto, has accepted a position with De-Havilland Aircraft of Canada Ltd., and this week he is going to England to inspect the setup of the parent plant.

Mr. Bethune graduated from the University of Toronto as a Ph.D. in June. He is a metallurgical engineer.

The 30-year-old ex-Peterborough resident is flying to England Friday and will be at the Hatfield, England, plant for three months. While there he will study the laboratory setup in the English plant.

When he returns to the Toronto plant he will be in charge of a new laboratory there.

Mr. Bethune was born and educated in Peterborough. During the Second World War he was a pilot in the R.C.A.F., attaining the rank of F.O.

He is the son of Mrs. E. Bethune and the late Robert Bethune.

Conciliation Board

A conciliation board has been set up by the O.L.R.B. to try and settle the contract dispute between Hobbs' Glass and Local 527, U.E. Eight employees are involved; they are trying to conclude their first collective bargaining agreement with the company. The conciliation board will hold its hearing in the Public Library on July 25 with Judge W. S. Lane of Picton as chairman.

Bd. Works Starts To Resurface Part Romaine St.

Board of works began this morning the resurfacing of Romaine St., east of Monaghan Road to Park St. The surface has been scarified and broken up preparatory to regrading and finishing with an oil-gravel top.

Presumably this course of action removes Romaine St. from the paving schedule of Warren Bituminous Paving Co. for this season.

Several years ago, residents of that street objected to the cost of a permanent paving job on the local improvement plan that would have assessed them for a considerable part of the expenditure. They contended then that the financing of the work should be paid out of the general revenues of the city, instead of having any part of the cost charged directly to the owners of property fronting on the street. Their protest was sustained, and Romaine St. was scratched from that year's schedule.

SAID NEEDLESS COST

Recently, at a meeting here of the Ontario Municipal Board, they objected to the type of permanent pavement planned for their street, on the ground that it involved the property owners in excessive or needless cost to the frontage taxpayers.

In their previous case to the Municipal Board, the Romaine St. people contended that traffic past their doors had greatly increased, and that their street should not be regarded as simply a residential street, similar to most of the others in the city, apart from the traffic arteries.

Actually Romaine St. is the only connection between Park St. and Monaghan Road, in the long stretch from Chamberlain St. south to Lansdowne St.

Several intermediate streets that might have been used to relieve traffic, if they were available, are cut off by the Canadian Pacific Railway.

In that category are Douglas and McCannan Avenues, west of the railway, and Parnell Street which extends from Park Street to a dead end at the C.P.R.

NOT LOCAL TRAFFIC

Romaine Street residents have emphasized these circumstances which they argue have the effect of channeling a great deal of traffic, that is not local, past their doors. That was the basis of their feeling that they should not have to pay for a type of pavement that was, in their opinion, too expensive, and also that accommodated traffic that could not travel by intermediate streets.

On the other hand, the local improvement plan applies to the property owners on Park Street and Monaghan Road, where pavements have been laid, which have become main arteries of west side north and south traffic.

"Our committee of property owners certainly did not object to necessary repairs of the street," Mr. G. Bryant commented. "Our people felt that the type of pavement which has been proposed was too expensive, adding an additional local improvement tax at a time when the city's rate has reached an all-time high."

Mr. Bryant said he had received a letter from Mayor Waddell, "but the information is for the committee of residents, and I think I should communicate it first to them."

City Girl Tops Class In Supervisors' Course

Miss Joan Seymour, 221 Engleburn Ave. was awarded the highest marks, 96, given at the playground supervisors training course held at Quin-Mo-Lac camp, Moira Lake in June.

The camp was attended by 78 playground supervisors from 11 municipalities in the Eastern Central area of Ontario.

Peterborough's 11 supervisors stood second in the highest average marks with 82 per cent. Port Hope came first with 84 per cent.

Speed Limit? Some Streets Have Two

Busy Boundary Roads Half In, Half Out Of Peterborough

Three busy streets on the boundary of the city pose a double traffic problem.

Motorists and pedestrians using them must be doubly cautious, because there is a speed limit for each half of the road. On the city side, the limit is 30 miles an hour; on the township side, the limit is 50 unless posted signs indicate otherwise.

On only one of these three — Otonabee Street—are there signs which clearly define the different speed limits. It is also the only one which is a provincial highway (Highway 7).

It is understood that a conviction could not be obtained against a motorist who drove at 50 miles an hour on the township half of any of these roads. In fact, the north half of Wolsley Street, which is in Smith Township, also falls into this class, in the three blocks between Barnardo Avenue and Stewart Street.

The other two are River Road north from Parkhill Road and Parkhill Road east from River Road.

BREAK SPEED LIMIT

Perhaps the worst of the three major streets is River Road. It is heavily built up. Residents estimate that up to 50 per cent of the drivers on the city side—the west—break the 30-mile-an-hour limit, and about 30 per cent of drivers on the Douro Township side break the 50-mile-an-hour limit.

There is one sign—at the northern limit of the city side—stating that motorists should drive at 30 miles an hour. There are no signs on the east side of the road at all.

Since a girl was injured in the past two weeks on the Douro side of River Road, residents have drawn up and signed a petition which they will forward to county council asking that a 30-mile-an-hour limit be set on the east half of the road, and that the speed limit be enforced.

As far as can be learned at present, the city has no intention of annexing these strips of property on the townships' halves of the road.

AVOID PROBLEM

But at the same time, the city has avoided such a future problem in their annexation of a block of Smith Township. There, no streets will be boundaries. Instead, the city limits will run behind the properties located on what would otherwise be the township's side of the road.

It is likely that this policy will serve for any land the city may annex in future.

The four streets mentioned are not the only ones with that problem. There are others, but they are all less heavily built up, and less frequently used by traffic. Among them are Hilliard, Langton, Fairbairn Streets, and Concession Road.

These streets may bear the traffic problems of the future.

Two Hurt In Car Crash Near Belleville

BELLEVILLE — (CP).— Two persons were injured Wednesday in a three-car collision on No. 2 Highway four miles west of here.

Gordon Welsh 31, of Picton, suffered cuts and a possible fractured jaw, and G. Wentworth of Seymour, Conn., suffered side injuries.

Police said the accident occurred when a car driven by Paul E. Kluttig of Cheshire, Conn., in which Wentworth was a passenger, attempted to turn around on the highway. It was struck by Welsh's car. A few minutes later the third car, driven by William Lancaster, of Belleville, collided with the two cars.

Wins Tournament

STRATFORD (CP)—Ken Doig of Seaforth yesterday won the annual open invitation tournament at the Stratford Country Club. He equalled the par-70 course score.

HIGH DIVE into Jackson Park Creek over the 35-foot embankment at Murray and Rubidge Sts., with Donna Reid, 2½ years, of 477 Rubidge behind the wheel resulted in only minor injuries. Her brother Stanley jumped out of the rolling vehicle before it hit the brink and plunged. Owner of the car, Alfred Reid, father of the children, was in his house at the time. He believes that the children must have disengaged the gear shift before the car started to roll 150 across the street intersection and down the ravine.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Packing House Workers Ask 40-Hour Week

Next week the United Packinghouse Workers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) begin negotiating with the "Big Three" of the meat packing industry for a new master contract.

Some 12,000 workers are affected across Canada in the three plants—Swifts, Canada Packers, and Burns. About 200 workers in the Canada Packers plant in Peterborough are included in the negotiations.

Alfred Barber, president of Local 210, U.P.W.A., will leave for Toronto this weekend to represent the Peterborough workers in the joint negotiations.

Some of the union demands are:

A 40-hour week and a substantial pay increase (not specified).

Guaranteed annual wage.

Better hospital and surgical plan.

Improved vacation plan.

Pension plan giving the pensioner $125 a month at the age of 65.

Ten paid holidays in the year. This includes the eight statutory holidays which are already paid plus Remembrance Day and Boxing Day.

Windsor Druggist Earl R. Copeland Dies

WINDSOR (CP)—Earl Royal Palmer Copeland, a Windsor druggist for 17 years, died yesterday. Survivors are his widow, Mrs. Lilian Copeland; a son, Dr. Gerald Copeland, Sudbury; three brothers, Arlow, Kirkton, Ont.; Gordon and Elgin, both of Toronto, a sister, Mrs. W.D. Bayne, St. Mary's Ont.

Funeral will be held at 1.30 p.m. Saturday at the Anderson Funeral Home, Windsor.

Receptionist At C.G.E. Wins Cattle Judging Contest

Bert Lockington of the C.G.E. office is a smart lad among Holstein cattle. Just how good he is—and maybe he still won't believe it—was demonstrated last night by winning the judging competition at the twilight meeting at Charlie Bolton's tidy farm on the River Road, Douro, above Nassau.

There must have been nearly 200 men and women at this affair. Many were Holstein breeders of long experience. That's the kind of company Mr. Lockington stepped into when the evening program got under way with the judging of several classes of cattle.

They are paraded before the picnic crowd. Previously, a small committee selects the animals, and rated them, placing them in order,— 1, 2, 3, 4.

PUT IN RIGHT ORDER

When the show is on, the animals are arranged in an haphazard order. It might be: 2, 4, 3, 1. The contesting public is asked to place them correctly. The plan is simple enough, but you have to know considerable about type, conformation, other features of physical structure, and so on.

Mr. Lockington was invited to the meeting by his friend, Mr. Bolton; somebody handed him a card; and he began wondering how he would place the class.

"I'm just a layman, not a Black and White expert. All I could do was to apply some common sense about the appearance of the cattle," Mr. Lockington recalled. "I was standing next to a man who I think was through O.A.C. We were just chatting casually, and I remarked: 'That's how I'd place them,' mentioning the order I liked."

There were several classes judged. Frank Paterson and Ken Best studied the cards afterwards and came up with a tie for first place. Earl Petrie of Otonabee, and Bert Lockington who has been in the electrical field since he was a boy.

WON CALF STARTER

That's how B. L. came into possession of a bag of calf starter and another bag of calf meal. If he looks around and buys a pure bred Holstein calf, he might double his money when the U.S. embargo is lifted, or he might wander into the business as a hobby and wind up with a herd.

At any rate, to the city folks who mark these judging cards, Mr. Lockington has shown that it can be done. The how of doing it is not so easily dismissed.

And an O.A.C. graduate like Mr. Petrie had nothing on Mr. Lockington, who never got his nose inside that institution, when those cards were down, which suggests possibilities if Mr. L. had been a farmer and gone to O.A.C. He might have ended up as a professor of animal husbandry or something.

Winners of the class for women were: 1 Mrs. John Edmison; 2 Mrs. N. W. McConkey.

Boys: 1 Gerald Coughlin, 2 Ken McConkey.

Girls: 1 Barbara Brown, Norwood; 2 Rosemary McConkey.

Man Injured In Fall Condition Unchanged

Condition of Joseph Condon, 23, 650 Rogers St., in St. Joseph's Hospital with concussion and a fractured vertebra is said to be unchanged today.

A leading aircraftsman with the R.C.A.F. medical division, Condon was injured Monday when he fell 30 feet to a concrete floor after a scaffold he was working on gave way.

While on 42 days leave, he was working on the new addition to the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Co., glazing steel sash.

Comes From South Africa

Rev. I. G. Pollock New Minister At Grace United Church

The Rev. I. G. Pollock, new minister at Grace United Church, arrived in Peterborough Saturday from South Africa. He succeeds the Rev. E. W. Rowland who retired early this summer.

Born in Larkhall, Scotland, Mr. Pollock graduated from the Scottish Congregational College, Edinburgh in 1933. His first charge was in McDuff, Scotland, where he remained until 1942. His next move was to Cambuslang, Glasgow.

Three years later he sailed for South Africa where he became minister of Clairemont Congregational Church, Capetown. He was also in charge of Langa Congregational Church —a native church with a congregation of approximately 350.

Mr. Pollock's move to Peterborough was partially due to a friendship he formed with the Rev. Dr. D. Bruce Gordon of Trinity United Church, while both were attending college in Edinburgh. Since that time the two men have corresponded regularly.

REV. I. G. POLLOCK

Mr. and Mrs. Pollock and their two children, Jim, 13, and Elizabeth, 10, left Capetown on June 5 for England, where they spent 10 days before sailing for Canada.

Mr. Pollock conducted his first service in Grace United Church, Sunday. The family moved into the parsonage at 527 Arndon St., this week.

"We like what we have seen of Peterborough very much," Mr. Pollock said today. "It seems to be a very progressive city and everyone we have met has been very kind and friendly."

This new family in Peterborough hope to make their home in Canada permanently.

Children Escape Injury As Car Plunges Over Bank Into Creek 35 Feet Below

Boy, 8, Jumps Clear At Top of Cliff Sister, 2½, Jammed Behind Wheel Inside Narrowly Misses Tree On Plunge Down

Two small children, playing in their father's car escaped with minor injuries at noon today when they shoved the car out of gear and started it rolling downhill toward a 35-foot cliff. Eight-year-old Stanley Reid managed to roll out of the car just as it plunged over the steep slope and slid down the embankment into the shallow creek at Rubidge and Murray Sts.

His sister Donna, 2½ went over the bank in the car which narrowly missed a large tree half way down and ended up in the creek bed on its four wheels.

RAN AFTER CAR

Attracted by the shouts of neighbors who saw the car start rolling away from the curb and gain speed as it rolled down the incline toward the cliff, the children's father, Alfred Reid, ran from the house and slid down the bank to the car.

Although badly scraped and bruised, Stanley was in the creek trying to get his sister out when Mr. Reid arrived seconds after the car came to rest.

"She was pinned under the steering wheel by the gear shift and the seat which had slid forward," Mr. Reid said. "Her one leg was twisted back underneath the seat."

Donna too received several scrapes and bruises and a black eye, but no other apparent injuries, except a shaking up and a severe scare.

The car, a 1938 model, was only slightly damaged. The grill was caved in and there was some damage to the under part of the front end.

Mr. Reid, a salesman, said he left the car in gear and parked across the street from his home at 477 Rubidge St. He said one of the children must have shoved the car out of gear and turned the steering wheel as he left the wheels turned into the curb so the car would not roll down hill.

The path of the car showed that it travelled about 100 feet toward Murray St., then veered to the left at an angle of about 45 degrees and continued for another 50 feet before it dived nose first over the bank.

Cost Of Public School At Hastings $90,000

HASTINGS (ENS) —James Calberry waited on the Council with a request for a sidewalk to be laid in front of his new house on Bay St.

It was recommended by Councillors Jones and Peck that a quotation be obtained of the expenditure involved to lay 50 ft. of sidewalk, on the south side of Bay St. running from the residence of J. M. Baker.

The Public School Board waited on the council with their request. The bylaw for raising funds for the equipping and erection of a new public school, was amended to read $90,000 and that the estimate be forwarded to the Municipal Board for approval.

Permission was granted to Fred Morrow of a village garage to lay pavement in front of the station on Highway 45 at his own expense.

Bowmanville Stays Dry In Record Town Vote

BOWMANVILLE—The town of Bowmanville will remain dry as a result of a record local option vote held here Wednesday.

The wets of the town outvoted the drys on the question of establishing a government liquor store and brewers' retail store, but they failed to gain the 60 per cent majority to change the town's present dry status.

In the brewers' retail store vote the residents voted 1,513 for and 1,220 against. The liquor store vote was 1,457 for and 1,293 against.

A total of 2,818 of approximately 3,400 eligible voters went to the polls.

Bowmanville has been dry since 1917.

Local Industries Have Steel For Time Yet

As yet the shortage of steel hasn't cut production in Peterborough industries but if the U.S. steel strike continues the pinch will be felt in a few weeks.

Each day the strike goes on it has an increasingly adverse effect on Canadian industry. The auto industry has been particularly hard hit. Chrysler have stopped production in Windsor and at Oshawa General Motors have laid off more than 1,000 men and warned that a complete shut-down may result.

The construction industry is also feeling the pinch.

Roy T. Bogle, works manager at the C.G.E., said today that production is virtually normal. Because of the amount of heavy steel required in manufacturing operations at the plant a large amount was stockpiled.

"We're all right now and for the immediate future," he said. "But after that, who knows?"

There is a steel priority for manufacturers of agricultural equipment and this has helped to keep production rolling at the De Laval Co.

TIGHTENING

Andrew Purdon, treasurer, said that with De Laval it was a case of "so far so good." "We've been getting a supply of steel though the situation is tightening. If the strike doesn't come to an end we'll be hit in a short time."

He said there has been difficulty in getting supplies of metals that aren't used very often—certain alloys for instance. But production has been maintained.

Clarence B. Neal, president of the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Co., estimated that his plant would begin to feel the pinch in two weeks if the shortage continues. But up till now production had been maintained.

Mr. Neal said that because of the nature of their product (outboard motors) the main supply of steel had been purchased long before. But there would have to be cutbacks if the strike continues much longer.

Mr. Neal said that even when the strike is over there is a possibility of slowed-down production until such time as the stockpiles are replenished.

Think U.S. Cheating Itself Over Seaway Michigan Professor Says

By JOHN F. MAYHEW

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—When it comes to the St. Lawrence seaway and power project, the United States is acting like anything but the good business man it claims to be. That is the opinion of the engineering professor at the University of Michigan, Ferdinand Menefee, long-time advocate of the 1,200-mile shipping and power project. Consider these facts presented by Menefee, an authority who has fought for the project for a quarter of a century:

1. If American refusal to cooperate in the building of the $318,000,000 project is final, Canada, bristling with enthusiasm and strength born of growing national pride and the discovery of huge deposits of oil, uranium and high-grade iron ore, will build it alone.

FUNDS FROM U.S.

2. The project—self-liquidating through tolls—will be built with a good share of funds from American investors.

3. Over the years, the United States will pay in tolls much more than its share would have been under the proposal tabled recently by the U.S. Senate. The most recent estimate of the cost for the seaway was made by the U.S. Corps of Engineers in 1951—$434,000,000. That is less than one per cent of the U.S. military budget for 1953.

In effect, Prof. Menefee said, the U.S. is turning down a vital partnership in favor of being a customer, without rights or control over the operation or use of the proposed seaway.

Apart from that, he added, consider the American steel industry, vital to U.S. economy.

Depreciation in the iron content of the ore taken from the great open pit mines of the Mesabi range in northern Minnesota has forced the industry to look for other sources.

ORE FROM VENEZUELA

Some companies are bringing ore from Venezuela in South America over the long ocean trip to the east coast where U.S. Steel and Bethlehem Steel have expanded from the midwest's so-called Great Lakes basin.

But the biggest lode, estimated to include at least 400,000,000 tons of good grade ore, has been located in Labrador, 300 miles north of the St. Lawrence River mouth.

Without the seaway, ore from the Labrador strike may be shipped down the eastern coast, further encouraging the movement of the steel industry.

With the seaway the ore could be moved, without costly transhipment, down the St. Lawrence into the Great Lakes ports, six of which rank among the 15 largest ports in the U.S.

Prof. Menefee said he was encouraged by the U.S. decision July 1 to allow New York State to enter into the co-operative building of a 2,200,000-horsepower development near Cornwall, Ont., and Massena. N.Y.

But the whole project is a vital necessity from the standpoint of economy and security, the professor said.

Menefee has little patience with the anti-seaway group, whose efforts were reflected in the 43-40 vote in the U.S. Senate June 18 to recommit the proposal to the Senate foreign relations committee.

NOT REAL OBJECTIONS

"They are not voicing their real objections. They are worried about competition but they say the seaway would be frozen over in winter months, would be vulnerable to enemy attack, that it costs too much or that it is not deep enough.

He pointed out that the Sault Ste. Marie locks, that link Lake Superior with the lower lakes, are frozen four months of the year but still handle more traffic in eight months than is handled in the combined 12-month operation of the Suez, Panama and Kiel canals.

As for enemy attack, the same can be said of any such project, Menefee said. All are vulnerable in some degree. And the seaway's proposed 27-foot depth would handle 75 per cent of the U.S. merchant marine.

Menefee said the U.S. government, part of the Congress and probably a good share of the people favor the project. But the move is stalled by a minority group led by railroad and port organizations.

RAILROAD SENTIMENT

Canadian railroad sentiment differs from the American. Take the statement by Donald Gordon, president of the Canadian National Railways:

"Whatever tends to open Canada up and help it grow is good for this railroad."

Prof. Menefee said Americans must consider their "complacency" as a disease reaching further than the St. Lawrence seaway.

"We've always thought of Canada as a small nation under our wing. But that situation has changed in the last 15 years. It is a rich, enthusiastic, rapidly-growing nation that can and will move on by itself."

"If you'll look at the record," Menefee said, "you'll find Canada has been a fine friend and always very decent toward us. They are a smart people and they are going ahead. If we don't want to go along in co-operation, it will be to our distinct disadvantage."

Retail Trade Up

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's retail trade reached an estimated total of $1,053,488,000 in May, a 13-per-cent jump over the May, 1951, figure of $931,116,000. The Bureau of Statistics said yesterday this brought the cumulative total for the first five months of this year to $4,287,608,000, six per cent over the 1951, five-month total of $4,039,962,000.

New Court House

LETHBRIDGE (CP)—A new provincial court house was opened here this month. A 10,000-volume law library has been established in the new premises.

Declares Grants Should Not Be Checked On

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—The medical superintendent of the East Windsor hospital said yesterday that government grants to a hospital constitute payment for services rendered or about to be rendered by that hospital.

Dr. P.J.C. Morgan told a provincial government commission investigating the hospital's affairs that a hospital should no more have to account for its expenditures than a city employee should have to account for the disposal of his salary.

Both the government grant to the hospital and the salary to the city employee constitutes payment for services rendered, he said. Public funds ceased to be public once they had been paid to a hospital.

Questioned as to the disposal of his $6,000 annual expense allowance, he said that much of it was spent for entertainment of provincial government officials whom he interviewed in connection with hospital grants.

On one such Toronto trip, he and four other East Windsor hospital officials had spent $600 in four days, he said.

The inquiry is continuing.

Millbrook News

Miss Margaret Aiken is spending a few days with her friend, Miss Dwain Gray, in Perrytown. Tommy Aiken is the guest of his sister, Mrs. Orville Challice, Pontypool.

The friends of Miss Beverley Patton will be glad to know she is making good progress after an emergency appendicitis operation performed in Civic Hospital early Saturday morning.

Miss Margaret Aiken and Edwin Challice, who attended Peterborough Normal School this year, after graduating from Millbrook High School, have accepted teaching positions in the district. Miss Aiken will teach the junior room at Welcome, and Mr. Challice the senior room at Pontypool.

Dr. and Mrs. M. E. Hobbs, Janet, Judy, Patsy and Arthur are holidaying at Windermere, Muskoka.

New Brunswick Power Strike Averted At Last Minute

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—A strike of New Brunswick Power Commission employees was averted at the 11th hour last night in a move seen by many as the first Progressive Conservative bid in the coming general provincial election.

H. C. Tracy, international representative of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (T.L.C. A.F.L.), which claims to represent the majority of some 400 maintenance employees in the Crown-owned commission, said the strike would not begin as scheduled today, owing to a "sincere request" by H. J. Flemming, New Brunswick P.C. leader.

Premier J. B. McNair yesterday announced Sept. 22 as election date, saying the major issue will be his Liberal administration's refusal to recognize the international union as bargaining agent for provincial public servants.

REFUSE RECOGNITION

An application for recognition was rejected earlier by the provincial Labor Relations Board.

In a wire to Mr. Tracy, Mr. Flemming yesterday urged him to use his influence to avert strike action. The Opposition leader said the power issue was misleading in an election in which the government's record should be the determining factor.

Mr. Tracy said union locals decided they would continue work. He did not specify how long the union members would remain at their jobs but indicated a further announcement would be made later.

Commission officials repeated earlier assurances that there would be no shutdown of the power system and Premier McNair stated that any commission employees stopping work would have "voluntarily discharged themselves from the service."

A shutdown of the provincial power system would have paralyzed the province. It was believed the government, in assuring there would be no blackout, was putting its trust in non-union and supervisory men to maintain the service.

Electronic Brain Will Pick Horse Race Winners

By RICHARD KLEINER

NEW YORK — (NEA) — This news will be greeted with snorts of disapproval by all honest race horses, but it must be told anyway. Sooner or later, say electronics experts, an electronic brain will be perfected which will predict the outcome of horse races.

Before you go out and bet two on the race, be warned that this delightful gadget may be a long time in coming. The Age of Electronic Brains, in which horse-race - predicting - machines will abound, is not yet here. And it may take decades to arrive, but arrive it will.

"Electronic brain" is the popular phrase for a device known as a computer. As its name implies, this machine doesn't actually do any thinking. It merely computes data that human beings feed it. Some of them work from figures (digital computers) and some work from "things" (analog computers).

It is the analog computer that may be developed into a high-voltage handicapper. Currently (get that one?) analog computers work on more serious problems. For example, they may predict the flight of a guided missile. Humans give it the information—such as the weight of the test missile, wind conditions, fuel consumption and so on—and the computer records on a graph the predicted flight pattern.

✧ ✧ ✧

Instead of missile flight factors, suppose you gave an analog computer such information as the condition of the track, the past performances of the horses, the weight of the jockey. Could a machine be perfected which would figure out the winner?

COULD BE

"It is not inconceivable," says Rawley McCoy, chief engineer of the Reeves Electronic Division of Claude Neon, Inc., who has worked on the guided missile computer. "It's a problem of working out the right equations to give the machine. If somebody wanted to spend enough time, it could be done."

From that point, you can proceed on many flights of fancy—fancy that could logically someday be fact. Why couldn't analog computers be devised which would predict the weather accurately, give you tips on the stock market, say what team would win the pennant, tell you what crops to plant each year, figure out exactly how much weight you'd gain (or lose) on a certain diet?

There's no reason why not. All these—and anything else your imagination can dream up—are entirely within the realm of possibility. It's strictly a question of assembling the necessary information, getting a skilled mathematician to work out the proper equations, and having someone who could evaluate the result.

ELIMINATE WORK

The digital computers, dealing with figures, offer a more immediate practical future. Philip S. Fogg, president of the Consolidated Engineering Corp., says that one digital computer could replace 300 employees in a bank, for instance, or the entire billing department of a department store.

"Before long," he says, "electric impulses may be keeping track of your bank balance, your gas and electric bill, how much you owe the department store and the insurance company, as well as all the behind-the-scenes figuring on inventory and stock control, payrolls with numerous deductions, tax computation and general business statistics.

"It's time to admit the vacuum tube is mightier than the finger."

Present electronic brains are pretty big machines. Fogg's company makes one about the size of a grand piano, one of the smallest available. But in laboratories and on drawing boards, engineers are working up computers much smaller. McCoy says that it won't be long before portable computers, about the size of a big tape recorder, will be on the market.

When that happy day arrives, applications for the machine will be found everywhere. Already, men are adapting various computers for the following jobs:

Navigation, right in commercial airplanes. When the price and size are right, computers will take the guesswork out of navigation. This will add to airline safety. There'll be no more bumping into unexpected mountains.

AID TEACHING

Education, specifically as a teaching aid in calculus. McCoy says it will make this branch of mathematics easier to learn, because it will solve differential equations graphically. Students will see problems worked out in front of their eyes.

Graphic arts, by color-correcting color plates electronically. Presently, it takes a skilled engraver days to make color plates

Captain Kidd's Treasure, Finder Remains Mystery

TOKYO (Reuters)—The whereabouts of Captain Kidd's fabulous treasure is still a mystery today. So is the whereabouts of the man who claimed a couple of weeks ago to have found the pirate's $250,000,000 loot on a desert isle.

Treasure Hunter Masahiro Nagashima has gone underground—most people think Captain Kidd's treasure is also still underground—to dodge reporters.

The newspaper Mainichi, which first reported Nagashima's treasure story, said it has run its leads to ground and cannot investigate further. It said it still believes the yarn, though.

The story broke when Nagashima said his brother had led an expedition to the uninhabited islet of Yokoate, in the Ryukyus 200 miles south of the Japanese mainland. He had come back with silver bars and gold coins, said Nagashima.

He thought the treasure belonged to Captain Kidd. He had found it in steel chests in a cave.

No. 1 doubter of the story is George Shephered of Britain, an authority on Captain Kidd, who is planning his own treasure hunt.

There is no record of Captain Kidd ever having been in Japanese waters, says Shephered, who has photostatic copies of Kidd's own charts.

Crushed In Machine

BRANTFORD (CP)—Steve Zladics, 54, was killed yesterday when crushed in a gravel-loading machine at a gravel pit near here. He is believed to have tried to jump across a conveyer belt and slipped. He was carried 50 feet through the loader.

Baby Drowned In Tub

MONTREAL (CP)—Mrs. Adrien Poirier ran from her house yesterday to whisk one of her youngsters from the middle of the street, in the path of approaching traffic. When she returned she found five-month-old Michel, whom she had been bathing, had drowned.

Charge Moose Killed With Pikes While Man Taking Pictures

EARLTON.—Two lumberjacks and a photographer will appear in Haileybury police court Friday charged with killing a moose on the shore of Lake Temiskaming.

Wildlife officials claim the lumberjacks worried the animal with pike poles for three hours while the photographer took several rolls of pictures.

Conservation officer M. R. Cusson of Earlton said the two-year-old cow was kept in the water by the bushmen as the photographer, reported to be an English immigrant, took the pictures. He has seized one roll of film which shows the beast plunging back and forth along the shore.

The animal incurred numerous punctures on its legs from the steel-tipped poles and died when its lungs burst from exhaustion when it finally got ashore, the wildlife officer said.

Names of the three men could not be released at present, he declared. Cusson observed the beast's body from an airplane when he went looking for it after he heard rumors it had been killed. Then he took a boat from New Liskeard to reach the spot, which is located near Dawson's Point.

Seek Ruling Strike Illegal

TORONTO (CP) — The John Inglis Company here and its subsidiary, English Electric at Welland, are seeking a declaration from the Ontario Labor Relations Board that employees are engaging in an illegal strike.

The companies claim the employees' refusal to work overtime constitutes an illegal strike.

The 1,900 employees, members of the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.), are in a wage dispute with the companies. Conciliation services have been applied for.

The union asks a base hourly rate of $1.46—an increase of 10 cents over current wage, including cost-of-living bonus.

In the application to the board, the companies suggest that the refusal to work overtime is linked to negotiations for a new agreement.

Want Costs Cut

MOSCOW (AP)—The newspaper Trud rapped trade union leaders yesterday for failing to impress workers with the need for cutting costs of production. The chief organ of trade unions said it noted "an impatient and bureaucratic attitude" among some union leaders who do not make public periodically reports of competitive industries. Such comparative data, said Trud, helps to cut costs.

CUTTING THE CAKE climaxed an afternoon and evening of celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary for Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hamblin, 267 Braidwood Ave. The cake, sitting on a glass stand in the middle of the living-room table, decorated with pink and white streamers, lent a bridal atmosphere to their Braidwood Ave. home when friends and relatives dropped in to extend best wishes and congratulations.—Parks Studio Photo.

Mr., Mrs. Arthur Hamblin Observe 50th Anniversary

Celebrating their golden wedding anniversary Wednesday proved to be just like getting married all over again for Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hamblin, 267 Braidwood Ave.

There were gifts from their family and neighbors, cards and telephone messages congratulating them on being 50 years married, and dinner at a downtown hotel, followed by a reception and buffet supper in the evening.

"The 50 years have gone quickly," commented Mrs. Hamblin as she fixed a carnation in her husband's lapel and admired the anniversary cake sitting in the middle of the living-room table which was attractively decorated with pink and white streamers.

"It seems like only a little while ago we celebrated our 25th anniversary, now it's 25 years over again," she said.

It was on July 16, 1902, that Lottie Reynolds and Arthur Hamblin were married by the Rev. S. S. Burns, at the home of the bride's parents in Stirling. After a reception at Oak Lake, the newlyweds left for Belleville and a short honeymoon boat cruise on the lake.

They went to live in Campbellford, where Mr. Hamblin operated a milk route for a time. Then they took up farming in Sydney township, between Stirling and Belleville.

After farming for 17 years, they moved to Peterborough in 1920 and Mr. Hamblin worked at the C.N.R. freight sheds for seven years and later at the DeLaval.

In 1930, they moved back to the country and they farmed in Sydney until 1943, when they again returned to Peterborough.

Mr. Hamblin is now working with the Brinton Carpet Co., where he has been employed in the finishing room for the last four years. He took the afternoon off to celebrate being married 50 years Wednesday but has no thought of retiring.

Questioned as to when he planned on retiring, he replied, "When I'm not able to work."

Being a couple who have moved from the country to the city, back to the country, then again returning to the city, naturally brought up the question of which they preferred, urban or rural life.

"Oh, the city," replied Mrs. Hamblin, who was brought up in Stirling where her father was in the undertaking business.

"I have nothing to say," was Mr. Hamblin's diplomatic answer, but he added an aside, that he liked to stay as far away from funeral parlors as possible and the best way to accomplish this was to live in the country.

About two years ago, the Hamblins moved to their modern bungalow on Braidwood Ave., and one of the most pleasant surprises of the day was the gifts Mr. and Mrs. Hamblin received from the neighbors.

Twelve neighbors in the vicinity took up a collection and gave Mrs. Hamblin a gold necklace and Mr. Hamblin a pair of gold cuff links and tie clip. Their two sons presented them with a mantel radio and floor lamp.

Mrs. Hamblin spends her leisure time crocheting and making quilts. They both attend Knox United Church regularly and Mrs. Hamblin is a member of the Women's Association of the church.

Until a minor illness forced her to give it up about two years ago, Mrs. Hamblin was a keen carpet bowler in the church league.

Mr. Hamblin has found little time for hobbies as being husband and breadwinner has been a full time job with him.

The celebration Wednesday came just a week after Mr. and Mrs. Hamblin helped their youngest son, Gordon Hamblin, who lives on Lansdowne St., celebrate his 25th wedding anniversary.

The Hamblins are great-grandparents, having five great-grandchildren and five grandchildren.

Two of Mrs. Hamblin's sisters: Mrs. Hazel McQuigge of Smiths Falls and Mrs. Fred Wells of Marmora and a brother, Percy Reynolds of Lima, Ohio, came to Peterborough to join the 50th anniversary celebration.

Dutch Girl of Belmont Twp. Wins University Bursary

A 25-year-old Dutch girl, now living in Belmont township, has won a bursary at the University of Toronto after passing with honors in social and philosophical studies.

She is Sheila Heitinga, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johannas H. C. Heitinga, of Toronto, and formerly of Utrecht, Holland. The family are completing a home in Belmont township.

Miss Heitinga was one of 14 students who emerged with honors out of a class of 150. In addition she won the Delta Phi Epsilon Bursary.

Her feat is all the more remarkable because it is eight years since she was graduated from her high school in Utrecht. That was 1944, the year all schools were closed by the German occupation forces.

INDUSTRIAL PSYCHOLOGY

She hopes to continue her studies in psychology with an eye to eventually giving aptitude tests in industrial firms. The trend in modern industry is to assess the capabilities of an employee before he is given a specific job.

Miss Heitinga came to Canada in 1948 and worked some four years with the advertising department of a Toronto newspaper.

Her original plan to study medicine did not materialize when she applied nearly three years ago. Too many students were waiting to be admitted and she was not yet a Canadian.

She finally changed her mind to study psychology and says it was a happy day last year when she registered at the Toronto University for the course of social and philosophical studies.

Her first year was wonderful, she said, and she felt happy and lucky to be there. She thinks it is a very fine university but added that she understood every student thinks his own the best of all.

ARTIST FATHER

Miss Heitinga's father was one of his country's famous artists. He has travelled practically all over the world and has had a brilliant career in Europe as a theatre scene painter before the Second World War and has designed and painted the scenery for many of the world's most famous exhibitions.

Since coming to Canada he has painted scenery for the Canadian National Exhibition and many operas. He was an underground leader in the Second World War and has citations from President Roosevelt sigend by General Dwight D. Eisenhower and from the British government signed by Air Chief Marshal Tedder as tokens of gratitude for help given to Allied sailors, soldiers and airmen to escape or evade capture by the Germans.

He, however, was captured by them through treachery in his own ranks and was under sentence of death. The Allied invasion came just in time to save his life. Mr. Heitinga has purchased 435 acres of land adjoining the farm of Councillor George Newton; his home is still in the course of construction.

SHEILA HEITINGA

Miss Heitinga said she knew many foreign students and she understood that the educational systems vary from country to country and as she had never attended Canadian high school she said she would only describe the Dutch system when asked to make a comparison.

SEVERAL LANGUAGES

The fact that she spoke several languages before leaving Holland and made addresses in English would lead one to believe that their system was of a higher standard than the Canadian. Her description was as follows:

"After five or six years of elementary or public school as we call it, there is a choice of various schools open to the pupil. If he wishes to learn a trade to become to metal worker, an architect or an engineer's assistant, he will attend a trade school. There are schools which are called extended public schools with three of four courses. These schools give an excellent grounding in French, English, German an dDutch; the sciences take a less important place.

"And then there is the high school. We never call schools which follow the public school, high schools as in Canada. There is a definite distinction. The gymnasium which takes six years teaches sciences and languages, especially Greek and Latin. The majority of the students intend to go to university.

"The Lyceum and high school also permits the pupil to attend university. Only these three schools will qualify one to this higher advanced education. But high school (higher civilian school) is separated in two types, "a" and "b". The "a"' school excels in languages and higher bookkeeping. Six languages are taught. Besides the four commonly taught there are Spanish and Italian. This school is a good preparation if one intends to go into business and at the university only law may be taken with this certificate.

"The "b" school has its emphasis on the sciences, the four languages being secondary. From here any course at the university may be taken.

"All subjects are compulsory and a final examination must be taken. The total number of subjects which appeared on my final examination paper is 16 as follows: trigonometry, algebra, mechanics, physics, chemistry, natural history (botany and biology), geometry (descriptive geometry, solid geometry), geography, history, economics, political science, French, German, English, Dutch, cosmography.

LITTLE RECREATION

"High school in Holland leaves little time for recreation. Many hours are spent with homework. In comparison the Canadian boys and girls would find it quite dull I am afraid. But not knowing any other it is taken as a matter of course. We do have sports—field hockey, tennis, soccer, etc.

"Where possibilities are concerned a student of inadequate financial circumstances has an equal chance of attending a high school as a rich boy. All school fees are estimated by the government according to the income. The private schools of course have their own fixed fees.

"I am glad," Miss Heitinga said, "that my school education has been a Dutch one for I have realized that it prepares and teaches the student to work to concentrate on his study which has not disappeared during the years in which I had to work before being able to attend university. I do believe there should be a happier balance between study and play in Holland as well as in Canada."

MARY GLEESON FITZPATRICK, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. Stanton Fitzpatrick of Peterborough, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Walsh of Montreal, from a portrait by the Baroness Anne de Romer. The painting was on exhibition in Toronto when a number of other portraits by Madame de Romer were shown.

Home Safety In Teen Rush

Now is the time for all good teen-agers to join forces with their families and make a home-safety survey.

A torn place in the stair covering, a broken board on the porch, or a loose brick in the front walk may cause serious injury to a member of the family or a friend.

If you are in favor of the idea of preventing accidents, but don't know where to start, mutual casualty safety engineers have a number of suggestions that you can easily follow.

Make a careful check of all stairways for uneven places in floor boards or worn places in the carpeting. See to it that your stair railing isn't loose or made untrustworthy because of rotting wood or termites.

Ask your dad to inspect the cellar to make sure there are no flammable materials and no loose or frayed wiring. You can busy yourself in the meantime by looking through the attic and getting rid of any fire hazards that may have accumulated.

Suggest to your mother that she use non-skid wax on the floors whenever possible as well as rugs with non-slip bases. Night lights should be provided over stairways. Help your mother to keep all the stairways clear of children's toys. If you spill water, grease or any other liquid on the kitchen floor, wipe it up immediately.

A WEEKLY INFORMATION SERVICE

MONTREAL, July 17th—Lovely Joyce Washburn, another beautiful Woodbury bride, wore a ruffled, hoop-skirted gown of white chiffon and organdy and carried a nosegay of delicate white stephanotis. But her magnificent Woodbury complexion stole the show. Joyce knows that Woodbury Facial Soap is more than just a cleanser. You see, there's a precious beauty-cream ingredient in every cake of WOODBURY SOAP. It's the same softening oil used in finest face creams, and is intended to help replace the natural oils you wash away. Try Woodbury yourself. See how its mild, rich lather cleans your skin thoroughly, gently ... and smooths it too. And ask for the Big Beauty Bath size of Woodbury Soap—for lovely skin—head to toe.

Keep The Campfire Burning while you boil water for the taste treat of the evening ... INSTANT CHASE & SANBORN COFFEE. It's such a friendly "cup of cheer"—and as easy to make ten cups as one. Good? It's wonderful coffee! That's because it's made by folks who "know their coffee" ... with nearly a century of coffee experience to make it the best "instant" you've ever tasted. The flavour's there—and the real coffee lift. So when good friends get together ... be sure to serve Instant Chase & Sanborn. It's economical. You save up to 40c a pound compared with ground coffee. So take my tip and keep a jar of Instant Chase & Sanborn handy—always.

I Don't Know When burglars take their holidays. But I'm willing to wager it's not during the summer. It's "windfall" season for them just now, with so many people away from home, and so many valuables left around unprotected. Don't add to their easy pickings by leaving yours at home when you go away! Put them securely away in a Safety Deposit Box at the BANK OF MONTREAL. Costs you only a cent or two a day and assures you of extra safety for all your important papers, jewelry and keepsakes. Rent a Safety Deposit Box at your B of M branch today! It will be a happier summer once you know your valuables are in the vaults of the B of M.

Your Baby Is Somebody Special, so no wonder your motto is "Nothing but the Best for Baby!". Well, among other good things, that means wholesome, good-to-eat "CREAM OF WHEAT" at baby mealtimes. Delicious 5 Minute "Cream of Wheat" is brim-full of the good things that babies need for normal growth and good health. It provides Iron to help maintain good red blood—and Calcium and Phosphorus for diets deficient in these elements. What's more, mother—5 Minute "Cream of Wheat" is so easy to prepare. It cooks to baby-ready digestibility in just 5 Minutes of boiling. So give it to baby often ... and enjoy it every morning yourself. It's a family favourite at breakfast-time.

Always a family "favourite" ... good-to-eat, good-for-you cheese dishes. Whether it's one of your delicious cheese souffles or tangy, tasteful macaroni-and-cheese ... your favourite cheese dishes will taste even better when you season them with WINDSOR SALT. Yes, Windsor Salt makes all the difference between "flat" and "bright". It makes every part of any meal more enjoyable ... brightens the flavour of food both in the kitchen and at the table. And Windsor Salt is always free-running. No wonder most folks prefer it! Ask for Windsor Salt next time you're shopping.

When The Thermometer Goes Up appetites often head in the opposite direction. How to revive them? Just try these two tricks of mine ... serve a meal that's a combination of piping hot and ice-box cold (soup and a salad, for instance)—AND season the food with AC'CENT. Until quite recently a seasoning "secret" of famous chefs and gourmets, miraculous Ac'cent (pure monosodium glutamate) intensifies the natural flavour already in foods, yet adds no flavour of its own. Try it! It's the new "Third Shaker" to be used along with the salt and pepper. Ask your grocer for a shaker of Ac'cent today and discover thrilling "hidden" flavour in your favourite foods!

There Are More Good Ways Than One to enjoy Heinz wonderful soups. Yes, HEINZ CONDENSED SOUPS are certainly "tops" as a first course—but have you tried their tantalising flavours in meat loaves—pies—rarebits? Heinz Soups are very special taste treats, all ways. You see, Heinz are soup specialists—they combine long experience with great skill to bring you the very best of flavour-packed soup ... many scrumptious varieties—and special soups for baby, too! Ask your grocer for Heinz Condensed Soups. The folks will ask for second helpings every time you serve them.

It's Cool From The Word "Go!"—and so are you. For here's a pie that you don't cook—you freeze it only once—it costs only 5c a serving ... and it's delicious. It's Lemon Ice Box Pie, made with SUNKIST LEMONS, of course ... they're the finest, juiciest grown.

SUNKIST LEMON ICE BOX PIE

1 small can evaporated milk
2 eggs
1/3 c. fresh Sunkist Lemon Juice
½ c. sugar
1 tbsp. grated lemon peel
Spiced Crumbs

1. Cool evaporated milk in ice cube tray until crystals start to form.
2. Separate eggs.
3. Mix the egg yolks, lemon juice, sugar and grated peel.
4. Beat egg whites stiff, lightly mix in yolk mixture.
5. Beat chilled milk in another bowl and carefully fold in egg mixture.
6. Pour into ice cube tray lined with Spiced Crumbs and freeze. Serves 6 to 8.

School Provides Escape From Wifely Work

WINNIPEG (CP)—A Winnipeg housewife has a remedy that she says provides an escape from wifely chores.

If you're tired of dishes, diapers, making the grocery dollar stretch, want a new lease on life and admit that even the bridge club is no longer fun, here's what Mrs. Clara Fainstein says to do:

"Go back to school."

That's exactly what the 36-year-old mother and housewife did last year. She was one of more than 400 St. John's Tech students who graduated recently with their grade XII matriculation.

Graduation was "one of the happiest days of my life," she says. "It was a terrifically interesting year and I could do it all over again."

It was also an unusual year for St. John's. The school's first adult pupil made herself at home with the 'teen-agers.

She added a touch to the home economics course when she took her five-year-old son Ronnie to school.

The youngster found mother's school a great place to spend a couple of hours. He was a hit with the class. A housekeeper looked after Ronnie when he decided to stay home.

Mrs. Fainstein went back to school because "I needed something." She also wanted to complete her education, interrupted in Saskatchewan. Her courses were home economics, art, algebra and chemistry.

Beauty Bess Myerson Points Out Figure Needs

Beautiful Bess Myerson, a former Miss America, considers her height, five feet, ten inches in stocking feet, an important glamor asset. She has made a careful study of the right clothes for her figure, and gladly passes what she has learned along to you. She prefers the flared coat to the fitted (above), and likes to wear hats that silhouette her face, and yet don't look absurdly small (top center).

Miss Myerson is also extremely conscious of the jewelry she wears. Because she is quite slender, in addition to being tall, she prefers delicate pieces for evening wear (lower center). Of course, every tall girl knows the problems encountered when shoe shopping. It is no simple matter to find smart-looking shoes. Bess Myerson chooses the basic pump with occasional variations (right).

By ALICIA HART
(NEA Beauty Editor)

How tall is tall? Well, that's a matter of opinion. But if, like glamorous Bess Myerson, you know what it's like to tower over a dancing partner, look for a dress unsuccessfully in the "Misses Department," and try to buy hats that don't add to your height, you no doubt have some very definite opinions on the subject.

"The only way to approach the situation," explains the one-time Miss America, "is to appreciate your tall figure rather than bemoan it."

Bess Myerson certainly is in a position to give advice. Not only has her figure helped her to win the world-famous beauty contest, but in addition it has proved to be a top asset in her television work.

"I admit it isn't easy to find flattering clothes," says Miss Myerson, "but after years of studying my figure needs, I have devised my own key to buying."

Starting from the head and working down, Bess Myerson recommends you give a lot of thought to your hats. Many tall women, she believes, pick large styles because they think these hats will somehow or other give the illusion of less height.

"I don't agree!" Miss Myerson states emphatically. "Every extremely tall woman I have ever seen in a large hat looks much taller to me. I, personally, have found small sculptured hats much more flattering. They should follow the general contour of your face, and create interest, but not at the risk of overwhelming the observer."

Bess Myerson, who has combined a career and married life successfully, never underestimates the importance of glamor. She feels that all women can achieve a completely feminine look by wearing just the right amount of jewellery with every costume.

For summer wear, she is particularly partial to white and pastel jewellery, and since she is quite slender, she likes rather fragile pieces.

When it comes to picking suits and dresses, Bess Myerson usually chooses a full-bloused effect. She also likes softly flared skirts and wide belts.

"If I can't find what I believe is right for my figure," says Miss Myerson, "I won't buy. "I'd much rather wait."

The well-known beauty recommends throat interest to camouflage a too-bony structure. She knows that a tall, slender woman's main aim is to add roundness to her figure. Belts, scarves and hip pockets can be a great help.

Since Miss Myerson has a top-to-toe buying plan, she readily recognizes the annoying problem shoes always present to the tall girl. She either has to be satisfied with completely uninteresting styles or pay exorbitant fees for anything that is even mildly fashionable.

Miss Myerson suggests the basic pump as the answer, but adds: "Don't expect cute styles. You won't find them. A classic shoe like the pump can be dressed up or down with a button or bow, and it never overemphasizes your foot."

A born-and-bred New Yorker, Bess Myerson still lives in the big city with her husband and small daughter. Although her youngster is only five years old, her long legs and arms seem to indicate she is destined to follow in her mother's footsteps.

"I think it's wonderful," exclaims Bess Myerson, "and I can hardly wait until she is old enough for me to tell her the facts of a tall life."

Cream Puffs Fun To Eat At Summer Birthday Party

Summer birthdays are just as common as winter ones. Mother may have to rack her brains for a novel idea for the children's party in hot weather, one that won't be too much trouble or mean too much time in the hot kitchen.

Why not try cream puffs instead of cake? They are fun to make, and fun to eat. They offer the young host or hostess and guests an element of pleasant surprise. The children will have to lift the lid to find out what's inside the cream puff—perhaps after a guessing game about it first.

The cream puffs can be filled with ice cream, with puddings in flavors that children like such as butterscotch or chocolate, with the traditional cream filling, or with whipped cream. For an especially cooling summery dessert, try filling the cream puffs with frosty lime sherbet and top with chocolate sauce.

Cream puffs can also serve as the main course for luncheon or supper. Fill them with ham or chicken salad made in the cool of the morning and kept in the refrigerator.

Here's the recipe for the pastry:

CREAM PUFFS

(Makes 8 medium puffs)
¼ cup Crisco
½ cup boiling water
2 eggs
½ cup sifted flour
¼ teaspoon salt

Combine Crisco and boiling water; stir over low heat until Crisco is melted. Add flour and salt all at once; beat until completely smooth. Remove from heat and add eggs one at a time. Stir vigorously after addition of each egg until batter is smooth. Drop from spoon to cookie sheet which has been rubbed with Crisco. Leave 2 inches between puffs to permit spreading. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) for 10 minutes; lower temperature to 350° F. and continue baking about 30 minutes. When cold, cut off tops with a sharp knife. Fill with your favorite filling. Replace tops and sprinkle with confectioners sugar.

Worry of FALSE TEETH
Slipping or Irritating?

Don't be embarrassed by loose false teeth slipping, dropping or wabbling when you eat, talk or laugh. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. This pleasant powder gives a remarkable sense of added comfort and security by holding plates more firmly. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. It's alkaline (non-acid). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.

50 Teachers Meet Queen Mother

LONDON (CP)—More than 50 Canadian teachers were presented to Queen Mother Elizabeth yesterday at a garden party in Lambeth Palace, London home of the Archbishop of Canterbury.

The occasion was a farewell gesture to more than 200 exchange teachers from the Commonwealth and the United States who are completing a year in British schools.

William Maffey of Whitby, Ont., one of six chosen from the group to have tea with the Queen Mother in her private marquee, represented the Canadian contingent.

Among those presented to the Queen Mother was Ruth Wright, Niagara Falls.

You Need Protection When You're Gardening

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

If you are a planter of flowers and puller of weeds, you should know the beauty secrets of how to be a gardener without showing it.

There certainly is no reason for you to end up the summer with a crop of hay for hair, hard callouses for knee pads, and dried-out leather for skin—just because you love being outdoors and growing things.

Protective clothing is of primary importance. Whether you like to do your digging in dress, shorts, pedal pushers, or overalls, be sure they're the sturdy sort of washables that can go into the machine as soon as you complete your daily digging and spading.

And don't forget to wear a large garden hat to shield your hair and head from the direct rays of the sun. Such a hat will also help to protect your eyes and skin.

Guard your hands both before and after gardening. Scrape your nails over a bit of soap before starting to work ,to keep dirt from caking under them. Always wear gloves.

An aid to post-gardening manicures and roughened skin is the use of a rich hand lotion or cream. In fact, it is absolutely essential if you are to keep your hands soft and smooth.

Prevent knee and feet callouses when you are in the garden by kneeling on something soft, like foam-rubber pads built into the hems of aprons or detachable knee pads that strap on. These pads can be sudsed clean in no time.

Household aprons, plastic on one side with detachable terry-cloth lining, are practical for gardening, too. They keep you dry while you're busy wtih watering can and hose, and keeping them clean is no problem at all.

While protective clothing wins half the beauty battle, nothing takes the place of just plain soap and water scrubbings. Shedding the soil promptly is the only way to keep your skin, nails and hair free from those accumulating layers of grime that will still be evident far into winter.

Place soap handy to the outdoor faucet to help in getting rid of the top layer of dirt on your way to the bathtub. If you use high-powered chemical insecticides, health authorities advise that plenty of soap and water is a must. And don't forget, too, that mois: soap relieves itching from insect bites.

There's much to be said in favor of rigging up a shower in the basement, if the project is at all possible. Then you won't have to worry about soiling your carpets and furniture

Dont' pay unnecessary beauty privileges as you help your garden grow. A few simple precautions are all that are necessary to keep you perfectly groomed for your outdoor life.

DOROTHY DIX

Advise Frank Talking-To With Hesitant Male Lover

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a widow of 47, and have been keeping company with a widower of 52 for some time. Each of us has one child. His daughter is married, mine is in high school. My husband died six years ago and I have known Charles for three years.

Charles is in business with a cousin who is 42 and single. For the past two years she has made it a point to be in our company as much as possible My apartment is small and having her around so much is beginning to be a nuisance When she is at a mixed gathering, she drinks too much and makes love to every man present

I have fallen deeply in love with Charles and know he intends to marry again I know he isn't in love with his cousin, but I believe he thinks she cares for him and under the impression that he is saving her feelings, is keeping me dangling. For some reason, he is greatly under the influence of her and several other members of his family. He is very soft-hearted and deeply concerned about hurting people's feelings. He has told me that eventually he hopes he will see things in a different light.

Would you advise me to give him up now, or stick it out? After all, I'm not too young and, while I am considered attractive now, who knows what will happen in a few years?

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: To pin matrimonial hopes on a man as unstable as Charles is a very precarious undertaking.

WATCH OUT FOR COUSIN

Even though his cousin is not desirous of marrying him herself, she apparently has some reason why she doesn't want any other woman to get him. Being shrewd, she is prefectly well aware of her influence over Charles and is very unlikely to relinquish any of it in the near future. She is a predatory female of the first water—a most dangerous opponent. You describe Charles as soft-hearted; I take exception to the description and appraise him rather as a weak-willed blockhead oversusceptible to flattery.

You should put up a fight for him, if you love him, but you'll have to fight fire with fire. Meek acquiescence will accomplish nothing. A straight-from-the-shoulder talk may have some effect on Charlie-boy; the blunt announcement that you don't like Cousin and would prefer that she spend more time away from your apartment, might accomplish more. A little competition may also be good for Charles.

A definite stand must be taken, however. Don't just wait around until developments force the issue. Take a hand yourself.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Last Sunday night, when my young man brought me home at 9:30, he stayed for about an hour. When he left, I walked to the car with him. My mother said this was the wrong thing to do. I can't see anything wrong in it.

T. L.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: While there is nothing basically wrong in your walking down the path to the boy's car, it is more proper to walk him to the door and let him go the rest of the way alone. Since you are only 16, your mother is trying to teach you the most dignified way to do things, and you will do well to heed her advice.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: In my neighborhood there is a person who gets moody once in a while and doesn't talk to the other folks on the block. Since February he hasn't spoken to me, though I've never done a thing to him. Why does he act so cold?

A. P.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You must try to understand that each person has his own whims and foibles and, though they seem strange to you at times, perhaps you, also, have traits that are queer to people. This trick of suddenly not speaking to others is a characteristic of anti-social people and one which must be endured by their neighbors. A person exhibiting this particular habit would have nothing to offer you in the way of friendship if he did talk to you, so let him go his lonesome way without worrying about him.

Ban Periodicals Voluntarily After Protests

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A score of periodicals have been withdrawn voluntarily from newsstands in London and district in the wake of protests from city council and women's organizations against the sale of obscene literature. Action to scour the London newsstands is said to have been touched off by protests by the I.O.D.E. and Catholic Women's League a few months ago.

A spokesman for Western News Company, one of the major wholesale distributors of newspapers and periodicals for the London district, said their publishers have been notified to stop delivery on approximately 20 publications and copies already on newsstands have been reclaimed by the wholesalers. The decision was reached after consultation with Chief Constable A. E. Knight.

The spokesman said the wholesalers always have been willing to co-operate fully with police and the crown attorney in cleaning up the newsstands, but that they have been puzzled. There were no specific complaints to them and they didn't feel themselves "culturally or economically qualified to act as censors."

Retailers made no complaints or comments, the news company official said, when informed of the decision on the ban.

Everybody concerned is wary of being labelled as the actual censor, but the magazines were selected by police and officials of the news company. They said the publications are of the "girly" type and they felt this material served no public good and could, in fact, be detrimental to the morals of young readers. No comic books were included in the list.

Peterborough Club Entrant Wins DeGraw Tournament

Mrs. Clayton Selkirk of Peterborough Club, is the third winner of the annual Marjory DeGraw Trophy tournament played Wednesday at the Peterborough Golf and Country Club. The trophy is given by Mr. O. A. DeGraw in memory of his late wife, and the presentation was made by her close friend, Mrs. Gerald Wood.

Three players were tied for the trophy when convener Mrs. W. J. Vanstone checked the scores. The tie was broken in accordance with C.L.G.U. rules, and Mrs. Joseph Watson, also of Peterborough, was placed second, and Mrs. R. Bates of Trenton third. The handicaps of each will be reduced after this showing.

Four 31's were chalked up on this course, which has a par of 74. To break the tie the score on the "back nine" was taken and Mary Gay, new Ontario ladies' champion from Westmount Club, Kitchener, was then low gross winner in the first flight with another topnotch competitor, Ann Sharpe of Fonthill, second. Mrs. J. B. Searight of Scarboro had third low gross.

Low net in this flight was won by Shirley Woodley of Toronto Ladies' Club. Barbara Siddall of Kawartha was second, and Mrs. V. A. Selkirk, Peterborough, third.

In the second flight Mrs. Alf Hill, Peterborough, had low gross, Mrs. Jack Hardill, Peterborough, second, and Mrs. M. A. Gillespie, Scarboro, third. Trophy winner Mrs. Selkirk had the low net in this group, Mrs. Roma Brindle, Kawartha, was second, and Mrs. R. Miller, Kawartha, and Mrs. R. Tanner, Peterborough, tied for third.

Third flight low gross was held by Mrs. J. Grant, Belleville, second by Mrs. Len Lawrence, Peterborough, and third by Mrs. C. R. Stacey, Peterborough. Mrs. Watson and Mrs. Bates were given the first and second low net prizes, and Miss Margaret McCulloch, Peterborough, got third.

Birdies went to Mrs. M. Carlson, Rosedale, and Anne Sharpe, Fonthill, in the prize-giving, and Mrs. J. Hardill and Mrs. A. Hill won on sealed holes. Most-honest-golfer prize went to Mrs. J. Bowerman, Belleville, and a special prize was won by Mrs. Ian McGillivray, Kawartha.

Draws for golf balls were won by Mrs. Ella Johnston, Islington, Mrs. J. Seiglin, Oakdale, Mrs. J. Marvin, Scarboro, and Mrs. M. McDonald, Belleville.

President Mrs. S. J. Williamson and Mrs. Vanstone, both competitive players themselves, are to be congratulated for the efficient handling which made the tournament enjoyable. It went through like clockwork from an early morning start and finished earlier than expected. "Spotters" on the course cut time losses in looking for balls to a minimum.

The 92 entrants represented 16 Ontario clubs: New Uplands of Thornhill, Islington, Summit of Weston, Toronto Ladies', Lambton, Kawartha, Trenton, Elms of Weston, Fonthill, Pine Point of Weston, Mississauga, Scarboro, Belleville, Oakdale of Toronto West, Lindsay, and Peterborough.

The day ended at a high pitch with some of the ladies venting left-over energy in a square dance. Special bar facilities had been set up for convenience of the tournament guests.

Girls Of 1952 Need No Guards

LONDON (AP)—Women officials who patrol London's railroad stations to guard young girls from vice and racketeers have been told to quit.

The reason: A 1952 miss arriving in the big city is quite capable of looking after herself, according to the national Vigilance Association. The association hired the morality patrols.

"In fact," commented Lady Nunburnholme, chairman of the association, "if anything it's the young men who need protecting and looking after today."

Canadian Open Ontario Standings

Standings from the test matches played by Ontario lady golfers with points to count toward making up a team to send into the Canadian open tournament are announced following the Peterborough Golf Club DeGraw tournament of Wednesday.

On the team, of course, will be Mary Gay, new Ontario champion, who played here, and also last year's champion, Marlene Stewart of Fonthill, who has 82 points.

Miss Ada McKenzie of Toronto Ladies' Club has 63 points, and the fourth member of the team will likely be either Mrs. J. H. McCarter of Lambton, or Mrs. N. J. Carlson of Rosedale, who go into a qualifying round at Cataraqui today with 58 and 57 points. Next in line are Mrs. J. B. Searight, Scarboro, with 51 and Anne Sharpe, Fonthill, with 46.

Following the round at Cataraqui there will be an 18-hole match play on Friday with topnotchers going into another on Saturday.

The Canadian open tournament for the Close Championship, (won last year by Marlene Stewart) will begin August 7th at Mayfair Club, Edmonton.

DUNDEE JUTE

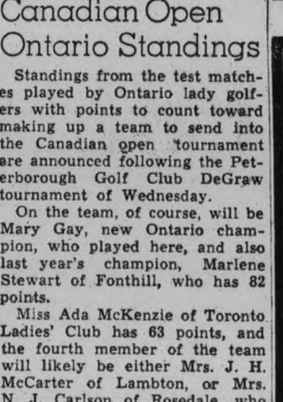
Manufacture of jute goods from the raw material imported from Indian and Pakistan is the leading industry in Dundee, Scotland.



WOMAN OF YEAR — Margaret P. Hyndman, of Toronto, was named Woman of the Year by the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs at the annual convention in Vancouver. The award was for outstanding work and leadership in connection with the equal pay for equal work legislation now in effect in Ontario and Saskatchewan.

Silhouette Trim And Slim

By GAILE DUGAS
(NEA Woman's Editor)

NEW YORK—In England, Spain and Italy, top designers are making a bid for both business and fashion names with their fall designs.

European designers are adhering generally to the lines that have gained acceptance thus far in Paris — the suit with the bloused back, the slim, wrapped coat and the ensemble. But they are also imparting their own feeling to these lines and thus creating clothes of real interest.

These designs represent, of course, the thinking of the haute couture. But they will influence the clothes worn by American women in every walk of life.

The bloused back suit sometimes has a lowered martingale; in other instances, the back is defined by a series of tucks or a snug hipline band. It is by no means "the" only suit look coming out of Europe. It is merely one of many but it's important.

The very slim, wrapped coat that creates a cocoon look is liked by Europeans as well as American designers, for fall. Often, it has no buttons at all and must be wrapped across the front, tucked securely under one arm and held there. Invariably, it tapers at the hemline and thus looks best on tall, slim figures.

The ensemble is important in the plans of European as well as American designers. It usually is based on a slim-lined dress topped by a coat in matching fabric, thus making a team that can split up at short notice and do the wardrobe work of two.

Took Vows In '02, Two Nuns Feted On Golden Jubilee

OTTAWA (CP)—Two cloistered nuns, one of whom has spent 50 years inside the grey-walled Convent of the Precious Blood here, were feted recently in a unique celebration of their golden jubilee in religious orders.

Sister Agnes of Mary (Agnes Transeau) of Brooklyn, N.Y., took her vows 50 years ago this July and never has been outside the convent since. Sister Mary Gertrude (Corrinne Dubuc) of Rhode Island, N.Y., also took her vows in 1902.

Archbishop Alexandre Vachon of Ottawa relaxed the strict rule against outsiders entering the convent to allow friends and relatives of the two nuns to visit them for special services. Such visits have been made only once previously—during the Marian Congress here in 1947.

Archbishop Vachon celebrated mass during which the two nuns repeated the vows they took 50 years ago.

The sisters of the Precious Blood live in almost complete seclusion. A selected few are allowed outside the convent to carry on necessary business. They wear black robes instead of the white and red worn by the others. Two other sisters answer the telephone and attend to other calls.

The sisters' day begins at 5 a.m. and ends at 8:30 p.m. Their time is spent in prayer, sewing religious garments, making prayer beads or painting religious pictures. They speak only during short recreation periods two or three times a day.

Parcels are delivered to the convent through a rotating wicket. The person delivering the parcel does not see the sister who receives it.

Novices are allowed one visit every three months from a relative. Those who have taken their vows may be seen for an hour once a month.

PROTECT your fair, sensitive skin with a new sun allergy cream. Easily applied, it screens the dangerous direct rays.

Skin Sensitive? Cream Can Save You From Sun

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Life in the summer sun need no longer hold terror for the 23 million sensitive skinned people who usually go into hiding at this time of year.

If you belong in this category, you'll be overjoyed to learn that a sun allergy cream is now on the market that will protect your skin from the damaging ultraviolet rays of the sun that cause painful burns, blistering, and even annoying rashes.

It's a colorless cream that smooths on easily, leaving no greasy film to spoil your clothing. Simply smooth it an any exposed areas. The cream effectively forms a screen between your skin and the sun.

According to the manufacturer, tests made on people whose skins are extra-sensitive to the sun have shown that the cream is virtually impenetrable to the ultraviolet rays from intense sunlight as well as those from a sun lamp.

With this cream, there is no longer any reason for you to stay in the shade or coat yourself with conspicuously thick ointments. Rather, you can enjoy a carefree summer, as free from worry as your thicker-skinned friends.

All you have to do is get into the habit of using your sun allergy cream whenever you step out, and you will be fully protected.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Dessert Work Achieved In Refrigerator

Three of my most cooking-wise friends agree on desserts. My sister Peady, and my friends Garny and Eleanor agree that desserts are an important and indispensable part of a meal—BUT—they agree too that it must be prepared first. I'm a fruit woman myself, but I have to give desserts plenty of attention for there is always that dessert-hungry Pete peering over my shoulder and into the icebox.

Refrigerator desserts are ideal for July and August for nobody knows who is going to drive up to their door, and a dessert ready-made in the refrigerator will soothe their shattered nerves.

Do you agree with this dessert dictum? If so, try

RASPBERRY CHIFFON PIE

Make and bake a large pastry shell with high sides. In a saucepan mix together 6 tablespoons sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 3 large egg yolks, 2 teaspoons lemon juice, 1 cup crushed raspberries. Cook these, stirring, over low heat until they boil. Remove from heat and stir into them 2 tablespoons hot raspberry juice or puree and 4 tablespoons raspberry flavored gelatin powder. Cool. When this begins to set, beat it hard with a rotary beater to make it foamy then fold in ½ cup heavy cream which has been whipped. Make a meringue of the leftover egg whites by beating them with ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar until softly whipped, then gradually add 6 tablespoons sugar while beating until stiff. Carefully fold the raspberry mixture into the meringue and pile into cool baked pie shell. Garnish top generously in circles or wagon-wheel spokes with perfect large raspberries and chill at least 2 hours or overnight.

ANGEL PIE

This is a repeat but so many of you told me you liked it that I thought it was worth a second printing.

One and one-half cups granulated sugar, ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar, 4 eggs, yolks and whites separated, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 tablespoon finely grated lemon rind, 1 pint whipping cream. Sift together 1 cup of the sugar and the cream of tartar. Beat the egg whites until stiff but not too dry. Gradually add the sugar mixture to the whites and beat until sugar is dissolved and whites are very stiff. Use this meringue to line the bottom and sides of a deep large well-greased pie plate, preferably glass. Hollow out the centre somewhat but do not make rim thin. Bake at 275 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour—this is a slow oven. Cool this meringue shell. Beat the egg yolks a little and stir into them the remaining ½ cup sugar, the lemon juice and rind. Cook this in top of double boiler, stirring constantly, until very thick. It takes about 10 minutes. Remove from heat and cool. Whip the cream until just stiff. Combine half of the whipped cream with all of the lemon-egg mixture and use this to fill the cooled meringue shell. Cover with the remaining whipped cream. Chill 24 hours. Heavenly!

FLAPPER PIE

Mix together and line a pie plate with 12 graham crackers rolled until as fine as possible, ½ cup melted butter or margarine, 3½ tablespoons brown sugar. Bake this 10 minutes at 350 deg. Fahr. Mix together in top of double boiler ¾ cup brown sugar, 3 tablespoons cornstarch, 2 egg yolks, 1 teaspoon vanilla and 6 or 8 cut-up marshmallows. Stir in 2 cups whole or rich milk. Stir this over boiling water until it thickens. Cool a little then pour into baked crumb shell. Make a meringue of the 2 remaining egg whites and 4 tablespoons sugar by whipping them together until stiff. Spread over filling. Sprinkle a few graham cracker crumbs over top and bake in oven of 350 deg. Fahr. until meringue is tinged with gold. Chill at least 4 hours but 24 hours chilling is recommended.

VACATION AHOY! — Pockets for the beach have come into their own this year. Here (left) a bathing suit of cotton fish net over jersey features a cotton net coolie coat edged in grosgrain and equipped with large inside pockets. (Centre) A one-piece nylon lastex suit with side panels of lace over contrasting color jersey has two nylon edged side pockets. (Right) A beach poncho in terry cloth has wide cuffed neckline, elasticized waistline, and buttoned pockets at the hipline.

TRIM LINES

Overweight is unattractive, unhealthy and unenjoyable. It can spoil a lot of fun in life, since it limits much activity. Those in normal health who weigh somewhat more than they should may find that by keeping to a balanced diet and by cutting down on rich foods and sweets, they may eliminate much of the excess poundage.

6—In Memoriam

CONSTABLE.—In loving memory of a dear husband and dad, Sidney Constable, who passed away July 12th, 1944.
Happy and smiling, always content,
Loved and respected wherever he went
Always thoughtful willing and kind,
These are the memories he left behind.
—Sadly missed and ever remembered by Wife and Family.

HUNTER.—In loving memory of Mrs. Violet Hunter, who passed away July 17th, 1950.
Sweet memories will linger forever,
Time cannot change them it's true;
Years that may come cannot sever
Our loving remembrance of you.
—Art and Val.

Report Shuffle In Diplomats

OTTAWA (CP)—A two-way shuffle of Canada's diplomats was announced today, taking the No. 2 man from the embassy in Washington to Scandinavia.

W.D. Matthews, 46, minister in Washington, was named minister to Sweden and Finland with headquarters at Stockholm. He has been right-hand man to Ambassador Hume Wrong in Washington for some time.

From Stockholm, Thomas A. Stone will go to the Netherlands as ambassador, replacing Pierre Dupuy who has been transferred to Italy.

Mr. Matthews was born in Toronto and studied at Royal Military College, University of Toronto and Osgoode Hall before practising law in Toronto.

During the war he supervised the government's foreign exchange control board and joined external affairs in 1943. He went to Washington in 1949.

Mr. Stone was born in Chatham, Ont., in 1900 and is a graduate of the University of Toronto and University of Paris. He has been with external affairs 25 years and has been in Sweden since 1949.

Will Reopen Railway Talks

MONTREAL (CP)—Contract negotiations between the Canadian railways and the 17 unions repressting 125,000 non-operating workers will re-open here Tuesday, July 22, it was announced today.

Negotiations will be under the chairmanship of Arthur Macnamara, deputy minister of labor, who was appointed federal conciliator Monday. Railways and unions asked for a conciliator when their negotiations for a new agreement to start Sept. 1 reached a stalemate last Friday.

The unions are seeking a 45-cents-an-hour increase, a cost of living bonus, union shop and check-off of union dues.

The railways maintain concession of these demands would cost them $150,000,000 to $167,000,000 a year.

OBITUARIES

ALFRED HARTSHORN

Alfred Hartshorn, 87, formerly of 377 McDonnel St., died Wednesday at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. John Anderson, Old Rosebank Rd., Pickering.

Mr. Hartshorn was born in Leicester, England, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Hartshorn, and has lived in Pickering for the past six months, going there from Peterborough.

He operated a Bible and Tract depot in Peterborough and was a member of the McDonnel St. Gospel Hall.

He leaves three daughters, Mrs. Sam Taylor (Muriel), Peterborough; Mrs. John Anderson (Olive), Pickering; Miss Dorothy Hartshorn, Orillia; and one son, Wilfred Arthur, Tampa, Florida. His wife, the former Alicia Martha Swan, predeceased him in 1949, and one son, Norman Alfred, in the First World War.

The funeral will be held Saturday at 1.30, from the Kaye funeral home. Mr. Samuel Taylor, of the McDonnel St. Gospel Hall, will conduct the service. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

MRS. MARY BROSON

MARMORA — (ENS) —Mrs. Mary Bronson of Stirling died in Belleville General Hospital on Tuesday evening in her 79th year following an illness of three weeks' duration.

She was born in Tudor township, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Peacock, and lived in Springbrook before moving to Stirling ten years ago where she made her home at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Morley Phillips.

Surviving are her husband, Randall Bronson and 11 children: Mrs. Morley Phillips (Edna), Stirling; Mrs. Ed Strebe (Victoria), Trenton; Mrs. Joseph Darrah (Mary), Marmora; Mrs. Thomas McConnell (Martha), Stirling; Mrs. George Cotton (Lottie), Trenton; Mrs. William Wright (Norma), Brampton; Mrs. Oliver Willis (Josephine), Campbellford; Walter Bronson, Cookston; Thomas Bronson, Tweed; Robert Bronson, Tweed; and Delbert Bronson, Trenton. Also surviving are 41 grandchildren, 24 great-grandchildren and two brothers, Thomas Peacock, Corbyville, and Robert Peacock, Cannifton.

The funeral takes place on Friday, service being held in the Grant Funeral Home, Belleville, at 3 p.m. Burial will be in Elmwood cemetery, Corbyville.

London To Be Ringed With Air Raid Sirens

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A ring of five air raid sirens with a sound range of more than one mile will be installed on the perimeter of London as soon as they are delivered, Major W.F.A. Preston, adjutant of the London Civil Defence Organization said today.

The alarm system will warn citizens of approaching enemy aircraft and will be controlled from one control centre manned 24 hours a day.

When an emergency arises, civil defence will establish its own control centre. For the present, Major Preston said, the button to touch off the alarm will be located in police headquarters.

Bundles For Britain

SEOUL, Korea (CP)—Britain has contributed 100,000 pounds to the United Nations appeal for funds for Korean refugees, it was announced here.

Shortened Week Higher Pay Board Suggests

OTTAWA (CP)—A federal conciliation board has unanimously recommended a shortened work week and higher pay for employees of 15 elevator companies at the Head of the Lakes, the Labor Department announced today.

The board recommended:

1. Reduction in the work week to 44 from 48 hours with an accompanying nine-cents-an-hour increase to maintain take-home pay.

2. A general wage increase of 16 cents an hour over the present contractual rate for hourly-paid workers, with a corresponding increase for monthly-paid employees, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1952. This would include 10 cents an hour now being paid in excess of the wage rates set out in existing agreements.

OTHER RECOMMENDATIONS

3. A contract clause providing for maintenance of membership in the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks (A.F.L.-T.L.C.).

4. The check-off of union dues, voluntary on the part of members and irrevocable during the run of the contract.

The union nominee on the board —Ernest Ingles of London, Ont.— also recommended an additional wage increase of five cents an hour with a corresponding increase for monthly-paid employees, effective Sept. 1, 1952.

The union had asked for a 40-hour week with unreduced pay, a general increase of 40 cents an hour, the union shop—under which employees would have to join the union as a condition of work—and compulsory check-off of dues.

The dispute was between the union and the Lakehead Terminal Elevator association, representing these companies at Fort William and Port Arthur:

Canadian Consolidated Grain Company, Eastern Terminal Elevator Company, Federal Grain, Ltd., Manitoba Pool Elevators, McCabe Grain Company, National Grain Company, Ogilvie Flour Mills Company, N.M. Paterson and Sons, Ltd., Saskatchewan Pool Terminals Company, Superior Elevator Company, Searle Grain Company, United Grain Growers Terminals, Ltd., and Westland Elevators, Ltd.

Chairman of the conciliation board was Judge A.H. Dowler of Port Arthur. The companies' nominee was F.R. Evans of Winnipeg.

Violence Flares Over Food Costs

CALCUTTA, India (Reuters)—Violence flared in this teeming metropolis today as leftist-organized crowds demonstrated against the high cost of food.

Clashes between rioters and police broke out on top of a city-wide strike, the latest in a week-long series of disturbances.

More than 125 persons were arrested before darkness fell.

Streetcars and buses were at a standstill in most parts. Armed escorts kept a skeleton service going. Injuries were reported light. A streetcar and a bus were set afire by demonstrators throwing acid.

The protest is organized by a group known as the United Famine Resistance Committee, composed of various leftist parties but not the Communists.

The committee is agitating to force the government to take over control of grain distribution in an effort to halt black marketing.

Truman Spends "Good Night"

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman spent a "very good night" at Walter Reed hospital, aides said today. They reported that Truman expects to get back to the White House by Saturday.

He entered the hospital yesterday for a series of tests as a result of a mild virus infection.

Mrs. Truman was on her way to Washington. She is expected to visit her husband at the hospital's presidential suite after her arrival.

Presidential Secretary Joseph Short said Truman was improving steadily, and that a slight temperature he ran yesterday afternoon had been anticipated.

Short said the President had virtually licked the virus infection which forced him to cancel all engagements this week, he said Truman went to hospital merely for a general check-up.

Mrs. Truman wasn't sent for, but decided to come home to have a look for herself and to keep the President company.

It was the 68-year-old President's first confinement in hospital since he entered the White House April 12, 1945.

Ex-Mayor Of Perth Dies In Car Crash

STITTSVILLE (CP)—Fred W. Burchell, 61, former mayor of Perth, was killed early today when his automobile crashed into a brick wall near the C.P.R. railway crossing here.

Police believe Mr. Burchell fell asleep at the wheel and missed the curve in the road, crashing into the wall built as a protection against a 25-foot gulley. Mr. Burchell was mayor of Perth in 1945 and 1946.

Stittsville is 15 miles southwest of Ottawa.

Pondering Fate Of New Wonder Drug

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP)—The fate of the so-called wonder dug chloromycetin is still being considered by medical exp ts probing into reports it may have caused blood disorders and some deaths.

In the meantime, the Food and Drug Administration said today, the American Medical Association and the drug's manufacturer, Parke Davis and Co., have warned doctors against "indiscriminate" use of the antibiotic.

Chloromycetin, trade name for chloramphenicol, is medicine's best bet so far against typhoid fever. It also has been used effectively against Rocky Mountain spotted fever, whooping cough, typhus fever. Scrub typhus, unduland fever and urinary-tract infections.

The F.D.A. said the drug's future "is still an open question" and that any action it may take must await results of an appraisal of the evidence in close to 200 reported cases of blood disorders and some deaths.

F.D.A. officials said it remained to be seen whether the drug should be limited to certain diseases such as typhoid fever, or whether its use could be continued in a wide variety of serious infections.

Officials told a reporter that "while there seems no doubt that the drug has played some role in causing some of blood disorders reported, the extent of the hazard and the exact role that the drug plays has yet to be defined."

New Ferry Service Helps Forge Vital Link With Africa

By HENRY BUCKLEY

MADRID (Reuters)—A vital link of military and economic importance in bringing Europe and Africa closer together across the strategic straits of Gibraltar has been forged with the inauguration of a new ferry service over the key waterway.

In conjunction with the new service, projects are in the works to speed rail traffic through Spain and further cut the time distance between Africa and Spain and the rest of Europe.

At present, the 4,200-ton "Victoria" transports only passengers and road vehicles, but plans are under way which will permit freight or passenger cars to run from as far away as Stockholm through to Casablanca in French Morocco.

JOINED BY SISTER-SHIP

The Victoria will shortly be joined by a sister-ship, "Virgen de Africa." Each is capable of accommodating 2,000 persons; 100 automobiles and 20 railway cars.

On its maiden trip from Algeciras to Ceuta, Spanish Morocco, a distance of 16 miles, the Victoria cut the previous time of 1¾ hours to one hour. If diverted to the Algeciras-Tangier run, then scheduled time would be two hours.

Spain is working on speeding up rail communications from Hendaye in France to Algeciras on the Straits of Gibraltar, a distance of about 866 miles.

In the event of hostilities in Europe, this line would be a major strategic link between Europe and North Africa. Import-export bank credits are to be used to electrify 146 miles of the line south of Madrid, from Manzanares in Don Quixote's country of La Mancha to Cordoba.

This stretch is at present a major bottleneck in north-south communications through Spain because the line weaves its way through narrow valleys of the Sierra Morena mountains. Curves and steep gradients slow traffic to a walking pace in some parts.

The scheduled time for trains over the worst part of the stretch, about 56 miles between Baeza and Valdepenas, is three hours, nine minutes, an average of 18 miles an hour.—

Industry, where computers are now at work. They do such things as regulating any blending process—in such fields as petroleum and paint and steel—and they could be adapted to any work of this sort, like blending coffee.

Engineering, where a properly-used computer would have prevented a disaster such as the collapse of the Tacoma, Wash., bridge. A computer would take every possible combination of stress and strain into consideration, and a computer-engineered bridge would not be blown down by a surprise wind.

Those are some of the practical uses of computers, uses that are in the foreseeable future. After they're perfected, physicists can turn their attention to the bang tails.

Blame Thieves For Death Of Boatman

WINDSOR (CP)—A group of men who stole a speedboat from the dock of a Detroit riverfront bar were sought today as responsible for the drowning of a Windsor area boatman.

The victim was Edward Makulski, 28, of suburban Riverside.

Police pressed search for the men, either four or five in number, after the stolen boat exploded and became engulfed in flames when they stole a supply of gasoline.

Officers said they doubted that any of the boat thieves had been drowned but they were making a check of hospitals for burn victims.

They said they believed the men, speeding in the stolen craft, had caused Makulski's boat to capsize when it became engulfed in the wash of the speedboat.

Makulski's body was found early Wednesday. A short time later the stolen boat exploded.

Man Murders Stepdaughter

NEW YORK (AP)—Vincent Pugh, 39, killed his married stepdaughter and critically wounded his wife today after a heated quarrel.

Police said he shot his stepdaughter, Mrs. Jane Curley Whalen, 22, as she lay asleep in her mother's apartment. Then, said police, he turned a souvenir German rifle on his wife, Elinor, 38, when she sat up in bed in an adjoining room.

Police said Pugh recently was released from hospital where he had been treated for tuberculosis. Mrs. Whalen, estranged from her husband, had returned home to live with her mother and stepfather.

Pugh blamed his stepdaughter for increasing friction between himself and his wife.

Lord And Lady Elgin On Way To St. Thomas

MONTREAL (CP)—Lord and Lady Elgin are scheduled to arrive here July 22 on their way to St. Thomas, Ont., to take part in the Elgin county centennial week celebrations Aug. 3 to 10.

W.H.A. Sparling, industrial commissioner of St Thomas, will meet them here as they land from the liner Empress of Scotland.

It is expected Lord and Lady Elgin will spend their time in Montreal and Ottawa from their arrival until the eve of the centennial opening.

Find Bogus Money Floating Down Seine

PARIS (Reuters)—A policeman spotted a battered old suitcase floating down the River Seine today, fished it out, opened it and found $100,000 in what looked like crisp new U.S. bills.

A laboratory check showed the money was counterfeit. Experts said the ink and paper were bogus though the plates were good.

Hired Children To Beg In Streets Of Italy

TURIN, Italy (Reuters)—Two men were given suspended sentences of four months yesterday for hiring children from desperately-poor Italian families and forcing them to beg in the streets.

They set the children to work in Italy's big cities. Half the youngsters' earnings were sent to their families, the rest kept by the men.

The two, Cosimo da Cicco and Ruogero Mangiatorelli, pleaded guilty.

Roseneath W.I. Holds Annual Cooking School

ROSENEATH (ENS) — Roseneath Women's Institute entertained the members of their sister societies on Tuesday evening when their annual cooking school was held. Organizations represented were: Centenary W.A., St. James Anglican W.A., United Church W.A., Fenella Women's Institute and the United Church W.M.S.

The president, Mrs. Harold Taylor, opened the meeting and introduced the dietitian, Mrs. Bryant Scriver, Kitchener.

Mrs. Scriver made and baked during the evening: a meat loaf, weiner delight, sweet dough rolls, cherry coffee log, orange rosette cake, peanut butter twirls, Miracle Whip cake and gingerbread cookies.

Prizes were won by the following: Lady coming the farthest distance, Mrs. Harold Bull, Mount Dennis; mother with the most sons at home, Mrs. Arnold Elder; Mrs. Edgar Carew carried off the prize for the mother with the most daughters at home. Other lucky winners were: Mrs. A. J. Campbell, Mrs. George Hoover, Miss Bernice McNab and Mrs. E. Rae Brown.

Ask Assistance Halt Abductions

BONN, Germany (AP)—The West German Parliament appealed today to the United Nations and the Council of Europe against Communist abductions of Germans from the Bonn republic and West Berlin.

By an overwhelming vote, Parliament called on the two international organizations to secure the release of those snatched by the Reds and to prevent future abductions.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government also asked for authority to increase the strength of the crack federal border police, charged with defending the 600-mile-long frontier between the western and Soviet occupation zones.

West Berlin's government already is barricading its roads into the surrounding Soviet zone to stop further kidnapping forays there.

The minister for all-German affairs, Jakob Kaiser, told the Chamber the Reds had kidnapped more than 100 Germans from West Berlin and West Germany since 1948, and "the case of Dr. Linse is the high point of the terror wave from the east."

PROTECTED BY WEST BERLIN POLICE workers set up posts for a new steel barrier near an American-Soviet sector border in Berlin. A huge sign in the foreground warns West Berliners that they are leaving the American sector and should they be impounded by the Soviets they will have to accept the consequences. In the far background is a Soviet border guardhouse. Communist newspapers in East Berlin referred to the recent snatching of a West Berlin jurist, Dr. Walter Linse, as "an obscure kidnap story" constructed by West Berlin to justify erection of the barrier.

Rainy Season Arrives Again In Korea

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA, (CP)—It's the rainy season again in Korea, and the country was ready for it. The lush growth of the countryside was turning yellow. The peasants sat disconsolately on the ditch embankments, watching their crops wilt.

Army Service Corps vehicles sent up clouds of flour-like dirt on roads in the rear areas, the dust hovering 20 or 30 feet in the air and seldom getting a chance to settle.

DAYTIME QUIET

Up forward, the infantry dozed by day, sheltered in cool dug-outs. Only important things like food and beer issues brought them into the mid-day heat.

Then the rains came, starting June 29. In the Korean rainy season, rain is followed by heat. At first the rain and sunshine are two-day cycles. Later, in mid-August, it will be four days' rain and four days' sun.

The main roads were full of puddles, but the bottoms held. Korea now has a network of good all-weather roads and supply and manoeuvre should be no problem if the Communists decide on a rainy-season push.

SEA OF MUD

Canadians changing location June 30 slithered down their hills, the long staircases they'd carved into the slopes having washed away. Vehicles slosed to the bottom. Troops moving in had a harder time getting up.

In the rear areas the farmers were content. Within hours, spectacularly, the countryside was rich green again.

Rain has brought a let-up in the incidence of Manchurian fever which has taken toll of United Nations strength. Doctors, reporting spectacular success in cutting mortality to five per cent from 40 look for a let-up in new cases until fall. They say the tick carrying the disease goes to ground during the rains.

But the malarial mosquito thrives in the ponds and stagnant reservoirs the wet season brings. However, against that the soldier has his paludrine and chloroquin. There is no protection yet against Manchurian fever.

LETHAL BABY—This is the new, controversial FD-25 "Baby Bomber" offered by Fletcher Aircraft Corporation, of Pasadena, Calif. Designed to eliminate enemy ground installations at a fraction of the cost of a modern jet fighter, the plane is only 30 feet long, weighs 2,500 pounds when fully armed and has a 250-h.p. engine.

Three Breakins Net Havelock Thief $25

HAVELOCK (ENS) — Three business places were broken into here in the early hours of Tuesday morning—E. D. Chiles general store where $15 was stolen, Sanderson's hardware where $10 was taken and B. Jewell's garage where nothing was obtained owing to the burglar being disturbed and having to make a quick exit.

Sanderson's hardware was the first to be entered. Mrs. R. Hamilton, who lives across the street, watched the man for some time trying to gain entrance. She called her father-in-law, William Hamilton, who communicated with chief constable Hall. By this time Chiles store had been entered.

The burglar entered both places through the east window of the basement, going up into the store and leaving both buildings by the main door. When the police and others caught up with him he had entered Jewell's garage by a back window and made his escape through the office door when disturbed by the police. The man was on foot, and was chased around several of the village streets. Chief Hall is investigating.

Manitoba Asks For Iron Lungs

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Manitoba Health Department today sought to locate additional iron lungs for treatment of poliomyelitis victims following an outbreak of the disease that has taken three lives in a Mennonite community at Winkler.

Dr. C. R. Donovan, deputy minister of health, said more than a dozen cases have been reported in the community 80 miles southwest of here. Three persons have died. Manitoba has asked Ontario whether it has iron lungs available which might be sent here if the disease spreads.

In Toronto, officials at the Hospital for Sick Children said preparations have been completed for shipment of two iron lungs to Winnipeg.

TALL TALK — In the year that the Korean truce talks have been going on at Panmunjom, there's been a heap of talking—and it's all heaped up in this stack of official records. YNC John J. Koval, of Eldorado, Ill., Navy stenographer when the talks started on July 11, 1951, is five feet, 11½ inches tall, but the pile of records is more than seven feet high.

Lakefield Boys Attend Marmora Church Camp

LAKEFIELD (ENS)—A number of Lakefield boys have recently returned from a vacation spent at Camp Quin-Mo-Lac and are most enthusiastic in their praises of the holiday they had.

The beautifully located camp on Moira Lake is owned by the Young Peoples' Union of the Bay of Quinte Conference, United Church of Canada and covers an area of three acres with two and one-half miles of shore line with sandy beach.

There were 105 persons, including leaders, at the camp and, because of lack of accommodation some had to sleep in the tool shed and others in an old street car. The boys ranged in age from 10 to 15 years at that time, although different age groups are accommodated from time to time.

The Rev. Lloyd Shorten of the O.R.E.C., Toronto was camp director, and others who acted as leaders were Don Leslie of Belleville, the Rev. R. McLelland of Napanee, the Rev. Howard E. Beare of Springbrook, the Rev. O. Wagar of Belleville, the Rev. B. Beckell of Ivanhoe, the Rev. W. H. Tonge of Lakefield and Robert Peoples of Peterborough.

Cabin leaders were Walter Dainard, Ralph Brown and Hugh Chown of Peterborough, A. Sutton and Glen Stinson of Belleville.

Those from Lakefield who attended were Bill Hunter, Murray Orr, Arthur Eaton, Ken. Darling, Doug. Newson, Jim Galvin, Jack Breaker and Gary Jones of Young's Point.

Drain Lachine Canal Till Hole Repaired

MONTREAL (CP)—The Lachine Canal was drained between locks No. 2 and No. 3 today for repairs of a leak discovered several days ago in one of the side walls.

Canal officials said they notified shipping companies and industries using the canal that it will be drained at that point. Repairs are expected to be completed late today.

"Would Lie Awake Till All Hours of the Night"

This Man Says Nerves Kept Him From Getting Proper Sleep. Was Rundown and Suffered From Stomach Disorders, Headache, Backache. Tells How Syntona Helped Him.

"Before I began taking Sytona I used to lie awake all hours of the night, but I have this grand medicine to thank for my relief and now I'm like a different person," said Mr. Walter Perrin, of 13 MacNab street, Hamilton, Ontario, in a recent interview.

"Just seemed that I couldn't get to sleep, but would roll and toss thinking about everything under the sun. This condition weakened me and I commenced to suffer a lot with my health in general.

"My stomach became upset and got so that everything I ate caused indigestion and gas pressed around my heart. My bowels were constipated and I'd often get bad headaches and had no appetite. All the time I suffered with a dull aching pain in my back and my nerves were all on edge.

"I read how Syntona was helping a lot of other people right here in town, and although I had tried different other things without relief I started taking this medicine. It was only a short time when I felt better and with this encouragement I kept on taking it. Now you wouldn't think I am the same person. First of all my nerves are much better so I have no trouble at all getting to sleep at night. I feel stronger, my bowels are regular, appetitie is improved greatly and I no longer suffer from stomach upset, headache or backache."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store. Find out how it can help you, too.

Accuse 13 Unionists Of Operating Combine

A QUICK TURN to avoid an oncoming car and this truck loaded with logs flipped over and landed upside down on the Lakefield highway near the filtration plant Thursday evening. Driver James Dugan, 188 Lake St., seen pointing to the cab of the truck, was only shaken up.—(Parks Studio Photo).

Truck Upset By Load Of Logs In Quick Turn

Traffic on the Lakefield highway was held up for nearly 45 minutes early Thursday night when a truck loaded with logs overturned, just south of the filtration plant. Nobody was injured.

The truck, driven by 39-year-old James Dugan of 188 Lake St. was going south on Highway 28. Just south of the filtration plant Dugan saw Jim Monks, 13, of 12 Mill St., riding south on his bicycle.

Dugan told O.P.P. Constable George Louth that Monks seemed to be off balance as he pedalled down the middle of the west lane of the highway. To avoid hitting him Dugan swerved to the left.

After completing this manoeuvre he noticed a northbound car approaching; he tried to cut back sharply into the west lane of traffic, just ahead of the bicyclist. The load is believed to have shifted and the truck overturned with most of it falling in the east lane. The chains held the logs together.

Dugan was shaken up but not injured.

The six-ton truck received about $80 damage.

Army Marches Said Too Tough

WASHINGTON (AP)—An army doctor today recommended easier marches for young soldiers in training—to help save their feet from injury.

Lt.-Col. Francis D. Threadgill of the United States Army's Fort Ord, Calif., hospital, reported evidence that long road marches given before proper conditioning of new men helped cause "march fracture"—a fracture of certain bones of the forefoot.

Although commonest among soldiers, it is sometimes seen in waitresses, postmen and others who walk a great deal, the colonel said.

In actual combat the footsoldier is seldom called upon to do long-lasting marching without let-up, Threadgill said. "It would appear unwise to cause march fractures by creating conditions which will not be met in the field."

The colonel also took a whack at "speed" marching, and said, moreover, that road marches should never be made on paved roads.

Last Three Qualify In Cage Tournament

HELSINKI (AP)—Cuba, Hungary and Egypt today became the last three qualifiers for the Olympic basketball tournament as the preliminary elimination tournament ended.

Egypt beat Italy 66-62, Cuba whipped Belgium 71-63 and Hungary defeated Greece 47-44.

Previously Canada, Bulgaria and the Philippines had qualified through the pre-Olympic contests. Ten teams, including the United States and Russia, were not required to play in the qualifying events.

Truman Signs Law Continuing Support

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman signed into law today a bill continuing government support of prices for cotton, wheat, corn, rice, tobacco and peanuts at 90 per cent of parity through 1954.

Parity is a price determined by the government to be fair to farmers in terms of things they buy.

The farm support program was a key issue in the 1948 presidential campaign and is likely to figure strongly again this year. Some Republicans claim the Democrats deliberately drove down prices four years ago in a bid for farm votes.

Tanks Guarding Streets As Qavam Named Premier

TEHRAN, Iran (Reuters)—Tanks and armored cars patrolled the main streets of Tehran today as Ahmed Qavam, 77-year-old millionaire statesman, prepared to take over the premiership relinquished yesterday by Mohammed Mossadegh. Qavam, who headed the government in 1946-47 during a period of difficult relations with Russia, was chosen yesterday by the Majlis House of Representatives to succeed Mossadegh, who had held office for 15 months.

There is still widespread support for Mossadegh, who resigned because Shah Reza Pahlevi refused to grant him wider emergency powers. The main issue was Mossadegh's demand that he should also be war minister, which would have given him control of the armed forces.

Thirty pro-Mossadegh deputies boycotted the Majlis session which elected Qavam by 40 votes, with two abstentions. The Mossadegh supporters later issued a statement claiming the election was unconstitutional.

They claim Qavam needed a majority vote of three-quarters of the deputies in Tehran at the time, not a simple majority.

The appearance of military forces on Tehran streets backed up a reminder from the military governor of the capital that martial law is still in force.

MAY SETTLE QUARREL

The change in leadership possibly may bring settlement of the long quarrel between Iran and Britain over Mossadegh's nationalization last year of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's Iranian properties.

The major problem Qavam inherits is Iran's near-bankruptcy, brought about by the oil-nationalization policies that Mossadegh once forecast would lead to general prosperity.

Qavam, 77, was Premeir in 1946 and 1947. He pressed the Security-Council fight that led to the ouster of Russian troops from the border province of Azerbaijan and rejected subsequent Russian demands for the right to exploit oil resources in northern Iran.

Qavam is regarded as pro-Western and long-dimmed hopes of an Iranian oil settlement flickered to life again in London. Only a trickle of oil is coming from installations that, under British control, once turned out 30,000,000 tons a year.

Diplomats in London said they believe, Qavam ultimately will be willing to talk with the British about oil, though none expects an immediate resumption of negotiations.

$25,000 Fire Razes Burlington Yacht Club

HAMILTON — (CP) — The new Burlington Yacht Club near here was destroyed by fire early today. Loss is estimated at $25,000.

The building had only recently been completed and had not been officially opened. A yacht and an automobile also were destroyed.

Strikers Sign Shop Agreement

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Striking C.I.O. United Steelworkers and the Union Railroad, a subsidiary of United States Steel, announced today the renewal of a union-shop contract.

Agreement covers only the union shop—compulsory union membership—one of the stumbling blocks holding up settlement of the crippling steel strike. A separate wages and conditions contract will be worked out later.

United Steelworkers president, Philip Murray said:

"This is further evidence of the industry's hypocritical position on the question of union shop in the industry.

LAUGHING STOCK

"The question of the so-called principle to which this industry clings must now make United States Steel and the industry the laughing stock of the nation."

A U.S. Steel spokesman said:

"The agreement does not pertain to the steel industry. It is strictly a railroad issue and Murray knows that."

Industry wants a "watered-down" version of the union shop made part of a separate strike-ending agreement with Pittsburgh Steel.

The modified version for which Pittsburgh Steel signed calls for new employes to join the union but allows them to withdraw between the 20th and 30th day of employment.

Labor Party Retains Seat

DUNDEE (CP)—The Labor party retained its seat in yesterday's Dundee East parliamentary by-election.

Labor candidate George Morgan Thomson won the seat in a four-way fight. The election was caused by the death of Labor member Thomas Cook who won the seat in last October's general election with a majority of 3,805 over his only opponent, a Conservative candidate.

Results of yesterday's test were: Thomson 22,161; Paul Cowcher, Conservative and National Liberal 14,305; Donald Stewart, Scottish National party 2,931; Edward MacFarlane, World Parliament party 290.

Two other parliamentary by-elections are pending. Both are considered safe seats—one for Labor, the other for the Conservatives.

Hannam Says Freight Hike May Be Economic Disaster

OTTAWA (CP)—H.H. Hannam, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, today termed the railways' latest demand for further freight rate increases as a further inflationary swirl which "could well lead the nation into an economic recession of major proportions."

The leader of the 400,000-farmer member organization said in a statement the railays' application for another 6 per cent hike in rates would deal agriculture a blow that "is both severe and unfair." It would drain away the farmers' purchasing power, already in decline.

"BITTER DISAPPOINTMENT"

The railways already had been granted six separate general freight increases since March 1948, totalling 70 per cent, Mr. Hannam said. The new applications will be "a bitter disappointment to Canadian citizens, consumers as well as producers, coming as they do at a time when there was a general feeling that inflation had been licked."

"Whether railway employees in the non-operating trades are deserving of some adjustments in wages and working conditions, we do not know," Mr. Hannam said. "But organized agriculture wishes employees, railway officials and government authorities to know that freight rate increases now asked for by the railways, and on top of this a 45-cent-an-hour increase for employees, if all passed on to the public in freight rates would place an intolerable burden on the agricultural industry.

"This whole thing looks to us like another swirl in the vicious spiral which, beginning by draining essential purchasing power from Canada's basic industry of agriculture, could well lead the nation into an economic recession of major proportions."

3 Rob Plant Of $13,000 In Toronto

Trio Steals Payroll 10 Minutes After Delivery Made

TORONTO (CP)—Police say three armed men stole a $13,000 payroll from the Rowntree Co. Ltd. today. The bandits walked into the west-end chocolate manufacturing plant shortly after the payroll money had been delivered. They held up the staff and left with the money.

Fifteen minutes later an automobile believed used by the men was found by police but there was no trace of its occupants or of the money.

One of the holdup men was described as five feet nine inches tall, weighing 175 pounds. He had slicked-down blond hair. Another bandit was blond, too, but the third was dark. Police report they range in age from 25 to 30.

IDENTIFY STOLEN CAR

One of the Rowntree employees spotted the fleeing bandit car—a 1950 two-tone cream one—and gave police a description. It belongs to a Toronto businessman, police said, and was stolen shortly before the holdup.

The bandits pulled the earphones from the switchboard girl's head when they appeared in the plant. They damaged the board to prevent calls to police.

Office manager Len Gelly said the men entered the plant 10 minutes after the armored car delivered the payroll.

Plan Meeting On Far East

TOKYO (AP)—The United States Foreign Office said today the United States, Canada, Britain, France and Japan will confer late this month in Washington on Far Eastern exports controls—policies affecting mainly Communist China.

The office said the conference will consider means of achieving the closest co-operation.

Extent of export control to Red China varies among the five countries. America and Japan embargo practically everything, unlike the others.

Meanwhile the Japan-China trade development congress decided to negotiate with Red China to buy 10,000 tons of coking coal, 115,000 tons of oil shale and other goods worth more than £10,000 sterling in exchange for bicycles, typewriters and seaweed, all free export items.

Mayor Can Do Own Prosecuting

TORONTO (CP)—Senior Magistrate Thomas Elmore said today Mayor Allan Lamport can take steps to prosecute a man the mayor described yesterday as the "king of the bootleggers" without going to the Ontario attorney-general.

The mayor said yesterday he plans to see Attorney General Porter about dealing with the bootlegger. He said the man uses younger men to "front" for him in his activities.

Magistrate Elmore said in an interview that the prosecution of liquor cases is not the concern of the attorney-general but comes under the jurisdiction of the city itself which appoints a special prosecutor and pays his salary.

Baby Carriage Used For Stolen Tickets

CRYSTAL BEACH (CP)—Police charge that a baby carriage was used to take stolen amusement park tickets out of a restaurant here.

They have charged Douglas Armstrong, 28, who works in the restaurant, with stealing the tickets, and his 19-year-old wife, Anne, mother of a two-month-old child, with receiving them.

They say the wife used to take the baby in the carriage to the restaurant.

The couple will appear in court July 22.

Ring, $700 Vanish

BEAVERTON (CP)—A diamond ring and about $700 in cash were missing from the clothing of Saul Mager, Toronto clothing manufacturer, when his body was searched after his death in a level-crossing crash north of Brechin a week ago. This was revealed by crown counsel at an inquest last night. Joe Mager, brother of the victim, said in a telephone conversation later that his brother had telephoned him shortly before his death and told him he had purchased a diamond ring at Montreal and that he was carrying $700.

Order Troops In Berlin To Aid Police

BERLIN (CP)—The western Allied commandants of Berlin today ordered their military police patrol units to give immediate aid to West Berlin police in the fight to stamp out Communist border raids and kidnapping attempts.

The commandants decided at a routine meeting to increase military patrol activity in West Berlin.

This was taken here to mean that military police will patrol the borders of the city with the surrounding Soviet zone and be ready to rush immediate aid to any one of the 15 strongpoints on the borders set up by West Berlin police.

BARRIERS ELECTED

Meanwhile, West Berlin crews hammered the last spike into 127 barriers blocking off escape routes for Communist criminals seeking the safety of the surrounding Soviet zone.

At the same time, the western allies lifted an old restriction and permitted the West Berlin police assigned to border and commando duty to carry rifles. Pistols had been standard equipment since the force was created after the war.

The measures grew out of public indignation over the Communist kidnapping of Dr. Walter Linse, a leading official of the anti-Red Free Jurists League. The lawyer was whisked into the east zone and despite personal intervention by the United States high commissioner, John J. McCloy, with Soviet General Vasily Chuikov, has not been seen since.

The 127 points now protected on the western side flank all three western sectors where they touch on the east zone.

Russian Diplomat Sails From England

LONDON (AP)—Russian diplomat Pavel Kuznetsov, asked to leave Britain for wheedling state secrets from a British Foreign Office employee, left for home last night.

A Foreign Office announcement today said the former second secretary of the Soviet Embassy sailed on the Polish ship Jaroslaw Dabrowski. He was accompanied by his wife and their five-year-old son.

The British government last Sunday asked Russia to recall Kuznetsov within a week because he received official secrets from William Marshall, a young Foreign Office radio operator.

Diplomatic immunity protected the Russian from prosecution.

Assiniboine Goes To Scrapyard

HALIFAX (CP)—The Assiniboine is headed for the scrap yards.

Sidney J. Simon, president of the Guard Salvage Company Ltd., said yesterday breakers begin work next week.

From the time Lt.-Cmdr. E. R. Mainguy of Chemainus, B.C., now an admiral and Chief of Naval Staff, brought the destroyer from England to the day she was "paid off" in Liverpool, the Assiniboine's 4.7-inch guns pounded out a record second to none in the 42-year history of the Royal Canadian Navy.

"The Bones" was sold to War Assets Corporation in 1946 after playing a major role in Canada's naval engagements in the Second World War.

She made three sub "kills," captured the German merchantship Hannover and participated in several daring English Channel engagements.

First Case Involving Union Men

Shut Off Delivery Of Bakery Goods To Winnipeg Chain

OTTAWA (CP)—Combines Commissioner T. D. MacDonald today accused 13 trade union members of joining in an illegal combine to keep up bread prices in the Winnipeg area.

In Canada's first combines case involving union men, the commissioner lodged the finding against 1951 executive members of Winnipeg Local No. 1 of the Canadian Bakery Workers' Union (C.C.L.).

His report presented to Justice Minister Garson today found that the group violated the federal Combines Investigation Act by its admitted 1951 action in shutting off delivery of bakery products to a Winnipeg retail chain that had cut prices.

NO CHARGES LAID

The findings do not carry formal charges against those named. It is up to Mr. Garson to decide if any are to be lodged. He said in a statement: "Consideration will be given as to what further action should be taken."

The alleged offence of the 13 was set out by the commissioner as an attempt to ensure that there would be no price competition in the retail sale of bread made by the five companies supplying the major part of Winnipeg's bakery products. No allegations were brought against the companies.

Penalties for combines offences, under the Combines Act or the Criminal Code, range from a nominal fine up to two years in jail.

Two years ago, a combines finding was brought in against six Albert and British Columbia baking firms for conspiring to lessen competition in bread business. After a 99-day trial they were fined a total of $30,000 late last year. The conviction is under appeal.

ONLY MEMBERS NAMED

In Commissioner MacDonald's finding against the union members—a major milestone in the history of combines legislation in Canada—the union itself was not named as guilty.

The individual members named in the report were Local President J. E. Shephered, General Secretary J. E. G. Robinson and Executive Council members J. Ambler, J. Citulec, W Coutts, N. Goodman, W. Hall, R. Holt, D. Johnson, A. McKenzie, H. Roberts, P. Scinocca and G. Soole.

Coldwell Sees June Election

SASKATOON (CP)—M.J. Coldwell, national C.C.F. leader, last night predicted that the next federal election "probably will be held the last Monday in June, 1953."

Speaking at a public meeting here in connection with the annual conference of the Saskatchewan C.C.F. party, he said:

"Many officials think that the next election will be held in April, before the coronation. I feel. . . it will be called for the last Monday in June, or in October at the very latest."

He also described as "gerrymandering" the redistribution of federal governments seat in Saskatchewan and said many constituencies have been enlarged to unfair proportions.

"My own constituency of Rosetown-Biggar (Sask.) now is nearly twice as large as when I first represented it in Parliament," he said.

Truman May Make Partial Seizure Of Steel Industry

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House was reported today to be seriously considering a plan to seize part of the strike-bound steel industry under the Selective Service Act. This word came from a high administrative source who said Justice Department lawyers were instructed yesterday afternoon to prepare papers leading to possible partial seizure of the industry. The critical situation which has resulted from the steel strike was discussed yesterday at a White House meeting, presided over by the acting defence mobilizer, John R. Steelman.

The Selective Service Act gives the President power to seize only plants which fail to produce under direct contract with procurement agencies.

President Truman seized the entire steel industry last April 8, but June 2 the Supreme Court ruled that he lacked authority to do so and ordered the mills returned to private ownership. The April 8 seizure was based on no specific law but rather on what the justice department said were the president's inherent constitutional powers.

TOO CUMBERSOME

Former Solicitor-General Philip Perlman told both the district and supreme courts in the seizure case that the government had considered seizure under the Selective Service Act but had decided the method was too cumbersome and too difficult to pursue.

At yesterday's White House meeting, in addition to Steelman, were Munitions Board Chairman John Small, National Production Authority chief Henry H. Fowler, Steelman's manpower chief Arthur Fleming and other high officials.

The official who told of the new seizure plan declined to be quoted by name.

SETTLEMENT RUMORED

The report came as officials declined either to confirm or deny rumors that a secret settlement had been reached to the dispute.

C.I.O. President Philip Murray left Pittsburgh for Chicago without commenting on the report that a steel agreement would be announced next Monday. Negotiators broke off their talks last Monday.

Murray is due back in Pittsburgh on Monday to address a steel-union wage policy committee.

It was learned here that military authorities are so concerned over the growing impact of the strike on arms production they plan to urge strongly to industry, organized labor and the government that the mills reopen.

Say 350 Houses Wrecked By 'Quake

TOKYO (AP)—At least nine persons died and 34 were hurt early today when they were pinned in buildings collapsed by an earthquake in central Japan, police reported.

At least 350 houses were knocked down by the tremor at 1:10 a.m. (12:10 p.m. EDT Thursday). The shock, felt throughout Japan's main island of Honshu, was strongest in the thickly-populated Osaka-Kyoto area. It hit Tokyo with a rippling motion that lasted more than a minute.

Magna Charta Island Put Up For Sale

LONDON (AP)—Magna Charta Island, where King John put his seal on the great charter of liberty back in 1215, went up for sale today—asking price 9,500 pounds.

The three-acre island in the River Thames opposite Runnymede is owned by Lady Mannon.

Western Ontario Battered By Bad Storms

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Thunderstorms flashed across Ontario last night, flattening crops, felling trees and flooding streets.

One person was struck by lightning.

In the southwestern section of the province, lightning struck a barn setting it ablaze, near Wingham. Hydro poles were snapped and the area was blacked out for more than two hours. Telephone circuits from London to Exeter and Zurich were out for some time.

On the south shore of Lake Simcoe around Sutton the thunderstorm was trailed by a baby cyclone which ripped a half-mile swath through the outskirts of the community.

Winds reported up to 96 miles an hour thrashed through several garages and splintered a 125-foot chicken house.

A 65-foot maple tree was split by lightning and sent crashing down on a six-room house, crushing the roof.

At Timmins, Paul Dubois, 12, was struck by lightning during an afternoon storm. His condition was termed "good" by hospital authorities.

Steak Dinner Cools Tourists

STURGEON FALLS (CP)—Because a waitress in a restaurant here accidentally overcharged a United States couple for breakfast, the tourists are to be treated to a steak dinner in a hotel or restaurant close to their home in Rochester, N.Y.

Henri B. Lecomte of Rochester wrote the Chamber of Commerce here that recently he and his wife were charged 85 cents for a serving of toast and coffee in a restaurant in this Northern Ontario community 30 miles west of North Bay.

The Chamber of Commerce sent a letter of apology. Then the directors decided to arrange through the Rochester Chamber of Commerce for the steak dinner. Mayor Roy H. Cockburn of Sturgeon Falls donated a pound of caviar as a side dish.

The Chamber of Commerce letter said the waitress who served the Lecomtes made a mistake in the amount of the check.

Radio Engineer Sees 7 Flying Saucers

WASHINGTON (AP)—At 2 a.m., today, radio engineer Elmer Chambers looked up at the sky. Here's what he says he saw:

Six or seven bright orange discs were streaking through the sky, in single file. The saucers sped along for about five seconds and then each, in turn, veered sharply upward and disappeared.

Chambers, 41, is chief engineer at the WRC radio station transmitter in the Washington suburbs.

Freed of Contempt Charge

Newspaperwoman Answers Questions

MONTREAL (CP)—Mr. Justice Francois Caron of Superior Court today relieved Mrs. Jacqueline Sircis Moore, Montreal newspaper woman, of a charge of contempt of court after she agreed to answer questions in Montreal's vice inquiry.

Mrs. Moore, a staff writer for Weekend Picture Magazine, was found in contempt July 3 when she declined to answer questions about the names of bookies who gave her information for an article which appeared in the Montreal Standard in 1946.

Mr. Justice Caron is conducting the inquiry into charges that vice was allowed to flourish in the city during a 10-year period.

In holding her in contempt, Mr. Justice Caron ordered her to appear in court the following day, July 4, for sentencing. Later, he said he was discussing the matter with Jacques Courtois, Mrs. Moore's laywer, and would postpone his decision until today.

READS LIST OF NAMES

Asked today by Pacifique Plante, counsel for the petitioner's of the inquiry, whether she was ready to answer the question and give the court the names of the bookies, Mrs. Moore told Mr. Justice Caron, "yes, my lord."

"I have tried to make out a list to the best of my ability," Mrs. Moore added. But she said the article was written long ago—in 1946 — and her memory might not be completely accurate.

Mrs. Moore then read out a list of more than 10 names.

Mr. Justice Caron asked counsel if there were any further questions. Told there were none, he turned to Mrs. Moore and said: "I congratulate you for having consented to answer the question. You are relieved of the contempt ruling."

Research Advances Hope Of Finding Vaccine For Polio

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says today in a copyright story that research originating at the Hospital for Sick Children here and being continued in collaboration with the Connaught Laboratories has opened the possibility that some day a vaccine for poliomyelitis may be produced. The story says that though the research still is in the experimental stage, recent successes achieved by Dr. Andrew Rhodes in propagating polio virus on cultures of living flesh open the possibility for the eventual production of a polio vaccine.

The advance by the young Toronto physician and researcher is regarded, the paper says, as a major step in the polio-research programs being carried on in Canada, the United States, Europe and elsewhere.

RESISTED DISEASE

The paper says Dr. Rhodes first gave a serum from recovered cases of polio to mice, and when these were later infected with polio they resisted the disease.

The story adds:

"This was not a wholly new step, and had been done previously on rhesus monkeys as lab animals. . . .

"Secondly, and this is the step that holds out great possibilities of a toxoid, which in turn would be a resistance-producing agent in the bodies of inoculated persons, Rhodes' group has been maintaining and propagating polio virus on living flesh tissues, using heart, testicular and similar tissue. . .

"The next phase is the . . . culturing of these viruses to ascertain whether they may lose some of their lethal and paralyzing qualities, yet retain the power to cause mild infections and consequent natural body action to fight them.

"If they do, they could produce the first active resistance immunization known."

27 Reds Stage House Walkout

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The 27-man Communist bloc in the lower house of India's Parliament walked out today after the House speaker ordered one of the left-wingers to shut up or leave.

The walkout climaxed chaotic debate over extension of a preventive detention bill used by the government to curb Communist and communal violence.

The walkout came after parliamentary police attempted to remove a Communist challenging the speaker's right to silence him.

Party spokesman H.N. Mookerjee said "since hands have been laid on one of our members, our sensibilities have been very much hurt."

See No Sign Of Break In Truce Deadlock

MUNSAN, Korea (AP)—Korean truce negotiators resumed off-the-record talks today with no sign of a break in the deadlock over prisoner exchange.

United Nations and Communist delegates met for 41 minutes, ending a four-day recess asked by the Reds. They agreed on another session at 11 A.M. tomorrow (10 P.M. EDT Friday).

Today's was the 11th meeting under a Communist-requested news blackout which began July 4. The Reds' requests stirred speculation that they were consulting higher authority on possible concessions in the prisoner issue—final obstacle to an armistice.

Brig.-Gen. William P. Nuckols, Allied spokesman, would not say whether the Reds were ready to accept the U.N. refusal to force unwilling prisoners to rejoin Communism.

He declined comment also on announcements from the United States that Jacob Malik, Russia's U.N. delegate, cancelled plans to sail for home, and that India has initiated discussions with Red China aimed at ending the war.

British, Japs Agree On Two Main Points

TOKYO (Reuters) — Commonwealth representatives and Japanese officials announced today they have reached agreement on two main points covering the use of bases here by Commonwealth forces.

The two points, which have been submitted to the respective governments for approval, cover entry of vessels and planes and use of public utilities by Commonwealth forces.

Commonwealth representatives have been negotiating with the Japanese to obtain similar rights for British troops as those applying to United States forces under the Japanese-United States mutual security agreement.

Allies Hold Hill Against Reds

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—A tank-supported Communist battalion attacked through drenching rains today in a fruitless effort to push Allied soldiers off battle-scarred "Old Baldy" hill on the Korean western front.

About 700 Communist troops hit the strategic slope west of Chorwon after a deafening preparatory mortars and field-guns barrage.

Allied reinforcements scrambled up the slippery hill shortly after the battle began. The United States Eighth Army said United Nations forces killed 100 attackers and wounded 150.

Red guns opened up on "Old Baldy" last night and 50 minutes later Communist troops assaulted it. Fire from Communist tank guns raked the hill.

U.N. tanks answerd. The Red tanks pulled out of the fight shortly after midnight and the infantry assault was blunted by 1:45 a.m.

See Renewal By Mid-August Of Provincial Tax Treaties

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Department officials expect to complete by early August renewal of taxation agreements with eight of the 10 provinces.

All provinces except Ontario and Quebec have said they will sign new agreements to replace those which expired March 31, 1952. However, no province has yet signed.

Finance Minister Abbott said recently in an interview that many details must be ironed out before the agreements will be in shape for signing.

Under the agreements, inaugurated during the Second World War, the provinces give the federal government almost exclusive use of the personal income, corporation and inheritance tax fields In return the provinces receive payments based on population and the value of gross national production.

FIVE-YEAR PACTS

The post-war agreements ran from April 1, 1947, to March 31 last. The new agreements will cover the five-year period ending March 31, 1957.

All provinces signed agreements during the Second World War. When the war ended Ontario and Quebec declined to renew theirs.

Premier Duplessis of Quebec has criticized the federal government for "stealing" the taxation rights of the provinces. Premier Frost of Ontario has said that his province, so far, has been better off without an agreement.

In asking Parliament at the recent session to authorize renewal of the agreements, Mr. Abbott said:

"Those provinces which entered into agreements have, I believe, been well compensated for renting certain of their tax fields to us and have been assured against the possibility of drastic declines in the yield of these important fields of direct taxation. This has enabled them to plan their own programs with greater assurance and has undoubtedly improved their credit in the financial markets.

OVERLAPPING AVOIDED

"At the same time, a level of efficiency in over-all tax administration has been achieved hitherto unknown in this country. Furthermore, the non-agreeing provinces have shown a restraint in employing their taxing powers which has contributed in no small measure to achieving a national system of taxation which is almost free of overlapping administration and conflicting jurisdiction."

This is what it is estimated the eight agreeing provinces will receive in the first year of the new agreements, with an estimate of the final payments under the old agreements in brackets:

Newfoundland $12,291,593 ($9,651,000); Prince Edward Island $3,915,671 ($3,057,000); Nova Scotia $20,150,413 ($16,503 000); New Brunswick $16,624,628 ($13,490,000); Manitoba $24,760,084 ($20,035,000); Saskatchewan $25,570,643 ($20,747,000); Alberta $29,368,527 ($21,578,00); British Columbia $41,376,383 ($32,155,000).

If Ontario and Quebec signed the new agreements they would receive $137,173,274 and $115,003,725, respectively, in the first year In the final year of the old agreements Ontario would have received $105,850,000 and Quebec $89,761,000.

MORE ABOUT—
First Case

All were listed as having attended executive council meetings in June and July, 1951, at which arrangements were made for union members, employed by the five bakeries, to stop delivering bakery products to Jewel Fine Foods, Ltd.

The evidence showed the union executive took action against Jewel on two occasions when the chain dropped its price on bread made by the five baking companies. Jewel took the step to compete with a rival chain that was selling its own brand of bread.

Each time, the union executive instructed its driver-salesmen in the five baking firms not to make deliveries to Jewel. It also advised the companies by letter that failure on their part to co-operate "may result in complete stoppage of production."

WERE PROTECTING WAGES

In a written answer for the union members in reply to the allegations, Secretary Robinson said that:

1. They acted at all times as representatives of the union.
2. Their actions were intended solely for "reasonable protection" of wages.
3. They did not intend to fix a common price or a resale price that would enhance the cost of bread, and they were not trying to prevent or lessen competition.

During the investigation, the union men contended that the Jewel action could touch off a price war that would have an unfavorable effect on the earnings of bakery workers.

The commissioner ruled that while the primary motives were related to wages rather than prices, it was apparent the union officials' arrangements would have, or were designed to have, effects prohibited by the combines statue.

Ft. Erie Man Elected Police Assoc. Head

OTTAWA (CP)—Trevor Mathews of Fort Erie, today was elected president of the Police Association of Ontario succeeding Tom Knight of Ottawa.

Other officers elected at the association's annual meeting include James McLaughlin, Windsor, first vice-president; Frank Christie, London, second vice-president, and William Croft, Hamilton, treasurer.

The secretary will be chosen by the executive at a later date.

Delegates seelcted Fort William as the site of the 21st annual meeting next year.

Rival Groups Trying To Get Seats

By NORMAN WALKER

CHICAGO (AP)—A growing feud between the pro- and anti-New Deal wings of the Democratic party headed for a pre-convention showdown today at hearings on contested Texas and Mississippi delegates.

Two rival delegate slates from each state went before a credentials sub-committee of the Democratic national committee (1 a.m. EDT) to present claims to seats at next week's party convention.

Seventy convention votes are involved—52 from Texas and 18 from Mississippi.

REGULAR VS LOYALIST

The scrap is between the anti-administration or "regular" factions in the two southern states and pro-administration "loyalist" delegations. The fight may go to the convention floor before a final decision is reached.

None of the rival slates from either Texas or Mississippi is committed to any of the announced contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination. But the regular factions—one headed by Governor Allan Shivers of Texas and the other by Governor Hugh White of Mississippi—are said to be favorable to Senator Richard B. Russell of Georgia.

The rival loyalist factions are said to be generally favorable to Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, although Speaker Rayburn, Averell Harriman and Illinois Governor Adlai Stevenson have some support. The Texas loyalist group is headed by former Congressman Maury Maverick; the Mississippi loyalists by Mrs. John A. Clark, acting national committee-woman.

REFUSED PLEDGES

The splits occurred when the pro-administration loyalist factions in each state demanded the anti-administration factions pledge their state electors to support the national convention's nominee, no matter who he might be. The regulars refused.

There was some talk among Dixie Democrats that if a New Deal-type man is chosen as the party's presidential standard bearer, several southern states may put Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, the Republican party's nominee, as the states' Democratic nominee.

Prices Edge Lower On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO (CP)—Prices edged lower today in slow early afternoon stock market dealings.

Activity continued the dull pattern of recent sessions. Simpsons A, B and preferred shares climbed strongly in steady trading. Volume for the first three hours was 988,000 shares.

Foods and miscellaneous issues led industrials downward with a scattered list of fractional declines. Utilities, textiles and papers also slipped but manufacturing companies showed strength.

Western oils eased as Calgary and Edmonton, Calvan Consolidated, Canada Southern, Husky and Security Free turned downward. Anglo-Canadian and Central-Leduc showed strength.

Base metal losses ranged from pennies to about 50 cents. Consolidated Smelters, Hudson Bay, International Nickel and Noranda lost fractions.

Senior golds were firm. Lamaque Mcintyre and Teck Hughes strengthened while Giant Yellowknife and Kerr Addison weakened. Junior producers made little headway.

The exchange's 1 p.m. indices showed industrials down .78 at 320.02, golds up .38 at 94.37, base metals down .48 at 191.21 and western oils down .30 at 138.57.

Newfoundland Farming

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Census figures show Newfoundland to be the chief goat-raising province and a leader in sheep. The island's goat population of 7,057 is considerably higher than any other province and its 73,000 sheep are more than, for instance, in British Columbia.

Vincent Lopez Celebrates 31st Year Of Radio Shows

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP)—In the first year of radio broadcasting 31 years ago, listeners on crystal sets who were tuned to pioneer station WJZ heard a voice saying: "Lopez speaking."

It was the debut on the air of Vincent Lopez and his band, playing from a cloakroom converted to a studio in Newark, where WJZ then was located.

The suave bandleader hasn't been off the air since and currently is heard seven times a week over two networks in "Luncheon With Lopez" on Mutual; Tuesday evening on ABC in "Mayor of Times Square" and Saturday afternoon on ABC in "Shake the Maracas."

Lopez also is no stranger to television, having performed daily plus one evening a week for two years.

RETAINS POPULARITY

How has Lopez remained popular for nearly a third of a century while many other bands and bandleaders have come and gone?

"As long as bands stick to the melody and keep it understandable, music will be popular," he says. "We've proved it."

Even so, he adds, playing on the air isn't as easy as it once was because, in his opinion, radio and TV have made the public more discriminating.

"They've been educated," he explains. "They know if a band is in tune or out of tune—before they didn't.

"And the children, who keep their ears turned to a loudspeaker or their eyes on a television screen a lot of the day, are becoming a big factor. A lot of children five years old can tell you things about music that grown-ups don't know."

Nevertheless, Lopez says he doesn't believe the right technique for visual presentation of music has yet been discovered—for television or even in pictures.

"Unless a band has a plus or a gimmick," he says, "there's little to offer television."

TV TUBES

What size television picture tube will become standard with the public?

Since TV first arrived on the scene with pictures the size of a postcard, the public preference has been swinging to bigger and bigger picture sizes.

As recently as four years ago, the 10-inch tube still was the most popular—mainly because of price. Then came the 12½-inch round tube, the 16-inch round tube, the 17-inch rectangular tube, and then the 21-inch rectangular. Now sets are being made with 27-inch and 30-inch viewing tubes.

There are indications the 21-inch set will remain the most popular for these reasons: Anything bigger than a 21-inch tube would require a larger cabinet than most folks find suitable for their living room. That size tube gives a picture large enough and clear enough to satisfy most viewers. And the price is within reach of most persons.

DEFENCE JOB—George M. Grant, 54, of Toronto, assistant general manager of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada, has been appointed co-ordinator of production in the Defence Production Department. He has been on loan from his company, serving as director of the electronics division. He succeeds Reginald M. Brophy, recently appointed deputy minister of the department.

The funeral for William Stanley Myers, Lakefield, who died Tuesday, was held Thursday from the Anderson funeral home.

The Rev. L. J. Delaney, of St. John the Baptist Anglican Church, Lakefield, conducted the service.

Pallbearers were Murray, Alfred, Merrill, Winston and Dale Myers, all brothers of the deceased; Sandy Millage. Flower bearers were Laverne Walton, Jack Birch, Bob Chittick, Braden Dunford, Harold Coones, Ralph Myers. Burial was in Lakefield cemetery.

GAS PIONEER

The English engineer, William Murdock, developed the illuminating gas industry on practical lines between 1792 and 1856.

London Defence Forces Have Mock Invasion Test

LONDON (CP)—Defence forces of Greater London have undergone a further large-scale exercise in a series of tests under conditions of mock invasion. Hundreds of army officers, Territorials, Civil Defence personnel and police participated. Known as "Operation Jupiter," it was a sequel to exercises staged last April. Then every available soldier in the southeastern area was mobilized for day and night anti-invasion manoeuvres.

The latest operation sought to test the efficiency of the metropolitan zone's defensive communications. It was purely theoretical and no aircraft, vehicles or fighting troops were employed.

PHONE BATTLE

Detailed plans were drawn up in advance for a "telephone battle" in which communication staffs were called upon to deal with every possible incident which might occur during the first phases of an actual invasion. The entire exercise was conducted over the army's secret communication network, operated independently of the Post Office system.

Territorials of Royal signals units manned most of the stations, under the direction of reserve officers called for their yearly stint of two weeks' training. None of the personnel involved knew in advance the nature of the emergencies posed for them. But code signals telling of "paratroop landings," imaginary bomb blasts or the simulated approach of troop-carrying planes and "attacking" aircraft, brought prompt action by the defence forces.

On the eve of the exercise, the Home Office issued a special text book dealing with problems of rescue work expected to follow an atom-bomb attack.

In event of an atom blast, the manual advises rescue workers to leave the centre ring of severest damage to fend for itself until rescue is well in hand in more outlying areas.

TO WORK INWARD

Rescuers are told their first task will be to start work about 1½ miles from the centre and move gradually inwards to about half a mile of the explosion point. Three main reasons for this technique are cited:

1. People trapped in less severely damaged buildings on the "fringe" would be more readily accessible.
2. Obstruction of roads would be less in the outer area than at the centre where whole streets likely would be obliterated.
3. The centre might be contaminated by rario-activity and rescue crews would need to take precautions before setting to work there.

Manoeuvre To Free Two Sailors

Seeking To Secure Their Release From Japanese Jail

TOKYO (AP)—A spokesman said today the British Embassy is seeking transfer to British custody of two English sailors arrested in Kobe and accused of theft by Japanese police.

The spokesman described the situation as delicate. "The whole question of jurisdiction is presently under discussion," he said. British military authorities do not recognize the authority of Japanese courts over British troops.

The spokesman said the two sailors, from the cruiser Belfast, were held in a Japanese jail, but "as far as we know there has been no hearing on the matter." They were accused Sunday of stealing a taxi and a small amount of money.

ON LOWER LEVEL

The spokesman said Ambassador Sir Esler Dening had not taken a direct part in the negotiations. "We are trying to settle this thing on a lower level," he explained.

British and Japanese officials are trying to settle the exact status of British soldiers and sailors in Japan. The talks are under way at Kure, in southern Japan.

No Free Speech InMaritimes-CCF

SASKATOON (CP)—Roy Knight, C.C.F. member of parliament for Saskatoon, said here last night that residents of the Maritime provinces do not enjoy the right of free speech.

At a public meeting of the Saskatchewan C.C.F. party, Knight said Maritimers are afraid to attend certain political meetings in their provinces.

"I think in Saskatchewan today we are the freest people in the North American continent," he said.

"When I think of the state of ppolitical fear in which many pe of eastern Canada live, I am thankful that I live in the west."

Of the three Maritime provinces, Knight said:

"I have never before seen people ridden with political fear as they are in these provinces. Ordinary people have not yet learned to trust their fellow man enough to elect him to office.

Reeve's 'Paper Statement Arouses Counties Council

COBOURG (ENS)—Statement of Reeve. W. Roche of Port Hope to a Toronto newspaper that Northumberland and Durham Counties Council had been too secretive concerning the investigation into alleged shortages in the books of the former counties clerk, aroused the ire of some members of counties council at the session Thursday. The newspaper story quoted Reeve Roche as saying that the counties council kept the details from the press by holding a closed meeting.

"The newspaper article is most unfair and is a reflection on the counties council and the auditors," declared Warden Harry Campbell. "It questions our integrity. There has been no secrecy. We did nothing wrong. The article is a reflection on me and I think I should see a solicitor and demand an apology," said the warden.

"We are here to represent our electors and if we do something we are ashamed to admit, then we are being dishonest," said Reeve Roche.

The reeve of Port Hope then moved a resolution that the report of the special audit into the books of the former treasurer be made available to the press and give the public a true picture of the situation.

"I am doing this to end all the wild rumours that have been going on," explained Reeve Roche.

There was no seconder to his motion and it died right there.

The following is an extract from the minutes of the April session of counties council this year:

"After hearing the special investigation report given by Mr. Jarrett, and the letter sent by Mr. Brent (counties solicitor) in connection with the shortage, we recommend that if Mr. Barr does not reimburse the counties by the 1st of May, the claim be submitted to the bonding company without any further committee meetings."

REIMBURSEMENT MADE

The Examiner was informed that the reimbursement was made by that date.

Reeve J. Rickard of Newcastle pointed out that the high school levy for his municipality had been made on an assessment which had included the new business assessment, which in itself had been increased by $23,000. He felt that it should not have been based on any more than one-half the business assessment, in view of the increase and he pointed out that the change in the levy should have been delayed until the new assessments of all the municipalities had been made.

In this regard, Reeve Elmer Scott of Hope township expressed agreement. He declared that the high school board had no right to use the new business assessment of Newcastle while using the old equalized assesment for other purposes. Reeve F. Vanstone of Bowmanville said that it was not right to penalize those who were re-assessed first. On motion it was referred to the equalization committee.

Report of the Childrens Aid Society for Northumberland and Durham for the period of Jan. 1, 1952, to June 30 in the same year, covered the work of the society in regard to child welfare, investigation of family troubles involving children, adoptions and supervision of children in foster homes. During the six months there were 84 interviews in regard to requests for service or complaints. As of June 30, the society had 116 children in boarding foster-homes, which is three fewer than for the same period last year.

FINANCES IMPROVE

The financial condition of the society had improved due to the increase in the per diem cost of $1.16 per day which more adequately covers the looking after the wards of the society. The payments from the counties council on the unit or service basis has helped to cover the cost of the preventative type of work. Total revenue for the year 1951 to 1952 was $64,456.93 and expenditures, $71,282.94. Estimated revenue for the year 1952 to 1953 is $74,810.00 and estimated expenditure is $74,798.00.

Reeve Ralph Locke of Campbellford, chairman of the finance committee submitted a tentative budget for 1952 which called for a mill rate of 12½ mills, an increase of one mill over last year.

Much of the session yesterday afternoon was devoted to interviews with insurance agents regarding a proposed pension plan for employees of the counties. No action was taken pending consideration of the proposal by the finance committee. A deputation from Campbellford Memorial Hospital, whcih is in process of construction, told council that they were grateful for the $15,000 granted by the counties council as a result of previous requests for aid. As the fund was short by $20,000 of its ultimate objective, the board would appreciate a further grant of $5,000 from the counties. On motion the request was referred to finance.

Women Ask Raise

LONDON (Reuters)—Claims for wage increases of 2 pounds a week were made yesterday by 250,000 women in the engineering industry. A similar increase for 2,500,000 men in the industry is under consideration.

Ellam claims his is the smallest boat ever to make such a voyage. The boat has no auxiliary engine, relies entirely on the wind for power.

Counties Begin Planning For 1953 Ploughing Match

COBOURG — (ENS). — The international ploughing match which will be held here in October of next year, occupied the attention of the opening session of the July sittings of Northumberland and Durham Counties Council Wednesday. Council heard a delegation from the district counties branch of the Plowman's Association outline the plans for the big competition next year.

Warden Harry Campbell told the delegation, in welcoming them to the meeting that the Counties Council was 100 per cent behind the affair. Incidentally, all members of the council are members of the plowman's organization. L. H. Winslow, speaking for the delegation said that a grant of $1,000 next year from the counties would be of great assistance and that the counties would be more than repaid in return for their financial help. R. Lackley also spoke on behalf of the association.

This year the international match is being held at Carleton County; next year at Cobourg; 1954 at Waterloo, and in Essex the year following. The project carries itself financially, and Oxford County made $3,000 when it was held there.

Harry Campbell, the Warden, was named chairman of the local group; H. Winslow vice-chairman, K. Symons secretary, and Ralph Banbury treasurer. E. Wilson and Wesley Downs are two members of a three-man executive, with the third man to be elected later. Since the Governor-General's summer home is near Port Hope, it was felt that he might be disposed to open the match next year.

NEED CASH TO START

Mr. Banbury said that there was only $500 in the treasury of the local plowman's association, and financial aid would need to be coming from the counties of Northumberland and Durham to defray expenses until the money started to come in at the match. There would be a working group which would start in two days before the match and remain until it was all over. This group would have to check the tractors, 158 being used in one day, and look after the parking of the tractors in the 12 acres reserved for this purpose. Gas pumps would have to be installed and floodlights set up. K. Lapp was appointed chairman of this committee.

Another committee, headed by Charlie Wilson, would look after the estimated 45 teams of horses per day. I. S. Allen heads the land committee which has 220 acres under its jurisdiction for the match. Twenty-six men under Leonard Henderson would be in charge of car parking. Another important committee was the tickets committee, headed by Stan Macklin of Cobourg.

The headquarters committee, with a mass of details to look after in the tented city, is headed by Earl Drope of Harwood. Percy Gooding of Brighton Township is chairman of the demonstration committee. Public health is being looked after by John Rickard and Dr. C. W. MacCharles, the latter head of the counties health unit. Ed Summers of Bowmanville is in charge of county exhibits. W. Allen supervises the food supply, Bill Scott of Campbellford the horse show, and Olly Taylor of the Cobourg Chamber of Commerce, the billeting.

The usual requests for grants, made at this session of Counties Council, were referred to the finance committee. A number of communications were referred to their appropriate committees. In connection with a Department request for trusteeship certification of old-age pensioners between 65 and 70 where it was felt that they were incapable of looking after their financial affairs, council devoted some discussion to the matter and then passed a resolution that the pensions be paid to the counties without a formal declaration that the pensioner is incapable.

Council adjourned until Thursday.

Campbellford Crops Badly In Need Of Rain

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — Rain fell in Campbellford on Thursday evening, but none of the local citizens can agree as to when it started, how long it lasted, or when it stopped.

On the east side of the river, the rain began to fall at about 9:45 p.m. The rain descended in driving torrents for about 30 seconds, then stopped as quickly as it had begun. It was about 10 p.m. when rain fell on the west side of the river, and there, too, it ended after a minute or so, only to start again after some minutes. The second shower also ended abruptly, but started a few minutes later and settled down into a good sensible rain. Crops in the district are badly in need of rain and farmers are hopeful of getting more before it is too late.

Two Autos Collide Damage Said Light

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — Minor damage resulted when two cars collided at the intersection of Bridge and Canrobert streets in the western section of town on Thursday afternoon.

A vehicle driven by Roy Adams of Campbellford was travelling east on Bridge street and making a left turn onto Canrobert. A second vehicle, driven by Joseph Kelleher, also of Campbellford, was proceeding south on Canrobert but due to a parked auto, the driver did not see the Adams car making the turn. The two collided almost head-on, causing minor damage to both vehicles. Chief George H. Hardy investigated.

The Humanist Archbishop

We have been greatly impressed with the speech which the Archbishop of Canterbury made in the House of Lords concerning the Dean of Canterbury, Dr. Hewlett Johnson; the Dean, said Dr. Fisher, was wrong, in his opinion, to speak as he does but the Dean was guilty of no speech or action which made it imperative that he be removed from his official post. We have already said in these columns that Dr. Johnson abuses his position when he expresses the opinions he does about Communism; Dr. Johnson wears, and obviously enjoys wearing, all the interesting garments which Church tradition allows to a Dean, and these garments lend weight to his odd opinions. But we are very ready to admit that the Archbishop's opinions are wiser and more liberal than our own, and we are delighted that he and Mr. Churchill expressed themselves as they did.

* * *

It appears to us that the Archbishop, and the See of Canterbury, gain in prestige by what Dr. Fisher has said. Churches have not always been, and are not always now, vigorous defenders of freedom of speech or freedom of thought. Dr. Fisher spoke less, perhaps, as a prelate than as a humanist. And what is a humanist? Recently E. M. Forster has provided us with a fine definition. He writes: "The humanist has four leading characteristics — curiosity, a free mind, belief in good taste and belief in the human race." Dr. Fisher grants curiosity and a free mind to the Dean of Canterbury, though he deplores the use to which the Dean has put those gifts of democracy; he believes the Dean to be guilty of bad taste, but the Archbishop believes in the human race; he believes that truth is great, and will prevail. Therefore he does not think that the Dean's cracked notions will make much headway, or be long remembered, by sensible people. He thinks it better that the Church should suffer some shame than that the Church should revenge itself upon a man who abuses a position within the Church.

* * *

It takes a great man, and a courageous man, to speak as Dr. Fisher did. It would have been easy for him to temporize, or to do what would please the angry people who want to see the Dean disgraced, or to make a show of power which many people would also regard as a show of strength. It would have been easy, and it would have been popular, but in the long run it would have played into Communist hands. For every time we make arbitrary and vengeful displays of power against people who disagree with democratic ideals, we weaken those ideals; we show that they do not go very deep with us.

* * *

The Archbishop has shown himself to be a great humanist. And as we feel that humanism, at its best, is an aspect of churchmanship at its best it goes without saying that he has also shown himself to be a great churchman.

Onward And Upward To The Moon

So deeply are such matters veiled by silence on the probably legitimate excuse of military security, that only now have we heard of a phenomenal flight last August. An American navy plane, piloted by an American officer, flew at a speed of 1,238 miles an hour and reached an altitude of 79,494 feet. That means that this human being flew almost twice as fast as sound travels and fifteen miles above the earth.

We wonder if an orchestra had been travelling in that plane, and playing, say Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, it could start on the theme—da/da/da DAH—fly a couple of hundred miles, turn back and hear its opening notes? Probably not; the plane was only forty feet long, not much room for tuba players, bass fiddles and Beecham's arms.

The machine in which this extra-terrestrial feat was accomplished was a Skyrocket. It was launched from a mother-ship at about six miles above the earth, whereupon its turbo-jet engine took it above the sky and gasping through the rare air (very rare in those exalted regions) at a speed to frighten Martians.

Perhaps the flying saucers that earth-bound people report are not, after all, machines from Mars. Let us credit human beings (credit?) with having as much technical ingenuity as men of Mars; let us support that the Flying Saucers are man-made improvements on the machine which did the astounding flight last August, but that, for reasons of military security, information about them has not yet been made public. Is it unreasonable to conjecture that maybe Man has already established an air base on the moon? The moon is only 238,000-odd miles away. What is impossible, now, when Americans admit that they have a plane which has gone as fast and high as the Skyrocket?

Duplessis For Quebec

Premier Duplessis has been returned to power with a clear and comfortable majority. It will be his fourth administration, for he was Premier from 1936 to 1939, and again during the two legislatures following August, 1944.

His Union Nationale party does not have the strength of 1948, when it won 82 seats and the Liberals only eight. The new legislative assembly of Quebec will have 68 U.N. members, 23 Liberals and one independent. The U.N. loss of 14 seats, the Liberal gain of 15, may mean both a lessening confidence in the Duplessis method of governing, and a trend toward Liberalism. The new Liberal leader, Mr. Georges Lapalme, despite the good fight he put up in his own constituency and provincially, did not win a seat. He had chosen to run against the strongest man in the Duplessis cabinet, apart from the Premier himself, rather than to contest a safe Provincial seat in the Federal riding of which he had been a popular representative at Ottawa.

As we have said before in these columns, the Duplessis administration has pressed every advantage of the post-war prosperity in Canada and captained a new, expanding and industrial Quebec. A record such as this is hard to gainsay at the polls, although it was hotly analyzed on the hustings, and, judging from reports yesterday, even on polling day both sides had their hackles up.

Neat Controversy

We have read with interest of a controversy in the Italian press, between communists and democrats, in which the democrats appear to be winning. This is significant, because in a free controversy democrats usually defeat communists; the latter, being authoritarians, are bad controversialists.

The trouble began a month ago, when an Italian communist writer named Ezio Taddei wrote an article for the newspaper L'Unita, in which he said that General Mathew Ridgway had used germ warfare in Korea; he also said that American tanks wantonly ran over Korean children, and for good measure he asserted that American soldiers were sadists who liked to pull the clothes off women and beat them with leather belts.

Understandably, this article annoyed John Steinbeck, the liberal American author of The Grapes of Wrath, who is in Italy on holiday. He wrote a reply to Taddei, but L'Unita published only scraps of it, accompanied by another three-column blast from the communist. But Tempo, a non-communist paper, published Steinbeck's letter in full, and we are pleased to reprint a part of it:

"I wonder whether you believe your own accounts of children ground up under our tanks . . . But perhaps you believe anything you are instructed to believe. And so I will ask your readers who are not instructed why if we are so brutal to refugees do they always come to us, never to the Communists? People in trouble do not run toward brutality. They run away from it. Why do the hundreds of thousands of refugees we are feeding in South Korea never show the slightest desire to go north behind the Communist lines? Why do great numbers of them swear they will kill themselves if they are forced back? . . .

"The germs that the United Nations are dropping in Korea are little pamphlets. These papers contain the most dangerous and communicable germs in the world: the truth. This is the germ that the Soviets fear more than any single thing . . . They are right to fear the germs of truth, for it is these germs which will eventually destroy them. These truth germs we admit we are dropping in Korea. We are proud to drop them."

Mr. Steinback then challenged Signor Taddei to show him the night club in Trieste where United States soldiers indulged in degenerate practices and concluded:

"Taddei, do you know what American soldiers are? They are our sons, our beloved sons, drawn from our hearths in time of our nation's need. They are dear children of our farmers and our ministers, our factory workers, our tradesmen, bankers, writers, artists. I myself have two little sons aged 6 and 8. When they are old enough they will be American soldiers if my nation needs them. Now if you, you personally, have meant to say or indicate or suggest that American soldiers are wicked, degenerate or brutish then you, Ezio Taddei, are a liar."

This is healthy stuff. Wherever controversy is free there need be no serious worry about communist propaganda. Of course what Steinbeck says has a strong propagandist tinge, as well, but he makes three first-rate points—that communists write from a party line rather than from personal observation, that refugees make for democratic and not communist protection, and that American soldiers are basically the same as young men of military age everywhere. If Taddei can write himself out of his tangle with Steinbeck he will have to be cleverer than communist writers usually are.

NOTES AND COMMENT

The other day a hippopotamus bit a New York man, and surprisingly enough there was some of him left.

"A bat is not blind," says a zoologist. Thus another simile is discredited. The one about being as dead as a doornail is still good, though.

THE AMERICAN SCENE

Daft-For-Taft, Girlie-Graft

By KENNETH HARRIS

WHILE THE PICKED political troops of Taft and Eisenhower fought their Parliamentary battle on the floor of the Convention Hall, thousands of their supporters fought even more colourful battles on the staircases and in the lobbies of Chicago's leading hotels.

A favourite of the men was the "Battle of the Three Beauties." For months the Eisenhowerites have been claiming that the ranks of the Taftites were made up of the old and withered. In Chicago the Taftites hit back hard with a secret weapon: "Belles for Bob"—bevies of beautiful morale-boosters wearing big "We Want Bob" badges and not much else, who rode through the streets on open lorries; one load of eyefuls trundled through on an open cart, taking it in turns to toll a tuneful four-foot bell.

THE EISENHOWERITES studied the graceful limbs thoughtfully for a few hours, and then counter-attacked: this allegedly political pulchritude, they cried, was not genuine Taft stuff but mercenary material hired from model and mannequin agencies.

Congressman Bender, the Taftites' chief noisemaker and whooper-up (official title "Director of Music") asked to comment on these charges of "girlie-graft" stated: "Dammit, I'm busy! I don't care if they was hired or if they wasn't. All I say is God bless our glorious American girls!"

✧ ✧ ✧

ANOTHER BATTLE was going on between the songsters—a battle of parodies. As in 1948 the Taft theme song was sung to the tune of "Four-leafed Clover".

"I'm looking for a four-leafed clover
And Bob is the man for me".

This year the Eisenhowerites waited twenty-four hours to let the tune get established and then sent a mobile electric organ around the town followed by lorry-loads of glamorous choristers singing:

"Taft is a loser
A four-time loser (the unofficial version went "a four-flushing loser")
And we musn't lose with him."

and ending with

"So hail Eis-en-how-er
The man of the hour
And victory for the G.O.P."

(G.O.P. standing for the "Grand Old Party", the traditional sobriquet of the Republicans.)

But the Taftites struck the last blow. They produced another version beginning:

"They're going sour
About Eisenhower".

THE LONGEST BATTLE was the battle of slogans. From beginning to end of the convention phalanxes of Ikeites and Taftites, Stassenites and Warrenites — plus a few meandering Arthurites—would mass on the street corners, in hotel lobbies, waving placards mounted on broomhandles — distributed by the indefatigable Bender and his opposite numbers—and shouting "We want Ike," "Warren for President," "Taft for Me, Taft for You. Taft for 1952," "MacArthur Was Right," and "Fasten to Stassen." Others shouted and waved placards displaying the words, "I am for an honest Convention"; another slogan which savoured of the equivocal was "Daft for Taft."

Many of the slogans being used by all factions have come from the fertile mind of a Mr. J. Henry ("Slogan" to his friends) Smythe. "Slogan" Smythe has been inventing slogans for the Republican Party since he led the cheering at the 1904 Convention. He bears a strong resemblance to Franklin D. Roosevelt, a likeness to which he very proudly draws attention by striding in Chicago's crowded hotels sticking out his pince-nez'd profile and demanding "Who do I look like?". He has been out of action for the last twenty-four hours, recovering from being told in answer to his usual question that he looked like Harry Truman.

A BATTLE of the badges bid fair to develop, but came to an end rather soon. The original "I am for Taft" badge—four inches across—having been outgunned by the Eisenhowerites' "I like Ike" (five inch bore), the Taftites went into production with a six-inch "I like Bob better" job. Both sides were blown out of the skies, however, when Californians began turning out their eight-inch "Warren" giant, which as well as the usual pin had a kind of head harness to keep it in place.

Rumours that a delegate from New York had collapsed under the weight of his eight-incher and that a matron from Ohio had been strangled by her head-harness were pooh-poohed by the Warrenites.

"It may be true," said a highly-placed Californian noisemaker, "But what do you expect in a Convention?"

✧ ✧ ✧

OF ALL the battles, however, perhaps the most desperate was the one which went on between Coco Gola and its up and coming young rival—"Bigger Bottle for the same price"—Pepsicola.

This year Pepsi made a great bid to get the concession in the Convention Hall—i.e. a monopoly of the thirst-quenching. Finding Coca already had the concession, Pepsi, undaunted, launched a flank attack on the Conrad Hilton Hotel where, three days before the Convention opened, thousands of delegates and observers were milling round following the progress of Taft-Eisenhower fights on the various procedural committees. Pepsi picketted the Hotel corridors, staircases and committee rooms with thirty-five ice boxes, each containing magazines and two hundred and forty chilled bottles, and had Pepsicola dispensed free by beautiful blondes tanned specially for the occasion by a holiday in the Californian sunshine, distributing ten thousand daily for five days—bottles, not blondes.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE PEPSI BOYS are hoping that this flood of free Pepsicola is going to enable them to get the concession in the Convention Hall when the Democrats meet there later this month.

Pepsi versus Coke could turn out to be another of those issues of North versus South with which the unity of the Democratic party is always threatened. Pepsi, the newer drink, comes from progressive New York; Coke, the older thirst-quencher, comes from Atlanta, citadel of Southern conservatism.

One of the reasons why the jostling flag-wagging mass of twelve thousand people in the Convention Hall was kept in such good humour may have been the instructions given to Chicago policemen on duty there; the Police Commissioner warned them not to discuss politics and religion with the delegates, to bear in mind that the people on the floor were not criminals, and to refrain from addressing them as "Chum" or "Bud."

✧ ✧ ✧

AT THEIR FIRST major attempt at televising a Convention the telemen have produced two interesting gadgets which may have a considerable effect on how Conventions are run. The "teleprompter" is a machine which from the front looks like a small music stand on a pillar and which carries on a roll like a pianola three texts of the speaker's speech printed in letters about half an inch or more high, with appropriate pauses and emphases. Skilful operators claim that there is now no need to rely on coughing, shuffling and fingering of watches to induce a speaker to end his remarks—you just speed up the roll. Another gadget tried out for the first time is a new extra-mobile television camera which can be carried around by two men, one carrying the little instrument itself, and the other carrying the power unit enabling it to send short wave signals to the main-channels television studios in the galleries.

Several highly confidential remarks exchanged by the politicos who manipulate the Convention have already been passed out to sixty million Americans, such as the remarks exchanged between the National Chairman of the Party and the Chairman of the Convention (both pro-Taft):

"Yeah, he's a big upstate leader in New York."

"Is that so? Then maybe this is the big break we've been waiting for."

There is a great discussion as to whether this remarkable instrument should be called a "walkie-lookie", or a "peepie-creepie".

"GOIN' MY WAY?"

More Steel Than Ever Before

By SUSAN STRANGE (in Paris)

EUROPE this year has been beating all its steel production records, pre-war and post-war, according to figures published today by the United Nations' Economic Commission for Europe.

In the first quarter of 1952, steel output in Europe was running at the annual rate of 72,892,000 tons, compared with a 1936-38 average of 53,071,000 tons. If this rate of production is kept up for the rest of the year, Europe will make five million more tons of steel this year than last.

Because E.C.E. is an organisation which has East as well as West European members, the year's total includes steel being produced by Czechoslovakia, Poland, East Germany, Hungary and Rumania. In the first three months of this year, these countries were making steel at the rate of 10.5 (ten point five) million tons a year—that is, about a seventh of the European total. Even when this is added to estimated Russian output in 1951 of 31.3 million tons, the Soviet bloc is still producing only about forty-two million tons all told, compared with Western Europe's fifty-eight million tons a year in 1951, or 62.4 million tons in 1952.

STEEL PRODUCTION in the United States, by comparison, reached more than ninety-five million tons last year and is now running at an annual rate of over ninety-eight million tons—almost two-and-a-half times the output of the Soviet Union and her East European satellites.

Britain is still the biggest steel producer in Europe — the rate of output now being almost sixteen-and-a-quarter million tons a year. But Western Germany has been building up her steelmaking capacity at a phenomenal speed. At an annual rate of production of 15.2 million tons, it has already well outdistanced the combined output of France and the Saar which together equals some 13.4 million tons.

The figures, which are the most comprehensive yet issued by E.C.E. for Europe's steel industry, make it plain, however, that German steel mills are still heavily dependent for their present output on supplies of steel scrap. Though they produce less steel than British mills, they are using almost one-and-a-half million tons of scrap a year compared with Britain's 830,000 tons. The drop in German exports of scrap, which has been particularly severely felt in Britain, is remarkable. In 1949, scrap exports totalled 2.5 million tons; in 1950, 2.7 billion tons. In 1951, they fell to well below a million tons; and this year they are running at a rate of less than half-a-million.

IN SPITE OF every effort to collect more scrap, Western German is steadily nearing the bottom of the barrel. Steel mills are still able to make do with relatively small amounts of imported iron ore. But if the German steel industry carries out its plans to expand output up to and beyond the pre-war peak of 17.9 million tons a year, it will soon be competing strongly with Britain and France for imported iron ores, especially for the low-grade iron ores of North Africa which is Western Europe's main overseas source of supply.

Rearmament, and the insatiable demand for steel of Europe's defence industries, have upset all the experts' calculations. In 1949, the E.C.E. Steel Section published a report which aroused wide interest at the time and which possibly may have inspired M. Robert Schuman (the French Foreign Minister) to launch his idea for a European coal and steel pool. That report forecast that by 1953 Europe would be producing seventy million tons of steel, but that home and overseas markets would want only sixty-two million tons, leaving an unsaleable surplus of eight million tons. In fact, although Europe is already producing in the first three months of 1952 at a rate substantially more than seventy million tons of steel a year, there is as yet no sign of any falling-off in demand. Some day, when European rearmament begins to slow down, there may again be the threat of a steel glut on the horizon. But by that time the under-developed countries overseas may have intensified their demand for Europe's steel-using machinery and engineering goods to the point where they can take up any slack that appears. At this stage, it would be a rash economist who made any more wild prophecies about the future of European steel industries.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Many, O Lord my God, are thy wonderful works which thou hast done, and thy thoughts which are to us-ward: they cannot be reckoned up in order unto thee: if I would declare and speak of them, they are more than can be numbered. Sacrifice and offering and sin offering hast thou not required . . .

I have not hid thy righteousness within my heart; I have declared thy faithfulness and thy salvation: I have not concealed thy lovingkindness and thy truth from the great congregation. Withhold not thou thy tender mercies from me, O Lord: let thy lovingkindness and thy truth continually preserve me. (Ps. 40: 5, 6, 10, 11.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Is any among you afflicted? let him pray. Is any merry? let him sing psalms.

Is any sick among you? let him call for the elders of the church; and let them pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord: and the prayer of faith shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up. (James 5: 13-15.)

Ladd Not Upset By Tamiroff's Scene Stealing

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Alan Ladd was the victim of thievery, but he has failed to register a complaint.

The culprit was character actor Akim Tamiroff. Using all the wiles he learned at the Moscow art theatre, Tamiroff stole a scene right out from under the handsome Ladd profile. But Ladd failed to squawk.

In fact, he suggested a line to pad out Tamiroff's part.

"Aren't you worried about having that scene thefted from you?" Ladd was asked.

"Not at all," he replied blandly. "Tamiroff can do all the stealing he wants to. If it makes the picture better, that's all right with me."

Ladd's attitude is not completely altruistic. He has a half interest in the film, one of those North African things called "Desert Legion."

HOME BASE

It's a sentimental return for Ladd. He got his screen acting start on the lot in 1933.

"Universal had a fine program in those days," he explained. "The studio had talent hunts all over the country. College youngsters would have two months of extensive training and put on a show every week for the executives. We didn't get paid anything, but it was great experience."

Ladd suggested that the studios should institute such programs now.

"Hollywood will have to do something about finding new talent or the industry will be in serious trouble," he remarked. "This business is based on stars, but most of the studios are doing almost nothing about finding and developing new personalities."

Ladd is up to his brawny chest in production deals these days. He just completed a Warners picture, in which he has a percentage in the profits. He'll spend the rest of the year making two other films which will also deliver him a healthy slice of the proceeds.

One is "Red Beret," for which commando raids will be re-staged in England and France. The other is "The White South," a story of whale fishing in the Antarctic.

Col. Doucet Made Army Command Chief

HALIFAX (CP)—Col. H. E. T. Doucet of Montreal will take over Sept. 3 as Chief of Eastern Army Command, succeeding Col. H. L. Meuser, the army announced last night.

Col. Meuser, 39, formerly of Regina and Ottawa, will leave his command to attend the National Defence College in Kingston.

Col. Doucet, 44, now completing the current course at the college, was Canadian military attache to The Netherlands before entering the college.

Britain Refuses To Ban U.S. Comic Books

LONDON (Reuters)—The government declined yesterday to stop British children from reading racy, imported American comic books.

The only way to ban such literature would be to impose literary censorship, the Commons was told by Sir Hugh Lucas-Tooth, Parliamentary under secretary for the Home Ministry. And the British public wouldn't stand for that, he added.

He said the best solution to the problem is for parents and teachers to encourage children to devote their time "to more suitable reading matter."

Canadair Cancels Contract With Ford

WINDSOR, Ont. (AP)—Canadair Limited has cancelled a contract awarded last December to the Ford Motor Company of Canada for the manufacture of jet aircraft wings, Ford officials announced yesterday.

Ford officials said Canadair felt "there were definite advantages" to carrying out the work at its plant in Montreal.

Violated Credit Laws

WINNIPEG (CP) — Dominion Motors Ltd. yesterday was fined $500 and costs for violating consumer credit regulations. The Crown charged in one case that the company sold a 1949 car worth $2,200 for a cash payment of $959 and allowed a trade-in allowance of $505 for a ball-point pen. The remaining $1,100 was financed.

Find Fastest Current

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The fastest current ever measured in the open ocean—almost 11 miles an hour—has been found in the Gulf Stream, University of Miami scientists reported yesterday. Dr. F. G. Walton Smith, head of the university's marine laboratory, said this "amazing flow of water" was discovered about 15 miles offshore from Miami Beach 10 days ago.

50 Cancer Patients Treated Daily With Cobalt Bomb

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Fifty cancer patients are being treated daily with the cobalt bomb at Victoria Hospital here.

Dr. Ivan Smith, director of the clinic, said yesterday extra staff had to be hired to keep the $50,000 bomb operating 16 hours a day.

Inquiries have been received from all Canadian provinces except Saskatchewan, where Canada's second C-bomb is located, all 48 of the United States, Mexico, South America and the West Indies.

Dr. Smith in an interview cautioned against over-optimism and said use of the bomb is restricted. More than 1,000 victims have been turned away because their conditions were unsuitable for treatment.

Majority of hopeless cases are those where the cancer has spread from its primary site. To date cancer of the liver has proved to be resistant to cobalt radiation, he said.

MANY CANCERS AIDED

Surface cancers and those of the prostate, lung, gullet, the upper end of the stomach and even the pancreas have been relieved by treatment, as have deep-lying, localized tumors.

Each patient receives about 15 treatments, one each on successive days, Dr. Smith said. Thus only 70 new patients a month or 900 a year can be accepted at the clinic.

The Saskatchewan bomb was put into operation in August, 1951, and the one here a month later. Each bomb does the job of $45,000,000 worth of radium. Radioactive cobalt for the units is produced at Chalk River.

Mimico Squad Gains Win In Lacrosse Go

MIMICO (Special) — Peterborough Queens chose the wrong night to travel to Mimico as they found the Junior Mounties in a goal-scoring frame of mind as they handed the Petes a decisive 13-6 defeat. Mimico led 4-2 at the end of the first quarter although all six goals were packed into the last seven minutes of play in that semester and they increased their lead to 7-3 at the half, Ray Walton scoring twice while the Peterborough goal came from the stick of O'Reilly.

The Petes' best period of lacrosse came in the third quarter as they outscored the homesters 3-2 and cut the margin to 9-6, Bev Groves spearheading the attack as he assisted on goals by Allan and Carl Brioux. But the Mimico crew came back with four unassisted tallies in the final period to walk off the floor well ahead of a tired visiting team.

A CLEAN FRAY

The game was cleanly played, only nine penalties being called. All of these were for minor offences as referees Jack Shropshire and Jack Doreny kept the contest under strict control at all times. Jack Passmore and Larry Ruse were the pick of the winners with three goals each, closely followed by Harold Harte with a pair and two assists. Six players shared in Peterborough goal-scoring, Carl Brioux, Rock Batley, Bob Allan, O'Reilly, Bob McIlmoyle and Roger Smith while Bev Grove picked up three assists.

Petes: Hickson, Brioux, Batley, Fitzgerald, Allan, Grove, O'Reilly, McIlmoyle, Curtis, Morrissey, Mullins, Daniels, Farley, Smith.

Mimico: Tomtishen, Eland, McNeill, Harrison, Passmore, Walton, J. Ruse and L. Ruse, Kapasky, Clancy, Harte, Venner, Nick Millan.

Referees, J. Dorney and J. Shropshire.

Omemee Victors

OMEMEE (ENS) — Omemee Combines (Whitmore-Weir) strengthened their hold on first place in the Lindsay Softball League by walloping Lindsay Recreation Centre 17-2 in a one-sided fray staged in Omemee Wednesday evening.

Reg. Gordon twirled for the village crew striking out seven. He clouted a home run for the O's in the sixth with the bases loaded.

Lytle pitched for Lindsay and walked 12 men. He was nicked for 14 hits and was relieved in the eighth by Tozios.

Puffer on first for L.R.C. was injured when he fell on a bicycle while attempting to field a foul ball. He was taken to a doctor but his condition is not serious.

Omemee Combines: Draycup, 3b; Pogue, lf; Johnson, rf; Parsons, cf; R. Crawford, ss; Hickson, c; Jameison, 2b; K. Bryans, 1b; Gordon, p.

Lindsay: Bellamy, cf; Burns, c; Puffer, 1b; Smith, 3b; Tozios, ss; Pullen, rf; Peanock, lf; Stubbing, 2b; Lytle, p. Martin batted for Puffer in 6th. McFadden batted for Pullen in 9th.

Umpires—W. Bryan, plate. Bob Bellamy, base.

Dutch Woman Steals Olympic Show

HELSINKI (AP)—All activity came to a standstill yesterday at the Olympic village training field when a famous head of golden hair made its first appearance on the running track.

Mrs. Fanny Blankers-Koen, the flying Dutch woman who won four gold medals at the London Olympics in 1948, was the centre of attraction as she practised starts and a few flights over the hurdles.

The 34-year-old mother seemed in excellent form.

---

The Russian basketball players practise with a ball that leaves no doubt about their political conviction.

It's made of bright red leather.

---

Five women barbers clip and shave some 3,000 athletes at the Kaepylaf Olympic village, but this is not strange in a country where 25 per cent of the practising physicians and 75 per cent of the dentists are women.

None of the five barbers can speak English. If you ask the young lady for a shampoo or the time of day, she still smiles, nods, and begins clipping.

A virtually unknown high-jumper from behind the Iron Curtain appeared at the main Olympic village track and field training field yesterday and startled onlookers with his prowess.

Ion Soter of Romania, 23-year-old university student, soared six feet 7½ inches over the high jump standard. He did it five times and with utmost ease. Skeptical witnesses who had never heard of the six-foot youngster used a measuring pole afterwards to make sure.

---

The Russians took the wraps off their vaunted Olympic basketball team yesterday, and scared nobody.

They are a fast, aggressive team, apparently hard as pine knots, and they'll take any blue ribbon prize for pre-game calisthenics. But in the big tournament opening July 25 the team probably will be swamped.

This was the impression of two Associated Press men, the only outsiders to attend the Reds' 90-minute workout at the observatory tennis hall.

Their biggest man is Anatoly Koneff, six feet six, and he's a poor shot. Most of the players are six feet and under. They drive hard, pass wildly and hit consistently only on layups.

8,000 Athletes To Take Part In Olympics

By BEN PHLEGAR

HELSINKI (AP) — Another 24 and the greatest sports show on earth—the 15th summer Olympic Games—will open on the green turf of Helsinki's modernistic stadium.

Sixty-nine countries, a record, and almost 8,000 athletes, another record, will be represented at the colorful ceremonies tomorrow.

A 70th country may show up, but probably not by tomorrow.

The ticklish question of which China—Communist or Nationalist—can be the China in the Games was settled temporarily yesterday. The international Olympic Committee voted to let both take part.

NATIONALISTS WON'T PLAY

Nationalist China then said it did not care to play with the Communists and cancelled plans to compete.

Communist China will be eligible for one sport,—swimming. But its teams will have to get here by a week from tomorrow when the first swimming events are scheduled. Present whereabouts of the squad are unknown.

Today the International Olympic Committee delves into East-West politics again. It will discuss East Germany. As far as the Helsinki games are concerned the question is theoretical. The East Germans can't take part here.

The West Germans are here more or less by default. At its Vienna meeting last year the I.O.C. ordered the Germans to get together and form one squad. The East Germans balked and the West Germans showed up at the Oslo winter Olympics.

The I.O.C. again told the Germans to get together before the summer games but the East Germans weren't in a consolidating mood.

TO CUT '56 GAMES

As the big show here prepared to go on the committee confirmed final arrangements for the 1956 games at Melbourne. Now they will tackle the problem of reducing the size of the affair. Team sports—basketball, soccer, field hockey and water polo—will have to put up a good case to justify their retention.

The 1952 Games are so large that preliminary competition has been running in three sports for the last four days. This was necessary to squeeze the 20-sport program into the prescribed period of 15 official days.

Canada, Bulgaria and the Philippines qualified yesterday for the basketball tournament and three more teams will qualify today. These will be the winners of the Belgium-Cuba, Greece-Hungary and Italy matches. The United States and Russia didn't have to play in the qualifying rounds. Neither did Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Mexico, Finland, France, Czechoslovakia or Uruguay.

Two qualifying rounds were needed in soccer and the regular field hockey tournament started Tuesday.

All 70,000 seats in the main Olympic stadium have been sold for tomorrow's opening. The prices range up to $14.

Mikemen Humiliate Newspapermen 13-4

Radio Station CHEX swamped the Examiner 13-4 in a challenge softball game played Thursday night at Quaker Park. It was a free-hitting affair with plenty of bobbles and as many arguments.

Dave Clark was the winning pitcher. His fastball handcuffed the newsmen and he was never in difficulties. George Ludgate, CHEX sports announcer, was catcher.

Harold Dormer was the best man on the Examiner team getting four hits in five times at bat. He pitched four innings and was later relieved by Fred Scates. Johnny McPhee was the third pitcher used by the Examiner and he finished the game. Jack McEwen and Alf Quemby handled the catching chores.

Russ Baer, ex-manager of the radio station, was the long ball hitter of the night. He poled out two that should have gone for home runs but either old age or sciatica slowed him down in his base running and they went for triples.

Rain showers persisted throughout the game but play was not interrupted. The handful of loyal spectators did their rival rooting from the north end of the grandstand that has the protective covering of a large tree.

Midgets Get Win

Peterborough midgets took a 7-5 exhibition lacrosse win here over the Orillia boys. They led 1-0 in the first quarter, 3-0 at the half and 5-3 going into the even final frame. P. Heffernan scored three goals for them, D. Kent getting two, and Blodgett and Saunders one each. G. Hunt helped on a pair. For the losers, Sturgeon, Scarlet, Switzer, Seager and Fitzpatrick did the tallying. The winners drew four of the five penalties.

Orillia: Dunford, Fitzpatrick, Seager, Switzer, Scarlet, Sturgeon, Curragh, Hinds, J. Payne, L. Payne, Rickman.

Petes: Baker, Forestell, Simmons, Heffernan, Davis, D. Sutherland, McGuinness, Kent, Ketcheson, Floyd, Saunders, Blodgett, Chambers, Hunt.

Has Easy Job

HELSINKI (AP)—The man with the easiest coaching job in the 1952 Olympics is Kee Son Bee of Singapore.

His responsibility: Training Neo Chwee Koh, Singapore's one-man swimming team.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Mike Rodden of Kingston writes a piece on the last Belleville ball game there and one gets the impression that it was quite a rumpus. An old diamond feud flaring once more. McCabe, Goyer and Levandoski were all pretty hot, and Bush was ejected after pushing an umpire around. Incidentally, we still haven't heard of his being suspended for such action, as Whitehill of the Petes was earlier. Quinte scribe retorts: "Maybe a lot of those flying saucers alleged to have been seen cluttering the air above Kingston have been displaced halos of the Monarches' team. And since the rhubarb seemed centred about the plate umpire and a Redman player, just how did M'sieu Levandoski and company get into the battle?"

* * * * * *

An item from Brantford: "Scouts of the basball world are claiming there is a shortage of good talent in the bushes. Of 18 players drafted in the spring by the majors, only eight remain and they aren't setting the world on fire. Brooklyn club officials who conducted a four-day school here went home disappointed. They were looking for a fastball pitcher among the youngster. 'Give us a youth with a fast ball and we'll do the rest,' said the Dodger top brass. In minor leagues, where young lads wield a bat far too heavy for them, a fast ball is in the catcher's mitt before the kid batters can get the lumber around."

* * * * * *

Tigers and Timbermen

The husky Hamilton Tigers tackle the Petes' Timbermen at 8:45 tonight in Miller Bowl, weather being right. An important O.L.A. senior struggle as the Petes can take over second place alone with a win. But a loss might set 'em back late Saturday in third slot, since Toronto takes on St. Kitts tomorrow, and right now Toronto and Petes are tied for second spot back of Mimico, with Hamilton hustling up on their heels. A real lacrosse dogfight from here on in. Messrs. McKenzie, Gair, Dorney, Love, Doyle and the rest will be shooting the works against the rugged Timbermen on the latter's pitch, and it promises to be a hot one.

* * * * * *

While Mimico Mounties are pacing the pack and will be tough to dislodge, and while Toronto and Hamilton are battling bitterly with the Thorpe team, you can't sell the 1951 Mann Cup champs short this season. Too much class aboard their lineup to discount their chances. Sure, it's a tough, tough league, but they showed what they could do last year in heavy going as they went all the way to the Canadian championship. And they have another potent pack this warm semester. They're playing solid lacrosse lately and not dropping too many decisions. Rival clubs realize this and take the Timbermen plenty seriously in every tussle. Well they should, too.

* * * * * *

Young Mounties Victors

It was 13-6 for Mimico juniors at home last e'en over the local Filter Queens in O.L.A. play. A clean contest and close enough till the weary Peterborough boys faded under a four-goal barrage in the last quarter. They had trimmed the young Mounties handily here in a recent joust. Brioux, Batley, Allan, O'Reilly, McIlmoyle and Smith did the sniping for Lou's crew, with Groves helping on three. Toronto Maitlands take on the young Petes' gutted-stickers this Saturday night at 8:45 in Miller Bowl for their final visit here. Locals have a layoff then till Aug. 1, and the schedule winds up two weeks later.

Lindsay men softballers arrived with but eight players last p.m. and had to default to U.E.W., though Buck Legrow of U.E. offered to loan them a man. However that isn't legal, so it goes as a default and puts U.E. just a point back of the leading Seabroke squad in the standing. Showers arrived later and the scheduled tilt betwixt Revoy's and Lakefield was washed out after four and a half innings. It'll have to be replayed. Holidays are hampering the teams now as players go out of town on joy trips. Games next Tuesday: Revoy's vs. Seabrooke, and Lakefield vs. U.E.W. Schedule ends July 29.

Mrs. Pyke Leads Golf Tourney

KINGSTON (CP)—Mrs. Graeme Pyke of Montreal, the 1952 Quebec ladies golf champion, yesterday led 76 entries in the international ladies golf tournament at the Cataraque Golf and Country Club.

Mrs. Pyke, defending champion in this second annual tournament, shot a one-under-par 77. It qualified her along with 15 other low gross scorers to enter today's match play in the second round of the three-day affair.

Marlene Stewart of Fonthill's Lookout Point Golf Club, the Canadian open and closed ladies champion, was the second lowest of the field, shooting a two-over-par 42 on the first nine and a two-under-par 35 on the return round for a 78.

Mrs. M. J. Carlson of Toronto Rosedale placed third with a 79.

Others qualifying included:

Mrs. L. Ross, Cobourg 41-40—81
Miss A. Sharpe, Lookout Point 39-44—83
Mrs. R. Barr, Ottawa, 41-44—85
Miss J. Allen, Cobourg 42-43—85

Wings, Royals Divide Doubleheader

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rochester Red Wings had their pursuit of the front-running Montreal Royals stalled last night as the two teams split an International League doubleheader, each taking a 7-2 decision.

But the third-place Syracuse Chiefs won a twin bill from Baltimore Orioles 2-1 and 4-2. That put the Chiefs just 2½ games back of the Royals and a half-game in arrears of the Wings.

Springfield Cubs defeated Buffalo Bisons 9-5 and Toronto Maple Leafs turned back Ottawa Athletics 13-2 in other league action.

Mal Mallette went the seven-inning route for the Royals in the opener although he gave up nine hits. Freddie Martin, who was bombarded off the hill in the third, took the loss. Ellis Deal held the Royals to six hits in the nightcap. Ray Jablonski hit a home run for the winners and Jim Pendleton one for the Royals. Tom Lasorda was the loser.

Arnold Landeck held the Orioles to five hits in the first game while Bob Keegan and John Griffore teamed to hold them to six safeties in the second. The Chiefs made their seven first-game hits and six nightcap bingles count.

HIGDON HOMERS

Outfielder Bill Higdon hit a home run with one on, the big blow, in the Cubs' triumph. Dewey Adkins was the winner although he needed help.

Hal Hudson hurled a three-hitter for Toronto. He chalked up his victory with a minimum of effort as his mates clubbed 17 hits.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

In case of rain, 12 ends played constitute a game in the men's section—and in the ladies' section 10 ends constitute a game played. On that ruling, the games of last night—except two—will be replayed later in the summer. None of the ladies' games reached the complete 10 ends—and only two of the men's games. This is the first time this season anything like this has happened.

L. Bearne 11, S. Shields 9.
W. Jeffries 13, C. Lawrence 9.

Here is what's going to take place on the greens this evening at 7:30 o'clock: Men's trebles — draw from the board.

Six men's pairs are playing in the provincial playdown games.

Several games go in the men's club singles.

Fourteen ladies' rinks are playing regular schedule games.

And on the spare greens — if there are any, it's hard to tell. Not a bad assortment for one evening.

A bus repairman was filling out a report on a highway accident. When he came to the question: "Disposition of passengers?" he candidly wrote: "Mad as hell."

Raybestos Wins

Raybestos beat Norwood fastballers 13-9 in Norwood last evening. They counted a run each in the first and eighth innings, two apiece in the second and fifth, four in the third and three in the sixth of a tidy tussle. Norwood scored one in the first and two each in the third, fifth, seventh and eighth.

Teams:

Rays: Batley, ss; Caccavella, 2b; Greenlaw, 1b; Crary, 3b; Giles, c; Fennell, lf; Crampton, cf; Maudsley, rf; Nichols, p; Cullen, Greenhalgh, Evans.

Norwood: E. Paye, c; Fredericks, lf; Garden, ss; B. Payne, 3b; Ferguson, cf; Atcheson, rf; Althouse, rf; Wilford, p; Martin, 2b; Rae, 1b.

Church Champs Declared In Softball Set

Three championship teams have been declared in the Church Softball League following the playoffs. Grace United Church topped the midget group, St. James' United Church won the bantam division, and Knox United Church took the peewee title.

Twenty-two teams took part in the league and 350 boys played during the six-week schedule and playoffs.

All winning teams will receive trophies for leading their division of the league.

In order to spark the peewee division a new trophy has been given by Jimmy Sarginson, Jr., and Jack Drummond.

Teams participating in the league were: Park Street, Knox, St. James', Trinity, George Street, Grace, Mark Street, St. Andrew's and St. George's.

M. Williamson, president of the league, announced that the 1953 schedule will be drawn up at an early meeting. Other officers were Garnet Dalnard, Cecil Hunter, and Len Smith. C. M. Krug assisted the league as chairman of the sports committee of the Peterborough Boys' Work Board.

The board proposes to get an early start scheduling the Church Hockey League, an activity for boys inaugurated in 1951.

Brooks Take 35 Of 36 Games From Cellar-Dwelling Cubs

By JACK HAND, Associated Press Sports Writer

Chuck Dressen is playing the old P. T. Barnum line on his Brooklyn calliope to flim-flam the poor down-trodden brethren of the National League. Against the bottom three clubs the Dodgers perform with the finesse of a shell-game operator at a carnival.

The Brooks have won 35 of 36 games—a glittering .972 pace—against Boston, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh, the sixth, seventh and eight-place clubs. Against the rest of the league, they're playing just .500 ball.

It isn't always easy. Yesterday it took 11 innings at Cincinnati before Carl Furillo broke it up with a run-scoring single, 2-1.

RUN OFF PREMISES

Both Jackie Robinson and Billy Cox, his second-base replacement, were run off the premises by umpire Augie Guglielmo in the ninth when the Reds knocked out Preacher Roe and tied the score at 1-1.

Robinson was chased when he kicked his glove in the air in protest of a "safe" call on Eddie Pellagrini's steal of second. Cox didn't last long when he continued the argument. Joe Black was the winner, Frank Smith the loser, both in relief.

LEAD BY SIX

The Dodger lead measured six full games after Max Lanier walked Enos Slaughter with the bases loaded and the score tied in the last of the ninth for a 3-2 St. Louis Card victory over New York Giants.

Lanier, who walked 11, gave the Cards their first run when he walked Del Rice with the bases loaded in the first.

The "big" American League series at Yankee Stadium ended with New York and Cleveland splitting a doubleheader. The Yanks took the series 3-2 and added a full game to their lead, now 4½ games.

Joe Collins' ninth-inning home run off reliefer Bob Lemon gave the Yanks the second game 5-4 and dropped the Indians into third place, two percentage points behind Boston. Collins' smash came a few minutes after Barney McCosky's pinch homer, his first of the season, tied the score in the top of the ninth.

REYNOLDS KNOCKED OUT

Allie Reynolds, who had pitched 18 complete games since last Sept. 11, finally was knocked out of the box in the first game, won by Cleveland 11-6. The Tribe rocked Allie for six runs and six hits in two innings and rolled up 15 hits in all, including a homer and triple by Larry Doby.

All the Yanks' runs in the opener came on homers by Mickey Mantle, Johnny Mize and Collins.

Little Bobby Shantz turned in a six-hitter for Philadelphia against St. Louis Browns to win his 16th, 3-1, in the second game of a doubleheader. The Brownies won the opener 9-5 when pitcher Tommy Byrne hit two singles, a double and a homer.

Spec Shea shut out Detroit with five hits and scored the only run to beat Hal Newhouser's five-hitter, 1-0, for his sixth straight victory and ninth of the year.

Boston squeezed past Chicago, 2-1, in the American's only day game. Sammy White's home run and George Kell's run-scoring double were enough to win with the help of an effective ninth-inning relief job by Ray Scarborough.

PHILS DROP TWO

Down in the second division of the National, the big noise was provided by Pittsburgh's sweep of a doubleheader with Philadelphia, 2-1 and 4-2.

Rookie Cal Hogue, brought up from Charleston, S.C., of the class A Sally League last week, won his first start with a four-hitter. Ralph Kiner's 17th home run with a man on gave Ted Wilks the nod over Karl Drews in the second game.

Vern Bickford drove home the only run with a seventh-inning single in Boston's 1-0 edge over Chicago's Paul Minner.

Ex-Boston Bruin Star Turns Hotel Manager

SMITHS FALLS (CP)—W. M. Cowley, one-time star centre for Boston Bruins in the National Hockey League, has turned hotelkeeper.

Cowley has purchased a three-storey, 28-room hotel in this eastern Ontario railway centre and settled down to business life.

Smiths Falls hockey fans, hopeful the one-time hockey great might lend a hand at coaching their teams, soon had their hopes dashed. Said Cowley: "I'm through with hockey. Besides I'll be too busy to take on any coaching."

OLYMPIAN HEIGHTS—Canada's Alice Whitty opened her mouth and flattened out clearing the high-jump bar at Elaintarhan Sports Ground remaining in tune for the Olympic Games. Russian canoeists Arechenko, fore, and Perevochekoy dug paddles into the choppy water at Taivallanti. Texas A. and M.'s Darrow Hooper cocked his arm, rested the shot against his stern jaw, and wound up for prodigious puts in Helsinki.

North Carolina Dark Horse Leads Canadian Open

By FRASER MACDOUGALL

WINNIPEG (CP)—A dark horse from North Carolina today led a field of an even 100 golfers, survivors of the two opening rounds, into the third stage of the 72-hole race for the Canadian Open golf championship and its $15,000 in prize money.

Johnny Palmer of Badin, N.C., who figured mildly in pre-tournament speculation, put a second-day 65 alongside an opening-round 66 for a 36-hole figure of 131, 13 under par, and a four-stroke lead over his closest competitor.

A second-day par-smashing attack on the short, tricky St. Charles golf and country club course all but wiped out any hopes of a Canadian winding up in first place. The closest Canadians—three of them—were eight strokes off Palmer's pace.

The starting field of 142, cut to 132 yesterday through withdrawals, was automatically reduced to the low 100 for today. Tomorrow the low 60 and ties will set out on the fourth and final round.

The 34-year-old Palmer, only one of the three first-day leaders to stand up under the pressure, shot his lowest competitive score of 1952 and set a tournament record for St. Charles the second day in a row.

He, Skee Riegel of Tulsa and Stan Leonard of Vancouver shattered the old mark of 67 Wednesday with 66s. Riegel slipped from his starting pace to a 69 yesterday for 135, four strokes behind Palmer. Leonard, who said he "played like a donkey," took a three-over-par 75 for 141.

OPPOSITION STRONG

Palmer, who has been playing golf for 21 years, faces opposition from several tournament veterans.

Three were tied at 136, one stroke behind Riegel: Roberto De Vincenzo of Buenos Aires, who holds the Open championships of Argentina, Mexico, Belgium and Italy; Dick Mayer, playing out of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Dutch Harrison of Ardmore, Okla., who won the Canadian Open three years ago.

Buddy Haas, former Canadian Amateur champion from New Orleans, was within striking distance at 137. Smiley Quick of Pasadena, Calif., and Doug Ford of Harrison, N.Y., had 138s.

Pat Fletcher of Saskatoon, Canadian Professional Golfers Association champion, and two other Canadians shared the 139 bracket with six Americans, including Jim Ferrier, the defending champion.

Fletcher, who started out Wednesday with a 73, shot a 66 yesterday, helped along by a hole-in-one on the par three 129-yard sixth hole when an iron shot he lofted into a tree caromed onto the green and into the cup.

Henry Martell of Edmonton shot a 72 to go with his opening-day 67. Gordie Brydson of Toronto Mississauga came around in 69 after a starting 70.

FERRIER PULLING UP

Ferrier's play indicated he may be getting back into form that won him the Canadian Open for the last two years. Starting from 71, he got his putter to work and went around in 68.

Thirty-one players broke par on the second round, led by Palmer whose 65 was two strokes under his best previous competitive score this year. Then came Fletcher with 66.

De Vicenzo, Tommy Bolt of Durham, N.C., and Dick Metz of Maple City, Kansas, each shot a 67.

Here And There In Sports

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bredan Macken, Lorne Maine, Jack Spencer and Henri Rochon have been chosen as Canada's 1952 Davis Cup team.

The selection was announced in Montreal yesterday by Dr. Georges LeClerc, chairman of the selection committee.

Macken, Spencer and Rochon are from Montreal while Maine, redoubtable tennis ace from Vancouver, now makes that city his home also.

Dr. LeClerc said Canada's representatives will meet Mexico in the second round of the American Zone play at the Mount Royal Tennis Club in Montreal, Aug. 1, 2 and 3.

He said the committee believed James Macken of Vancouver, who had a good record in tournament play this year, was entitled to a position on the team. Macken told the committee he was unable to get time off from his job for training and play and asked to be left off the team.

Five intermediate players were considered, and the committee announced it believed they will be ready to represent Canada in the next Davis Cup team. They are, Paul Willey and Lawrence Barclay, Vancouver, Jim Bentley and Don Fontana, Toronto, and Robert Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que.

In addition to being chairman of the selection committee, Dr. LeClerc is non-playing captain of the Canadian team.

ARGOS GET COPELAND

Bob Moran, president of the Big Four Toronto Argonauts, said in Toronto yesterday Calgary Stampeders have decided to uphold the release clause in Royal Copeland's contract with them and have sent the Canadian Rugby Union release form to the Argonauts. Moran said there are "no strings attached" to the release. "No cash and no players are involved."

TITLE GO POSTPONED

The Canadian heavyweight boxing championship match between champion Earl Walls and Verne Escoe, both of Toronto, was postponed last night because of rain. The winner of the Edmonton match is to get a crack at the British Empire titleholder, Johnny Williams.

DOESN'T LIKE BONUS

George (Specs) Torpercer, former major league baseball player and well-known International League manager, was guest speaker at a Hamilton service club luncheon yesterday honoring Hamilton Cardinals of the Pony League. Torpercer criticized the "bonus" system used in baseball today. He said it often ruins any incentive a player may have.

OLYMPIC TEAM ROBBED

Dispatches from Guatemala City yesterday said the Guatemalan government had received a message from Lieut. Carlos Bracamonte reporting the republic's Olympic team had been robbed of $3,000 and was stranded in New York. Bracamonte heads the Guatemalan team en route to Helsinki. Passage of the team to Finland was prepaid but the money stolen was for expenses and for the purchase of uniforms. No details of the robbery were given.

STANKY SUSPENDED

Cardinal manager Eddie Stanky yesterday was suspended for three days for "offensive gestures" to umpire Babe Pinelli in Wednesday night's game with New York Giants. Cardinal shortstop Solly Hemus was fined $50 for his conduct in the game.

Liechtenstein Has Smallest Olympic Team

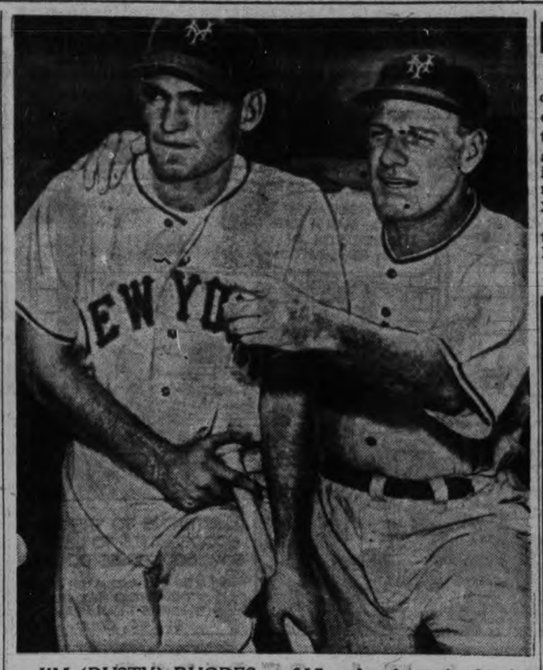
HELSINKI (AP)—The smallest team in the Olympic Games belongs to the world's smallest duchy—Liechtenstein.

The Duchy, bordering Austria and Switzerland, has entered two cyclists, Enald Hasler and Alois Lampert.

Liechtenstein is 64 square miles and has a population of 13,000.

STAN LEONARD, Vancouver professional, set a new course record of 66, six-under-par, to share the opening round lead with Skee Riegel, of Tulsa, Okla., and Johnny Palmer, of Badin, N.C., in the Canadian Open Golf Championship at Winnipeg.



JIM (DUSTY) RHODES, a .357 socker from the South, stands on the dugout steps with Manager Leo Durocher after his purchase by the Giants. Dusty dented the fences in the Southern Association for the Nashville Volunteers.

Canadian Athletes Feeling Better About Olympic Chances

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HELSINKI (CP) — Canada's Olympic basketball team yesterday set the pace for all-around optimism in the Canadian camp as the Olympics draw closer.

The hoopsters got past some weird officiating to defeat Egypt 63-57 and step into the Olympic tournament proper with three straight triumphs in the preliminary double elimination tournament.

The track and fielders, swimmers and oarsmen are getting into razor-keen condition.

SATISFIED WITH BOATS

The oarsmen—both Hamilton Leanders and Toronto Argonauts—are more than satisfied with their made-over boats borrowed from Sweden. They open the Games program Sunday and coaches Paddy Cline of the Leanders and Frank Kaysmith of the Argonauts have scheduled three-times-daily workout for today and tomorrow.

The Argonaut eight took a trial spin for a few minutes yesterday morning as soon as the boat was fixed up and went out again in the afternoon and evening. The morale of the crew was lifted tremendously by the excellent shell.

On the track Shirley Eckel of Toronto and Jim Lavery of Calgary are progressing to the point where the coaches take a rosy view of their chances of competing. Miss Eckel has not been hurdling but this is only a precautionary measure. The Calgary star was out this morning and able to take relay passes.

"He's coming along fine and the picture of the track team looks a lot better," said Bruce Humber of Hamilton, coach of the men's team. He is optimistic that Lavery, who competes first in the 400-metre race July 5, will be able to anchor both the 400- and 600-metre relays.

TEAM READY

"The team is in shape and ready to go," Humber added.

Ron Miller of Toronto easily pole-vaulted 3 feet, three inches. Bob Adams of Saskatoon, who will compete only in the decathlon, worked out on broad-jump, quarter-mile and distance running. Rich Ferguson of Toronto went out for two three-quarter-mile time trials within 5 minutes and turned in 3:07 and 3:13.

Fred Hayward, St. John's, Nfld., walker went out for 13 miles on the 50-kilometre course. He said he would like to compete in the 10,000-metre walk but believes he will not be able to make it three days after the longer distance event.

A casualty in the camp yesterday was boxer Jim Saunders of Winnipeg, who is undergoing treatment for nose trouble. It's not serious although it is keeping the heavyweight out of the ring.

The basketball team had a tight squeeze against the Egyptians, considered by the experts able to win over Canada. Referees—from Argentina and Brazil—were tough on the Canadians, particularly forward Carl Ridd of Winnipeg, who was thrown out of the game after getting a sock in the eye. He was put out on fouls in the middle of the first half and took the decision hard.

Remember When—

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Joe DiMaggio cracked out three hits—one a ninth-inning homer with the bases loaded—to pace New York Yankees to a 5-1 victory over Bob Feller, Cleveland Indians' pitching prodigy, 15 years ago today. That was the first year—1937—that DiMaggio won the American League's home-run crown with 46 round-trippers.

Name Phil Farley Gulf Team Captain

WINNIPEG (CP)—Phil Farley of Toronto yesterday was named captain of the seven-man Canadian team to meet the United States and Mexico at Seattle Aug. 14-15 in the first of the America's Cup matches to be held every two years.

James P. Anglin, chairman of the selections committee of the Royal Canadian Golf Association, announced the personnel of the Canadian team:

Walter McElroy of Vancouver, 1951 Canadian amateur champion; Gerry Kesselring of Kitchener, Ontario Amateur and Open champion; Bill Mawhinney of Vancouver, former Canadian amateur champion; Nick Weslock of Windsor; Pete Kelly of Fredericton; Percy Clogg of Vancouver and Farley.

Flying Tackle Halts Alleged Thief

MONTREAL (CP)—Ed Murray, 32, captured an alleged thief with a flying tackle yesterday shortly after the man is said by police to have held up and robbed a bakery store of $40.

The accused, identified by police as Paul Williams, 44, of Fort Erie, was said by police to have entered the store, ordered a woman clerk to "move" while he took $40 from the till. Murray was passing the bakery when the clerk pointed out Williams and said he had just robbed the store.

Offer Students Incentives To Join Forces

OTTAWA (CP)—The Defence Department disclosed yesterday that in search for officers it has decided to allow cadets in the services colleges and universities to cut their courses sharply before qualifying for commissions in certain fields.

Badly in need of leaders for the expanding forces, the department issued new details of the scheme under which it will subsidize the education of young men who agree to serve three years in the regular forces on graduation.

There are two main fields, would-be line (general duty) or executive officers on the one hand and technical and specialist officers on the other.

In either case, a student at one of the service colleges or members of the university military training plans may apply for government help after one year at his own expense.

In the first group, the government will finance an extra year of study and then the man can join the regular forces instead of doing two more years of studying. In the second group, the government will finance an extra three years of study.

This subsidized plan is in addition to the normal plan under which young men go through college or services colleges—Royal Military College and Royal Roads—on their own or on scholarships and then decide whether they want to join the regular forces.

Announce 2 Winners Of PAFF Scholarships

OTTAWA (CP)—The Princess Alice Foundation Fund yesterday announced the two winners of its 1952-53 scholarships, each valued at a minimum of $1,200.

Winners are Audrey MacMillan of Fairview, P.E.I., and Shirley Anne Pearse of Winnipeg. The announcement was made by Senator Cairine Wilson, chairman of the Foundation.

The scholarships, designed to further training of Canadian women as outstanding leaders of youth, are open only to women with an approved bachelor's degree and must be taken at a school or university approved by the directors of the fund.

Plan To Prosecute Dairies Not Obeying

TORONTO (CP)—Judge A. B. Curry, chairman of the Ontario Milk Control Board, said yesterday dairies which continue to sell vitamized milk will be prosecuted.

He was commenting on a report that London dairies are continuing to distribute the vitamized product despite the board's ban which became effective July 15.

In London, Roy Henning, president of the London Milk Producers Association, declared that sale of vitamized milk in that city will not be stopped. He said:

"This is discrimination in the worst possible form."

Says River Polluted

KITCHENER (CP)—James Johannes, chairman of the Waterloo township Board of health, charged yesterday that raw sewage is being dumped into the Grand River by this city. He said the board found one of the disposal plant's screens out of commission.

Dedicates Hospital

GALT (CP)—Premier Frost last night laid the cornerstone of the $2,000,000 South Waterloo District Memorial Hospital. He thanked the people of Galt, Preston and Hespeler and the surrounding country for their co-operative partnership in erecting a new hospital.

Bogus $10 Bills Found In Brockville

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Several counterfeit $10 bills have turned up here within the last few days. Bogus bills were passed at a restaurant, a cigar store, a groceteria and two banks.

Police said the bills, of poor quality, were easily recognizable as counterfeit.

Sees No Milk Shortage

TORONTO (CP)—M. E. Houck, secretary-manager of the Toronto Milk Distributors' Association, denying published reports, said last night there was no danger of a milk shortage in the Greater Toronto area. "It is true that the heat, high humidity and continuing dry spell have cut normal milk supplies to Toronto somewhat," said Mr. Houck. "But there is no immediate evidence of shortages."

Pinned By Falling Hay

BELLEVILLE (CP)—A load of baled hay tumbled from a truck yesterday, hitting three children and pinning one of them. Larry Whiley, 7, was buried under 56 bales of hay which rolled off the truck when the rope binding broke. He suffered back injuries. Bill Forgue and Jimmy Clarke, both 4, were treated for bruises.

Family Fears Foul Play In Disappearance

VICTORIA (CP)—Relatives of a Victoria girl servi[ng] in the R.C.A.F. said tod[ay] [th]ey suspect foul play in the [mys]s disappearance.

AW2. Isobel Bu[rton], 26, has not been heard from since April 10 when she left the R.C.A.F. station at Aylmer, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. A.G. Sim, uncle and aunt of the missing girl, said Miss Burton's air force uniform has been found and that a man absent without leave from the Canadian Army and with a previous police record is involved in the case. They did not disclose the source of their information.

Miss Burton had lived with Mr. and Mrs. Sim for 20 years before joining the R.C.A.F. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H.A. Burton, live at Abernathy, Sask.

LISTED AS DESERTER

The Sims said Miss Burton enlisted in the R.C.A.F. here, was sent to Saint John, N.B., then posted to Aylmer. She now is listed as a deserter.

The Sims said their niece had written them regularly until suddenly, in April, the letters stopped.

The final word from her was that she was going to London, Ont., to visit friends she had met there on a previous trip.

The case was raised in the House of Commons when Maj.-Gen. G.R. Pearkes, V.C., Progressive Conservative member for Nanaimo, criticized what he said was the air force's failure to institute a proper search.

The Sims said that although several agencies are presumably investigating the affair they felt that no real effort is being made to trace Miss Burton.

Mr. Sim said the girl's father is considering travelling to Ontario in an effort to find some trace of her.

New Liner

VLISSINGEN, The Netherlands (CP)—Construction of an ocean liner, as yet known only as M273, for the Swedish American line is nearing the launching stage at the De Scheide shipyards here. Six of her nine decks have been laid and she now stands 65 feet above her bed.

Dread Disease

CAPETOWN (CP)—One-seventh of the world's population get malaria and one per cent die, Dr. R. Elsdon-Dew, a South African research scientist, told a Congress here. "Malaria is man's greatest enemy. . . Between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 people die of the disease every year," he said.

Let Pullman Increase Rates

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pullman Company received permission today to raise its minimum charge for sleeping-car accommodations by about 23 per cent.

The authority to make the changes in the minimum rates in the United States was also extended to Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Pacific Railway for sleeping-car travel between points in Canada and the U.S.

The United States Inter-state Commerce Commission said the company could put the increase into effect July 28.

The new schedule of rates will establish a minimum charge of $5 for a lower berth in a standard pullman car. The present minimum is $4.05 for that type of accommodation.

Since all sleeping-car charges are tied to the basic lower-berth fare, all other types of sleeping accommodations will take a proportionate advance. Thus, the Minimum charge for a lower berth in a tourist sleeping car will advance from $3.20 to $3.95.

The upper-berth minimum will become $3.80 in a standard pullman and $3.05 in a tourist car, with roomettes priced at a flat $7.

Obituary

CLARENCE GEORGE CAMPBELL

WARKWORTH (ENS) — Funeral service was held here today for Clarence George Campbell, 52, of Ajax, formerly a resident of this district who moved to Ajax several years ago. He died there Tuesday.

Born in Haldimand township, he was a son of Effie Hunter and the late Adam Campbell, and husband of the former Doris Coleman of Detroit. He was an adherent of the Presbyterian Church.

Surviving are his widow, his mother, and two step-children, Roy Coleman, and Evelyn Coleman of Detroit. There are as well a brother, Percy of Percy township, and a sister, Mrs. Gerald Patterson of Peterborough. Two sisters predeceased him.

A service was held at Pickering Thursday, and one was held at the home of his brother, Percy, today, at which the Rev. J. M. Ritchie of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church officiated.

Pallbearers were Fred Denike, Ray Sykes, Norman and Marvin Bailey, Lorne Lockhart, and Thomas Williams. Burial was in Warkworth cemetery.

Labor Council Says Mortgage Rates High

TORONTO (CP)—A report submitted to the Toronto District Trades and Labor Council (A.F.L.-T.L.C.) last night accused lending institutions of trying to force up mortgage rates.

It said insurance companies, banks and other lending organizations are "putting on a squeeze play" to force national housing act mortgage rates beyond the present five per cent.

The council's legislative committee also said in the report:

"We believe banks and lending establishments are playing the Canadian housing situation to the limit and ruthlessly taking the Canadian citizen and Parliament for all the traffic will bear."

Italy Proving Biggest Problem

ROME (Reuters)—Hugh Gibson, director of the provisional intergovernmental committee for the movement of migrants from Europe, said today Italy provides the biggest problem of the 20-country committee. Canada is a member.

Italy, he told a press conference, has a surplus population of 3,000,000. Another 2,000,000 persons needing new homes overseas are scattered through Germany, Austria, Greece and The Netherlands.

The committee was given the task of setting 100,000 migrants in its first year, beyond the number which would normally migrate under bilateral government agreements. In its first five months, it has moved half its quota.

More than 35,000 went to the United States, about 7,000 to Australia, 4,400 to Canada and 1,900 to Brazil.

Malaya Papers Refute Charge

SINGAPORE (Reuters)—British and Chinese English-language newspapers here today use such terms as "lying charges," "nasty propaganda," and "a sop to American taxpayers" in attacking American allegations yesterday of a tin cartel involving Malaya.

"The United States Senate preparedness sub-committee reported that American officials had defeated a combine determined to squeeze the last possible drop of profit out of the American treasury, regardless of the consequences to our economic strength and the strength of the free world, the British-owned Straits Times says.

"This blatantly mendacious report must be about the nastiest piece of propaganda that has ever come out of the United States."

Gromyko, Russian deputy foreign minister, was appointed to his new post last month. He will succeed George Zarubin, new Soviet ambassador in Washington.

50 Crowing Cocks Seized In Raid Creating Din

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Humane Society Inspector Cyril France doesn't care if he never sees another fighting cock.

Fifty of them seized in a London township police raid on July 6 are making life difficult at the society's Victoria St. headquarters.

Every day at dawn the belligerent roosters start crowing. The fighting chorus continues all day in 50 different sharps and flats.

"I want to get them out of here," Inspector France said today. He is worried about the neighbors

He will have to stick it out until Aug. 8, according to local court officials.

That's the last day of a 30-day period in which an appeal can be filed by any of the 79 men rounded up in the cock pit raid and convicted in magistrate's court on July 7.

Baby Fund

CAPETOWN (CP)—A trust fund for South Africa's Lombard quads is being formed under the auspices of the Department of Social Welfare along the lines of a similar organization for Canada's Dionne quintuplets. A committee will have power to provide for any other quads, triplets, or even twins, that are born.

Solve Slaying Of Student

NEW YORK (AP)—Police announced today they have solved the mysterious slaying of a young Brooklyn rabbinical student, and are "holding three 'teen-age boys."

Police said the solution of the killing of Samuel B. London last month came after a night of questioning of the three boys and other 'teen-agers.

Officials who conducted the investigation announced that the murder weapon—a .22-calibre rifle—had been recovered. Its recovery led to the questioning of the boys.

It was reported a boy attempted to sell the rifle but the prospective buyer became suspicious and called police.

London, 23, was shot down from behind as he was returning home from prayer and meditation at a synagogue. His body was found June 27 in a Brooklyn park.

Boost Basic Wages By 13 Shillings

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—The Australian arbitration court today decided to boost basic wages by as much as 13 shillings a week in an effort to keep up with spiralling living costs.

The announcement came as a shock to many Australians, who claim the government adjustment always gives a further spur to commodity prices.

The court's quarterly adjustment goes into effect Aug. 1. It brings the Sydney minimum rate to 11 pounds 15 shillings, more than double what it was during the Second World War.

Sinister Motives Of Witness Told By Doctor

WINDSOR (CP)—Dr. P. J. G. Morgan, medical superintendent of the 350-bed East Windsor hospital for incurables, yesterday told a provincial government commission that a previous commission witness had "sinister motives."

He told the commission which is investigating the hospital's affairs that Mrs. Elsie Morley, his former private secretary, was fully aware of the fact that the mother of Mrs. Agnes Block, secretary to Windsor's Mayor Arthur J. Reaume, was a patient of his who regularly received morphine tablets.

Therefore, in testifying that she saw a package at the hospital labelled "morphine" and addressed to the mayor's secretary, Mrs. Morley had sinister motives, Dr. Morgan charged. He said there was nothing secret about the fact that tablets were sent regularly from the hospital to the mayor's office.

Commissioner Gordon Fraser, who is conducting the inquiry, said Mrs. Morley described the morphine incident in response to specific questions she was asked.

Dr. Morgan told of the hospital's dietary arrangements. The food is better and less expensive than the food served at any hospital on the continent, he said. The menu was so arranged that a meal was not repeated for 42 days.

Henry Isaac Cowan

The funeral for Henry Isaac Cowan, Woodview, who died on Tuesday was held Thursday from the Hendren funeral home, Lakefield.

The Rev. John Purser of St. John's Anglican Church, Peterborough, conducted the service.

Pallbearers, all sons, were: Leonard, Roy, Frank, Benjamin, Phillip and Raymond Cowan. Flower bearers were: Leslie Guiler, Irwin Stirling, John Struger, Wayne Cowan. Burial was in Lakefield cemetery.

AN HISTORIC STEP in trans-oceanic flight is the aim of the trans-Atlantic flight of two Air Force Sikorsky H-19 helicopters, like the one seen above. The scheduled route of the Military Air Transport craft, from Westover Air Force Base, Mass., to Wiesbaden, Germany, is shown on map (top cut). The two H-19's will be delivered to the 9th Air Rescue Squadron in Germany. Purpose of the flight is to "prove the feasibility and economy of air delivery to Europe of helicopters." Air Force estimates the flying time for the approximately 4,000-mile flight to be about 40 hours. The H-19 has a normal ferrying range, with auxiliary tanks, of about 1,000 miles. Longest overwater hop on the route is the 817 miles from Iceland to Scotland.

Six Canadians Make Finals

BISLEY, Surrey, England (Reuters)—Six Canadians were among the 100 marksmen qualifying today for the final round tomorrow of the Queen's Prize.

The men with qualifying scores were K.S. Fox, Verdun, Que., T.W. Hall, New Westminster, B.C., and G.C. Wilson, Ottawa, all 143; D. Reynolds, Ottawa, 142; J.A. Gordon, Ottawa, 140 and G.J. Gamble, Winnipeg, 139.

Gamble shot a tie with 35 others who scored 139 and gained one of the 15 vacant places.

James Boa of Toronto, whose son Gilmour won last year's prize, was eliminated with 135; Gilmour failed by one point to qualify in the opening stage.

Other scores in today's second stage were G.N. Colville, Winnipeg, 138, and G.W. Oakes, Hamilton, 136.

The Queen's Prize, competed for in three stages, has an aggregate value of 900 pounds, made up of 250 pounds given by the Queen and 650 pounds added by the National Rifle Association.

The Rev. A. B. Moffatt of Warkworth directed work in the dining hall, and the Rev. L. C. Ball, district superintendent, was in charge of the camp.

Sherlock Holmes "Study" On Display In London

NEW YORK (NEA)—Sherlock Holmes, the famed detective in the deerstalker hat, arrived in Manhattan the other evening from London.

With his friend and companion, Dr. John Watson, he went straight to his lodgings at 221-B Baker Street, and wouldn't say whether he was here on a case. He just said his Baker Street rooms looked exactly as he had left them.

This, of course, is a bit of fiction, just as Holmes himself is fictional—and probably the most famous character of all time in the world of detective stories.

On closer inspection, 221-B Baker Street turned out to be the Plaza Galleries on 59th Street, but that, as Holmes would say, is elementary, my dear Watson. Baker Street is inside, and it's a completely faithful and authentic reproduction of the room where it is always 1897.

The room has been brought to this country by Adrian Conan Doyle, son of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, the writer who created Holmes and finally had to kill him off so he could return to his other pursuits.

To a great many people all over the world, Sherlock Holmes is an actual person, not just a character in fiction. Each year, Adrian Conan Doyle gets frantic and pathetic pleas for help, all of them addressed to Holmes.

When the exhibit here opened, an elderly lady stopped in and asked for the great detective. Holmes just wasn't around, whereupon the lady grew indignant and red-faced. She knew quite well he was there, she said; she'd seen his picture somewhere recently.

As you stand at the railing, look into the Baker Street study, you can't help feeling that Holmes and Watson have just quit the room—bound, perhaps, for Paddington Station in a hansom cab.

VICTORIAN CHARM

It's a room of Victorian charm and clutter, with Holmes' armchair on one side of the fireplace and Watson's on the other.

On a long deal table stands a tray with half-empty teacups, half-eaten crumpets and napkins just tossed down. In the silver butter dish are the bullets Holmes has carelessly flung there (they were taken from the body of a man murdered in 1895), and on the back of the door hangs Holmes' deerstalker and Inverness, together with Dr. Watson's tall silk hat and respectable black coat.

Beside the fireplace is the coal scuttle where Holmes kept his cigars; in one corner the acid-stained table at which he worked out his experiments in chemistry and next to it, the wax bust of Holmes, draped about with his mouse - colored dressing - gown. (The latter items figured heavily in "The Eempty House.")

There is also the big desk at which Sir Arthur Conan Doyle wrote the Holmes stories. On it, is Holmes' famous magnifying glass.

There are various and sundry other wonderful things in this cosy room: the Persian slipper holding Holmes' shag tobacco; a harpoon like the one that killed Black Peter; cigarettes from the year 1897; the "agony columns" of the London newspapers ready and waiting for Holmes' perusal.

The red velvet curtains are drawn against the raw and inclement weather of Baker Street; off-stage, there are sound effects of horses' hooves clip-clopping across the cobbles.

The game is afoot.

As you leave the lodgings and find yourself back on 59th Street again, you'll see a red car at the curb, its sides lettered "Holmes Electric Protection. Burglary Service."

A little modern for Sherlock, perhaps, but you know all goes well in Baker Street.

BAKER STREET LODGINGS of Sherlock Holmes, a piece of fiction which has become very real to countless Holmes fans, is faithfully reproduced in this exhibit in New York. Here Adrian Conan Doyle, son of creator of Holmes, leans against fireplace. In background is wax bust of Sherlock.

Truman Has Final Tests

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman's doctor gave him the last of a series of medical tests today while Democratic politicians waited impatiently for his dismissal from hospital.

After nearly a week's bout with a virus infection, the President's temperature had returned to normal.

Truman expects to return to the White House tomorrow, but there is no indication that he plans to make known his choice of a successor in advance of the national convention balloting. Such a move on his part could be the deciding factor in selection of the Democratic nominee.

FIRE MENACE—The slogan "enjoy your smoke and then be sure it's out" has real meaning in this picture of tall timber put needlessly to the torch. Forest fires, the majority caused by pure carelessness, now are raging in many parts of Canada and the United States, causing untold damage to valuable timber lands. A photographer snapped this picture near White Salmon, Washington, just seconds before flames jumped across a fire break and continued to rage out of control after destroying 600 acres of timber.

Expecting Baby

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Judy Garland and her husband, Sid Luft, announced yesterday that they are expecting the birth of a child early next year. They were married June 8 at Hollister, Calif. It will be the second child for Miss Garland. The 29-year-old singer has a daughter, Liza, 6, by a previous marriage to film director Vincente Minnelli.

Dies of Injuries

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (AP)—Barbara Goble, 8, died of head injuries yesterday after being hit accidentally by a golf club swung by a playmate who was teaching her the game. Barbara and Robert Haggerty were playing in a sand trap at the Nassau Country Club. Police said Barbara was struck by Robert's backswing as he attempted to hit the ball.

Fine Landlady For Jealousy

BERLIN (Reuters)—An East Berlin court yesterday fined a landlady 300 marks (about $20) for interfering in the lovelife of one of her boarders.

The court was told that postman Ludwig Lustig, preparing himself for a date with his fiance after a hard day's work, fell asleep while soaking his feet in a tub of water.

The landlady, Elizabeth Wenig, 54, poured plaster-of-paris into the warm water. The snoozing Lustwig woke up with a start, but it was too late. The plaster-of-paris had solidified and he had to use a hammer to free his feet.

Miss Wenig explained to the judge that she was trying to keep Lustig from seeing his sweetheart because she wanted to marry him herself.

The fire is believed to have started near the check-room in the administration wing.

Barkley Pulls Ahead In Nomination Race

By JACK BELL

CHICAGO (AP) — Vice-president Alben W. Barkley pulled a stride forward today in his race for the Democratic presidential nomination with reports he will get some first-ballot support from Illinois.

While all candidates jockeyed for position in advance of the opening of the 31st Democratic nominating convention Monday, there were signs that Jacob Arvey, Illinois national committeeman, is ready to take a political flier on the 74-year-old vice-president.

Arvey and Mayor David L. Lawrence of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania national committeeman, conferred with Barkley strategists.

DELEGATION SPLIT

There were immediate reports that Arvey has told the Barkley leaders he would use his influence to get as many as possible of Illinois' 60 convention votes lined up for Barkley. Lawrence was said to have noted that the 70-vote Pennsylvania delegation is split up but to have indicated that Barkley might count on some votes there.

These developments came during a temporary lull in the seething preconvention battle over civil rights that might explode into a floor fight.

No less seething were some southern delegations over the action of Senator Richard B. Russell of Georgia in denouncing the Taft-Hartley Act.

Barkley arrives on the scene today along with Senator Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma, who claims he has more second-choice support for the nomination than any of his rivals.

Their arrivals will complete the roster of major candidates Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee and Averell Harriman of New York, the Mutual Security Administrator, already have staked out their victory claims here, along with Russell.

Governor Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois, who has shunned the nomination, invited all Democratic governors to breakfast with him Monday in advance of a scheduled welcoming address to the convention. Stevenson has insisted he is running only for re-election as governor.

Arvey's reported switch to Barkley was in line with committeeman's public pronouncements that he has given up hope of getting Stevenson into the presidential contest.

Barkley's campaigners were working without any active backing from President Truman—the kind of support Russell told a press conference would make him the nominee on the first ballot, if he got it.

ANGERS LEADERS

Russell's political pass at the Truman camp surprised and angered Dixie leaders, who originally had nudged him into the race as the anti-Truman candidate of the south.

Former Governor William M. Tuck, who was ready to laud Russell's candidacy before the Virginia Democratic convention, cut out of a prepared speech all reference to Russell's name. And Senator Harry S. Byrd commented that he just didn't understand Russell's about-face.

It began to look as though the anti-Truman elements in the south had lost their champion.

His Taft-Hartley revision proposal was called by Russell's aides an attempt to break through into the northern states. One disclosed that the statement was made after a conference with President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers.

Driver 101, Believes New Cars Too Flashy

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—Robert L. Dring, reputed to be the oldest licensed automobile driver in the United States, thinks there is too much chrome on the modern automobile.

"It's a waste," he observed yesterday as he celebrated his 101st birthday.

He drove a while in his 15-year-old car and took a turn at the wheel of a 1952 model. He said he is not contemplating a new car.

LARGE ENROLMENT

More than 600 school children have enrolled for swimming instruction at the Lion's Club Swimming Pool, Riverside Park, since classes started July 1.

REFUSED TO FIGHT FIRE

For refusing to help fight a bush fire, George Watson, of Harcourt, on Thursday, in Haliburton, was fined $42.50. A fire warden said he asked Watson to help control the blaze, but Watson refused.

Summer Daze

The outdoor editor of a local daily newspaper, no less, had his holiday times muddled this week. Due to start Saturday on his annual two weeks' vacation, he had figured his starting time as July 26. On top of this, he refused his holiday pay, explaining that "my holidays don't start for a week yet." Then somebody set him straight.

Senator Davies And Wife At Queen's Party

LONDON (CP)—A number of Canadians mingled with 7,000 guests from many countries yesterday at the second garden party of the Queen's reign, held on the lawns of Buckingham Palace.

Under lowering skies and amid sprinkling of light rain the Queen and Duke of Edinburgh, Princess Margaret, the Princess Royal, the Duchess of Kent and her son, the Duke of Kent, moved among the guests.

Princess Alice, the Earl of Athlone and Princess Marie Louise also were present.

Among the Canadian guests were Senator W. Rupert Davies, president of the Kingston Whig-Standard, and Mrs. Davies of Kingston. Mrs. Davies wore a Nottingham lace dress with low, shawl collar, dark picture hat and white gloves.

Esther MacKinnon of Calgary, niece of Mrs. Davies, wore a light-colored silk blouse with straight, gathered skirt, revere collar and cap-sleeves-with matching picture hat.

Other Canadians were those staying at Crosby Hall, Chelsea club for university women.

Among other Canadians present were: Miss A. M. Davidson, Toronto; Flora Burns, Hamilton; Mrs. Marion Leigh, Ottawa; Mr. Justice Percy Smily, Ontario Supreme Court, and Mrs. Smily, Toronto, and Mrs. William Mulock, Toronto.

A court circular was advised that attendance at a garden party constitutes "presentation at court."

Plowmen Ask Counties $1,000 To Run Match

COBOURG—The United Counties of Northumberland and Durham Plowmen's Association asked the counties' council for a grant of $1,000 for the international plowing match to be held near Cobourg, October, 1953.

The match was described at the meeting as the biggest event that the two counties have ever seen. The association has only $500 in its treasury and wants financial assistance from the council to pay preliminary expenses.

MONEY MAKER

The large deputation attending the meeting assured the council members that the financial returns from the match would more than compensate the council for its grant.

The match was described as a money-maker and it was explained that $3,000 was raised from it when it was held in Oxford county.

It was also suggested at the meeting that the Governor General, the Hon. Vincent Massey might be willing to open the match, because his home is in the United Counties.

Hospital Urges Utilities Install 2 More Hydrants

Do the two hydrants at Civic Hospital provide sufficient fire protection?

Utilities commissioner G. R. Langley is convinced they do. However, Dr. Langley's opinion that they are adequate because the building is fireproof is at variance with the fire protection standards of the provincial department of health and the hospital's insurance underwriters.

Plans drawn to meet the requirements of the department of health when the hospital was built showed seven fire hydrants, making a complete circle around the hospital. Only two have been installed to date and a report of a safety engineer of Improved Risk Mutuals who hold the bulk of the hospital's fire insurance risk recommended that two more be installed.

SOUGHT INFORMATION

Unwilling to spend the $6,000 to complete the main and install the hydrants, the utilities commission at its July meeting dodged the issue by asking the board for more detailed information.

Now the board has tossed the responsibility for any fire disaster which might result from there not being sufficient fire protection right back at the utilities commission.

Answering Dr. Langley's question "What do they fear with the present arrangement?" hospital superintendent John Hornal as secretary of the hospital board has informed the commission "that the board believes the hospital is as fire resistant as possible and knows of no condition likely to cause a fire."

"If the board were assured that the present facilities were considered ample by fire protection authorities, the question of additional facilities would not concern them," the letter continued. "But, since it has been called to our attention by our insurance carrier that if disaster in the form of fire should strike, the board would be considered culpable if it had not taken whatever steps necessary to remedy the situation after it was pointed out to them."

DO IT NOW

The letter also reminded the economy minded commission that the board would "like to see the work completed without waste of public funds." Believing that fire protection standards will force completion of at least a major portion of the planned line at some time, the board suggested that it be done immediately, "since it is in the program of the parks department to do some work on the grounds south of the hospital in 1953, the board believes that if a line is to be laid through the grounds, it is desirable that it should be laid in 1952, before any work on landscaping has begun."

Flowering Weeds Splash Of Color Of Countryside

If the blue sailors would only keep outside farmers' fences they could wander over a lot of the landscape without attention from men like Melville Johnston and a few others who are really serious about the Ontario war on weeds.

Down on the city's lot at Monaghan Road and Romaine St., close to the C.P.R., the wild chicory is appearing in two colours, the ubiquitous blue and a few others, at least they grow on the same kind of stalks, that are a chalk white. The only objection to the blue sailors is that they are a sign that summer is well advanced.

And in the country the devil's paint brush is thriving on submarginal land. It is a rather dark red color. Along the west bank of the river, north of Nassau, a long strip of this weed is flowering on the edge of the bank, and is reflected in the water. Further along is the blue weed that flourishes on the same kind of poor land.

Their colours are wonderful even if the Departmet of Agriculture people like Ken Fallis are going around trying to incite the farmers against them.

The summer blues, like the camel, going weeks with little or no water, are alone worth a motor trip into the rougher country, out past the fertility farms. The blues of the delphiniums in the gardens are beginning to lose their fullness of bloom, but their counterparts in color are in conspicuous profusion, and if they are kept to the roadside fence lines probably they would not be noticed by official enemies.

Anyway the blues of town and country contribute a wealth of beauty to midsummer.

Tractor Crushes Father And Son

EAST HEREFORD, Que. (CP)—Marcel Gelinas, 41-year-old farmer and his nine-year-old son, Claude, were found here last night crushed to death beneath a tractor in this Eastern Townships community.

They were found by a neighbor near their farm home lying beside the overturned tractor. There was no immediate indication how the accident happened.

New Subdivision Approved

Development of the Queen Elizabeth subdivision at the north end of the city has been approved by the Ontario Department of Planning and Development, Mayor Hugh Waddell announced today. Council had already received the verbal assurance of the Ontario Municipal Board that the subdivision would be approved. There are 122 building lots in the new subdivision which is in the part of Smith township to be annexed by the city early in 1953.

Surveys and detailed plans of the subdivision which lies west of Hilliard St. between McClennan St. and Dumble Ave., were completed by land surveyor John G. Pierce in March of this year.

To speed up development of the area, council gave city engineer A. E. Chalmers authority to go ahead with the opening up of streets and preliminary work on storm drains and sewers some months ago.

All streets in the new subdivision have been excavated, Mr. Chalmers said today and the engineering department is now engaged in putting in storm drains.

Confident that the Municiapl Board and the Department of Planning and Development would okay the plans of the proposed housing development, council authorized Mr. Chalmers to go ahead with the general program of laying storm drains, sewers and surfacing streets in the area, at its July meeting.

TO COST $135,000

Cost of the work is estimated at $135,000. Details of the division of costs of installing sewers, estimated at $61,526.62, drains costing $44,660 and building roads costing $28,257.30 between the city and prospective homeowners is being worked out by Mr. Chalmers.

Council gave the go-ahead for opening up the subdivision pending approval of the scheme by provincial authorities to encourage home building this season. Council realized that approval of construction bylaws by the Municipal Board is often a slow process and such a project can be held up for several months, if no work is begun until formal approval is received.

Already, the majority of the 122 building lots have been purchased or optioned by prospective home builders.

48 SOLD

It was learned today that one real estate firm has sold 48 lots and loans on these lots for building new homes have been approved.

One of the features of the new housing development as pointed out by Mr. Chalmers is that the streets have been laid out so as to discourage through traffic. Dumble Ave., at the south end of the project, is the only thoroughfare and there are only four lots south of Dumble Ave.

Peak Vacation Weeks Start Saturday For Over 6,000

Approximately 6,420 employees of Peterborough industries will start their vacations Saturday, July 19 will start the second peak vacation week of the summer. The greatest number of industrial employees in the city, approximately 6,516, will be vacationing during the week starting July 26.

Eleven of the city's major industries including the C.G.E., Canadian Raybestos, Dominion Woollens, DeLaval, start their two-week holiday schedule Saturday. The following week, Canadian Nashua Paper, Peterborough Lumber, Brinton-Peterborough Carpet and the H. B. McGinness Trailer companies will swell the holiday roll.

This year there seems to be a greater trend than usual for industrial workers to travel.

Baseball fans are planning to hop planes from Malton to Chicago and New York to see as many of the big league games as they can crowd into their free and footloose schedule.

Some others are flying to Bermuda for their two or three weeks.

Down at Tem Travel office, Eldon Purvis said today, "for the last three weeks we've been busy from 7.30 a.m. to 11.00 at night trying to catch up on vacation business. It has been a big surprise to us."

Some parents, seeking novelty of travel for juniors of their families, have arranged trips by all four means of journeying—rail, boat, bus and air—largely as an unusual experience. Others are taking off on boat trips to Buffalo, Detroit and Chicago.

SOME HEAD WEST

"We have some who chose Cook's tours through to the Pacific Coast, and a few of them are going to see the Grand Canyon on the way. Others are taking the St. Lawrence trip."

"We arranged a trip for five people who are leaving Toronto on a conducted tour through the west. Without exaggeration, I'd say there are more people than ever taking off in nearly all directions."

Mr. Purvis said there has also been a comparatively large number from this district going to Britain and the continent this summer. Some have gone and have arrived back again.

The interest of people in travel is indicated by this minor incident, Mr. Purvis said:

"We had a stock of attractive, illustrated books entitled 'The English Inn.' They were on our hands for some weeks until we put a few samples in the window and they vanished almost overnight."

Motorcyclist Hurt In Crash

When his motorcycle went out of control and overturned at Hunter and Rogers Sts., early today, Clinton Stockdale, R.R. 4, Peterborough received a bad cut on his right forearm

He was given first aid treatment at St. Joseph's Hospital. Several stitches were required to close it.

Stockdale told Constable William G. Scott who investigated that he was going east on Hunter St., at 1.15 a.m. and was making a right turn to go south on Rogers St. ,when two northbound cars travelling abreast on Rogers St., forced him to swing sharply to the right to avoid a collision.

His motorcycle then went out of control and upset he said.

Holiday Or Rat Race? At Least It's Two Weeks Off Work

By JIM ENGLISH

After two weeks of the great Canadian rat race known as the summer holiday, I'm voting for a quiet fortnight in the violent cell of some respectable booby-hatch.

Of course, that's for next year.

A year ago, with other members of the family, we rented a cottage for two weeks. That was jolly, too, and called for four or five weeks of convalescence. This year, we said, we'll take a whack at staying home, and going to a few places we'd like to see.

That was more than two weeks ago when we started out, and looking at it from the optimist's side of the fence, it was a grand 14 days, and pleasant to escape work in the sweltering heat.

The deck chairs in the back yard were comfortable, there was almost always a breeze there, and there was always something cold to put out the fire when the humidity was too great.

I grant you, it was hot, and it was humid. None but a fool or a block of ice could say otherwise. But it was restful just to sit and watch the grass turn brown.

But to see that two weeks from a darker viewpoint, it was a five-way race between myself and the four tires on the car to see who would be flat first. Regretfully, I announce that I won; there are still two tires that haven't gone pop.

There were a few bad times. Take for instance the time somebody slipped me a U.S. $1 bill in my change. I saw it too late and there I was, stuck with 97½ cents instead of a dollar.

Last year, I would have leaped in the air, clicked my heels and sung through The Star Spangled Banner six or seven times, as well as bowing respectfully in the general direction of Fort Knox, Washington, D.C., and Independence, Missouri.

I must confess to a feeling of deflation when I found that Yankee dollar. I'd been done, and hadn't even been smart enough to see it.

Ah, but I was the sly one. I walked into a store that said "Welcome American Tourists", ordered a pack of cigarettes and put my Yankee dollar on the counter. I was disguised in a fair sort of way, although my sports shirt wasn't bright enough and my dark glasses were merely the kind that clip on ordinary spectacles.

The girl looked at me just as a bit of dust blew in my eye, and I took off my glasses—both pairs—to get it out. I must have winked after a fashion, for she looked at me, giggled, and said: "Oh, you Americans!"

She finally gave me 52 cents change and a 49-cent pack of smokes. Money at par! I left as casually as I could, considering that my moccasins always come off when I run.

CAR TROUBLE

But events did not always turn out quite so rosily. On the same trip we were dashing along the highway at the respectable speed of 37.2 miles an hour—accelerator to the floor, supercharger charging, and both windshield wipers going (they help)—when the motor started to go "buggleda-whoo-bugleda-whoo-plunk-plunk-plunk-plunk . . . "

With the help of a whip, we made a garage, and the mechanic who finally looked it over wrenched away at it, looked at a hole in the engine and said:

"Looka that there valve. Dirty, that's what. Stuck right in th re."

So it was, as dirty a valve as I'd ever seen. I was surprised the motor had put up with it for so long. Go fix it, I said.

It didn't take him long, and so help me, the bill was under four dollars. I'm not telling where that mechanic works; there's no use letting a good thing get known too well.

The fishing was bad, and I'd like to blame the hot weather, but know better. The outdoors editor of this newspaper put a curse on my angling at the start of the season, and only once did I get away from it.

That once, I caught six speckled trout, because I shook myself out of bed early and the curse wasn't working. I'm not going to tell where I got the trout, either.

One good thing we did discover was that babies sleep like little Rip Van Winkles in higher altitudes. Ours went with us to what the resort owners call "the Highlands of Hastings", and slept twice as long as he does at home. There is no charge at all for this information.

Adjusted Hospital Grant To Mean Saving Of One Mill On 1953 Taxes

$39,141 Credit to Next Year's Taxpayers Welcomed by Governors; Made for Beds In Civic's Public Wards

An adjustment of $39,141.08 the Civic Hospital will receive in grants for public ward beds from the provincial government for 1951 and 1952, would have reduced the 1952 tax rate by almost a mill, if it had been made before this year's tax rate was struck. Hospital Superintendent John Hornal announced the boost in the provincial grant at the July meeting of the board of governors Thursday night. Mayor Hugh Waddell commented that it will amount to a saving of "close to a mill and will be passed on as a credit to next year's taxpayers."

It is being transferred to the city immediately as treasurer T. T. Rodger moved that the city refrain from making its monthly grant of $18,252.24 to the hospital during July and August and that the grant for September be reduced to $15,615.64. By relieving the city of paying the grant for the next two months and reducing the September grant by $2,636.60, the hospital will be crediting the city with the entire amount of the unexpected adjustment.

Mayor Waddell assured the board that the entire amount would likely be carried over as a balance until next year and will not be spent by the city this year. "I take very much pleasure in seconding that recommendation," he said when Mr. Rodger made the motion.

SOME RECEIVED

The increase of $16,939.64 from the province above the 1951 grant already received and the increase of $20,088.50 for the current year, totalling $39,141.08, has been brought about by the provincial government aproving a reclassification of some additional beds as public ward accommodation.

This increases provincial grant for public ward accommodation from $37,878.24 for last year to $54,817.38 and will bring the expected grant of $37,878.24 for this year up to $57,966.74.

Mr. Hornal explained that the adjustment was made by the province, because "the basis of occupancy as established in 1951 did not prove to be a true criterion of public ward use of the hospital. It has been possible to obtain an adjustment on the basis of the 1951 occupancy."

In a letter to Mr. Hornal confirming the adjustments, C. J. Telfer, director of the public and private hospitals division of the Ontario Department of Health, stated that the maintenance grants were calculated on the basis of 81.2 per cent of the public ward beds being occupied during 1951. This percentage takes into consideration the additional public ward accommodation by re-classification of rooms.

DON'T OWE BANK

As another example of the hospital's improved financial position as compared with other years Mr. Rodger in presenting the June financial statement pointed out that as of June 30, the hospital "was not indebted to the bank. A very unusual situation," he added.

For the first half of 1952, the hospital's financial statement shows a healthy operating surplus of $23,546.96. During June, revenue topped expenses by $3,778.79, the sixth successive month in which the hospital's income form patient revenue and other sources has kept well ahead of expenses.

Total revenue for the six months has been $548,824.18, which is $55,301.71 above the budget estimate of $493,422.47 for half the year.

The hospital has been able to roll up its substantial surplus even though expenses since January, amounting to $497,236.86, have been $3,814.36 above the budget estimate of $493,422.50.

So far, a larger percentage of the beds have been occupied than was expected when the budget figures were arrived at. "Buoyant patient revenue" during the first half of the year explains the surpluses which have been reported each month.

July and August are the lean months, when fewer beds are occupied on the average. Both Mr. Rodger and Mr. Hornal have constantly reminded the board of this fact. Present indications are that occupancy will be lower this month and there may be a small operating loss both in July and August. However, even taking this into account for the next couple of months, the Board is confident that it will be able to maintain the favorable financial position which it has developed since the beginning of the year, and end the year with a surplus instead of its usual deficit.

Air Board Finds Incompetence In Cobourg Crash

WASHINGTON — The Civil Aeronautics Board on Thursday blamed crew incompetence and company "failures" for the forced landing of a non-scheduled airline plane in a farm field near Cobourg last December 20.

None of the 48 occupants of the plane, operated by Robin Airlines, was injured. The aircraft belly-landed 200 miles north of its course.

The C.A.B. was also critical of the Civil Aeronautics Administration, the Federal air safety enforcement agency. It said the C.A.A. had reissued an operating certificate two days before the forced landing "despite knowledge of the company's long history of questionable practices."

"The crew's incompetence in flight planning and navigation" was the probable cause of the accident, which happened on a flight from Burbank, Cal., to Newark, N.J.

Among other findings, the report said the crew did not check the end route weather forecast, did not have an adequate flight plan, and balance and passenger manifests were improperly prepared.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

A memorial Service, commemorating the dead, will be held in Burnbrae Presbyterian Church on Sunday, July 20, at 2:30 DST in the afternoon.

Friends are requested to come early to decorate the graves of their beloved dead.

During the decoration of the graves, suitable hymns will be broadcast over a loudspeaker.

At 2:30 a Memorial Service will be held in the auditorium of the Church, conducted by the Minister of the Church, and will give the memorial address.

The public are invited to attend.

Durham-Peterborough Crop Improvement Meeting Tuesday Evening at the Gerald Anderson Farm — 137 4-H Club Members Visited O.A.C. — New Economy in Handling of Commercial Fertilizers —Circulars Issued by O.A.C. Available

Durham and Peterbrough crop improvement associations are inviting farmers to a joint meeting Tuesday, July 22 at 7.30 p.m. at the farm of Gerald Anderson, just off the highway, between Centreville and Bailieboro.

Prof. Huntley of O.A.C. will be present, and films will be shown after looking over various test plots.

A similar meeting was held a year ago at the farm of Robert Armstrong in Cavan, and is remembered as an exceptionally interesting and practical session.

The film will be run off after twilight. Everybody interested in crop improvement is invited.

WHEAT JUDGED

The ten fields of fall wheat in the Peterborough 50-bushel club were judged this week by R. E. Godin of the crops, seeds and weeds branch of the Ontario Department. Nine were Cornell, with one Dawson's Golden Chaff.

+ + +

THE 4-H CLUB TRIP

The 4-H Club outing to O.A.C. this week was an educating experience for the 137 juniors who lined up at the bus terminal. A few of the boys and girls were missing when the last tarrying bus pulled away on King St. All the club leaders were on hand, and took charge of their respective groups. So were representatives of the sponsoring organizations: Clarence Mann and Art Long of Kiwanis, W. W. Dawson and E. G. Oliver of the Federation and M. H. Johnston of the hog producers. With them also were Frank Paterson and Ken Best, local representatives of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

PROVINCIAL GLIMPSES

The weekly report of the Ontario Department indicates that rain has been more general in the western counties than in the central area.

Wheat is about 80% of a normal crop in Halton, and is only fair to average in Durham . . . Cutting is about ten days earlier in Elgin . . . The oat crop has suffered from dry weather in most sections . . . The immediate area of Peterborough appears to be one of the driest in Ontario.

NEW O.A.C. CIRCULARS

Three publications intended for chicken, broiler, and turkey growers have just been prepared by members of the staff of the Department of Poultry Husbandry, Ontario Agricultural College.

The explicit directions given for the feeding of all types of mashes, and the notes supplied on mixing and substitutions, are features of the circulars.

Swine raisers will be interested in Circular 137, "O.A.C. Swine Feed Formulas," prepared by two members of the staff of the Department of Animal Husbandry, O.A.C.

These circulars are obtainable free of charge from the office of the agricultural representative.

FERTILIZER ANNOUNCEMENT

The registration and manufacture of low analysis 2-12-6 and 4-8-10 fertilizers has been terminated by the federal plants division on recommendations from the Ministers of Agriculture of Ontario and Quebec.

Farmers will agree that if the same plant food units can be supplied with half the handling, there are few who would want to double their work. There is also the factor of freight rates to be considered.

One ton of 4-24-12 will supply the same quantity of plant food as two tons of 2-12-6. Filler costs as much to bag and handle as does the fertilizing material.

The Ontario Department says that current fertilizer prices, two tons of 2-12-6 (40 units of plant food) cost in the neighborhood of $96 at the farm. One ton of 4-24-12 with exactly the same number of plant food units in the same proportions costs $85.40, or a saving of $10.60 in favor of the double strength material.

Mixtures recommended by the Ontario Advisory Fertilizer Board to replace 2-12-6, include 3-18-9 and 4-24-12, and in place of 4-8-10, mixtures such as 4-12-10 and 5-10-13 might be used.

The Board adds that Ontario Department of Agriculture Bulletin No. 463 "Soil Management and Fertilizer Use" contains fertility recommendation for all crops. It may be secured from any Agricultural Representative or from the Statistics and Publications Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

MARKETING WHEAT

Ontario Wheat Producers advise farmers to control their marketing of the new crop.

B. I. Jennett, chairman of the provincial association, announced that the recommendation followed examiantion by the Producers' executive of wheat prices since 1931, combined with a study of present future price making influences in all parts of the world.

He proposed storing the grain and holding as much of the crop off the market as possible in the weeks immediately following the harvest. He said they should market the wheat at regular intervals during the year.

The Ontario Wheat Producers Association has asked wheat buyers to purchase strictly on grade and to provide storage space and issue warehouse receipts for wheat delivered.

The executive recommend that local banks continue their policy of granting credit to farmers on the security of warehouse receipts or home storage assignments to curtail distress selling of wheat.

LAWN CARE BULLETIN

Anybody interested in the exhibiting and judging of vegetables will find a bulletin on this subject issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture and obtainable at the office of F. C. Paterson, or from the publications branch of the department, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

Another bulletin, No. 448, discusses the preparation of lawns, varieties of grass seed, use of sods, etc. Illustrations indicate how the work may be done and the results which should be obtained.

500 AT W.I. ANNUAL

More than 500 members of the Women's Institute attended the annual federated session of O.A.C. this week. The schedule covered a wide variety of topics of interest to women, home-planning, clothing, community catering, household and textile equipment,

JERSEY'S BIG RECORD

One of Canada's greatest Jersey cows is Fairmount Observer's New Moon owned by Don Head Farms of Richmond Hill, and bred by George H. Innes of Woodstock. New Moon, in ten lactation periods produced 101,661 lbs. of milk, 5,971 lbs. of fat with an average test of 5.87%. She was not on test as a three-year-old but has produced a 305 day record and a living calf every year. She is now again on test on her 12th lactation period and her 11th official record. She has produced six Gold Medal Records and one Silver Medal Record as a two-year-old, and it is expected that she will again qualify for a gold medal certificate in her present lactation period.

Observer's New Moon is classified "Excellent." She was second prize two-year-old at the Canadian National Exhibition in 1941 and first prize aged cow in milk at the York Parish Show in 1946. She is the dam of Don Head Basil's Helen, classified "Excellent" and as a two-year-old was grand champion at the Western Ontario Championship Show at Simcoe in 1948.

OLDEST VETERAN—James A. Hard, the oldest U.S. Civil War veteran, celebrated his 111th birthday recently, along with one-year-old Jimmy Root, in the nursing home in Rochester, N.Y., where he is now living. At left is Nurse Mrs. George Foote, one of the nursing staff who take pleasure in caring for the old-timer's needs. The aged veteran is still in comparatively good health despite his failing eyesight and hearing.

Oxford Ram Sells For $600 Fitted By I. E. Nelson 92 Sheep Gross For $11,000

I. E. Nelson, of Selwyn, returned home this week from Illinois, where he fitted the 92 pure-bred sheep of William Duncan's flock, near Waukegan, that sold for $11,000 by auction Saturday, July 12.

One of the 92 animals, an Oxford ram, brought $600, a record price in America for one sheep, Mr. Nelson related to the Examiner.

"I have known Mr. Duncan, proprietor of Pleasant View Farm, Lake Villa, near Waukegan, since 1934," Mr. Nelson said. "We met that year in the show ring at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto, and have been friends ever since. I have been down to his place on various occasions."

HAS FLOCK OF 300

"Mr. Duncan was born at Morganston, just south of Warkworth, and has been interested in sheep all his life. He has a flock of some 500 Oxfords, Suffolks, Shropshire and Hampshires. About 250 breeders attended the sale. They came all the way from Maine to Texas.

"The top price ram was bought by a young farmer of Illinois. By the way, it was champion at the International Stock Show in Chicago last fall. When Mr. Duncan decided to hold this sale, he wrote me to go down there and fit the sheep he was selecting for the sale. So, I have been away since April."

Mr. Nelson is an expert with sheep. Born in Lincoln county, and later living with his parents on the family farm in Wentworth, his exeprience as a breeder began in 1896 at the Canadian National Exhibition.

AT C.N.E. IN 1896

"John Jackson was the owner of the Woodside Southdown flock. He lived near our place. He asked me if I would go to the Toronto Exhibition to look after his exhibit of sheep. So, I was their shepherd, and after that I was 12 years with Mr. Jackson. We showed at the Pan-American Exposition in 1901.

"I fitted the Duncan sheep for his sale four years ago. When I was coming home, he gave me as a present an Oxford ram. I got three lambs fro mit, a ewe and two rams. Then he was killed, and I lost a good sire. One of the rams was champion at the Peterborough Exhibition two years in succession. The ewe was champion at the C.N.E. in 1951, and also at Peterborough two years, same as the ram. I sold those two sheep to Fred Trewin at Nestleton in Durham county. He is one of the leading breeders in this part of Ontario."

Mr. Nelson arrived back from Chicago on Tuesday this week. He is now living a mile north of Selwyn on the Buckhorn Road, having moved there last winter after six years near Villiers in Otonabee.

"William Duncan, who left central Ontario for the States, is one of the outstanding sheep men south of the border. Proof of that is found in his show ring record, and latest of all by the prices he got at his sale last Saturday.

GIFT OF HUMOR

"I don't know why my parents picked the name Ithamer when they christened me. At any rate down at Pleasant View Farm they found it kind of hard to pronounce so they called me Eisenhower, because he is known everywhere as Ike. There was a little similarity of sound in the two names Ike and Ithamer."

Mr. Nelson has a native gift of humor which he estimates at a value beyond terms in money. "It helps to keep one on the sunny side of life," he remarked. "Maybe I may go back into sheep again. This last Duncan sale showed that there is a lot of interest in them among farmers of the United States."

MOST IN ONTARIO

In 1951 there were 74,190 milking machines on Canadian farms. Of these, 38,740 were in Ontario and 18,238 in Quebec.

Embargo's Opportunity To Buy Purebreds Stressed To Dairy Men

Demand for Canadian Holstein cattle is accumulating behind the U.S. embargo, George McLaughlin of Oshawa said at the twilight meeting Wednesday at Trent Canal Farm, the home of Charles Bolton.

In the meantime breeders of Holstein cattle should encourage grade herd owners to raise the quality level of their stock by buying pure bred animals in the present favorable price market. This effort should be a county club project. Intimations of interest and enquiries should be passed on to the club secretary or the fieldman to stimulate interest and to make good cattle available to prospective buyers.

BACKLOG IN U.S.

"Most people in the United States who buy Canadian cattle want them badly," Mr. McLaughlin said. "Breeders in Minnesota and Wisconsin are not able to supply the home market. We don't know when the embargo will be lifted, but our provinces have all removed bars against interprovincial trade in livestock. It is generally felt that the foot and mouth disease outbreak has been eradicated."

Mr. McLaughlin suggested that with the return of export business, United States buyers might demand a little higher type of cattle than ever. Canadian farmers should be preparing to fill that bill, and be ready to take advantage of the resumption of business now suspended.

"It will be a benefit to ourselves and the grade cattle men to make a special effort to interest them in pure bred stock. A lot of good cows are available at prices favorable to the buyer."

Mr. McLaughlin said there was no information as to when the embargo would be ended, but farmers had an opportunity in these months which should not be missed. "Buyers are waiting, too, until the embargo is lifted."

SALE PROPOSED

Speaking for a committee of the Peterborough Holstein Breeders, Norman McConkey said prospects were pointing toward a sale in the fall, probably on the day following the annual championship show about the middle October. It was felt that breeders would consign high class animals that would make the proposed auction widely attractive.

Vern Campbell was chairman of the program following the judging competitions. Music during the evening was supplied by an instrumental trio: James Miller, violin; Everett Elmsurst, banjo, and Wm. Bryer, guitar.

200 ATTENDED

The guest speaker was Everett M. Biggs, Ontario dairy commissioner, who was introduced by Frank C. Paterson. A vote of thanks was moved by Henry Sharpe. Refreshments were served by the women's auxiliary of the Holstein Club.

The twilight affair was a fine success in its various details. Thanks were expressed to Mr. and Mrs Bolton for their hospitality.

Mr. McLaughlin said the U.S. embargo on livestock from Canada had effects which were to be expected with the closing of that export outlet.

To the end of June there was a 5% gain in Holstein registrations this year, a 34% drop in transfer fees, 16% loss in membership, but total receipts of the Canadain Holstein Association showed a gain of 2%.

"The association urges all our members to be salesmen for purebred Holstein while the U.S. market is still closed," Mr. McLaughlin said. "They will be doing a good thing for the industry, and also the grade cattle men, many of whom are probably thinking of buying purebreds. They haven't the normal opposition of U.S. buyers to contend with in regard to price. This time is great opportunity for the grade men to get purebred females at the present prices."

LESS MILK THAN 1950

One of Mr. Biggs' statements was: "We are producing more milk than last year, but the volume is 3% less than in 1950. Our big stumbling block is that we haven't the usual exports of dairy products to Great Britain."

As dairy commissioner, Mr. Biggs said his job was to co-ordinate the various groups of the industry that were now functioning separately. He mentioned the consumer challenge on the point of prices. Cost of producing milk varied all the way from $2.25 per cwt. to $7.50. A responsibility rested on producers to be able to prove that they were carrying on their business efficiently. The factor of costs was most important when it was remembered that the industry faced competition from vegetable oils.

Stocks of cheese were up only nine million pounds, and this season would probably end up with a small surplus. Skim milk powder stocks have shrunk greatly as a result of increased shipments to South America and Japan. Domestic consumption this year will be around five million pounds as compared with three million in 1951.

Drowns While Swimming

PORT STANLEY (CP)—Lyle Fournier, about 30, London, formerly of Hamilton, was drowned here last night when he jumped into Lake Erie off the lighthouse pier for a swim. His body came to the surface about an hour later 100 feet out from the main bathing beach as hundreds of persons watched.

HIGHEST PAID

British Columbia's male farm help are the highest paid in Canada, with an average wage of $5.90 a day.

Planning For Fall Seeding

In most areas of Ontario, winter wheat and winter rye should be sown early in September and for wheat, preferably the first week. Plans for seeding should be made early, says A. G. O. Whiteside, Cereal Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, and where these crops are to follow sod, the land should e ploughed at least a month before seeding and the land gone over with a tillage machine three or four times to put it in good condition. Winter wheat and winter rye may also follow inter-tilled crops or spring grain.

Poorly drained fields which are likely to be covered by water or ice for any length of time should be avoided. Winter wheat, especially, responds to good fertility and where this is likely to be low, manure or commercial fertilizers or both should be applied. A soil analysis should indicate the fertilizer requirements.

Cornell 595, Dawson's Golden Chaff and Dabwul are the recommended white winter wheat varieties for the main winter wheat areas of Ontario.

Horton winter rye, noted for its early spring growth, and Imperial winter rye are the recommended varieties.

Teacher Retires

MILLBROOK (ENS) — The pupils of Fallis Line School, S.S. No. 10 Cavan, presented their teacher, Mrs. Aubrey Hunter, with a linen table cloth, a pair of china salt and pepper shakers, and a bouquet of roses at the end of the school term. The children included a card with their gifts with the names of all the pupils of the school written on it. Mrs. Hunter resigned and will not be teaching next year.

250 Guernseys To University

J. C. Penney, a former Missouri farm boy, has given a world-famous dairy herd and other assets valued at nearly three-quarters of a million dollars to the University of Missouri to support research and teaching, particularly in the College of Agriculture.

President F. A. Middlebush said that Mr. Penney, a native of Hamilton, Mo., and now head of the nation-wide chain of retail stores bearing his name, has given to the University all the property, endowment, and assets of the Foremost Guernsey Association, Inc., of New York, an association which Mr. Penney founded and which was recently dissolved by the New York courts, upon Mr. Penney's request, to permit transfer of title to the university.

Included in the assets is the famous Foremost Guernsey herd of some 250 head of cattle, known throughout the agricultural world as one of the finest pure-bred herds in existence. This herd will be brought to Missouri and kept intact by the university's College of Agriculture. The herd alone is conservatively valued at about $200,000. President Middlebush said the name, "Foremost Guernsey," will be continued to designate the herd.

The farm land, buildings and equipment at Hopewell Junction, New York, where the herd has been developed, also becomes the property of the university along with cash, stocks and bonds included in the Foremost Association's assets.

In the terms of his gift, Mr. Penney specifies that the property in New York may be sold and the proceeds used to purchase, improve, and equip a farm near Columbia suitable for the maintenance of the herd in accordance with the purposes of the university.

In the letter making the gift to the university, Mr. Penney wrote: "I am tremendously interested in the improvement of agricultural practices and research, and believe the University of Missouri may with the aid of this gift be in a position to continue and further develop its leadership in this field."

HAVE SMALL FARMS

While France produces a great amount of agricultural crops, the average farm there is not over 24 acres.

Color Television Be Slow Take Many Years To Perfect

NEW YORK (AP)—Color television is still a long way off.

Predictions of United States industry officials on color range from "at least two years" to "five years or more."

Meanwhile, it's certain the Federal Communications Commission will be asked to reconsider the method of color telecasting to be used, with a view to adopting different standards from those now in effect.

Action of the National Production Authority recently in relaxing its ban on the manufacture of color TV sets and equipment created interest, but its effects on color for the home will be practically nil. It will make it possible for industrial color and theatre color TV, both of which use closed circuits and do not go out over the air, to go ahead although the pace will be slow in these fields.

NO COLOR TELECASTS

The N.P.A. order does make it possible for manufacturers to turn out color TV sets for the home if it does not interfere with defence production, but—

There will be no regular color telecasts on the air, so it would be pointless for a manufacturer to make color TV sets.

The Columbia Broadcasting System, whose color method was adopted by the F.C.C. as the national standard, had the only regular color telecasts on the air when the ban on color set production was imposed last fall. Its subsidiary, CBS Columbia, Inc. had the only color sets on the market, and had sold only a handful of them.

As to what happens now, CBS says:

"We do not believe that the N.P.A. order relating to color television receivers will affect our present operations or our plans for the future.

"We are not justified in expending at this time further manufacturing and broadcasting resources in this effort unless it appears that other substantial segments in the industry are prepared to go forward."

A big majority of set makers opposed F.C.C. adoption of the CBS color method, contending it is not the best system available and that it will not be accepted by the public. Since the latest N.P.A. action, virtually all have reported that defence demands on their facilities are so heavy they will be unable to make color sets of any kind for the duration of the rearmament program.

OBJECT TO STANDARDS

A major objection to CBS color was that it was on standards incompatible with those of black and white television. Its color telecasts could not be picked up in any form, even in black and white, on present sets without major adjustment or added equipment.

Meanwhile, the N.P.A. order gives the go-ahead for manufacture of color TV equipment for theatres such as the eidopher system shown recently by Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp. But Spyros Skouras, president, says it will be 18 months before it is developed for commercial use.

It also leaves the way clear for industrial type color television for hospitals, schools and factories, such as that being made by Remington Rand, Inc.

Both eidophor theatre TV and the Remington-Rand industrial TV use the CBS method of producing color.

Canning Tips

Sugar points up the true flavor of fruits and berries, and protects their color and texture. Sugar acts as a preservative, helps to conserve vitamins and is an important nutrient in itself—pound for pound our cheapest source of food energy.

Some of the "Do's" and "Dont's" emphasized to ensure good canning results are:

DO can fruits within a few hours of gathering. Be sure everything you use, even the cloth for wiping off scaling surfaces, is clean. Remembers that "boiling" means just that—not warm or simmering. Follow canning instructions carefully.

DON'T hold produce over, but if you must, in an emergency, keep it in the refrigerator. Don't try to can non-acid vegetables or fish, meat or poultry unless you have a pressure canner. The deadly bacilli botulinus may get you if you do.

DON'T undertake too much canning or preserving on any one day. Weariness, carelessness, haste and "nerves" may result in jars of wasted food.

DON'T use rubber rings a second time. Don't use unsound or over-ripe produce. Don't delay between steps in canning.

Of Interest to Women

Lemon Crunch, Cool Dessert

Have you ever been told to "suck a lemon" to help beat summer heat? That's an old superstition, built around the fact that lemons have a reputation for being cooling. Their pale yellow coloring — and their use in cold lemonade, chiffon pies, and similar dishes have borne out this idea.

Here's still another cool way to use this fruit — in a refrigeator dessert that combines eggs and sugar and lemon juice. The cream mixture is placed in a waxed paper lined freezing tray and allowed to remain there until firm.

Then a crispy, toasted, corn flakes, butter, brown sugar and nutmeats crunch is made and sprinkled over the top before serving. The addition of a fresh or frozen fruit or berries adds color. A rich — but light dessert to serve these warm July nights.

FROZEN LEMON CRUNCH

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 cups corn flakes.
3 tablespoons brown sugar.
½ cup chopped nutmeats.
3 eggs, separated.
½ cup sugar.
2 tablespoons lemon juice.
1 cup whipping cream.

Melt butter in heavy frying pan. Crush corn flakes into fine crumbs; stir into melted butter with brown sugar and nutmeats. Cook, stirring constantly, until sugar melts and caramelizes slightly. Cool.

Beat egg yolks and sugar in top of double boiler until thick and creamy. Cook over hot water about 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Sir in lemon juice; cool.

Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry; fold with whipped cream into the cooled egg yolk mixture. Pour into freezing tray which has been lined with waxed paper. Sprinkle crunch mixture over top. Freeze until firm. Cut into wedge-shaped pieces.

Yield: 8 servings.

Voice Training A Beauty Must

Have you ever wondered how people sound to each other?

What tone of voice, for instance, have you heard used when a customer is expressing displeasure with a saleswoman or laundry clerk? Do the words flow softly and sweetly, or must you admit they are a little on the raspy side?

Then there's the woman who screams and screeches around the house at her husband and children, only to turn into a purring kitten when she answers the telephone.

All telephone tones, however, are not melodic. Many people think that to make themselves heard, they must scream into the receiver. Actually, soft, well-directed tones prove much more successful.

No doubt you have also been forced to listen to the ear-splitting chatter among friends on a bus or train. Each one seems bent on outshouting the other. Wouldn't it be much pleasanter if they kept their conversations private?

It isn't enough to have a smooth well-modulated voice if it is saved for special occasions only. Listen to your own voice the next time you are angry or in a hurry. Be really critical. If you are not satisfied with what you hear, start practicing voice control.

With determination, you can beautify your voice.

64 Campers Have Lively Program

SKELETON LAKE (CP)—Sixty-four campers attending the Canadian Girls in Training summer conference in this Muskoka district community have a daily schedule that would leave the average man limp.

The teen-aged girls arise at 7 a.m. and keep on the go until camp regulations put an end to their frolic at 11 p.m.

Daily meetings are held in the rambling assembly hall and sometimes the girls become so engrossed in their discussions they have to be persuaded to return to their boats, swimming, camping and other activities.

They discuss such problems as qualifications for promotion or how to increase their 30,000 national membership. Decisions are forwarded to the National Committee of Adults for consideration.

Cottons Now Used In Winter

By GAILE DUGAS
(N.E.A. Woman's Editor)

Winter cottons are a coming thing that has a definite southern flavor. Defined, the term means simply that these are new dark cottons, in new weights, that carry on from summer into the fall.

But, even more this year, the phrase will be used to cover cottons actually worn in winter, even though this is looking very far ahead.

They're using the corded cottons traditionally worn by railroad workmen for fall dresses that combine the sturdiness of wool with the lightweight of cotton.

The grey-and-black corded cotton (left) is classic in feeling, has bracelet-length sleeves and a huge huge taffeta pussycat bow at the neckline.

GORE'S LANDING (ENS).—A miscellaneous shower for Miss Mary Smith, daughter of Rev. A. W. and Mrs. Smith, was held Tuesday afternoon, under the auspieces of St. George's W.A.

Seated at a table laden with gifts, Miss Smith was assisted in opening the parcels by her sister, Miss Margaret Smith. Miss Alice Harris made a few remarks on opening the shower. Miss Mary Smith is to be married next Saturday to Maurice Harris of Peterborough.

✧ ✧ ✧

Police Matron Is Speaker

St. Andrew's Woman's Missionary Society is meeting at members' homes in the evenings during July and August. These informal meetings are very enjoyable and their meeting this week at the home of Mrs. F. W. K. Harris, Rogers St., was particularly so. Guest speaker was Mrs. Mel Shadgett, police matron of Peterborough. Her mother was the first police matron of Kingston, she advised, so this type of work is not new to her. She revealed that great suffering and distress is experienced by women right in this city. Mrs. Gordon Whitney contributed a beautiful solo, "The Lord is my Shepherd" with accompaniment by Mrs. F. Dawson. The devotional period was taken by Mrs. Harris. President Mrs. A. A. Munro presided. Mrs. E. F. Reid reported on supplies and also read a friendly letter from Mrs. A. Porteous and Miss Moir, members who are living in Kitchener now. A delicious lunch was served by Mrs. Robert Jones, Mrs. J. Ridyard, Mrs. F. Nichols and the hostess, Mrs. Harris.

Clergymen Busy

More than 6,000 industrial workers going on holidays this week-end has placed the heaviest Saturday burden of the year on local clergymen. Twenty-five church weddings have been announced to take place in Peterborough.

Busiest minister will be the Rev. M. P. Poole, for five weddings are to be solemnized at All Saints' Anglican Church. Few weddings have been reported from the Park St. Baptist Church in the past, but there will be four there this Saturday. Three are to take place in the Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church.

Pigtailed Indian Girl Enters Calgary Steer Ride

CALGARY (CP)—A little Indian girl with pigtails got into the boys' steer riding contest at the Calgary Stampede's opening day this year by the simple expedient of not saying she was a girl.

Shifting a wad of gum to the other side of her mouth and offering a shy grin, 11-year-old Linder One Spot explained how she got into the boys' contest.

"The people think I'm a boy but I keep it a secret all to myself." she said.

A grade three student at the Sarcee Reserve school, she has been riding horses since she was six years of age. This was the first year she tried steer riding and it was also the first time she had made a ring appearance anywhere.

Linder One Spot, daughter of Eddie One Spot, a leader among the Sarcee Indians, said she would rather ride a steer than a horse.

Why? "Oh I just like cattle."

With the typical shyness of an Indian child, she said she started steer riding at home when her brother got some cattle.

"First time I fall right off," she laughed, "and then I stay on up to five times before I fall off once. At the first day of the stampede I stay on four times. I like it. I can't do more than five bucks."

FROZEN FRAGRANCES

Get to know the joy of frozen fragrances, those chunky, deliciously cooling sticks of solid scent. Stroke the frozen fragrance across the back of your neck, down between the breasts, around your wrists, back of your knees. It's cool, cool, cool—a delightful way to enjoy your perfume in summer. Carry it safely, too, in your weekend bag and vacation-tripping.

WHITE FIRST CHOICE

PARIS—White is, almost without exception, first choice for evening dresses. Young and old are wearing white, with pale pink, gray, and black as next favorites.

The closely fitted bodice, nipping in a waist to the last centimeter provides a perfect foil for these full skirts with width developing rapidly from the waistline and making their wearers look like veritable flowers.

Haute Couture From Italy Reveal Fun Flair

NEW YORK—Highlights of the Italian haute couture shown in a collection of summer fashions at the Hotel Plaza under the auspices of Prince Don Fancesco Chigi Della Rovere, president of the Italian Fair, revealed great charm and elegance, as well as a delightful flair for lightness and fun. This was true particularly in the sportswear in beach and play clothes.

With their own particular genius for patience and perfection, the Italian designers have incorporated the handwork of their clever artisans in dozens of amusing ways.

Who but the light-hearted Italians would have pounced on the idea of making play pants and spiraling them with row after row of finely fringed red raffia? The design with its smooth black pullover made the wearer look very much like an amusing little puppet geared to dance gaily through a series of imaginative adventures.

In the instance of a charming two-piece skirt and sun-suit for the beach, Antonelli drew upon the clever Italian use of straw and made the wide flaring circular skirt of bands of vividly-colored straw—warm, striking colors that look so well against pale sandy beaches.

Another play dress for a summer morning by Fercioni was called "The Zoo". It translated you to the land of giraffes and other inquiring animals who peered at you from behind a white picket fence, backgrounded by a turquoise linen skirt.

NO SQUARE LINES

Probably the top fashion for fall is the costume suit consisting of poodle-cloth, either boxy or fitted, and sheath dress of butter-smooth flannel in precisely matching color, always deep and muted.

There are no square lines in fall fashions. Suit jackets are subtly rounded as to shoulders, bust and hipline.

Women will need a slim midriff, a high rounded bustline and curving hipline to do right by the new styles.

Campaign Starts For Woman US Vice-President

By RUTH COWAN

CHICAGO (AP)—For the first time in the history of a major political party, formal campaign headquarters were opened today for a woman candidate for vice-president of the United States.

She is India Edwards, vice-chairman of the Democratic national committee and director of its women's division.

Ordinarily the idea would get the brush-off at this stage of feminine political development—except that India is quite a vocal figure in the party. Men as well as women besiege her office for appointments.

In the Democratic convention headquarters, the Conrad Hilton hotel, one steps off the elevator and sees a big placard:

"Headquarters for India Edwards for vice-president."

REGULAR H.Q.

Mrs. Jennie O'Hern of Mabridge, S.D., and Mrs. Frances G. Satterfield, Atlanta, Ga., opened them up and tacked up the portraits of their candidate.

Volunteers have come in to do typing, get out press releases, answer phones. The place has all the confusion of a regular headquarters.

The movement on behalf of Mrs. Edwards—who has said she doesn't expect to be nominated but will campaign if named—was started in June.

Former Representative Mary T. Norton of New Jersey is chairman of the national group. Vice-chairman is Julia L. Crews, delegate from New York.

Meanwhile India herself, in the women's division five floors above, goes about her job—and she has plenty to do.

Born in Chicago, she grew up in Nashville, and was educated in St. Louis. She was on the staff of the Chicago Tribune for 22 years as reporter, society editor and woman's page editor.

Invisible Parasol Protects Hair

Hair that is going to get the full blast of the sun during the summer—needs extra protection. So put an invisible parasol over your hair—with a cream hair dressing used after your shampoo, and in between when you're pin-curling your hair. With it, you'll find that you can comb your hair and set your hair in place so much more easily. Pin-curls aren't at all difficult when you use this to give your hair more body — and much-needed protection from sun-drying. A little rubbed into wispy ends does wonders too. And what a lovely sheen — to gleam under the sun and moonlight. Delicately fragrant, your favorite cream dressing wafts a light perfume that's most refreshing during sultry days.

Banana Glaze Pie

Banana Pie is one of the favorites of the pastry kingdom. Perhaps best known among the open-faced pies is Banana Cream Pie, but there is another engaging variety that is particularly good during the summer months.

BANANA GLAZE PIE

One-quarter cup sugar, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¾ cup water, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 baked 9-inch pie shell, 4 to 5 ripe bananas.

Mix together sugar, cornstarch and salt in saucepan. Add water gradually, stirring until well-blended. Cook over medium heat until mixture reaches boiling temperature, stirring constantly. Continue cooking until mixture is clear and thickened. Stir in lemon juice. Cool.

Spread ¼ cup glaze over bottom of pie shell. Peel and slice bananas. Arrange over the glaze in layers. Cover with remaining ¾ cup glaze, spreading to cover all exposed banana slices. Chill. Garnish with sweetened whipped cream and additional banana slices, if desired. Makes 1 pie.

Former Resident

MARMORA (ENS)—The wedding took place in Edmonton on July 9th of Mrs. W. Huntingford (formerly Nellie Isteed) to Herbert A. Wilson of Wainwright, Alta. The bride is a former Marmora resident, being a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Isteed. The groom is a veteran of the First World War and a post office employee at Wainwright.

LUBRICATE EYELIDS

Would you rather forget eyeshadow by day during the warm weather? Then use eye cream. Fingerprint it on your upper lid—see its discreet sheen take away the dull, dry look of your lids. But be sure it's eye cream made of such fine oils that it can be fingerprinted — not massaged — into the lid. And remember, that as your eyes shine, delicate eye tissues are being gently lubricated and wrinkle-proofed by the use of this cream. Remember the sun makes you squint more—and every wrinkle precaution you can take pays of in beauty dividends.

ZESTY MEAT SAUCE

TOMATO HORSERADISH SAUCE is a wonderful topper to give new zest to meat loaf. Make sauce by blending 1 can condensed tomato soup with 2 tablespoons prepared horseradish, 2 teaspoons prepared mustard. Season with a dash of ground cloves and a little black pepper. Serve hot or cold with slices of loaf.

ONE TOUCH OF HEAVEN

A frozen fragrance, purse-size carried with you through the dog days is a pleasant, cool way to refresh. Leaves a trail as cool as a mint, and delightfully fragrant.

Man Says Women Superior When It Comes To Fishing

A masculine fishing expert has surprisingly taken sides with the ladies on fishing ability.

Don McCarthy, American fishing expert and holder of the world's record for sailfish in 1939 (a 90½ pounder on 9 thread line) says that women are superior to men when it comes to fishing skill. He should know for, since 1926 when he began writing fishing columns for various newspapers, he's had a chance to observe and compare.

Now he's got local confirmation of his theory in the Eastern Bahamas Summer Fishing Tournament, held at Nassau, for the women entered established several new records and toppled some of the men from positions they had held earlier.

"A woman's mental approach is better. She goes in expecting to catch something and usually does. A man says, 'Oh, heck, I wonder if anything's biting,' and gets variable results.

"Women have better hands for fishing and they don't yank the hook out of the fishes' mouths. They also take instructions and are more willing to learn than are men."

ADVICE TO ASPIRANTS

Don's advice to aspiring fishing enthusiasts begins with a warning about proper fishing garb.

"DON'T wear elaborate shoes with high heels. Apart from not being suitable, those heels are likely to catch on something and trip you.

"DON'T wear floppy blouses or skirts. You'll wind yourself up and hook yourself—maybe lose your fish when you try to land him—if you've got yards of material flying around your arms and legs. Slacks or jeans make a good, practical fishing garb.

"DON'T wear white if you're going out in a small boat or fishing near the water. First, you'll be easily seen by the fish; second, if there's a hot sun, white will let the rays through and you'll blister.

"DON'T chatter. You won't scare the fish but you'll irritate the others fishing.

"Learn to bait your own hook and take off your own fish. The cute 'You're so strong and I'm so helpless' type has no place on a fishing trip.

"DON'T cross lines or fish too close to your fishing mates. If you or they hook a fish and your line is out and close to theirs, it's fishing etiquette to pull the empty lines in so that they won't get entangled.

"DON'T stand up when fishing from a small boat. Your shadow across the water may alarm the fish, or you may get in the line of fire of someone who is casting."

Who knows—if you follow the above instructions, aside from catching the fish, you may also catch yourself an appreciative fisherman.

DOROTHY DIX

Boy Tied To Apron String Poor Catch For Any Girl

DEAR MISS DIX: How can I overcome my fiance's family's objections to me? They are better off than my family and are very much against our getting married. When he calls on me in the evening, his mother almost always comes along. DELLA.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: If, during his engagement, your fiance is so tied to his mother's apron strings that he can't get an evening off to call on you, you can be sure the apron won't be untied after marriage. Unless you are prepared to play second fiddle to his mother for the rest of your life, break the engagement.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: For ten years I have gone with a man who has called faithfully every Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday evening. Now he has suddenly began to drop the Wednesday date. If he comes at all, it's very late, and he has no excuse to offer. VIVIAN C.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: A ten-year courtship is a rather long session. Are you convinced of the man's intentions, or is he whiling away his time waiting for a less patient prospect? Of course, his failure to appear on Wednesday nights may be a device to break a long-standing habit, or it could indicate a definite slack in interest. Better decide which, and act accordingly.

✧ ✧ ✧

DIVIDED FAMILY

DEAR MISS DIX: My parents are not living together, and my father is trying to get me to hate my mother and keep my seven-year-old brother away from her. I am 14. My father insists on our going to camp this summer, but we'd rather be with mother. G. L.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: This is a problem much too weighty to be solved at your tender years. Your parents have created it it is up to them to find a happy solution. If you can't talk to either of them, try to have a friend of the family, or your minister, intercede for you.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: At Christmastime I was going with a young man two years older than I. I am 19. We stopped seeing each other for a while now when he sees me he acts as though we were complete strangers. What can be the matter with him? PATRICIA.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The ways of men are beyond the comprehension of lowly women. Your erstwhile friend simply hasn't grown up yet. Either he is shy with you, after not seeing you for some time, and doesn't know how to handle the situation, or he is annoyed at some real or fancied offense on your part and is taking this childish means of showing it. Don't bother your pretty head about him.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: On what finger should the friendship ring be worn? If the friendship is broken, and the girl keeps the ring, where should she wear it? LOU.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The ring finger of the right hand is the usual place on which to display a friendship ring. It would be very poor taste to keep such a ring when the friendship ends, and much poorer taste to continue wearing it.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I live in a section of the country where there are many horse farms. Recently, at one of these farms, I met a boy who worked with the horses and we became friendly. I am 15, he is 17. One night I went to the farm and learned that he had left without leaving an address. I'm sure he must be working at one of the race tracks, or some large horse farm, and wonder if you could tell me how to locate him. MATTIE J.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Though I try to render many services, locating missing jockeys is not one of them. Since the young man left without leaving an address, or without communicating with you at all, I think you'd best consider the incident closed. Try to find a more permanently fixed young man nearer home.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 40 years old and married. Although I have always tried to be broadminded, I have recently been told that I am narrow minded. What is your definition of a narrow-minded person? MRS. X.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Of course, a discussion along these lines could go on for many a newspaper column—or even page. Briefly, though, I think that you can assume that a narrow-minded person is one who does not agree with the person who makes the designation. If your principles give you opinions that might be criticized by some as narrow minded, you will be happiest living up to your own ideals rather than trying to create a new person within yourself in order to please others.

Look Lovelier With Skin Care While Tanning

Getting a tan is one thing, but keeping your skin smooth and lovely at the same time is quite another.

In addition to the fact that constant exposure to the sun, no matter how carefully timed, will dry out the natural oils, it will also cause some peeling and blemishes.

These unflattering effects, however, can be offset with constant and special care. First, be sure to apply a good lubricating cream to your face and neck every night. This will help to keep your skin soft and pliable.

A dried-out, sunburned complexion can be terribly ageing. What's more, if you don't recognize the importance of lubrication you may find yourself with a "leathery" apperance long after summer is gone.

As far as the blemishes are concerned, although you may not be happy about them, one of the best jobs the sun can do is rid your skin of these impurities. Once they surface, use an antiseptic lotion or mealy grain powder to hurry their disappearance.

When you bathe, sprinkle bath oil into the tub as a further aid in keeping your whole body smooth. And don't forget hand lotion. Swimming and the sun tend to cause the area around your nails to get rough and shaggy.

You'll look a lot lovelier this summer—and in the coming fall if you combine skin care with sun-tanning. They are beauty inseparables.

THE EXPERTS SAY:

Sandwich Loaf Special During Summer Weather

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Picknicking? It's the season for getting out in the open, spreading a table-cloth on the grass and ignoring the ants.

If there's a swimming-pool handy, so much the better. If mother has packed a delectable lunch, well, that's just seventh heaven.

Home economists of the consumer section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, have some time-seasoned advice about picnic preparations.

When making out the shopping-list remember that one small sandwich-loaf will cut into 30 to 40 slices, slightly less than one-quarter of an inch thick.

Two and one-half cups moist meat filling will spread one loaf.

Cold meat, sliced thinly, cuts in 50 to 20 slices a pound.

One dozen hard-cooked eggs, chopped and mixed with onion and salad dressing, spreads one loaf.

To slice fresh bread thinly: Always use fresh bread and chill the loaf in refrigerator before slicing. Use a sharp knife.

Economy: Save butter and filling by removing crusts (if they are to be cut from sandwiches) before spreading bread, Crusts can be used for crumbs, bread puddings and so on.

For butter economy: Beat one cup of milk into one pound of butter.

INDOOR PICNIC

This salad sandwich loaf may not be the best type of dish to take on an outdoor picnic but it would be excellent either for a garden-party or when friends drop in for supper.

Salad sandwich loaf: Chill sandwhich loaf to facilitate cutting. Trim off all crusts and cut the loaf lengthwise into four slices. Spread slices with softened butter, except for the two outside surfaces. Spread filling on the first slice. Cover with second slice and spread with a second mixture. Cover with third slice and spread with first filling. Cover with fourth slice. Frost the entire loaf witha cheese frosting or mayonnaise.

Garnish as desired and let the loaf stand in refrigerator for several hours before serving. This sandwich loaf is ideal to serve when "one dish" refreshments are desired. The slices may be served on a lettuce leaf.

COOKIE TREAT

Peanut butter cookies are a treat at any time and come in particularly handy at picnics.

Ingredients: One-half cup butter or margarine, one-half cup peanut butter, one-half cup brown sugar, one-half cup white sugar, one egg, one teaspoon baking-powder, one teaspoon baking-soda, two teaspoons warm water, pinch salt, one cup flour.

Cream butter, peanut butter and sugar. Add egg. Sift flour, baking-powder and salt. Mix soda with warm water. Add to first mixture, then add flour mixture. Drop with a spoon on pan and pat with fork. Bake in oven of 400 degrees Fahrenheit for 10 to 12 minutes.—

Readers' Friday Column

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: . . . I was not the only one burned up at War-Bride's letter. How can anyone think that a person who is so helpful was bragging? . . . better leave it at that . . . I also am reducing, being 5' 3" and over 150 lbs. . . . I started in earnest to reduce . . . I follow a good meal-planning schedule, but oh those unnecessary nibbles that do the damage . . . I have lost 12 lbs. in 7 weeks and intend to reach 125 lbs again . . . but how do you keep your figure with all the nice things that you give to us . . . I saw and heard you some time ago . . . now I wonder if you could help me. I have lost a recipe for "Onion Squares." The original I think was under the name of Aunt Lucy's pot roast with onion squares . . . they are baking powder biscuits dough covered with onion rings, then 1 can evaporated milk and egg. They are delicious.—CHRIS.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Thanks for that kind reference to my figure . . . I must have had my stomach well pulled in that night!

ONION SQUARES (or Shortcake)

Peel 1 lb. onions, cut in thick slices and cook in water to just cover with 1 teaspoon salt until barely tender. Add 3 tablespoons butter when onions are drained (saving the liquid) and when melted gently stir in 3 tablespoons flour. Measure the onion water and make up to 1½ cups with evaporated milk. Stir this gently over low heat into the onions, and just bring to boiling point. Serve on buttered baking powder biscuit squares.

ONION PIE

Line deep pie plate or shallow cake pan with ½ inch thick crust of baking powder biscuit dough. Slice 1 lb. mild onions in ½-inch slices. Pour boiling water over them and let stand 5 minutes. Drain welli. Arrange over crust. Mix together ¾ cup evaporated milk, ¾ or ½ cup hot water and 2 beaten eggs, and ½ teaspoon salt. Pour over onions. If desired sprinkle with 1 cup grated cheese. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes. Reduce heat to 325 deg. Fahr. for about 15 minutes. I recommend the addition of cheese. This is a delicious dish.

Congratulations on your weight reducing program.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: Your column beats them all for plain everyday helpfulness . . . would you be so kind as to print some recipes for frozen desserts—just the family kind . . . can you tell me what I can make for the table from black currants, red currants, gooseberries, etc? I've heard of black currant pie but do you have recipe. I'd like to use as many as possible while in season . . . many years ago I worked with a girl whose mother came from Denmark. She told me of a recipe that called for soda crackers rolled fine (were they buttered in frying pan?). A baking dish was lined with crumbs—a layer of sweetened applesauce put in and a layer of crumbs, continue until dish is filled and topped with crumbs. This was baked and chilled. Covered completely with whipped cream . . . that is what I remember. Do you know if that is the right recipe. . . Now to bed. . . M.S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: There's some kind of devotion in a letter written at 3 a.m. I hope I'm worthy of it. You ask for "just the family kind" of frozen desserts. Alas, the most economical one I can find at the moment is

APRICOT REFRIGERATOR CAKE

("With cookies or cake" as requested by M.S.)

It is not cheap, but neither is it expensive as most of them. One 6-oz. can evaporated milk, 1 tablespoon gelatin, 1 tablespoon cold water, 1 teaspoon each lemon juice and grated orange rind, 1 20-oz. can apricots, ¼ cup each sugar and orange juice, 16 sponge lady fingers or equivalent in sponge or plain cake. Soak the gelatin in the cold water 5 minutes. Scald the milk in double boiler and dissolve soaked gelatine in it, Freeze until nearly set in freezer tray. Beat until 3 times its original volume, adding lemon juice after it begins to stiffen. Meanwhile drain and force apricots through sieve. Add their juice and the orange juice and rind and sugar, stir until sugar is dissolved and chill. Fold into whipper milk mixture and pour into 2 refrigerator trays lined with lady fingers or strips of cake. Chill until set. Serve with or without whipped cream.

(Answer to M.S. letter continued on Saturday.)

6—In Memoriam

CONSTABLE—In loving memory of a dear husband and dad, Sidney Constable, who passed away July 17th, 1944.
Happy and smiling, always content,
Loved and respected wherever he went
Always thoughtful, willing and kind,
These are the memories he left behind.
—Sadly missed and ever remembered by wife and family.

LINSEY—In loving memory of our dear son and brother (C.S.M.) Frederick J. Linsey, S., D., Glengarry Highlanders, killed in action July 18th, 1944. Buried in Beny-sur-Mere Cemtery, France.
He sleeps in a foreign land,
In a grave we may never see,
May God guide some kind hand
To lay a flower for me.
—Always remembered by his Mother and Family.

LOWE—In loving memory of our mother, Mrs. Samuel Lowe, who passed away July 18th, 1941.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true.
Three is not a day, dear mother,
That we do not think of you.
—Ever remembered by daughters Margaret, Agnes, Teresa and Barbara.

7—Card of Thanks

I wish to thank Nurses of Civic Hospital and attending doctors and all those who sent flowers and fruit during my recent illness. — Mrs. Blake Trennum.

We, the family of the late Miss Sarah Lewis, wish to thank our many friends and neighbours for their many acts of kindness during her illness of six years. We are especially grateful for the many floral tributes and cards of sympathy during our bereavement.—Norman and Ida Rusaw and William Lewis.

North America Good Field For Missionaries

WILLINGEN, Germany (AP)—Europe and North America are as fertile fields for Christian missionaries as Africa and Asia, the fifth world mission conference of non-Catholic Christian churches said today.

Two hundred delegates from 43 countries, concluding their two-week conference in this Ruhr town, issued an appeal to "stop speaking of the Christian west and the heathen east—the world is equally un-Christian."

The appeal said "Evidence of a divided church hinders the spread of faith."

"Certainly there are differences between the churches, but these should not lead to disunity and division." It added:

"Europe and North America are just as good mission territory as Africa and Asia. The young churches of Africa and Asia should themselves assume important missionary tasks."

Canada Halts Fur Dumping

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has taken action to prevent the "dumping of Russian muskrat furs on the Canadian market, a customs spokesman said today.

He said that last May Canada set a fixed valuation on foreign raw muskrat skins subject to the general tariff rates. The move followed complaints from the fur trade that the Russians were "dumping" skins in Canada—marketing them in this country below what they would sell for at home.

Now Russian and other foreign muskrat furs marketed in Canada below the home market price are subject to duty equal to the difference. The effect, the spokesman said, is to keep the price of foreign pelts in line with that of comparable Canadian muskrat furs.

35,000 Ont. Drivers Get Licence Plates

TORONTO (CP)—More than 35,000 Ontario motorists with licence plates nearly illegible from rust and wear, have obtained new plates, officials of the Ontario Highways Department said today.

Officials blamed the issue of paper stickers to validate 1951 markers for the abnormally high replacement rate. They said the usual number of new plates issued in an average year at this time was around 7,000.

Plates for next year are being produced at the Guelph reformatory. They will have white figures on a royal blue background with a crown above the figures and "Ontario—1953" in the lower corners.

Find Missing Cat

BARCELONA, Spain (AP)—A cat which hung out in Barcelona's post office disappeared several days ago. Today postal officials got word from Gibralter 625 miles away. The cat had turned up there in a mail sack—alive but somewhat ruffled.

British Government Refuses To Approve Pay Increases

LONDON (Reuters)—The government, enforcing its hold-the-line policy, today refused to approve wage increases for 1,500,000 men and women even though their employers had already accepted them.

Labor Minister Sir Walter Monckton said in a statement that he has referred the increase proposals back to the 12 wage councils of employers and trade unionists who had put them forward.

The proposed increases ranged from seven shillings sixpence to 10 shillings a week and affected distributive, hairdressing, tobacco and laundry workers.

Monckton referred to the appeal by Richard Butler, Chancellor of the Exchequer, to the unions in May for wage restraint in the interests of national economy and said: "These proposals should accordingly be considered in the light of that statement."

This is the first time the Conservative government, which came into power last October, has refused to accept wage recommendations from wage councils. During the last period of wage restraint, in 1948, the Labor government took similar action on several occasions.

The labor minister has no powers to veto wage recommendations but he is entitled to ask the councils to think again, as he has done in this case. When new proposals are submitted he has the power to refer them back again.

Sheep and lambs 250; saleable receipts too few to establish a market.

Fleeing Police Pair Killed

PONTIAC, Mich. (CP)—Two Pontiac brothers who were trying to escape pursuing police cars were killed today as they rammed their automobile, at 85 miles an hour, into the side of a truck. A bystander was critically injured.

Dead are Herbert and Eugene Salee, 25 and 26. Suffering serious internal injuries is Elwyn Wood, 25, a sailor who was hitch-hiking to Flint, Mich. The rear wheels of the truck flew off on the collision impact, struck Wood and tossed him 35 feet.

The chase began when police saw the Salee automobile speeding. They fired 26 shots in a vain effort to halt the careening vehicle over a 12-mile course through city streets and county roads. The chase ended at an intersection.

Hospital Buys Coal 2,000 Tons At $11.65

After examining quotations from several local coal dealers, the property committee of the Civic Hospital Board of Governors has placed an order for 2,000 tons of coal required for the 1952-53 season with McCarthy and Johnston. The price will be $11.65 per ton.

The committee has also approved the purchase of a water cooler for laundry employees from the Canadian General Electric Co., costing $292.84.

The hourly rate for third class engineers employed at the hospital has been raised from $1.20 to $1.35. Reason for the wage boost is that a third class engineer is required for all shifts and the lower rate was not high enough to attract qualified men, the committee said.

British Oil Company Challenges Court

LONDON (AP)—Officials of the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company today challenged the right of United States courts to take anti-trust action against them saying their firm does not operate in the U.S.

Officials said they are studying U.S. Attorney-General James P. McGranery's charges of monopolistic practices, and may issue a formal reply later.

A spokesman for the Royal Dutch Shell Company said his company had no comment as yet, but is studying the charges.

The Royal Dutch Shell Company is 60-per-cent Netherlands and 40-per-cent British owned. Its U.S. subsidiary is the Shell Oil Company.

Anglo-Iranian is British-registered and British-owned although there are a few Americans among the company's 46,000 shareholders. Fifty-two per cent of the company stock is controlled by the British government.

Well-Stocked Zoo

LAHORE, Pakistan (CP)—Lovebirds, lions, baboons and ostriches are being purchased under a four-year plan to bring the Lahore zoo into the category of the world's leading zoos. About 250 extra exhibits are being bought.

Halts Oil Financing

WASHINGTON (Reuters)—The United States Mutual Security Agency has halted its financing of Middle East crude oil supplies to Britain and other European countries after protesting against heavy over-charging by U.S. oil companies, it was learned today.

Corporal Dismissed

HALIFAX (CP)—Corporal Reginald Miller, charged in connection with the theft of 500 pairs of army boots valued at $6,000 from military stores, was dismissed in court yesterday. He was arrested last month with two other soldiers, now serving six-month sentences.

Confessed Slayer To Have Mental Tests

NEW YORK (AP)—Bayard Peakes, confessed slayer of a girl he had never met, was sent to hospital for mental examination when he was arraigned today.

Peakes, 29, a pseudo scientist, objected to the court appointing a lawyer to defend him for the slaying on the Columbia University campus of Eileen Fahey, 18.

"I don't want this guy," Peakes said. "I'm not nuts."

The lawyer appointed to defend Peakes agreed with the state's suggestion that Peakes get a mental check-up. He was led away handcuffed to two detectives.

Peakes, arrested Wednesday in Boston, said he killed the blonde stenographer for the American Physical Society because the scientific body had rejected his theories on how to live forever.

DISAPPOINTED MAN

Peakes' lawyer, Benjamin Schmier, told Magistrate Thomas H. Cullen that Peakes was disappointed when early stories of the slaying failed to mention "electrons."

Assistant district-attorney Carl Grebow told the court that Peakes "felt that by killing this girl recognition by the public would be given his belief."

When Peakes went to Columbia University Monday, he had marked eight others for death. But the first person he saw in the American Physical Society's office on the ninth floor of the physics laboratory was Miss Fahey.

Jailed 7 Years In Kidnapping

GUELPH (CP)—Stanton Lloyd Bowman, 37, today was sent to penitentiary for seven years on a charge of kidnapping two young girls from a swimming hole in nearby Eramosa township July 7.

Crown Attorney J. M. Kearns announced he would not proceed with a charge of attempted rape.

Evidence was that Bowman, whose home is at New Hamburg, Ont., forced the girls, aged 12 and 13, to ride nearly 100 miles with him in his automobile, beat them and left them on a roadside many miles from their homes.

Magistrate Frederic Watt told Bowman, who pleaded guilty, that he had committed an "abominable crime."

Provincial Constable Ted Walters testified the 12-year-old Eramosa township girl and the 13-year-old Kitchener girl had been swimming in a pool in Eramosa township. At the point of a revolver, Bowman had forced the girls into his car.

They wore their bathing suits and took their street clothing with them. After taking the girls about 100 miles, he dragged them out of the car near Goderich, blind-folded them and struck them over the head a few times with the revolver, Constable Walters said.

The girls gave police a good description of the man and later picked Bowman from a lineup.

At Marden Bowman had stopped to buy gas and had ordered the girls to pretend to be asleep. At Bethany they had been made to get out of the car to get a drink of water.

Youth Committed For Trial In Accident

PENETANGUISHENE (CP)—Raymond Dorion, 19, yesterday was committed for trial on charges of manslaughter and dangerous driving. The charges arise from an accident June 19 in which his 15-year-old brother, Germain, was killed.

Provincial Constable Guy Harrington testified that the youth's automobile hit a hydro pole after swerving from one side of the road to the other.

Cuba Downs Belgium

HELSINKI (AP)—Cuba battled its way into the Olympic basketball tournament today by staving off a second-half Belgian rally for a 71-63 victory. The defeat eliminated the Belgians.

SUSSIE, two-year-old cocker spaniel, keeps a watchful eye on a rabbit and a robin, both of which she has adopted. Sussie has been caring for the white rabbit since last Easter. Last week she added to her unlimited maternal affections by bringing home a baby robin. The dog is owned by Mrs. Florence Lowry, of Chicago's suburban Norwood Park.

Veeck Took Bows When Browns Won, But Threw Losers Back To Hornsby

By PAT HARMON

CINCINNATI (NEA) — Rogers Hornsby was asked his side of the controversy with Bill Veeck, and he didn't sidestep.

"Veeck's the only club president I ever saw who carries his own loving cup," said Hornsby.

"When I was in the hotel in Boston, and he was telling me he'd decided to make a change in managers, I noticed something all wrapped up there in his room. It was a package in the shape of a loving cup, I thought, but I didn't pay much attention to it.

"Later I saw in the papers where the players were supposed to have made a gift of a loving cup to Veeck, 'the great emancipator.' That trophy was bought in St. Louis at a store called Hudson's or Hobson's or something and charged to the ball club. It was engraved in Boston. Some of the players called me to tell me they didn't give a plugged dime toward buying it."

Hornsby didn't think he had been too tough on the players.

"What was I supposed to do, put my arms around 'em and kiss 'em when they hit a home run? They're just doing what they're supposed to do—make base hits. That's what they get paid for.

"Veeck told me, 'Now I want you to get the club in good shape in spring training, so we can make a good start. We want people to start talking about the Browns—the new Browns, not the old Browns.'

"We won our first seven games. We were doing all right. Veeck took a lot of bows. Then we began to lose, and it was my club. He threw it back to me.

"I'm sorry I got started with him, because it was impossible to work for him, and I could have gone with another major league club. I was glad to get back in the majors after 14 years, and my only regret is I didn't get a longer chance.

"I thought I was doing a good job with what I had."

Cy Young stood in front of the Netherland Plaza in Cincinnati, telling a story for some of his cronies of baseball's Hall of Fame.

Young is 85, and he walks with a hickory cane. Suddenly Cy picked up the cane, gripped it like a bat, and swung viciously to illustrate the time he struck out peerless Frank Chance. The swing was mighty for a man of 85, and Young teetered backwards. He was caught, held, and set upright by three oldtime ball players who rushed to his aid.

That was typical of the Hall of Fame players who came to Cincinnati the other day. They forgot how old they were. Young, 85, Connie Mack, 89, and Kid Nichols, 82, tried to act as spry as Carl Hubbell, Jimmy Foxx or Charley Gehringer, who are 30 or 40 years younger.

Many of the Hall of Fame players are still connected with a baseball team, but none with such unusual company as Foxx. Ol' Double X is managing the Fort Wayne club in the All-American Girls' Baseball League.

"The other day a new player joined our club," Jimmy was saying. "She'd been in the league before, so I asked some of our kids what kind of a performer she was.

"'Oh, she's no good,' one of them said. 'Why, she throws just like a girl.'"

Seeing Gehringer reminded somebody of the time Charley and the Detroit Tigers made an exhibition stop with the Reds at Tampa. Detroit was having a bad spring.

Before the game a woman walked up to where Gehringer was sitting on the bench.

"Are these the Tigers?" she asked.

"Not yet, lady," replied Gehringer.

Car Goes Into Ditch Kent Worker Killed

CHATHAM (CP)—Robert Mifflin, 23, of Blenheim, an employee of the Kent county highways department, was killed early today when his car crashed into a ditch west of Blenheim.

Mifflin was returning from Chatham when the car rolled onto the shoulder and into the ditch, turning over three times.

Surviving besides his parents are three brothers, Morley of Matachewan; Donald of Windsor and Jack of Chatham; and two sisters, Mrs. William Peters of Chatham, and Mrs. James Dawson of nearby Raleigh township.

U.S. Dollar At Discount

MONTREAL (CP)—The American dollar was at a discount of 2 5.32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today, EDT. Thursday's noon rate was 97 7.32 cents. The pound sterling was $2.70⅞, down ¼ from Thursday.

Narcotics Case Collapses Key Witness Changes Statement

VANCOUVER (CP)—Stories of the sale of narcotics in Vancouver schools and of students seeking drugs "just for the thrill" collapsed in court here yesterday.

A 17-year-old key witness repudiated a statement he had made to police when a campaign opened June 26 to curb addiction among juveniles.

It was on his statement that a roundup of narcotic peddlers was ordered.

Sixteen suspects, young men and women, were arrested and later charged with giving or selling narcotics to juveniles.

The crown yesterday withdrew charges against eight of the accused and federal prosecutor Douglas Brown told the court:

"The boy gave a signed statement to police which if true would have justified convictions against the accused.

"He has now repudiated it and he now states that he never was given or sold drugs or substances represented to be drugs by any of the persons he had previously named."

NOT IN SCHOOLS

Mr. Brown then emphasized the fact that narcotic addiction is not present in city schools.

"Only one of the juveniles taken into custody had attended the school term ending last June and at the end of that term she worked as a waitress. It was then that she used narcotics for the first time."

Mr. Brown said that neither the R.C.M.P. nor city police had found evidence of narcotic traffic in the schools.

Outside the schools, the story is different. In another court, a 15-year-old girl told of taking seven narcotic injections—she called them "fixes"—within one week.

She said she started using narcotics less than a week after her school vacation started.

Indian Guide Drowned

BALA (CP)—Bob Stock, 58, Indian chief who made several trips to India with mules for the Burma Road during the Second World War, was drowned here yesterday. The well-known Muskoka district fishing guide and former chief of the Sahanatien Indian reserve was unable to reach shore after a 12-foot boat loaded with five other fishermen overturned and sank.

Livestock Scourge Eases In Britain

LONDON (CP)—Livestock breeders throughout the United Kingdom were buoyed by a Ministry of Agriculture announcement yesterday that restrictions imposed because of foot-and-mouth disease are being removed immediately in 11 English counties.

This news, coupled with the announcement 10 days ago that foot-and-mouth is virtually under control in The Netherlands, brought some indication that the livestock scourge may be easing.

Russia To Withdraw Diplomat In Britain

LONDON (Reuters)—Russia has agreed to withdraw Pavel Kuznetsov, Soviet Embassy secretary involved in the recent spy trial of William Marshall, British Foreign Office radio operator, a Foreign Office spokesman said Thursday.

Russia today replied to the British note of last Saturday requesting the withdrawal of Kuznetsov within one week, the spokesman said.

They agreed to withdraw him but did not refer to the time limit.

Railways Plan To Overhaul Freight Rates

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The railways are planning an overhaul of their freight rates in Eastern Canada. Increases would outweigh reductions.

The shuffle is planned for the so-called "schedule A" rates, which apply on a considerable volume of traffic between specified communities. These are concentrated most heavily in Ontario and Quebec, but some extend into the Maritimes.

There has not been a basic rearrangement of these charges since 1907, though individually they have been subject to the post-war series of general increases.

The railways, it is learned, have asked the Board of Transport Commissioners to rescind its 1907 order setting up the schedule. If that is done, the carriers will be able to revise the rates by filing new triffs with the board.

TO TAKE YEAR

The job will take between a year and 18 months, railway officials estimated, because of the many rates involved.

Chief effects of the move, from the standpont of the freight-payer, would be that generally the "schedule A" charges for short hauls would be reduced while those for medium and long hauls would be increased.

Purpose of the plan is to give the railways more revenue from these particular rates and so ease the pressure for general rate increases to meet revenue requirements. Since the war, general increases have amounted to 70 per cent, and the railways applied again this week for another 16 per cent.

Railway officers said it is not yet known how much more revenue can be obtained out of the schedule A rates. There was no estimate of the amount of traffic involved, but it is known to be heavy.

Watch Those Teeth

RIDGETOWN (CP)—Defective teeth or tonsils may have a lot to do with success of school students, says Dr. J. W. Edwards, principal of the Ridgetown district high school. He said yesterday a clinic conducted on grade 9 pupils showed that 80 per cent who failed to gain promotions last year had defective teeth or tonsils.

To Investigate U.S. Oil Cartel

WASHINGTON (AP)—Attorney-General James P. McGranery announced last night a federal grand jury will investigate a reputed international oil cartel involving seven of the world's largest oil companies.

McGranery told a press conference he proposes to seek criminal indictments and at the same time will file a civil anti-trust action designed to end alleged monopolistic practices and restraints of trade.

McGranery named the companies whose activities will be investigated by a grand jury sitting here as:

Standard Oil of New Jersey, Standard Oil of California, the Texas Company, Socony-Vacuum and Gulf Oil, all U.S. concerns, and two foreign groups—Royal Dutch Shell and Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

No Move Yet By U.S. To Lift Cattle Embargo

WASHINGTON (AP)—There has been no consideration so far toward declaring Canada to be free from foot-and-mouth disease, United States agriculture department officials said yesterday

Dr. B. T. Simms, chief of the bureau of animal husbandry, told a reporter that the matter has "not even been discussed," indicating that the time when Canadian livestock and meats again may move into the U.S. is quite a distance off.

Agricultural Minister J. G. Gardiner said in Saskatoon Thursday night that he expected a declaration today that Canada is free of the dreaded cattle disease. He predicted lifting of the U.S. embargo within 60 days.

Dr. Simms indicated Mexico might beat Canada in being declared free of foot-and-mouth disease. He said no evidence of the disease has been found in Mexico since last August.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP)—Most coarse grain futures prices showed an easier tone on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange Friday in quiet trading.

Commercial demand was slight and limited to domestic shipping orders in oats and barley. There was some increase in offering of rye and flax. Favorable crop reports in both Canada and the United States was considered a factor in the trade.

Prices of Class 2 wheat were down ⅛ cent.

Blinded By Lights Hits Parked Car

A Havelock woman told police she was blinded by headlights of oncoming traffic just before she ran into the rear of a parked car on George St., Friday night.

An estimated $450 damage resulted when a car being driven south on George St., by Mrs. Jean Davidson of Havelock struck the rear of a parked car owned by William Flynn, 99 Kalmar St., Toronto. The car was parked along the west curb of George St., just south of Rink St.

It was out of gear and driven 35 feet by the impact.

Damage to the front end of the Davidson car is estimated at $300, while approximately $150 damage resulted to the left rear fender and trunk of the Flynn car.

Constable Robert Menzies investigated.

VOTE PERSUADERS—Among 27 arrested for Quebec provincial election-day violence in Montreal's suburban Verdun were these three unidentified men carrying cut-down baseball bats. Taken to jail for carrying offensive weapons they were later released on $50 bail and will appear in Verdun jail July 24. The small bats, called "vote persuaders" were seen in many ridings during the turbulent election.

British Buses Arrive Sunday

The three double-deck buses which arrive here Sunday at 7 p.m. will impart fleeting atmosphere of Picadilly Circus, Trafalgar Square and The Strand.

Beyond that they convey an invitation to Canadians to visit the British Isles and, of course, London. That is the purpose of the long publicity tour they have made through the United States, and now on the last leg of their journeying through eastern Canada.

Mayor Waddell, members of the council and others will likely see some of their own streets from the upper deck of one of the buses Monday morning.

The British Travel and Holidays Association arranged this venture primarily for the purpose of attracting tourists to the old home of the English-speaking people.

"The buses will be parked at the rear of the City Hall Sunday night," Mayor Waddell said today. "Charles W. Price, who is in charge of the party, will be welcomed with his associates at 10 a.m. Monday at the City Hall. The buses will be stationed in the George St. block south of Charlotte St. until they leave here Monday afternoon for Lindsay."

The visitors will be guests of the Rotary Club at luncheon.

An idea that the buses might return to London freighted with foodstuffs was implied in a suggestion by Mrs. Joseph Bell, who expressed a wish to contribute at least a case of canned peaches. Mayor Waddell enquired into the possibility of that proposal, and was informed that it was not in the practical plans for the homegoing. However, Mrs. Bell said she would like to leave her gift at the police station for the operators of the buses.

Science Team Hopes To Get Peek At Mars

DUNCAN, B.C. (CP)—The Picards want a close peek at Mars.

The world famous science team of Dr. Jean Felix Picard and his wife, Jeannette, are planning a flight into the stratosphere in a free-balloon for 1954.

The plan is to learn some of the answers to the mystery of the planet Mars, which, when nearest to earth, is some 35,000,000 miles away.

Since prehistoric times Mars has been a riddle to man—is it inhabited, can it sustain life? It is known to have canals—sharp thin lines—which have held the attention of scientists for decades.

"If there is oxygen on Mars there must be vegetable life," said Dr. Picard in an interview here. "Where there is vegetable life, there may be a race of human beings."

"We have set the flight for 1954 because in that year Mars will be in the most favorable position for observation."

One thing is lacking for Dr. Picard to complete his plans, a sponsor with $250,000.

Cherries At Peak Spud Price Down

Montmorency cherries will be at their peak of retail supply next week, as reported through E. McIlwain of National Grocers, for the information of those housewives who still preserve fruit.

"The quality of the cherries was never better than this year," he said today. "Additional inspectors have been appointed this season, and the result of their work is seen in the fine quality of the fruit that is coming to market. The sweet black cherries will be available for a few days more, but they are coming to the end of the crop."

The price of new potatoes has receded in the last week around one dollar a bag in the primary market, down from $6.35 to $5.25. Most of the deliveries are coming from Leamington and Harold.

"Growers in this district haven't had much to offer so far," Mr. McIlwain said. "Reports indicate that they are inclined to leave their potatoes in the ground to take on size and weight. The price has eased, but for this time of the year it is still firm."

"Raspberries are showing the effects of the prolonged dry weather. Their season may be finished before we realize it. People intending to buy them should do so by the middle of next week. The quality is good and the price favorable to the consumer when you consider the weather conditions."

over to the green car. I helped the younger fellow (Elwood Godfrey) out from behind the driver's seat. He couldn't manage for himself. The older man (Manley Godfrey) was able to walk around after he got out."

"I took one look at the woman. It was enough; she was dead."

CONFIRMS STORY

Wesley Weaver, of R.R. 4 Peterborough, who lives just south of where the crash took place, was also an eye-witness. He confirmed Mr. Corby's story.

"I was walking along the highway—just going home from Lakefield—when I saw this green car cross the culvert over the creek. It went on a bit further and pulled out to pass some cars. Then it just seemed to go out of control and went along the shoulder and then into the ditch."

Mr. Weaver helped get Mr. Godfrey and Elwood out of the overturned car. He, too, thought that Mrs. Godfrey died instantly. They did not remove the body or attempt to turn the car right-side up until O.P.P. Corporal Fred Rawlings and Constable James Healey arrived.

TIRE FLAT

When the car was dragged from the four-foot ditch the left rear tire was flat. Weaver said he didn't hear a blowout though he was quite close to the scene. Police are checking on that possibility.

The two men were taken to hospital and treated by Dr. H. E. Gastle of Lakefield.

Mrs. Godfrey is the former Margaret McIlmoyle. Besides her husband she leaves five sons—Elwood Godfrey who was injured in the accident, and four by a previous marriage; Ernie Graham of Barrie; William Graham of Keene, Carl Graham of Lakefield, and Russell Graham of Peterborough; also two daughters — Mrs. William Brick (Verna) of Bancroft; and Mrs. Sherman Godfrey (Mary) of Young's Point. She also leaves a brother, John, of Peterborough.

Mrs. Godfrey's parents, Nathan McIlmoyle and the former Mary Clarke, both predeceased her.

Mrs. Godfrey was educated in Lakefield and lived a lifetime in Peterborough county.

The funeral will be at 2 p.m. Monday at the Hendren funeral home, Lakefield, Canon F. J. Fife of St. Aidan's Anglican church, Young's Point, officiating. Burial will be in Lakefield cemetery.

Say British Officials Pleased With Qavam

LONDON (Reuters)—Iran's new Premier Ahmed Qavam, apparently has a genuine desire to settle the long-standing Anglo-Iranian oil dispute, Foreign Office sources said today.

His pledge to the Shah that he will try to settle the oil problem was noted with satisfaction by government quarters here.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden will consider the possibility of negotiating with Qavam's government when he returns to his desk Monday after a three-week bout of jaundice.

French Mopping Up Rebels In River Delta

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—French union troops today pushed mopup operations against Communist-led Vietminh forces in the Red River delta without meeting "organized resistance."

The push is designed to clear areas around Hai Duong, 38 miles southeast of Hanoi. Vietminh soldiers were said to be failing to stand up and battle with the French.

Elsewhere in the delta, French troops killed 43 and captured 45 Reds.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Wheat futures were firm at the start today on the Board of Trade. Soybeans were strong and more than a cent a bushel higher in some cases. Corn was weak and oats were mixed.

Wheat opened ⅝ higher to ⅛ lower, July $2.27½—$2.27½-¾, corn was unchanged to ¾ down, July $1.78¾-⅞, oats were ¼ higher to ¼ lower, July 78, and soybeans were unchanged to 1½ cent up, July $3.27½-$3.28.

Charge 2 Youths Attack Tourists

PEMBROKE (CP)—Two Pembroke youths today stand charged with criminal assault following an attack early yesterday on a young tourist couple from Dunnville.

Keith O'Brien, 21, and Harold St. Amour, 20, both of Pembroke, are in custody.

Police said the tourists, who were not identified, were sleeping in their car parked in a laneway just outside town when they were awakened by two men who claimed to be police officers.

The two men warned the husband and wife of a recent outbreak of robberies in the area and advised them to accompany them.

The Dunnville couple left their own car, police said, and were driven a short distance up the road where the man was beaten and his wife assaulted.

The couple then made their way on foot to get assistance.

Came Prepared

TORONTO (CP)—There was relief all around yesterday when Russia's flag was found tucked away in a corner of the foyer of a downtown hotel. Nikolai Slavin, leader of the Russian delegation to the International Red Cross conference here next week, had complained that the hammer and sickle emblem couldn't be found among the 70 hung around the foyer. Before it was located the Russians indicated they'd come prepared—they brought along their own flags.

Bar Protestants

BERLIN (AP)—The East German government has barred 25,000 Protestants from attending two church events in West Germany, Lutheran church authorities said last night. officials said the Communist interior ministry will not allow inter-zonal passes from East Germans wishing to attend the Lutheran World League session in Hannover next week and the German Protestant Church Day in Stuttgart next month.

Worms Destroy Grain

OWEN SOUND (CP)—Serious outbreak of army worms were reported in two sections of Bruce County yesterday. At Berndale, farmer Robert McCutcheon has lost 100 acres of grain valued at $5,000. Neighbors are treating their fields in an attempt to halt the insects. A small outbreak was reported on one farm at Tara. Thursday worms were reported in the Stratford area.

Charge Court Clerk

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police last night arrested and charged a 23-year-old Vancouver police court clerk with a theft of $1,000. The charge against Robert M. Nicholson followed discovery July 2 of a $1,000 shortage in the court clerk's office accounts. Police believed at first the money might have been paid out by mistake in a bail refund.

End Long Strike

GODERICH (CP)—A seven-week strike ended here Thursday night as workers at Goderich Manufacturing Company accepted an eight-cent-an-hour wage increase and agreed to return to work Monday. The union originally had asked for a 10 cents-an-hour boost. Five cents of the increase will be retroactive to April 1.

Insurance Man Dies

TORONTO (CP)—King (George) Hunt, 58, for 41 years on the staff of the Continental Life Insurance Company, died here Thursday. Born in Woodstock, he joined the firm at the age of 17 and later became vice-president and secretary.

Resume Broadcasting

TOKYO (AP)—The Communist radio at Pyongyang resumed normal broadcasting Thursday after weeks of curtailed operations which followed last month's heavy Allied air attacks on Red hydro-electric plants, Kyodo News Service said today.

Spot Bogus Bills

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—At least four more counterfeit $10 bills were reported in London yesterday by bank officials, who described the bogus money as "good enough to fool the average person."

Sinking Ship Presents Grim Sea Disaster

By FRED KERNER

NEW YORK (AP)—The fire-broken hull of the freighter Black Gull settled lazily to one side this morning, a grim picture of disaster at sea.

Three coast guard cutters stood by more than a mile off in the choking black smoke as the once-sleek, green-and-gray Norwegian ship belched devouring orange flame from her mid-section.

ONLY PROW SHOWS

All that remained still intact—aside from 45 fortunate survivors from her crew of 40 and nine passengers—was the peak of the prow. The letter "H," designating her owners, stood out in bright red against the torn remains of the rest of the ship. The vessel's name was obliterated on the seared hulk.

Flames shooting 50 feet into the sky from below decks spewed out a thick column of smoke that blanked the area for a radius of 20 miles.

Below the heat-buckled decks, the naphthalene-fed flames could be seen eating steadily away at the interior of the six-year-old ship.

Eva Peron's Condition Reported Much Worse

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—The condition of Eva Peron, critically-ill wife of President Juan D. Peron, today appeared grave.

Official reports from the presidential press office said Mrs. Peron showed some improvement after a serious turn for the worse yesterday. She was "resting quietly" at 3 a.m. EDT.

But Argentine government officials appeared downcast and gloomy. Peron stuck close by the bedside of his wife, who fought beside him through the battles of his six presidential years.

The diagnosis of Mrs. Peron's illness has never been officially disclosed.

No Sign Of Progress

MUNSAN, Korea (AP)—Korean armistice negotiators met in their 12th straight off-the-record session today, but there was no indication of progress in settling the truce-blocking issue of prisoner exchange.

Another secret session was set for 11 A.M. tomorrow (10 P.M. EDT Sunday.)

However, reporters got the impression the secret sessions may end in a day or two, a speculation touched off when Brig.-Gen. William P. Nuckols, U.N. command spokesman, refused to discuss even the atmosphere during the 29-minute session at Panmunjom.

Nuckols had described previous sessions as businesslike and devoid of propaganda. Saturday he said merely: "No comment."

Ordered Released

PARIS (AP)—A French grand jury last night ordered Andre Stil, editor of the Communist newspaper L'Humanite, provisionally released from prison. Stil was arrested May 25 after publication of articles in the newspaper calling for demonstrations against Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway.

New Trade Pact

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—A diplomatic source said yesterday Japan and Brazil will reach agreement soon on a $68,000,000 trade pact. Brazil will export cotton, rice, wool, castor oil and wood in return for ships, electrical power plant and railroad equipment, tin plate and copper products, machinery and parts for trucks, tractors and buses.

Jailed For Bigamy

WOODSTOCK (CP)—Hazel Viola Zavits, R.R. 1, Princeton, was sentenced to two months in jail by Magistrate H. P. Innes in county police court yesterday on a charge of bigamy. According to the evidence, Mrs. Zavits was married to Mr. Zavits in Ingersoll, July 17, 1947. She allegedly went through another marriage at Drumbo on June 21, 1952.

Defence Caravan To Visit City

A nine vehicle "Alert America Caravan" from the United States will stop over in Peterborough the night of July 23 on its way to Ottawa where it will be studied by federal civil defence authorities.

Alderman J. A. Dewart, chairman of the Peterborough Civil Defence Committee who made the announcement here today, is arranging overnight parking for the convoy at the Exhibition Grounds.

The educational convoy consisting of seven commercial tractor trailers, and two station wagons has toured throughout the United States and will cross into Canada at the Niagara Falls Rainbow Bridge Wednesday morning.

WELCOME TO CANADA

After being welcomed to Canada by Niagara civic officials, and the city's civil defence representatives and representatives of provincial and federal civil defence authorities, the convoy will proceed to Ottawa, via Hamilton, Toronto, Peterborough and Perth.

The convoy will stop at each of these centres enroute, and will be inspected by members of council and the local civil defence organizations.

The convoy will be escorted by the provincial police from the Canadian border to Ottawa.

Locomotive Explodes

OKARCHE, Okla.—The locomotive of a Rock Island freight train exploded near here last night, killing three members of the crew, tearing up a section of track and scattering debris over a 100-yard radius.

Guest of Honor

DUBLIN, Republic of Ireland (AP)—Tourist Margaret Truman was guest of honor last night at a dinner given by the Irish government. Ireland's foreign affairs minister, Frank Aiken, presided over the dinner.

Junior Forest Rangers Run Telephone Lines Through Bush Near Apsley

By JIM ENGLISH

APSLEY.—Fourteen high school boys, all but one from Toronto, are halfway through their summer's work for the Department of Lands and Forests in the bush near here.

They form, with their supervisor and cook, one of the department's 20 camps of Junior Rangers. They like their work, once they're used to it, and according to their supervisor, they do a pretty good job. The 14th boy is from London, Ont.

With Dan Whitmore, their supervisor, the boys are erecting telephone poles for a line between Apsley and the fire tower at Blue Mountain, south of the village. The line is one of the links in the department's private telephone service that forms a network across the province.

Last summer, another gang of Junior Rangers cut a right of way 12 miles through the bush from Apsley to the Blue Mountain tower. This year, the boys started off erecting poles, and by the end of this week should be finished with the job.

MAY MOVE ON

If they're not needed to help string wire, they will probably move into Cardiff township in the southeastern corner of Haliburton township to do a similar job.

Each year, about 300 high school boys apply for the 250 positions open in Junior Ranger camps across Ontario. The successful ones are told which camp to report to, and receive $110 a month, their bed and board.

In the case of the Apsley camp, the bed is an airy one. It's just off the road at the southern entrance to Apsley, and Eel's Creek flows only a few feet away.

EAT WHOLE PIE

The board is substantial. Neil Whitmore, camp cook, said they were a hungry crew of boys he had on his hands at mealtimes. "One of them'll eat a whole pie and take a whole quart of milk at a meal," he said.

Dan Whitmore, himself a forest ranger in the Apsley district for 40 years, says that by the time the boys are hardened up, they're good workers. Not as efficient as men trained in the woods, but still willing workers.

"It takes them a week to get their hands hardened up," he said. "They have lots of trouble with blisters in the first few days until they build up some callouses. From then on, the boys handle axes and shovels without too much difficulty.

As for accidents, there hasn't been one this year, said Dan. Last year, one boy cut himself badly, and that was the sole serious accident in a year and a half.

THIRD YEAR

What do the boys think of the work? Gordon McNabb, about to enter his final year at Leaside Collegiate, is back for his third year with the rangers. His first year he spent at Catchacoma, under Dan Whitmore, and last year, the camp was at its present site.

He likes the work, because as he says, it keeps him out of trouble and in good condition. The food is good, and the restrictions are slight; on week nights the boys must be in their tents by 11 p.m. Saturday nights they are allowed to stay out until midnight or very shortly after.

Dan Whitmore says that the boys keep pretty closely to the hours set for them, although sometimes they might be half an hour late on Saturday nights.

Recreation in Apsley is limited. In this village of 250, moving pictures are shown only once a week — on Thursday nights. Most of the boys attend these shows. Dan Whitmore admits that a certain number of them have girl friends in the village.

The boys' working week of five-and-a-half days doesn't give them much time to leave the village, except on Sundays. Then, a few may go to Lakefield, some as far as Peterborough, while others will head farther north to Bancroft.

FULL DAY

Up in the morning about 7, they are on the job shortly after 8, eat lunch on the job, and come back to camp about 5 p.m. Supper follows about 5.15, and after that the inevitable football makes its appearance. Touch rugby lasts for an hour usually; then the boys break into groups and go to their tents or into the village.

Camp breaks up at the end of August, this year giving the boys just enough time to get back to school. (School opens Sept. 2.)

Some may be back in 1953, some may gain enough interest in forestry to make it a life work. But for the most part, says Dan Whitmore, it's a good way to spend the summer. He has known only two boys to enter forestry in the five years he has supervised Junior Ranger camps.

Frederick Smith C.N. Express Official Dies

CAVENDISH, P.E.I. (CP)—Frederick M. Smith, 65, general superintendent of the Canadian National Express, Montreal, was found dead at this North Shore resort today.

He was found floating face down in the water and it is believed he suffered a heart attack while in swimming.

Coroner Dr. L. E. Prowse said an inquest was unnecessary.

His wife was holidaying with him here.

Mr. Smith was formerly regional superintendent for the Canadian National Express at Moncton.

Mr. Smith left Moncton six years ago to assume the general managership of the Canadian National Express. For a time he also directed the Trans-Atlantic Express service of Trans-Canada Airlines.

He had been assistant superintendent of the western division of the Canadian National Express in Winnipeg before moving east 20 years ago.

He is survived by his widow, the former Milleora Young; two daughters, Mrs. Donald MacDonald (Marjorie) and Mary, both of Moncton; one son, Stanley, of Toronto; and one sister, Miss Maude Smith of Arlington, Vt.

2 Girls Rescue Blind Youth

GIMLI, Man. (CP)—Two teenaged girls Thursday night rescued a partially blind boy from drowning in Lake Winnipeg after his bicycle struck the edge of the dock here and threw him into the water.

The boy, Jimmy Haldorson, 16, is a student at the School for the Blind in Brantford, and is spending his summer holidays with his parents here.

Connie Miller, 13, dived in to help him when she heard his cries. Margaret Isfield, 15, followed her when she was unable to bring the boy to shore.

Montreal Exchange Extends Trading Hours

MONTREAL (CP)—The Montreal stock exchange and curb market announced yesterday that trading will be extended from 3 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. daily Monday to Friday inclusively, beginning Sept. 29 and that Saturday sessions will be eliminated.

The exchange until now operated from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 10 a.m. to noon Saturday, with no Saturday sessions during the summer months.

The announcement follows a similar decision by the New York stock exchange and the New York curb market.

Secret Talks Resumed

TOKYO (AP)—The Nippon Times reported today that secret talks between Japan and the republic of Korea were resumed July 11, dealing with such questions as the Nationality of Koreans in Japan and Japanese pre-war property rights in Korea. Talks were suspended last April by disagreement.

CHARTRES, France (Reuters)—R.A.F. Mosquito plane crashed yesterday at Romilly Sir Aigre, near here, a few minutes after taking off from Chateaudun airfield. The pilot, Group Captain Jack Harvey, was killed.

Stock Market Traders Turning To Individual Issues On Exchange

By DICK BAIDEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Attention this week turned to selected individual issues on the Toronto stock exchange as the market generally made little headway in cautious trading.

In industrials, rumors of progress in discussions between Simpsons and Sears-Roebuck of Chicago—the world's largest department store and mail-order house—pushed Simpson shares for sharp gains Thursday and Friday. Bay street sources said negotiations between the companies to permit the United States firm to enter the Canadian market, presumably by formation of a jointly-owned company, were near completion. Official announcement of the plan was expected shortly, they said.

Aluminium shares drew attention Friday following authorization by company directors, subject to shareholders' approval, of a two-for-one stock split. The stock gained 3⅜ yesterday in a turnover of more than 1,000 shares.

BOOSTS STOCK

Reports Thursday, followed by an official announcement yesterday, that Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Company had acquired an option on a nickel-copper-cobalt-platinum discovery in the Yukon boosted the stock for a gain of about $3.50. During two weeks of active trading, the stock has added about $6.

Selected gold producers continued to attract investment and speculative interest. Particularly strong were the Malartic group—Canadian Malartic and East Malartic among the junior producers. Madsen Red Lake also climbed sharply as hope for an increase in gold prices increased among professional observers.

Toronto opened the week Monday with a slow cautious advance. Western oils and golds, however, faltered as the session progressed while industrials and metals closed with modest gains. In Montreal, papers and industrials made little headway.

Industrials strengthened in Montreal. Metals climbed slightly in Toronto Wednesday but other sections showed little trend. Papers eased in Montreal.

GOLDS CLIMB

Golds pushed upward Thursday in Toronto while oils dipped. Papers again drifted lower in Montreal while industrials held firmly. Golds climbed slowly in Toronto yesterday while industrials dipped. Papers and industrials showed little change in Montreal.

Prices turned slowly higher in New York Monday and motors and steels took the lead Tuesday. Trading slowed Wednesday while prices drifted. Light selling depressed most issues Thursday and prices eased again yesterday.

From Friday to Friday, the Toronto stock exchange indices showed industrials up 1.39 at 319.64, golds up 1.41 at 94.52, base metals up 1.96 at 191.50 and western oils down .39 at 138.26.

In the Montreal averages, banks were up .13 at 30.48, utilities up 1.0 at 86.0, industrials up 4.0 at 209.7, combined up 3.0 at 168.5, papers down 1.00 at 705.06 and golds down .52 at 64.87.

In New York, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped 30 cents to $106.40.

SALE OF TIMBER

Democrats Hope Seaway Plan To Be Approved

CHICAGO (AP)—Hope for eventual congressional approval of the St. Lawrence seaway and power project was voiced at the Democratic platform session yesterday by Senator Herbert H. Lehman of New York.

His comment came as N. R. Danelian, executive vice-president of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Association, urged Democrats to back the seaway in their platform.

Danelian and Lehman said powerful pressure and "lobbying" by eastern railroads, utilities and seaports had been able to block the project in Congress for nearly 30 years.

If Canada goes ahead with recently announced plans for constructing the seaway between the Atlantic and Great Lakes alone, Lehman said, she will have sole control over the seaway and tolls to be charged.

Danelian estimated that the seaway project could be completed for about $300,000,000 and that tolls would repay the entire cost within 50 years.

Lehman agreed and said a number of private banking firms are anxious to finance the seaway.

Diplomacy And Economics Defeat Mossadegh

When Premier Mossadegh of Iran confiscated the properties of the Anglo-Persian Oil Company so as to nationalize them, Persian oil stopped flowing to the West, particularly to Britain. At the same time, dollars and pounds stopped flowing into Iran, smoke stacks ceased to spout, unemployment increased, and scarcities of goods and food were felt. Premier Mossadegh was warned of the economic consequences of his act, and there was political manoeuvring in Whitehall, The Hague, Tehran and Washington to force Iran to reconsider the confiscation. The full effects are now shown. The Mossadegh government tottered as the economic consequences were felt; it fell when western diplomacy and the Shah moved against the Premier.

* * *

In such states as Iran the hereditary ruler is not tied as in Britain by the constitution. Some real power still exists in royal hands. Matters were arranged by Iranians opposed to Mossadegh; the legislature rejected him and in a secret session boycotted by Mossadegh supporters, nominated former premier Ahmed Qavam, a rightist. The Shah sent for Qavam. Premier Qavam is more favourably disposed to Britain than Mossadegh, and there is no doubt that the British Foreign Office was more than an interested by-stander in the shuffle. The new Premier, when occupying the office shortly after the close of the war, adroitly and firmly handled disputes with Russia. Under him again, Iran is unlikely to make a deal with Russia inimical to Britain, and there is a possibility that the dispute over the oil field and refinery seizure will be settled — if he remains in office long enough.

* * *

The Middle East is on the edge of catastrophe, and the change in government in Iran is a symptom of it. There have been governmental upsets in Egypt, too. Its premier Hilaly Pasha, a person friendly to Britain, resigned last week after a short tenure in office, and a stopgap government under Hussein Sirry Pasha has been created. Egypt is involved in a dispute with Britain over the Suez Canal zone, and the status of the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, which last year the Egyptian government claimed as part of Egypt and proclaimed their ruler King of the Sudan.

* * *

The Middle East, preoccupied with nationalism, is however the cross-roads between East and West. So to the national aspirations of these countries are added their military significance (oil and routes) in the world-wide conflict between western democracy and Russian communism. The United States is recognizing that basically her and Britain's interests in the Middle East are the same, and is therefore keeping hands off the Egyptian dispute and even supporting British claims in Iran. Formerly the U.S.A. was cold to British pretensions and inclined to favour parties opposed to Britain. She is now pressing Britain to go ahead with her Middle East defence scheme, with Turkey as the pivotal nation in it. Perhaps by this, and a forcefully expounded principle that Britain and the West cannot risk withdrawal in the Middle East nor Russian intrusion, catastrophe will be avoided. The stakes are too large to permit Middle East countries to play lone games.

Nations At Games

Today the Olympic Games open officially at Helsinki, capital of Finland. It is a long-postponed opening. The Games were scheduled to be held in Helsinki in 1940. Visitors to that city in the spring and summer of 1939 were shown the stadium to be used today, then almost completed, and Finns pointed with pride to the modernistic tower beside it, a symbol for the Games. The beginning of the war that autumn dispatched Finnish expectations of having the Olympics in 1940.

Other nations were similarly upset. Even before 1940 Italy had made immense plans for the Olympics to be held in Rome in 1944. A new city of culture and sports was erected in the suburbs, to house the Games and later Mussolini's state offices for physical and artistic enterprises. One of the sights for Canadian soldiers to see in 1941 after Rome had fallen, was this sports centre, with its modernistic buildings, walks, fountains and gigantic statuary of male nudes, stallions and other animals supposed to represent the heroic virility of Fascism. Since Olympic Games are now held every fourth year, perhaps Rome will have them in 1956—on the Mussolini site.

The first Games since those held in Berlin in 1936 took place in London in 1948. Today at Helsinki some seventy nations are represented. Finland is favorably placed to permit, in these troubled times, nations on both sides of the Iron Curtain to take part. There are large delegations from Russia, but Soviet Russia is fearful lest her athletes be contaminated by western athletes or even Finns; each evening after the day's contests the Soviet participants are taken back into their own compound six miles from the stadium.

Americans, too, are having their quiddities at Helsinki. They have brought their own rations, lest the Finnish food and quality be so different from their own as to harm their sporting efforts. Incidentally, this has been done at the suggestion of the Finnish Olympics committee, who also warn western visitors against the high cost of buying other than the simplest staples of peasant life. In 1939 one bought a good, full breakfast, well-served, on a Finnish train for about thirty cents. A five-course dinner in a Helsinki hotel, including a native drink, cost about forty cents. Times have changed in Finland as in Canada. There inflation has hit the country more severely than here; the cost-of-living index has risen 750 points above 1939; in Canada it has risen at its peak, by 91 points above the 1939 level.

We doubt that the Olympic Games at Helsinki will engender a new spirit of good will and co-operation between East and West. As we have already noted, the Russians are giving their athletes little opportunity to meet those of other political faiths. Further, the competition will be keen, probably more strenuous than sportsmanlike. It would not suit Russian Communist leaders to have the best physical products of their way of life lost to athletes from Capitalist countries. A dogma of communism is that capitalism is decadent, unhealthily bloated, about to crack up; thus athletes from the western world must also be decadent fops, unmanly and lacking in stamina.

Naturally, the Russians are making sure that their best athletes take part. This brings up the question of amateurs in sports. The Olympics are for amateurs, not professionals. Canada and the United States equivocally define the line between professionals and amateurs, but many North American golfers, swimmers, runners and ball-players are undeniably professionals, whom the U.S. and Canada would not dare to enter. In Russia matters are different. Russia would deny that any of her athletes are professionals. Professional athletes in a Marxist-Leninist-Stalinist country? Never! Such an uneconomic use of manpower is contrary to her tenets. So we expect that Russia has been undeterred by the capitalist countries recognition of professionalism in organized sports. She will pick her best, all amateurs of course, in her attempt to outrun, jump higher and swim faster than any mere Westerners.

Sunday Sermon

Mr. Allan Ross, a bank executive in Toronto, told a story to the New Hampshire Bankers Association last month which might be helpful to clergymen preparing their sermons for small summer congregations.

Not so many years ago a young man graduated in theology from Harvard. His first charge was a circuit of small churches in Texas. For a week previous to preaching his first sermon he went into seclusion to prepare what he was going to say. Into that sermon he poured all his intellectual ability and his enthusiasm for the Lord. But when he walked into the pulpit that first Sunday he was astonished to find that his audience consisted of one parishioner occupying the back pew. From his dress it was obvious that he was a cowhand. The young minister didn't know what to do. Like many another he did not relish having an audience of one. After a moment he walked down out of the pulpit and down the aisle to the back pew.

To the cowhand he said:: "Brother, I have spent a whole week preparing my sermon. If I do say it myself it is a wonderful sermon. Now I find you are the only one who has come to hear me. What am I going to do?"

The cowhand hesitated for a moment, then replied: "Pastor, when I take a load of hay down to the water-hole to feed the cattle and I find only one cow there, I feed that cow."

With that the young minister turned on his heel and marched back to the pulpit. He delivered his wonderful sermon. It was correct in every detail. When he had finished and said the benediction he walked down the aisle to the door. As he was shaking hands with the cowhand he asked: "Brother, what did you think of the sermon?"

The cowhand didn't hesitate on this occasion: "Pastor," he said, "it's this way. I said that when I took a load of hay to the water-hole and found only one cow there, I fed that cow but I didn't say I gave her the whole load."

NOTES AND COMMENT

"Your body is composed of as many atoms as there are drops of water in the Atlantic Ocean," says a scientist. We believe he's guessing.

Australia Finds Uranium Fields

By WILLIAM FITTER (in Sydney)

AUSTRALIA EXPECTS to be a big producer of uranium, the key to atomic power, within the next eighteen months.

At present the industry is in its infancy but its prospects have so impressed visiting British and American experts that the Government has decided upon large-scale development of known uranium deposits and is encouraging prospecting in likely new areas.

✧ ✧ ✧

TODAY ONLY FOUR sources of uranium are open to the democracies—Canada, the United States, South Africa and the Belgian Congo. Australia's resources of the precious metal are potentially equal to those of any of these four countries.

The presence of uranium in Australia is not a sudden discovery. Early this century small consignments of concentrates were shipped to Germany but scientists then were more interested in their radium content than in traces of uranium.

✧ ✧ ✧

DURING THE LAST WAR, when, because of the atom bomb project, uranium became a Number One military priority, the British Government spent some £60,000 surveying and prospecting a uranium-bearing field in South Australia. The British withdrew in 1949 but the Premier of South Australia, Mr. T. Playford, persuaded his Government to continue prospecting. Mr. Playford had been impressed by the possibilities of uranium as a source of industrial power. His State contains only small deposits of brown coal and has no river system suitable for the generation of hydro-electric power. As a result South Australia is dependent upon New South Wales for coal, and when the latter State is in the grip of one of its periodical coal strikes, South Australian industry is disrupted.

✧ ✧ ✧

So the South Australian Government extended exploration of the Radium Hill uranium-bearing field, 50 miles south-west of the huge lead and silver mines at Broken Hill.

✧ ✧ ✧

SIMULTANEOUSLY, the Australian Federal Government became interested in uranium and offered £1,000 reward to any prospector who uncovered a new strike and up to £25,000 if the find measured up to certain specifications.

These two efforts have led to the uncovering of extensive areas of second-class uranium-bearing deposits at Radium Hill, and the discovery at Rum Jungle, about seventy miles south of Darwin, in the Northern Territory, of an extremely rich uranium field.

✧ ✧ ✧

ONCE THESE AREAS had been proved by Australian geologists to be more than freak uranium deposits, overseas countries became interested. Earlier this year Britain sent out Dr. Charles Davidson, chief geologist to the Atomic Energy Commission for the British Ministry of Supply, while the United States sent Mr. Jesse Johnson, director of the raw materials division of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, and two assistants, Messrs. D. M. Kentro and R. D. Nininger.

These experts visited both the Radium Hill and the Rum Jungle workings. Dr. Davidson said later that the Rum Jungle prospects were "very favourable", and indicated that the field might be equal to the high grade deposits of Canada and South Africa.

✧ ✧ ✧

MR. JESSE JOHNSON was even more enthusiastic. He said that the Radium Hill field was ready to become a significant world producer of commercial grade uranium and that the Rum Jungle deposits might prove the richest yet known.

How best to exploit this new source of wealth became the next question. South Australia was anxious to safeguard its deposits for commercial use when the world's scientists have discovered a way of harnessing atomic power. The Federal Government was under pressure from Britain and the United States to supply uranium for the manufcture of atomic weapons.

✧ ✧ ✧

FINALLY, a compromise was reached. Radium Hill, as the more advanced field, is to be exploited immediately and the resulting uranium salts sold to the Atomic Energy Commission. In return the Federal Government has guaranteed to replace South Australia's uranium with supplies either from the Rum Jungle or overseas.

America will pay about four dollars a lb. for Australian uranium oxide and will also assist with dollars and technical knowledge the development of the Rum Jungle deposits. Although attention at the moment is focussed on Radium Hill, it is expected that Rum Jungle will soon surpass it as a dollar-earner.

✧ ✧ ✧

URANIUM WAS FOUND at Rum Jungle two years ago by John Michael White, a prospector, who was out shooting kangaroos. He picked up some lumps of ore streaked with dull yellow and green, compared them with coloured plates in a handbook issued by the Mines Department and sent them to the department for analysis. After experts had tested the area, Mr. White was awarded £1,000 and as soon as production begins he will receive another £24,000.

Australia's Minister for Territories, Mr. Paul Hasluck, whose department administers the Rum Jungle area, has no doubt about the future. He told the House of Representatives the other day, "Reports on the mineral possibilities of the Northern Territory lead us to hope that within a year or two this area will be transformed from a land of large cattle stations to one of inland towns thriving on mineral production".

THAT WAS THAT

The court was silent except for the clear-cut tones of defending counsel. Everyone hung on his words, and many thought that he would easily win his case.

"And now, gentlemen of the jury," he said, "I ask you—where could the prisoner have hidden the watch? Not in his pocket. The constable has already told you that the man was searched. Not in his shoes.—the watch was too large. Then where was it hidden?"

He paused dramatically for effect, and during the pause the prisoner ventured:

"Please, sir, I put it under my 'at."

TURNABOUT

Old Time Home Remedies

(LETHBRIDGE HERALD)

IN out-of-the-way places home remedies are invariably tried before the doctor is called, and some of the home cures do the trick admirably. In the far north most of the remedies used by the Eskimo and Indian are tried by the white people with good results.

A cure for boils, blood poison, proud flesh and the like is made from the gall bladder of the bear. (After the bear has been in hibernation all winter its bladder is much larger than at any other time.) For use it is shaved like soap. Then to these shavings alcohol or coal oil is added. The mixture thus formed is spread over the wound or otherwise diseased tissue. Then liquid balsam gum is poured over this. In a day or two this covering can be lifted off, with the proud flesh or other dead tissue adhering to it. The flesh beneath is left sterilized and in condition to heal rapidly.

The Indians in Alberta used to have several sweat baths on each reserve and used this substitute for the Turkish bath of the white man as a remedy for colds and other ailments.

Herbal remedies for external and internal use are made from plants found growing wild on the reservations. Powdered toadstools were supposed to stop bleeding.

When available warm blood was often given to the new-born papoose.

Beds were placed on the ground. To ward off rheumatism, sciatica, etc. the Indians wore strings of beads, bracelets, necklets, rings, etc. of brass.

I wonder who remembers the old stocking foot filled with hot salt placed on the cheek, for that aching tooth, or on the ear for that earache.

The early-day mothers used to say that when the new baby cried often it was longing for something the mother wished for. Some women fed the child cooked rabbit's brains to satisfy this longing.

A small bag filled with hops was placed under the pillow for sleeplessness.

The wearing of red flannels for rheumatism was quite common.

A string of cut coral beads around the child's neck would, it was thought, protect it from sore throat.

Some of us still have the scars from the assafetida or camphor bag worn around the neck as a preventive of contagious disease.

When a child was born with a birthmark the mother was supposed to kiss the mark before breakfast each morning.

Butter rubbed over a swelling bump would reduce the swelling.

Some of the pioneers carried potatoes in opposite pockets as a cure for rheumatism.

✧ ✧ ✧

AN IDEA of some grandmothers was to pierce the ears of a child for earrings, to strengthen its eyesight.

A piece of copper wire arobnd the wrist and around the opposite ankle or one around each wrist was supposed to cure arthritis.

To remove ringworm one was advised to rub a copper penny on the diseased spot.

Garlic was eaten to bring down high blood pressure. Parsley was used to take odor away from the breath.

The rose coloured leaf of the herb called the "horse mint" is called the "manikapi" by the Blackfeet Indians. It is gathered and placed in hot water, and is used as an eye wash to allay inflammation.

Jinx Does Not Apply

(Windsor Star)

Being 1952 the jinx of an even multiple of ten year does not apply to the Presidential election in the United States in November.

Since 1840 every President elected in even ten years has died in office.

William Henry Harrison was elected in 1840 and died in 1841.

Abraham Lincoln was elected in 1860 and re-elected in 1864. He was assassinated in 1865.

James Abram Garfield was elected in 1880 and he was assassinated in 1881.

William McKinley was elected in 1896 and re-elected in 1900. He was assassinated in 1901.

Warren Gamaliel Harding was elected in 1920. He died in 1923.

Franklin Delano Roosevelt was elected in 1932 and re-elected in 1936, 1940 and 1944. He died in 1945.

It is a strange series of coincidences, but it is all in the record. Those who believe in such sequences will not have to worry about 1952 or 1956. But, in 1960 another Presidential election will be coming along.

Fish Cold Storage

(Saint John Telegraph-Journal)

Up in the Shippegan area, in the northeast tip of the province, the industry of the sea is making a remarkable conversion to modern methods of handling and marketing fish. A new cold storage building, with a potential capacity of 25,000,000 pounds, has just been built in Shippegan, and nearing completion is a new fish meal plant capable of processing between 70 and 100 tons a day. There are now five cold storage plants in the district.

It is good to see such progress in an area which derives its living almost entirely from fish, lobster, clams and blueberries. The construction of fish plants—part of a $1,000,000 storage and processing expansion program in Shippegan and Shediac—indicates a good prospectus for the 1952 fishing industry. There is evidence of fish shortage in several important foreign markets, and this, together with lifted restrictions on exports, may mean a record year for New Brunswick fishermen. Last year went over the $20,000,000 mark, and was the best season in almost 350 years of fishing along these coastal waters.

How Time Flies

JULY 19

1922 It is reported that 100,000 bass fry will be placed in the Trent River at Campbellford.

The local board sells 1,078 boxes of cheese at 15 13/16 cents for the heaviest offering of the year.

Thirty-seven hundred employees here are out of work as factories shut down through lack of power.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And Jesus returned in the power of the Spirit into Galilee: and there went out a fame of him through all the region round about. And he taught in their synagogues, being glorified of all. And he came to Nazareth, where he had been brought up: and, as his custom was, he went into the synagogue on the sabbath day, and stood up for to read.

And there was delivered unto him the book of the prophet Esaias. And when he had opened the book, he found the place where it was written, The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he hath anointed me to preach the gospel to the poor; he hath sent me to heal the brokenhearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bruised, to preach the acceptable year of the Lord.

And he closed the book, and he gave it again to the minister, and sat down. And the eyes of all them that were in the synagogue were fastened on him. And he began to say unto them, This day is this scripture fulfilled in your ears. (Luke 4: 14-21. )

✧ ✧ ✧

Search the scriptures; for in them ye think ye have eternal life: and they are they which testify of me. (John 5:39.)

✧ ✧ ✧

For whatsoever things were written aforetime were written for our learning, that we through patience and comfort of the scriptures might have hope. (Rom. 15: 4.)

Letter To The Editor

WATERED COMPANY LAWNS

Sir, On several occasions I have noticed the De Laval Co. has seemingly failed to show any curtailment of water requested by Utilities Commission in the consumption of water so urgently requested over the air by C.H.E.X.

Should it be so, that they have their own water supply from wells on the property I think their lawns are quite green enough compared with mine which is turning brown with the heat. This I dislike, but as a good citizen of Canada and Peterborough I wholeheartedly comply with the rules requested.

A CITIZEN

Ed. Note: While the De Laval Company buys water from the city, it has an auxiliary supply which it pumps from wells on its own property. The water in the firm's sprinkling system comes from this private source. Other industries in the city have special piping, too. For instance, the C.G.E. hoses re-use water that would otherwise be wasted and run off down the sewers. There is no lack of water in Peterborough; the reason for asking citizens to curtail their lawn-watering is that the demand is so heavy that the filtration plant cannot cope with it.

CAPACITY FOR INFINITE PAINS

The wonderful musicianship of the famous violinist, Sarasate, like that of other great artists, was not attained without much labour and self-sacrifice. One day a friend read to him a highly laudatory review of a concert he had just given, which seemed to distress the violinist rather than please him.

"What's the matter?" Sarasate was asked.

"For thirty-seven years I have practised fourteen hours a day," replied the artist, "and now the critics say that my playing is wonderful. But to what do they attribute my musicianship?" He lifted his arms in a gesture of despair.

"They say I'm a genius!"

Road Tour Of Biggest Lake Reveals Tranquil Beauty And Light Of Other Days

By A. J. THOMAS

Remember the days when you, the whole family, your lodge, your Sunday school or your church boarded the Steamer Stoney Lake or one of its dozens of predecessors at the George St. wharf and set out for an outing and picnic at Gore's Landing, Hiawatha, Idylwild, on Rice Lake?

Gore's Landing, Hiawatha and Idylwild are still there even if the Steamer Stoney Lake isn't, and even if in the last thirty years car and roads have taken you north into the Kawarthas. It is a step into the fond past to explore them again—although one cannot do it by steamer any more—and to rediscover Rice Lake, our largest (it is more than twenty miles long) and by far our most handsome lake as one sees it from vantage points on hills beyond.

If many Peterborough people have bypassed Rice Lake in recent years, American tourists have not. It is still a great fishing and tourist centre, as it was half a century ago.

BEGIN BEYOND BEWDLEY

With The Examiner's photographer, Mr. Nickels, I made a voyage of re-discovery this week of the Rice Lake area; well, hardly a voyage—a trip on wheels. It is possible to go by road completely around Rice Lake—more than 50 miles—and to be within sight of the lake much of the time, especially if you dawdle on some of the many splendid panoramic viewpoints.

We started from Bewdley. A foretaste of the lovely scenery is to be got by any traveller going south on Highway 28 between Bailieboro and Bewdley, just as he rounds the bend and crest.

Here follows a sketchy account of what is to be seen, and what is worth seeing. We recommend it as a full-day's jaunt; to try to do it in a short afternoon is sheer trippery, indecent recognition of the lovely lake and its countryside.

We pass through Bewdley; the less said about Bewdley the better. We begin our tour around Rice Lake at the Scriven memorial stone about a half-mile south of Bewdley, on the left of the highway. Scriven was the Dubliner who wrote, while he was living in this area, the famous hymn, "What A Friend We Have In Jesus." You should begin your tour by inspecting the inscription.

We turn left at the Scriven memorial, and go east and slightly north, taking a well-gravelled road. (Incidentally you will not lose your way if, in general, you take the best-travelled gravel road always, running as near parallel as you can to the lake. When in doubt about a turn, turn towards the lake; you can always go back if it is a dead, cottage, end.)

ERODED LAND, FINE HILLS

On both sides as we leave the Scriven memorial is farming land, some of it badly eroded and needing reforestation. Note the scarring on the hill slopes; and places where the wheat and oat fields are almost sand. We shortly pass an old Baptist church on the right, now converted into some kind of house. Farther along is a cheese-factory-like new schoolhouse, of cement block. This is not as bereft of windows as it seems from the road side; the south side has good windows. It is a two-room school, S.S. 15, Hamilton township. We are in Northumberland county now. There are several good stone houses along this road, and good stands of pine, oak and maple.

DIFFERENT FROM KAWARTHAS

Having gone about four miles east from Bewdley, we turn north (sharp left) near the crest of a hill (see map). Look back here and you get a splendid panorama of countryside rolling for miles to the west. We keep going north on this township road for about half a mile, until we come to a very sharp right turn at a checkerboard. At this turn, on the left side of the road, is the brick farm home of G. A. Lander. We stop here to admire the view—breath-taking over Rice Lake. It is worth climbing out of the car to see this sight—north, west and east across the lovely lake and several islands (the big one directly in front is Cow island; to the right, with a green and conical shape is Sugar Loaf island).

This view and the vistas one gets for the next six miles show Rice Lake at its best and reveal its differences from the Kawartha lakes. Here is pastoral and farm country, well-wooded; cultivated for a hundred years; and a softness about the appearance of lake and countryside different from the rock and bush and ruggedness of the lake country farther north.

By the way, Cow island contains about 40 cultivated acres, and is the only island in the lake to be farmed. At one time it had a house and barn; now no one lives on it, although it is still farmed.

We have this view marked as Number 1 on our map. Note the evidence of soil erosion.

On all the trip, at this time of year, one gets beautiful contrasting colors, both near and far and across the lake: green of oats, golden-russet of fall wheat; dark green of pines, and the blue of water and sky.

ON TO GORE'S LANDING

We continue along toward Gore's Landing, always having a splendid view over the lake, until we come to a main road with a gas station at the intersection. This is a county road between Gore's Landing and Cobourg — almost following the path the original settlers took from the Lake Ontario shore to Rice Lake and the hinterland beyond in which Peterborough grew. Here it is only ten miles to Cobourg; so one readily sees that the focal point for the people in this district is naturally their county town.

We take the main county road north towards the lake, to Gore's Landing, an old summer resort and older farming centre—older than Peterborough. It is named for Sir Francis Gore, lieutenant-governor of Upper Canada from 1806 to 1817. The whole area was first settled by veterans of the Napoleonic Wars; this accounts for several very presentable Anglican churches in the area, notably St. George's at Gore's Landing, and St. John's farther east along the lake at Harwood.

When you come into Gore's Landing past the United Church, turn sharp left, go west up a steep hill, and there you see St. George's, overlooking the lake. (Number 2 on our map.) This church is worth inspecting; look also at the gravestones, and the recurrence of family names like Harris.

VICTORIAN RESORTS

After we have seen the church and church-yard we go back down the hill into the village, past the summer hotel, venerable as Queen Victoria in whose reign it was built. With its three balconies and white frame structure it is characteristic of hundreds of old summer hotels down the Lower St. Lawrence, and in other early resort areas. There are not many comparable ones in the Kawarthas—Mt. Julian hotel on Stony Lake is one of the few of its vintage.

STEAMER CAPTAIN

Next is the general store, and there we met and talked with Mr. W. C. Harris, whose forebears lie in the churchyard. Mr. Harris is an elderly party who was a lake steamer man for 35 years—and that career ended thirty years ago, when he took his last ship, the Geneva, up to Orillia. His father had built the Geneva. He told us of days of fifty years ago on Rice Lake and of many vessels which carried freight, passengers, mail and food to and from the district. His memory goes back a long way—to a tread mill boat, with horse-power—a real horse—but that is another story. He is a very cheery person.

Our encounter with Mr. Harris and his tales of the Beaver, the Geneva, the Monarch, the North Star, the Rainbow and other small vessels which used to ply from Gore's landing up to Otonabee and down the Trent, bespoke times this age of wheels has almost forgotten.

There are many old summer homes at the Landing, and several hotels. It was anachronistic to see on the biggest Victorian one a TV aerial—as it was out of the times to have seen, farther back on the road, amongst tractors, baled hay and modern farm machinery, a donkey chewing a fence rail.

TO HARWOOD

We leave Gore's Landing by the township road back up the hill, and go east again, fairly close to the lake, towards Harwood. Again we get fine glimpses of the lake, and pass a farm owned by Mr. R. E. Drope, former M.P. for Northumberland; a neat, progressive farm, it appears.

Coming into Harwood, on the right of our road, is an architecturally odd church, of brick and cement. This is St. John's. There are heavy and many low cement abutments, the roof rises steeply, and it is surmounted by a curious little tower. Another odd thing about this rural church is that there is no graveyard attached.

We turn down into Harwood, past a square, unornamented old brick Roman Catholic Church.

One of the most interesting things to see at Harwood, apart from the general view, is the old, half-submerged causeway. This carried the old Cobourg-Peterborough railway line which established a precarious rail link between the south and north shores of Rice Lake. It was little used in the few years before it became completely unsafe. Most of the time people took a boat from one shore to the other, continuing their rail journey thereafter; another engine and carriage were ready on the opposite side.

The line was opened in December 1854. Interested people can follow the old railway embankment right up to Peterborough, or see evidences of it as it crosses main roads and Number 7 highway. Its Peterborough terminus was in East City, on Hunter Street.

PRINCE OF WALES WENT BY BOAT

A month after it opened ice damaged the bridge across Rice Lake. Thereafter there was always trouble with the bridge and the last train to cross it did so in 1860. The precious body of the Prince of Wales (King Edward VII) when visiting this district in September, 1860, was not entrusted to the bridge. He crossed by boat, and picked up the train again on the far side.

The last and biggest island of the old causeway along which the railway lines lay is called Tick Island. The causeway can best be seen completely from above the lake, west side of the village. This is where Photograph 3 was taken.

SPLENDID VIEW

We leave Harwood by going southeast away from the lake, along the county road, which in a couple of miles turns to the lake again towards Idylwild, which is a point, not an island, but in earlier days was reached handiest by boat. We pass Bethesda United Church, perched on a hill slope, with one of the largest driving sheds in many townships below it. Near the church is an old stone house, with plaster over the stone, a familiar treatment in other days to spruce up the sometimes despised stone. We veer left off the county road, at a fork, north towards the lake again. This is about two miles from Idylwild, and here is a splendid view back over wonderful country and hills, and up the whole sweep of the lake right to Bewdley.

Farther on—this is still only about 17 miles out of Bewdley—we pass Woodvale school, a traditional red-brick school-house, and hard by is Centenary United Church (formerly Methodist), a clapboard and plaster structure with the biggest tombstones I have ever seen in a small rural cemetery. There seems to be more money invested in marble in the graveyard than in the framework of many houses in the area. Centenary church bears the dates 1856-1907, but these give no clue to whose or what centenary the church is named for.

INDIAN RESERVE

And now we come to the Indian Reserve, at and around Alderville. It is in Alnwick township. They are typical Reserve houses and farms, somewhat better than in some other reserves of this district. The road now joins Highway 45, which runs between Cobourg and Norwood. At this junction of highway and county road and Indian Reserve is the most remarkable rural war memorial (1914-18) in southern Ontario. It has to be seen to be believed. (Number 4.) A full description warrants another story.

We have been dawdling. Our time is getting short. We speed along Number 45 north, an oiled road (by the way, most of the roads so far have been treated for dusts, a mile or so into Roseneath. Roseneath is a remarkable community in several ways. It is not on a lake or river, yet there it is, in the heart of good agricultural land. And it is a rich and thriving place, with the best annual agricultural fair and fair-ground in seven counties. A general store in the village has an eye-taking gable, the most ornate iron-work decoration I have ever seen on a store . . . The store with the (Victorian fringe on top. It is so fussy that I hope it is preserved as it is as a period piece.

A-F-I-E-L-D with NICK NICKELS

The past seven or eight days have been times of long and fast travel on assignments and besides the business on hand there were many new things to see.

THE NEW HIGHWAY abuilding north of Bancroft is a monstrous engineering project. Those who have not been up that way for the past year will barely know the countryside of old. The roadbed gouges out high hills and carries fill across flats and low valleys. The corkscrew bends will soon have disappeared as the road drives straight and sandy to far horizons in the direction of Killaloe and Eganville.

A FIVE-HOUR DRIVE around the perimeter of Rice Lake was another experience told at length elsewhere on this page. This much-neglected scenic skyline route is something for all Sunday drivers to think about, especially in the Season of the Painted Hills. Don't be fooled, as we were, that it is a mere jaunt. Eight hours, including a stop for picnic lunch at a dozen vantage points and a bit of browsing around points of interest, will be the minimum trip time. Main roads are generally good but the side concessions take a little longer. And when you do go don't forget your camera, color film by preference.

BACK AGAIN on a duty call to Apsley and east a bit on the Coe Hill Road. Everyone by now is familiar with the road renovation north of Burleigh. It is taking shape in fine style. At one spot on a rock cut hill engineers have bared some of the finest limestone strata that could be found anywhere. Travellers have been quick to notice it, too. Private cars load their trunks—great ballast—some hire trucks to snitch a load to build dry stone walls, flag walks, chimney facing and various pretty-up jobs about city homes. Bass fishing at Burleigh, both at Lovesick and Stony, is really something these past few days. (You've seen the picture earlier in the week of the behemoth 7-pound, 2-ouncer caught by Jack McEwen at Pine Lake.) Sort of gives you an idea of what we mean when we talk of bass fishing in these parts.

THURSDAY took me to the Serpent Mounds on Rice Lake south of Keene. While a couple of R.C.A.F. jets whined past out of sight in the misty air, battering at the Supersonic Barrier, a group of archeologists from the Royal Ontario Museum were absorbed with shovels and trowels as they dug into an Indian campsite of the ancient Mound Builders. These ancient people were camping along the north shore 8,000 strong at the time Caesar invaded Britain. Makes a fellow stop and think.

A REST PERIOD of 24 hours sandwiched in between all these goings on was spent at Stony Lake. All cottages appeared to be open and resorts were turning visitors away. Looks like the largest and busiest summer the Kawartha lakeland playgrounds have had for many a year but perhaps more people are finding its charm each year.

♠ ♠ ♠ ♠

Here's some dope on the best 'lunge fishing hours compiled by some Wisconsin statisticians. It might work out here:

Fish strike best between 10 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. and next best from 3:30 until 11:30 p.m. From dawn to 8 a.m. luck was consistently poor while noon till mid-afternoon was absolutely in the cellar.

♠ ♠ ♠ ♠

All you gardeners have a deluxe bass bait, so a man said, the large green cabbage worms. Hook them just back of the head so they will jerk back and forth. If this works I will collect a green cabbage all around come fall for the tip.

♠ ♠ ♠ ♠

Fishing in all classes is splendid at Crowe Lake, my dear Watson informs me. Joe Pollock of Alequippa, Pa., is having the best of bass luck and Carl Irick of Mount Vernon, N.Y., is majoring in muskies. All others are happy with quotas of pickerel down that way.

♠ ♠ ♠ ♠

Don't get smart, weekends with your target rifle up at the cottage. You may be in a game area and it is against the law to carry or discharge a gun in such districts on the Sabbath. One offender, a Toronto girl, was picked up for banging away at Balsam Lake with a .22. Gun seized. Charges laid. S'long, folks. Off for two weeks of plain and fancy loafing.

Swaziland's New Pines

By JOHN WORRALL

CAPE TOWN.—Taking shape in the little British Colony of Swaziland, on the borders of the Union of South Africa, is what the South African National Veld Trust describes as "the greatest artificial pine forest in the Southern Hemisphere, and probably of the world."

This is the great afforestation scheme of the British Colonial Development Corporation on the banks of the Usutu River, near Mbabane, Swaziland's capital.

Pines grow in Southern Africa five to ten times faster than they do in the Northern Hemisphere. In Swaziland they are being planted at the rate of 4,500,000 a year. Planting will be finished by 1955. The eventual yield from the corporation's 108,000 acre estate is estimated at 2,250 logs a day.

Another big Swaziland afforestation scheme is being undertaken by a South African company, which owns 88,000 acres round Piggs Peak in the north of the country. More than 55,000 acres will be planted with pines which will be ready for sawmilling in 1959.

Timber from this scheme will be used mainly for agricultural and fish boxes, for which there is a great demand in the Union and elsewhere in Southern Africa.

The first thinning of this plantation is planned for 1954.

About £16,000,000 is being invested in afforestation schemes in Swaziland.

Commenting on these schemes, the National Veld Trust says that these Swaziland schemes are "making the Union's attempt look pitiful."

"When these great plans reach fruition Swaziland will be the green jewel of Southern Africa—and the envy of her less far-sighted and less determined neighbors."

The Union's present timber production is less than one-quarter of her requirements.

MEMORY GOING?

*There is a wicked inclination in most people to suppose an old man decayed in his intellects. # Olympic Games Opened With Traditional Pomp Biggest Rivals Russia-U.S.

HELSINKI (AP)—The president of the republic of Finland, before 70,000 rain-soaked spectators, today declared open the 15th modern Olympic Games, the biggest in history and the first to be attended by Soviet Russia.

President Juho K. Paasikivi, speaking in Finnish, Swedish, French and English, solemnly and simply told 5,870 massed athletes from 70 countries:

"I declare the 15th Olympic Games at Helsinki open."

The crowd in the modernistic Olympic stadium stood at attention in a drizzle while a huge band played the Olympic Hymn.

Just before the president opened the games, Erik von Frenckell, head of the Finnish games organizing committee, welcome the athletes and spectators and said:

"We are glad to have the Olympics in Finland, a country where the West and East can meet without trouble."

The nattily dressed athletes, their ranks making splashes of many colors, converged on the great slate-white Olympic Stadium almost in the heart of downtown Helsinki, a city of 400,000.

From behind the Iron Curtain Russia marched about 400 athletes for the first test of Soviet athletic strength against the rest of the world since the 1912 games.

70,000 IN STADIUM

Seventy thousand persons were shoe-horned into the oval-shaped stadium, where for eight days the elite of the world's track and field performers—both men and women—will streak over the red-brick and leap, jump, toss discus, hammer and javelin on the paddy-green infield.

Thousands of persons who could not get tickets thronged streets leading to the stadium to watch the athletes who came by buses from their Olympic villages and lined up in formations as they alighted.

The formation for the ceremonial opening march followed the names of the countries alphabetically except that Greece—the country where the Olympic Games were born—took the lead-off place by tradition, and Finland, the host country, was last.

Russia—which is Neuvostoliitto in Finnish—was midway in the parade. The United States—Yhdysvallat—was at the end except for Finland.

President Paasikivi of Finland officially declared the games open, artillery guns boomed a 21-gun salute and the torch-bearer mounted the majestic 240-foot tower to light the Olympic flame.

Captains of the teams of the world swore a solemn oath that they are participating. . . "In the true spirit of sportsmanship, for the honor of our country and the glory of sport."

More than 3,000 pigeons, loosed from cages, circled over the ranks of athletes.

Bill Parnell of North Vancouver, who will run in the 800-metre event Sunday, was Canada's flag-bearer. Parnell was a competitor in the 1948 Olympic Games at London and also represented Canada at the British Empire Games of 1950 in New Zealand.

CANADIANS ULTRA-SMART

The Canadians were ultra-smart in dress of blue, white and red. The 111 athletes were led by officials of the Canadian Olympic Association.

The United States, champion since 1896 in the unofficial point-scoring, was again favored to dominate the games, but there were expectations that there would be a dramatic sports rivalry between the Americans and Russians.

The two countries have the largest teams—334 Americans and nearly 40 Russians.

The parade of athletes around the running track to take up positions in solid masses of color behind their flags was accompanied by cheers from the crowd. Some persons paid as much as 10,000 finnmarks—about $28—on the black market for their seats.

After the Olympic flame burst forth—kindled by the torch relayed across Europe from sacred Mount Olympus in Greece—massed choirs sang the Olympic hymn composed for the occasion by Jaakko Linjama. Then Archbishop Limari Salomies pronounced the benediction.

RECORD ENTRY LIST

Never before have so many athletes from so many countries vied together on the fields of sport. At London in 1948—the biggest games up to then—there were 4,106 competitors, 1,764 fewer than here.

The track and field competition—central sport of the games—starts tomorrow, and the whole vast show ends in solemn ceremonies in the same stadium Sunday, Aug. 3.

Actually, preliminary competition has been going on all week in basketball, soccer and field hockey simply because the fields in these sports were too unwieldy to handle in the period of the games.

This is the smallest city—400,000 population—in which the games have ever been held except for Athens at the start. It is bulging at the seams with tourists from abroad and Finns from the provinces.

The main stadium is virtually sold out for the eight days of track and field, and near-capacity crowds are expected for most of the other sports, particularly swimming and soccer.

Although the games have developed into tense team rivalries, actually under the Olympic code there are only individual championships. Gold, silver and bronze medals are given for the first three places in each event—whether it is the blue-ribbon 100-metre dash or the weightlifting.

Out At The Kawartha

Following is a report of the weekly field day of the ladies' section of the Kawartha Golf and Country Club.

The 18-hole players of the ladies' section postponed their field day until next Tuesday as they had been in Cobourg on Tuesday and were at the Peterborough Golf Club on Wednesday for the Marjorie DeGraw Tournament.

In the 9-hole section, Mrs. Grant Clark won a piece of china and Mrs. Doug Hough a ball for the hidden holes competition. Mrs. J. Gatfield, Mrs. D. Meredith and Mrs. N. Williamson each won a point.

There were 45 business girls present for their field day. A sterling silver spoon went to Miss Betty Middleton in the low gross competition with Miss Barbara Siddall receiving a point. Mrs. Mel Mortimer and Doris Ackford were tied for the lowest number of putts and each received a point. Miss Dorothy Franks received a sterling silver spoon for this competition.

A luncheon was served after with Misses Joan Rahmel and Grace Sharp pouring tea. The presentation of prizes was made, followed by the showing of a technicolor film of the men's Canadian Open Golf Tournament held at the Mississaugua Golf Club last year and enjoyed by approximately 65 members of the club.

Bobby Shantz Smallest Player

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Robert C. (Bobby) Shantz is on the official records now as the smallest player in major league baseball.

The little southpaw for Philadelphia Athletics was placed on the scales before last night's home game with Detroit Tigers to satisfy once and for all the mystery of his height and weight.

Bobby, top hurler in the big leagues with a record of 16 victories against only three defeats, had complained from time to time in the past that his size was vastly underrated.

The midget southpaw tipped the beam at 139½ pounds and reached five feet 6¼ inches in height.

Shantz said: "This means I've shed something like 14 pounds since spring training as I reported at 153 pounds back in February."

2 Ontario Golfers Make Semi-Finals

KINGSTON (CP)—Two Ontario and two Quebec golfers yesterday qualified for the semi-finals of the ladies' international golf tournament at the Cataraqui course.

Daintry Chisholm of the Royal Montreal Club will meet Miss N. Carlson of Toronto Rosedale in one semi-final today while Rose Kampman of Kitchener Westmount clashes with Mrs. J. C. Whitelaw of Laval-sur-le-Lac in the other

Miss Chisholm eliminated Marlene Stewart of Fonthill Lookout Point, Canadian open and Closed champion, 3 and 1 in the morning round and then went on to get by Shirley Woodley, Ontario junior titleholder, 3 and 2 in the quarter finals.

Miss Carlson moved in the semi-finals by defeating Miss J.B. Seawright of Toronto Scarboro one up in their quarter-final match after she had beaten Miss N. Laing of Toronto Mississaugua 4 and 2 in the morning round.

Miss Anne Sharp of Fonthill Lookout Point 1952 Ontario champion, was eliminated in the morning round, losing to Miss Woodley in Toronto Ladies 5 and 3.

U.S. And British Oarsmen To Face Off

HELSINKI (AP)—The United States' unbeaten Navy heavyweight crew drew Great Britain's formidable entry in one of the opening heats of the Olympic rowing regatta Sunday.

The United States is favored in the eight-oar competition, Britain's smooth sweep-swingers rated the strongest threat.

Their first test is scheduled Sunday in the second of three heats.

Others in the heat are Portugal, Sweden and Germany, none regarded as dangerous.

Australia, another favorite, heads the opening heat and is expected to have little trouble with Finland, Canada, Yugoslavia and Romania.

Russia's untested crew is in the third heat with Denmark, Hungary and Italy. Denmark is favored to win.

A crew is not eliminated in the opening heats and has a chance to win the Olympic title even after two defeats through a series of complicated "second chance" heats.

Opening heats in all seven rowing specialties are scheduled Sunday. Second heats are set for Monday with semi-Finals Tuesday and finals Wednesday.

Crescents Edge Fergus 16-15

FERGUS (CP)—Owen Sound Crescents last night squeaked past Fergus Thistles 16-15 in an Ontario Lacrosse Association Senior A tilt.

Don Campbell with four, John Lumley with three and "Onion" Smith with two, were top goal-getters for the Crescents, while Ron Landoni popped in three for the losers and Len Caruso, Frank Chambers, Al Garbutt and Bob Dobbie each collected a pair.

Don and Bob Gear of Fergus and Harry Kazarina and Smith of Owen Sound picked up majors in the fourth quarters for fighting

Canada Wins Shoot Trophy

BISLEY, Surrey, England (Reuters)—Canada yesterday won the MacKinnon international long-range trophy with 1,031 points earned through consistent shooting.

Scotland and South Africa each scored 1,023 and England was fourth with 1,012.

The MacKinnon challenge cup is open to teams of 12. Distances are 900 to 1,000 yards (aggregate); 10 shots and one sighting shot are allowed each man, at each distance.

Maj. J. W. Houlden of Winnipeg won the Conan Doyle challenge statuette for 10 shots with the service rifle at 900 yards.

Sgt. Wilson, an R.C.M.P. officer, won the 25 pounds first prize in The Times 200-yard shoot after first tying with nine others in this service-rifle event.

Maj. Hall, executive secretary of the British Columbia penitentiary, took first prize in the "kneeling" competition.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Playdown zones have been announced for this season by the O.A.S.A. Peterborough senior "B" representative is in Zone 4 with Ottawa, Hull, Kingston, Oshawa, the locals likely meeting the Motor City squad first. Our intermediate "A" team is bunched with Belleville, Kingston and Whitby, the latter likely being our first playdown opponent. Hastings and Lakefield are in with a raft of intermediate "C" clubs. In junior "C" are Hastings, Keene, Madoc and Tweed. We're not listed in junior "A" playdowns at all. For a long time, local softball winners went into intermediate "A" playdowns only, but the O.A.S.A. finally got wise that the city was growing and made the loop here affiliate as a senior "B" one.

* * * * * *

It's possibly the heat, but anyway the Cobourg columnist has grandiose visions of the Cobourg Vics cleaning up the Peterborough lasses' softball circuit and taking the crown. Says he: "We'll bet a plugged nickel they'll never get the chance in the Peterborough loop again if they win the championship. The Petes' ball heads never like to get beaten. If you've never seen a Pete mad then you'll get an eye-opener when you do. The weather there is hotter in the summer and colder in the winter than here, and the Petes' tempers are about the same. They get madder easier, stay madder longer and take more time to make up than anyone else around.". Aw, shucks, we're not that bad, huh? Anyway, the Cobourg Vics haven't a snowball's chance of winning the local league.

Hundred Bucks For Digby

'Tis said that Toronto Yorks bought Les Digby's release from Hamilton Tigers in the senior O.L.A. for a hundred smackers. The Tigers promptly turned the C note over to the O.L.A. executive. Seems they have been late for four out-of-town tilts so far this semester and they owed the executive four times 25 bucks. You might say they dealt Digby for tardiness. Timbermen occasionally are a bit late on a long haul, too, and the axe swings on all guilty teams. It is an excellent ruling and tends to cut down considerably on too late starts of lacrosse matches. They could improve on it yet by having a graduated scale of fines for longer delays in starting tilts.

* * * * * *

No junior gutted-stick game here tonight, as Toronto Maitlands have folded. So, Lou's crew is idle now till Aug. 1, a holiday layoff. The locals have lost two players recently. Bill Nicholls, one of their netters, has had to quit following concessions received in a recent fray for this season, and Bill Gray has returned to Alliston because of illness in the family. That leaves two gaps in the lineup. Juveniles Bob Curtis, Bob Allan and Tiny Hunt have helped the juniors a lot lately, but will return for juvenile playdowns. Seniors sometimes use a few juniors, too, showing it is a sound lacrosse organization from the top down here.

* * * * * *

Rain Washed Out Game

No senior lacrosse game here last night, the Petes' Timbermen calling it off late in the afternoon because of rain. Ground would have been too slippery for the players and seats too damp for the customers. But 'twas a disappointment, no doubt, to many fans as they haven't seen a senior joust here for some time and will have to wait till next Friday now when Mimico comes here. Unless that postponement can be worked in. Meantime, the Petes play in Mimico next Wednesday and both of these scraps with the leaders will be tough ones. The fray washed out with Hamilton would have been no tea party, either.

Recreation Director Red Mitchell of Lindsay writes to say a hundred or more young ballsters will show there July 26 in the east-central zone peewee baseball tourney. Entries expected from Peterborough, Oshawa, Bowmanville, Newmarket, Aurora and Lindsay for the all-day competition. They start at nine a.m. and go into the evening with winners and runners-up getting trophies and crests. The 13-year-olds will have O.B.A. umps, the P.A. treatment and some games will be on the air. It's a knockout tournament, one loss and you've had it. Kids competing get box lunches and tickets for free dips in the Rotary Swimming pool there. East City peewees from here are probable starters.

Lacrosse Team 1880s In Photograph

A photograph of the Peterborough lacrosse team that won the Canadian championship in 1880-1-2-3, was received a month ago by J. S. Matthews, city archivist of Vancouver, B.C.

It was presented by the daughter and granddaughter of John Booth Simpson, one of the members of the team.

In a letter to Mayor Waddell, Mr. Matthews wrote that it is a large framed photograph inscribed with the names of the fourteen Peterborough lacrosse players, winners of the Gildersleeve Cup.

The letter, in part, follows: "In 1885 all Vancouver was forest; in 1886 it was incorporated as a city; in 1887 the first train arrived from the east; in 1888 we had a fine lacrosse team, and one of the players was the late J. R. Simpson, previously of Peterborough. His family, to the third generation, still reside here.

"I am not quite certain as to what reason I have for reporting this old photograph of Peterborough men to you. It may be of no interest. It is so long ago—more than 60 years—and then again, it may be. It may have some interest to one or more of your citizens. Not to tell you that this photograph exists would be a dereliction.

CONTINUED PLAYING

"Mr. Simpson, of your Canadian championship team of 1880-83, four years, continued here his interest in lacrosse. At one time we were a great lacrosse town. You probably have heard of the "Salmonbellies," but of rerecent years, public interest has not been so intense."

The names of the Peterborough team were: J. B. Simpson, James Sheehy, Joseph Phelan, William Rudkins and his brother, R. F. (Dod) Fortye, who is mentioned elsewhere in the Examiner today; Harry LeBrun, M. H. Halpin, W. A. Sanderson, Joe Joyal, Coughlan, Kit Rutherford, McDonnell and Donoghue.

The story of the Gildersleeve team is tucked away somewhere in the Examiner as told by the late William Rudkins. Possibly, when Peterborough builds its Community Centre, the photograph of that team may find a place in one of its rooms.

Lacrosse came to Peterborough from Millbrook according to the lore of men who are gone, and were famous in their day. One of the great players of the Millbrook team was the late Sam Hughes, Minister of Defence in the Borden government of Canada during World War I.

Combines beat the tadpole Thistles early last week 10-4, with A. Wilkenson starring with eight goals and an assist. B. Beebee got one and two assists, as G. Garvey scored one and helped on another. B. Crowe led Thistles with two markers, Cournyea and Davis having one apiece. The same night saw Petes win an 18-5 peewee fray over Tigers. L. Hunt stood out with nine goals and two assists, B. Burns got four markers, E. Bell a goal and an assist, P. Clancy two goals, F. Feeley two assists, R. Grant a tally, R. Knox a goal, and Warner an assist. For Tigers, Heffernan scored three, Quinlan having a goal and an assist, with Cannon getting the other counter.

Tuesday saw Yorks and Crescents tie 8-all in tadpole play. Two goals each for Yorks went to Ronco, Heard, B. Young and Aherne, as Ronco and B. Young each had an assist. J. Davis sparked Crescents with five and one, B. DeNoble notching two and I. Barrie one. In peewee play, Athletics took Mounties 7-4 as D. Rendall, J. Parry and A. Danahy got two each and E. Daynes a goal and two assists. Parry aided on two, and Danahy one. R. Anthony led the losers with two, G. DeNoble and Cannon counting one apiece.

ALL INVITED

Wednesday is for instructions and rules for tadpoles and peewees, with all requested to attend. Thursday's tadpole tilt went to Crescents over Thistles as J. Davis shone with seven goals, R. Barber getting one, and an assist each going to I. Barrie and G. Garvey. Tiger peewees edged A's 6-5, Heffernan tallying three and aiding on one, Collins scoring two and Donaldson getting one, an assist apiece going to Gatfield and Cannon. Parry and R. Outram had two each for A's, the latter helping on a pair, and A. Danahy got one.

Combines took a 3-2 tadpole win Friday over Yorks, G. Williamson, A. Wilkenson and Cavanagh scoring, while Ahearne and I. Barrie counted for Yorks. In peewee, Petes beat Mounties 10-6. The winners' goals were by B. Burns 4, L. Hunt 2, and singles to Knox, P. Clancy, McAuliffe and Richardson. Bradley got an assist. For Mounties, Anthony had five and Quinlan one, Parks assisting on two, as single assists went to Beavis, Drummond, Davies and Quinlan.

VICTORY FOR LONGDEN

Little Request, with jockey Johnny Longden aboard winning his fourth race of the day, won the $25,000 Starlet Stakes yesterday and the mythical two-year-old championship of the Hollywood Park meeting.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Heavyweight Rex Layne, only man who has fought both Rocky Marciano and Harry Matthews, said yesterday that "Matthews will counterpunch Marciano silly" when the two meet July 28 in New York.

"Matthews is sure to beat him," Rex said at his training camp at Ogden, Utah. "He's too fast and too clever for Rocky."

Layne, training for his 10-round fight here against former heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles Aug. 8, said Matthews "is the hardest man to hit I've ever fought."

Matthews won a 10-round decision over Layne in Portland, Ore., last May 19 and Marciano kayoed him in six rounds in New York last year.

KNETCHEL, MAGEE WIN

Jerry Knechtel, Ontario junior champion of Kitchener Westmount and Jerry Magee of Toronto Lambton, yesterday won the Ontario Golf Association's junior best ball championship at Toronto Summit, each with 18-hole totals of 66.

Henry Szonert and William Lynch, both of Toronto Weston, realized best net scores with a 15 handicap cutting their gross scores of 74 each to 59.

SIGNAL SCARES REFS

The time keeper's signal to be used in the Olympic basketball games at Helsinki is like nothing ever seen in North American gymnasiums.

A huge gong shaped like an ancient warrior's shield, it stands beside the time-keeper, who whacks the bejabbers out of it with a little wooden hammer whenever necessary.

The resulting sound is very effective. Some referees have been seen to drop their whistles in alarm when it went off.

WATERFIELD SIGNS

Quarterback Bob Waterfield yesterday signed a two-year contract with Los Angeles rams at a salary that makes him one of the highest paid players in the National Football League.

Terms of the contract were not disclosed but reliable sources said Waterfield will get a nice boost over the $16,500 he received last season when he led the Rams to the U.S. pro football championship.

ROBINSON, COX FINED

Jackie Robinson and Billy Cox of Brooklyn Dodgers have been fined for demonstrations in Thursday night's game at Cincinnati. Robinson was fined $50 and Cox $25. They were advised of the fines by telegrams from National League President Warren Giles.

Robinson was ejected from the game after he protested a play in which Eddie Pellagrini was called safe while stealing second base.

Cox replaced Robinson at second and a short time later he began arguing about the same play. He was also ejected.

Palmer Plays Sensational Game Almost Certain To Capture Open

By FRASER MACDOUGALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—Johnny Palmer, a precise golfer who studies each shot with calm determination, today has an almost certain grip on the Canadian Open golf championship.

Only a collapse as sensational as his astounding 54-hole score of 197—19 strokes under par—could remove the $3,000 first prize money from the grasp of the 34-year-old tournament player from Badin, N.C.

He had an eight-stroke lead on nearest opponent—Doug Ford of Harrison, N.Y.—who carried a 205 into today's fourth and final round to settle distribution of the $15,000 total prize money in the 72-hole competition.

THREE TIE AT 206

Within striking distance—if they get hot and Palmer's game cools out—stood three players at 206: Skee Riegel of Tulsa, Okla., Dick Mayer of St. Petersburgh, Fla., and Dutch Harrison of Ardmore, Okla., the champion in 1949.

Defending champion Jim Ferrier, 14 strokes off the pace with a three-under-par 211, was virtually out of the running for his third straight Canadian title. He won two years ago at Montreal with a 72-hole score of 271. Last year he won at Toronto with 273. Palmer, was 14th last year with 285.

Two Canadians joined one U.S. player in a three-way tie for ninth place with scores of 209—Stan Leonard, of Vancouver, last year's low Canadian, and Henry Martell, former Canadian amateur champion from Edmonton.

The gallery of some 5,000 centred most of its attention on Palmer yesterday—and he didn't disappoint them. He went around the St. Charles Golf and Country Club course in 66—six strokes off par—after earlier rounds of 66 and 65 for the hottest three-day consecutive scoring pace veteran observers can recall in the Open's 43 years.

He was within striking distance of shattering the Open's scoring record—a 269 by Bobby Locke of South Africa shot over the par-71 Toronto Scarboro course in 1947. Palmer needed a 71 today over the par-72 St. Charles course to equal the Locke score, a 70 to beat it.

3RD PAR-BREAKING ROUND

One of the late starters in the field of 100 who survived from the starting list of 142, Palmer started his third par-breaking round on the first hole with a birdie. He got another before he wound up the first nine and shaved another four strokes off par on the home stretch.

He was somewhat shorter off the tee than many of his rival U.S. pros. But he compensated for that by crisp iron play, laying the ball near the pin with deadly consistency.

Jim Turnesa, U.S. P.G.A. champion who took a 71 yesterday for 210, may have called the shot. He said Thursday the winning score would likely be a record-breaker, that the winner would have astonishing third and fourth-round scores—and Palmer was the likely man.

In any average year, Ford's 205 would be plenty for a third-day lead. Ford shot a 67 yesterday to go alongside two rounds of 69. Riegel hada 71 with 66-69, Mayer 70 with a 67-69 and Harrison 70 with 69-67.

Three players stood at 208: Al Zimmerman, Portland, Ore., Freddy Haas, New Orleans, Winner of the Canadian amateur in 1936 at the St. Charles course; and Roberto de Vinzoof Buenos Aires, who holds more national Open championships than any other golfer—Argentina, Mexico, Belgium, and Italy. Smiley Quick, short, affable Pasadena, Calif., entry, was at 209 with Leonard and Martell.

LEAD CANADIANS

Leonard and Martell stirred Canadian hopes by hot first-day rounds. Leonard got a 66 to tie for the first-round lead but on Thursday he went to 75, three over par, and came back to a 68 yesterday—helped along by three long putts for birdies on the back nine. Martell started with 67, followed with a par 72 and had a 70 yesterday.

The low 60 players—with scores of 221 or lower—went into the final round today. Thirteen were Canadians. One was an amateur, Allan Boes of Winnipeg. The only other amateur in the final field was Jack Penrose of Miami Beach, Fla. Penrose qualified with 219.

The leading amateur gets a gold medal. The 35 low pros split $15,000—ranging from $3,000 for first to $100 for 35th, with the low Canadian collecting an additional $200 in cash.

The first three players tee off today at 11 a.m. EDT. The last group—Palmer, Riegel and Harrison—at 3 p.m. The finish was expected some four hours later.

2 Canadian Swimmers Make Hit At Olympics

HELSINKI (CP) — Newspaper men and photographers in an informal poll have tabbed a brown-eyed, copper-haired American swimmer as the queen of the 1952 Olympic Games but two Canadian girls were high in the ranking for the No. 1 photographers' delight.

The queen is Deliana Meulenkamp of San Francisco. The Canadians are Irene Strong, bright-eyed swimmer from Vancouver, and Shirley Eckel, petite blonde hurdler from Toronto.

It's a toss-up for second place between the Canadians and Carlotta Rios, dark-haired Mexican platform diver who does justice to a bathing suit.

Knocks Out Escoe

EDMONTON (CP)—Earl Walls of Windsor, Ont., Canadian heavyweight boxing champion, last night made his first successful title defence by knocking out Vern Escoe of Toronto, after 42 seconds of the fifth round of a scheduled 12-round bout.

Montreal Whips Ottawa 5-2 Behind Podres

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Young Johnny Podres may be a big help to the International League-leading Montreal Royals in the approaching stretch run.

The 19-year-old, six-foot, 170-pound lefthander pitched his first complete winning game last night as the Royals whipped Ottawa Athletics 5-2 and increased their first-place margin to 2½ games.

Baltimore blanked Springfield 4-0 in the circuit's only other contest. The Buffalo-Toronto doubleheader was rained out, and Rochester-Syracuse was called off due to wet grounds.

Podres, who had hurled only one complete game up until last night, scattered nine hits and did not walk a man, while fanning five. It was his best performance of the season.

Walt Moryn paced the Montreal attack with two hits, including his 11th homer, and drove in three runs. Royals picked up 10 safeties, with Ed Burtschy and loser Joe Murray the victims.

CRACK LOSING STREAK

Baltimore's Orioles cracked a five-game losing streak as Dick Starr, who went 7 2-3 innings before succumbing to the heat, and Jocko Thompson combined to whip sliding Springfield.

The winners put over three runs in the seventh on Herm Besse when Al Lakeman homered to break the scoring ice and Roy Weatherly doubled home another pair of tallies. Buddy Kerr's triple and a long fly by Lakeman added th final run in the eighth.

Remember When—

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hank Cieman, lanky Toronto walker, cracked George Goulding's 1910 Canadian mark for the two miles at Toronto 21 years ago today. Cieman covered the distance in the Ontario track championships in 13:54:4, compared with Goulding's 14:07:5.

Bauer's Three-Run Homer Helps Yanks Trip Chicago

By JACK HAND, Associated Press Sports Writer

Casey Stengel got the horse laugh with his spring training boast: "I've got the best outfield in the league." Cleveland rushed up to lodge an objection, pointing to its Dale Mitchell-Larry Doby-Harry Simpson trio. Yankee fans wondered if Stengel had forgotten Joe DiMaggio had retired. Even Stengel weakened and traded two of his outfield crop—Jackie Jensen and Archie Wilson—with Pitcher Spec Shea to Washington to get outfield help from Irv Noren.

But the averages show Case was very close to the truth with his claim about the class of his New York Yankee outfield.

Gene Woodling, .335, is second in the American League. Mickey Mantle, .313 is a surging fifth. Hank Bauer, .302 is No. 10 in the league's top 10 hitters. Jensen, the big one that got away, is seventh at .309.

HELPS GET WIN

Bauer's three-run homer and Woodling's two-run blast gave the Yanks enough power for a 6-3 win over Chicago yesterday, although Chuck Stobbs and Howie Judson held the champs to six hits. Tom Gorman, called up from Kansas City early this week, won his second game with relief help from Johnny Sain.

Boston blasted Cleveland's Lou Brissie, making his first start in 13 months, for a 9-2 decision that kept the Red Sox 4½ games behind the Yanks.

Despite Marty Marion's desperate use of 22 players, one short of the league record, his St. Louis Browns lost to Washington, 6-5, on a 15-hit attack that included three singles by Jensen.

SNAPS LOSING STREAK

Art Houtteman snapped a nine-game losing streak as Detroit edged Philadelphia 2-1, with the help of Walt Dropo's fourth inning home run.

Brooklyn continued to belt the National's weaklings, beating Pittsburgh 6-2, for the 11th straight time. The Pirates made three errors and gave the Dodgers another run on a balk by Bob Friend, suffering his 14th loss.

The win boosted the Dodgers' lead over the New York Giants, who were rained out in Chicago after holding a 3-0 lead at the end of three innings. The Brooks' margin now is 6½ games.

Billy Johnson's first 1952 homer was a bases-loaded smash off Max Surkont in St. Louis' 7-2 romp over Boston Braves.

Philadelphia Phillies blew a four-run lead and came back with three in the ninth to top Cincinnati, 7-5.

Reporter Travels 1,000 Miles For Story

(Editor's Note: Bill Boss, Canadian Press war correspondent in Kores, has been in the theatre far longer than any Canadian newspaperman and probably longer than any Canadian soldier. The bearded reporter, who covered the Canadian troops in Italy and on the Western front, prides himself on his accuracy and his authentic detail. Last April his story of "the man the Chinese couldn't kill" was widely played in Canada—and was precise in detail—but he had the man's name wrong. To get this single story exactly right, Boss travelled more than 1,000 miles between assignments with the Canadian Navy, at the Korean front, at Koje Island — finally finding the right man in a convalescent depot in Japan. Here is Boss' story, an evidence of the front-line reporter's determination to tell the story and tell it right.)

By BILL BOSS

KURE, Japan (CP)—The man the Chinese couldn't kill is about ready to get his own back.

L.Cpl. Gordon Manktelow of Ajax, Ont., has about finished convalescent training here and expects to return to his unit, the 1st Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, within a few days.

Last March 26 Manktelow played dead while Chinese Communist soldiers pummelled him, stabbed him with bayonets, set off a hand grenade beside him and outlined his body with burp-gun bursts.

His presence of mind was the talk of the battalion. But my story by error gave the credit to another soldier, Cpl. Ken McOrmond of Sudbury.

"MIRACLE" STORY

Manktelow, a 20-year-old corporal just 16 months in the army, has a story more harrowing than the version first reported.

"We were a six-man outpost," he said at No. 6 convalescent training depot here. When the position was mortared, our corporal asked permission to withdraw."

The withdrawal was under way when Manktelow remembered a carbine with the latest infra-red sight had been left. He returned to the position, blew up the carbine with a grenade and used a few more grenades against Chinese he heard on the way back.

By then there were Communists ahead as well as behind him and he went to ground. One of seven Chinese running uphill tripped over him.

"They tried to 'wake me up,' slapped my face after taking my rifle, and then dropped me again.

"I was lying face down, arms outstretched. They started to drag me. Then a fellow started bayonetting me. Each time he hit I was able to sag. That's what saved me—that and my parka.

"There were four superficial wounds—two on the right arm, one in my seat and one in the muscle of my left leg.

"The man with the bayonet hit me on the side of the head with the butt of his rifle. Then the two holding me threw me down. I had a No. 36 grenade in my hand and they found it.

GRENADE "BIG LAUGH"

"They must have pulled the pin, then put the grenade sideways on the ground beside me. They walked away, waiting for the grenade to go off. The base plug went into my thigh, but the fragments went off in other directions. They thought it was a big laugh.

"They kicked me a couple of times, poked me, then walked away. I had been turned over and now was lying face up.

"Two men fired burp-gun bursts at me. One burst grazed my head, knocked my cap away and threw dirt on my face. The other seemed to follow the outline of my body. I could feel the heat of the bullets in the ground, and again they threw dirt all over me."

Those Chinese left, but Manktelow heard others and decided he'd better stay where he was. He was in pain and weak from loss of blood. Luckily his uniform helped the blood congeal over some of his wounds.

"I'D HAD ENOUGH"

"One of the first group came back. He started to undo my parka, but just as he reached my neck somebody called and he left. I don't know what he was going to do. I don't think I could have taken much more—I'd had enough.

"After he left I wasn't bothered any more."

The corporal lay there until R.C.R. mortar fire began to fall. He got his bearings from spotlights and crawled off a path into an R.C.R. minefield.

"I don't know whether I flaked out or what happened, but next I remember it was fairly light. Then I got on the path again. I heard noises and thought it might be more Chinese.

"It turned out to be a patrol (led by Lieut. Russ Gardiner of Arnprior and Kingston, Ont.) to see if there were any survivors, and to bring in the dead and wounded.

COULDN'T BELIEVE SAFE

"They came over a crest. One man aimed his Sten gun at me. I said 'Don't shoot.' Then I started to cry. I couldn't believe I was safe again."

He emerged from the ether at a hospital near Seoul to find something taped to his shoulder—the base-plate of the grenade. Someone stole it from him later at the Commonwealth hospital here.

Manktelow's recovery has been complete, and a skin graft is healing over the base-plate scar.

"GOD LOOKING AFTER ME"

"God sure was looking after me that night. If I'd been lying on the ground that bayonet would have got me. . .the grenade on its side. . .the burp gun. . .the minefield. It was more than pure luck, I'm telling you. It was uncanny.

"I get scared even now just thinking about some of the things that could have happened—and about some of the things that did."

How does he feel about going back?

"I'm looking forward to it—in a way. My buddies are there. I'm interested to see how I'll react to action again. But I know that when it comes I'll be too busy to worry."

How did the error in names occur in my first story?

I first got the wrong name at Brigade headquarters and my notes list McOrmond's name with a page of detail on what actually happened to Manktelow. I went to the R.C.R. to talk to McOrmond—but he had left for Canada on rotation. His company commander confirmed my notes on "the man the Chinese couldn't kill," but didn't realize I had the wrong name.

And I never did get the story of another patrol exploit, a week before Manktelow's experience, that later won McOrmond the Military Medal.

"GOD WATCHED ME"—L. Cpl. Gordon Manktelow, 20, of Ajax, the man the Chinese couldn't kill, is about ready to get his own back. Recovering from wounds suffered last March 26 when Chinese communist soldiers beat him, stabbed him with bayonets, set off a hand grenade beside him and outlined his body with burp-gun bursts, Manktelow expects to return soon to his unit, the 1st Battalion Royal Canadian Regiment, in Korea. The young corporal said of that terror-filled incident, "God sure was looking after me that night."

Says Red Pilots Poor Fliers

MONTREAL (CP)—FO. Bruce Fleming of the R.C.A.F. said in an interview yesterday the Russian-built MIG-15 fighter is one of the best planes in the world but "thank heavens the pilots flying them are stupid."

FO. Fleming, who probably destroyed one Communist jet and damaged two others over Korea while on exchange duty with the United States Air Force, left here yesterday by air on transfer to Chatham, N.B., as an instructor. He was in Korea three months.

Communist pilots, he said, failed to take full advantage of the speed and manoeuverability of the MIGs.

He said it generally was believed that European pilots, probably Russian, used Korea as a training ground, but no one knew "for certain."

Plan Inquest In Indian's Death

SARNIA (CP)—An inquest will be held July 30 into the death Tuesday of Wallace Washington, a 49-year-old Indian from Sarnia reserve.

Washington was taken to hospital June 30 for treatment of injuries believed suffered when attacked by two men while driving home from Port Huron.

On July 3 he returned to hospital for a check up after complaining of headaches and dizziness. Later that day a friend found him unconscious in his home and he was taken to hospital where he died after undefgoing surgery.

Inspector Harold Graham of the Provincial Police, who came here from London to conduct an investigation, said he has interviewed one of the two men Washington named as his assailants, but had not yet located the second.

Defence Orders Total 13 Million

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence orders totalling $13,062,667, ranging from food to ammunition and aviation gasoline, were let by the Defence Production Department during the last half of June to keep Canada's defence effort rolling.

Largest order, one for petroleum products and totalling $2,149,494, went to Imperial Oil, Ltd., Ottawa.

Other large orders included: Ammunition, Canadian Arsenals, Ltd., $970,000; coal, B. W Powers and Son, Trenton, Ont., $197,000; parts for ships, Russel-Hipwell Engines, Ltd., Owen Sound, Ont., $195,000; coal, Valley Camp Coal Co. of Canada, Ltd., $192,000.

Non-Voting Delegation Sent To Red Cross Parley

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department, bracing for a new Communist propaganda drive, announced today that the United States will send only a non-voting observer delegation to the international conference of the Red Cross opening next week at Toronto.

The aim is to keep the U.S. government as such out of a direct clash with the Reds over charges they are expected to bring up.

Charles B. Marshall, a member of the State Department's policy planning staff, was named to head the government group. The American Red Cross delegation, which will have voting power, is headed by James T. Nicholson, executive vice-president.

Communist delegations are considered certain to drag in such matters as charges of germ and gas warfare in Korea, and attempts to outlaw the atomic bomb. All the Soviet bloc countries have sent word they will be represented by voting delegations from both their governments and their national Red Cross societies.

The State Department, officials said, was persuaded by Switzerland, Britain and other countries not to send an official American delegation because this might provoke a head-on east-west collision threatening the future of the whole international Red Cross humanitarian movement. A number of other western governments likewise will send only observers.

Find Power Of Christianity In Study Of Word Of God

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

The rapid and remarkable growth of early Christianity is summed up in the brief, concentrated statement in Acts 19:20, "Mightily grew the word of the Lord, and prevailed."

There is the secret of the motive power of early Christianity, and for that matter of Christianity ever since, wherever and whenever it has displayed phenomenal effectiveness and growth.

These early Christians were responsive to the word of God. A Psalmist, many years later, had written, "Thy word have I hid in mine heart, that I might not sin against Thee." For these devout Christians, deeply responsive to their Scriptures, the word of God had become incarnated in the word of a living Christ, with whom they had walked and talked, and with whom they had sat on a mountain slope, as He revealed the good news of the Gospel and the mysteries of the Kingdom of God.

The word of the Lord was for them a word of enlightenment. In Paul's conversion "there fell from his eyes as it had been scales," and a typical experience of those who came in contact with Jesus, and listened responsively to His words, was, "We never saw it on this fashion" (Mark 2:12). It was a word of enlightenment.

The word of the Lord was for them a word of life—a word of new life. Paul described the experience in crisp words of fact, "If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature; old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new" (II Corinthians 5:17). And the effect of that expression "in Christ," was as much as to say in whatever place one lived. Christ was their environment, their atmosphere, the place where they lived.

Needless to say, the word of the Lord was for these Christians a word of love. The warp and woof of all that Jesus taught, manifasted and revealed was in that word of love. The new commandment that He gave to His disciples was a commandment of love.

But the word of the Lord being a word of enlightenment, of life, of love, was also a word of command; and it was in obedience to that command that the disciples went forth to make the Gospel effective in words and deeds, to prevail (what a fine word that is) over the licentiousness of ancient cities, over ignorance and paganism, and over the forces of persecution that sought to destroy them their movement and their message.

It was faith in their Master reinforced by the power of His resurrection. But that faith was more than belief, or intellectual assent. It was acceptance of a new life, a new way, a new world of truth and right, and love—a kingdom different from the kingdoms of the world, with different standards, principles and values. Back of faith was the vision, and based upon faith was action.

Is it any wonder that the word of the Lord grew and prevailed? Has it not always been so when men and women have taken their Master seriously, and have really lived the Christian life that they have professed? Vital Christianity is the world's supreme need. But, alas, much of our professed Christianity is only conventional and formal, untouched by the true spirit of Christ.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

ELECTED D.D.G.M.

W. J. Anderson has been elected District Deputy Grand Master of the Prince Edward District at the annual meeting of the Grand Lodge held in Toronto.

FINDS 1854 COIN

Ninety-eight years idle in the ground instead of shining in use, the U.S. 25-cent piece found by William Brown, R.R. No. 7, dated 1854 was in perfect condition. It was issued prior to Lincoln's birthday. Mr. Brown found the coin while digging in his garden.

COMPLAINTS

Numerous complaints have been telephoned to the Department of Health recently that children with mumps are being allowed to mix with other children. Dr. R. A. Kelly, medical officer of health, said today that health rules state that the period of isolation for mumps is 16 days.

FLOWERS AT De LAVAL

The window flower boxes at De Laval add both grace and color to the green of the lawn and ivy background on the wall of one of the manufacturing buildings. It is an added attraction in the scheme of beautification of the grounds in contrast with the shabby weedy corner at Romaine and Park Streets.

EXPECT BIG CROP

Of the western wheat crop 85 per cent. is headed out. Scattered showers and warm weather this week have greatly improved growing conditions on the prairies. C.N.R. report says the grain in central Saskatchewan looks best in years. "Some more rain, and a bumper crop can be expected."

CARS SIDESWIPE

No one was injured but two vehicles were damaged when they sideswiped on Highway No. 7 about a half mile west of Havelock on Friday evening. The two vehicles, driven by 22-year-old Carl E. Petherick of Campbellford, travelling east and Hartley Simpson of Birdsall, age 51, travelling west, skidded on a curve and met in the centre of the highway. The sides of both autos were damaged slightly. Provincial Constable Archie Eady of Campbellford investigated.

RICE LAKE'S SERPENT MOUNDS village campsites are being investigated by archaeologists of the Royal Ontario Museum. Upper Right map of north shore lake section, two miles south of Keene, show detailed landmarks (heavy lines) and uncovered camp sites (broken lines). A general view of the hidden diggings is shown in the photo below the map. The museum's Chief Cataloguer J. R. Harper, M.A. is shown (in upper left photo), field pad in hand, with Kenneth Chamberlain at the surveying transit. Mary Macpherson and Mrs. Harper (in the left centre photo) measure a 150-year deposit of clam shell campfire trash left by the Mound Builders 2,000 years ago. Michael Seary (in lower left photo) stands beside the "head" of the Serpent burial mound 50 feet above the village campsite and 90 feet from lake level.

Two Men Seriously Hurt In Two Accidents At Cavan And Highway 7

Peterborough Man Found Lying Unconscious In Car Two Miles East of City
Lansing Truck Goes Off Highway, Snaps Pole

Two men were seriously injured in two district accidents during the night when their cars left the highway and ended up in the ditch. Frank Gooley, 20, 35 Stewart St., was found lying unconscious in a car which had left Highway 7 and ploughed into a culvert two miles east of Peterborough at 5 a.m. today. His injuries are described as facial cuts and a fractured jaw. There is a possibility he may also have a fractured skull.

At 10 a.m. today he was showing signs of regaining consciousness at Civic Hospital but his condition is said to be very serious.

About 6:30 Friday night, Harold Wiggins, 42, 77 Avondale Ave., Lansing, received serious back injuries when his truck went off the road on Highway 7A a half mile west of Cavan and snapped off a telephone pole.

He was attended by Dr. J. W. Wright of Millbrook at the scene and taken by ambulance to Civic Hospital where his condition is described as satisfactory today.

SKIDDED ON BUMPS

Wiggins was driving east toward Peterborough through heavy rain, and it is believed his truck skidded when it struck a bumpy section of the highway and went out of control on the wet pavement. Wiggins' truck is said to be a complete wreck.

O.P.P. Constables John Cawood and Jack Rickard were on patrol on the highway when they spotted the car in which they found Frank Gooley.

Tire marks leading to the car showed it left the highway about 400 feet east of where it came to rest. After leaving the highway, the car which was travelling west, sideswiped a hydro pole, struck a 200-pound rock and knocked it a few feet, struck the east end of a culvert on a sideroad, jumped the one side, crossed the sideroad and ended up with its nose down in the ditch on the other side.

Constables Cawood and Rickard believe the accident happened only about a minute before they came along and found Gooley in the front of the car, wedged between the seat and the floor.

An estimated $500 damage resulted to the car.

Five-Cent Cone Faint Hope For Youngsters

There's still some hope that the five-cent ice cream cone dreamed of by the kiddies will once again become a reality.

This flickering hope was given some encouragement with the announcement Thursday of new standards that permit the lowering of the butterfat content of ice cream. Previously the butterfat content had to be 11 per cent for fruit ice cream and 13 per cent for plain; now the minimum is down to 10 per cent.

No sooner was this cheering possibility discussed than Walter Fetterly, secretary of the Ice Cream Association, poured cold water on it.

"The saving will be too negligible to pass on."

J. E. Weir, manager of Silverwood Dairies, is of the same opinion.

"Most certainly the reduction in cost will not be sufficient to justify the five-cent cone again," he said.

NEED SUBSTITUTE

Mr. Weir said that first of all the manufacturers aren't necessarily going to manufacture to minimum standards and thus reduce the quality of their ice cream. And besides, some other ingredient must be found to maintain the weight of food solids in the ice cream. This substitute will cost money so there won't be as big a saving as would appear at first glance.

He added that more ice cream is now being consumed in the new type of 10-cent cup than in six-cent cones.

On the other hand Maurice Tolton of Mohan-Hunter Dairy thinks there will be a reduction soon.

"The manufacturers of ice cream have been thinking about it for some time," said Mr. Tolton. "That was the purpose of the National Dairy Council in recommending these changes in ice cream standards."

Mr. Tolton doesn't like the inconvenience of having to fumble for the extra change involved in a six-cent rather than a five-cent transaction. The customer feels the same way.

10-CENT CONE

Percy Harrison, who makes his own ice cream in his Water St. restaurant, said he will continue to sell his cones for a nickle. The change in regulations makes little difference to him.

He doubted that confectioners could afford to revert to the five-cent price.

"What I suggest is that they serve twice as much ice cream and sell a 10-cent cone. In that way they have eliminated the cost of an extra cone and there is the saving of time."

Babe Fontaine, who has a lunch counter on Water St., agrees with Mr. Harrison.

"With this six-cent cone you don't know where you're at. The amount of ice cream is so small that you feel ashamed and stick on some more. What we need is a 10-cent ice cream cone."

The pessimists are saying that the five-cent cone is just another will-o'-the-wisp. Like the old-fashioned five-cent candy bar.

C.G.E. May Build Plant In Guelph

GUELPH (CP)—The Canadian General Electric is considering building a plant here which will employ 1,000 men and women from this area, officials of the company said yesterday.

They said the company had recently taken a 60-day option on two pieces of land at the city's outskirts. The land is being examined for possible building.

The plant would not be completed until the end of 1953.

Library Circulation Shows June Increase

The circulation records at the Peterborough Public Library in June show an increase of 1,630 as compared with the same month in 1951.

The total circulation for June this year was 13,802. The adult department had a circulation of 8,826, and the boys' and girls' department 4,976.

This brings the increase of the first six months of this year over the same period in 1951 to 17,874.

The total circulation this year to June 30 was 106,946 as compared to 89,072 during the same period in 1951.

The record circulation for June was 1,429.

Tennis Courts Suggested As City Project

A drive for additional tennis courts in the city has been started by a new resident of the city.

J. R. Foster, who moved from Toronto to Peterborough about six months ago, has paid visits to various people connected with civic recreation during the past few weeks. The idea behind these visits was to stimulate interest in a project of city tennis courts.

This week Mr. Foster attended a Recreation Commission meeting and outlined the plans followed by other municipalities in establishing and operating municipal courts.

TWO IN CITY

At present there are only two court sites in the city, the Quaker Oats courts and the ones at the Kawartha Club. Mr. Foster believes that this is not adequate for a city the size of Peterborough, and that a set of municipal courts would fill a gap in recreation facilities.

His suggestion for these municipal courts follow the procedure in other centres along the lakeshore. The municipality pays for the initial cost of building the courts and the operating costs are paid for by fees for playing. These fees are usually about $4.00 a season.

Mr. Foster lists two benefits that would result in the city if municipal courts were built. First more people would be given an opportunity to play; second, there would be a great opportunity of teaching youngsters the game.

The Recreation Commission is interested in these suggestions, but is waiting to see if there is enough interest in the city to warrant taking action.

Workers Win $823 For Suggestions

Just in time for the holidays, the C.G.E. suggestion committee paid off $823 in suggestion awards this week. Largest slice went to Frank Cunningham, control department, who received $135 for four suggestions.

To Mel Mackey of induction motors went a cheque for $95, and $59 was awarded to Don McIlwain, armature. Cheques for $57 and $54 were given to Joe Grierson, structural steel, and Joe Allen, tool room.

John Black, punch press, was paid $38, and the only woman represented in the July awards, Anne Roy, switchgear, was given $35. Another $33 award went to Chester Grant, armature.

Forty-six other awards, ranging from $2 to $25 were paid to employees.

Serpent Mounds Tell History

By NICK NICKELS

A young Indian guide at a pop stand in Hiawatha was perturbed to learn that white men were "digging" at the Serpent Burial Mounds. He knew it to be hallowed ground but he needn't have been upset. The diggers, a group from the Royal Ontario Museum, had permission to investigate old camp sites from the Hiawatha Band Council to whom the 100-acre block was ceded. The director of the Indian Affairs Branch of the Department of Citizenship and Immigration, D. M. McKay, also gave his blessing to the project. Since July 7 the archaeological group of seven experts under the leadership of Chief (museum) Cataloger J. Russell Harper, M.A., have been unfolding Canadian history with surveying transits, trowels, shovels and hard work.

They are not concerned with Iroquoian people—a tribal group who settled the Rice Lake country comparatively lately — nor with the Ontario Transitional people—1300 A.D.—but the Mound Builders who lived in a string of five native villages for 150 years while Caesar was conquering Britain.

The name "Mound Builder" is a makeshift one and in the near future they will be given an official group name. They were not the earliest Canadians, however. The Laurentian group are known to be from 3,000 to 5,000 years old and White Quartz people of Manitoulin Island, the oldest Ontario settlers of all, 7,000 years old.

The museum group are busy reconstructing the village camp sites by digging into centuries of campfire ash and refuse middens and in turning over the gridded test pits carefully have found sherds of pottery, bone implements, skeleton bones of birds, animals and fish and some amulets. From these specimens they determine how the Mound Builders lived and from bits of radioactive charcoal determine the age of the group with sensitive geiger counters.

The Serpent Mounds on the brow of the hill consist of an earthen snake totem 186 feet long surrounded by six mounds, all of them built by these ancient people as burial grounds. Their chief men are buried in limestone slab vaults or cremated on the ground level of each mound and lesser tribesmen above them in crouched or lying positions.

Fifty feet below the mounds on a natural earthen bench was a campsite that stretched one-eighth of a mile in a line of skin tent bottoms confronted by refuse heaps of clam shells a foot deep that took 150 years to accumulate. A few hundred yards west a shorter campfire site disclosed many deer skeletons which suggested that the Indians butchered and cooked the carcasses near water level to minimize lugging the loads to the main village site. The main village is some 40 feet above the lake which, in their day, was probably a dry shoreline; many pottery specimens have been dredged by the experts from the lake bottom with boats.

The group's main work at the Serpent Mound village site has been accomplished. They move to nearby Sugar Island at the mouth of the Indian River to the three Princess Mounds where there is also a sizeable village site. Others they will investigate if time permits, are sites and mounds at Cameron's Point (head of the Trent River), a buried village a mile east of Hastings on the river, and two more burial mounds near the Hiawatha Indian Reservation.

In all, Mr. Harper estimates, some 8,000 Mound Builders lived in the string of five villages for at least 150 years. Rice Lake was a land of plenty, the people were therefore peaceful and politically strong in Indian group councils.

The museum party are alarmed at the awkward digging attempts of amateurs who in trying to find Indian relics despoil the history of centuries by displacing their original sites.

"The Serpent Mounds are the best preserved and largest in Canada," said Mr. Harper. "They should be preserved as a national park."

The working group includes Mary Macpherson, Paul Sweetman, Michael Seary, Francis Sparshott, Kenneth Chamberlain, and Mr. and Mrs. Harper, all of Toronto.

Approximately 1,500 C.P.R. employees arrived in Peterborough by two special trains today for the C.P.R. Recreation Club picnic held in Nicholl's Oval in the afternoon. A full program of sports and races was scheduled.

Windstorm Rips Through Area Along Rice Lake

A heavy windstorm did damage along the Peterborough county shore of Rice Lake Friday night. At least one cottage was damaged when a tree fell across it, and telephone lines to Bewdley may have been downed in the storm.

At George Robertson's summer resort in Hiawatha, an elm tree two feet in diameter fell across a cottage in which two New York couples were staying. They were unhurt, but extensive damage was done to the cottage.

Mr. Robertson described the wind as "a regular little tornado" and said that it lifted one small outbuilding 50 feet over a woodpile, and flattened two others.

Rain was light, he said, but the wind was one of the strongest he has experienced.

Rural hydro manager Robert H. Aspinall had had no reports of damage to hydro lines that were in the path of the storm. It could not be learned whether any telephone lines were downed, but it was impossible to reach Bewdley as late as 10 a.m.

The city escaped any heavy winds Friday night, but experienced a welcome rainstorm that lasted more than four hours. North of the city as far as Apsley, rain was fairly heavy and winds were strong, but no damage is reported.

Colorful Costumes Expected At Int. Red Cross

TORONTO—A riot of color and picturesque dress such as seldom has been seen in conservative Toronto is expected next week during the International Red Cross Conference. Women are coming from all parts of the world, either as delegates or as wives of delegates, like the Princess of Siam who is coming along with her husband. Most of these women will be in native costume, especially those from Oriental countries.

Among those expected are Carmen Angolotti, Duchess of Victoria, hospital president of the Spanish Red Cross who is holder of a great many decorations and in return for her work has had two statues dedicated to her. Mme. Paul Lippens, member of the Belgian Red Cross national executive, a nursing volunteer during the First World War who has many decorations and war medals; Amelie Balmaceda Laczcno of the Chile Red Cross, a social worker, volunteer nurse and vice-president of the central council of Red Cross in her country and a professor of social service.

From Australia comes Lady Hilde Margaret Owen, senior commandant of the Red Cross there; Brita Wibborn is assistant secretary-general of Swedish Red Cross and holds the Finnish and Polish Red Cross medals of merit; Maria Elviro Hoder is president of the Ecuadorian Red Cross and has an interesting job as auxiliary in military sanitation service and belongs to a great many community organizations; Lucie Ordier, an outstanding nurse, is coming from the International Committee of Red Cross; Geneva; Maria Teresa Mariatequi y Artega, Duchess of Hernani, is holder of the Cross of the Sovereign Order of Malta. She is a monarchist. The Countess of Limerick, whom many Canadians will remember from war years as president of British Red Cross, will also be a delegate.

Two women have arrived from Russia in a delegation of six and others are expected from the Iron Curtain countries.

Italian Designer Now In U.S. Uses "Femininity"

The last war is responsible for the Italian flair for designing coming into international prominence. With the Italian frontiers closed, aristocratic women of Rome and other cities turned to talents in their own country and discovered the designing was equal to Paris and other centres of fashion.

Among their discoveries was Micol Fontana who has come to this continent to design clothes for American women. In her first collection, exclisively for the average U.S. woman, she has followed the lead given by her private clientele in Rome—"Please make me clothes that are definitely feminine and pretty."

Fontana puts emphasis on intriguing necklines, soft moulding of natural contours and much delicate handwork and embroidery. The silhouette is invariably draped whether reed slim or bouffant, with the asymmetric curve a favored motif.

Colorings drawn from the Italian landscape run the gamut of shades in green, night-sky navy, Parma violet and a new taupe-brown, usually contrasted with como blue. There is also much use of black and white.

Signora Fontana was born in Parma in 1913 of a family boasting of 200 years of needleworkers and designers in its past. She began her designing career at the age of 14 when she refused to remain in school, and became a full-fledged couturiere at 15.

Among her customers in Italy were Rita Hayworth, Irene Dunne, Vivian Leigh and Margaret Truman, as well as the young queens of several Far Eastern countries.

ROYAL GUESTS—The Duchess of Gloucester (left), Princess Margaret, the Duchess of Kent, and the Duke of Edinburgh leave the wedding of the Hon. Gerald Lascelles to Angela Dowding at St. Margaret's, Westminster. The groom is the younger son of the Princess Royal and a cousin of the Queen. The bride, an ex-actress, is the daughter of Lady Fox and step-daughter of Sir John Fox.

B & PWC Objective Is More Women In Parliament

VANCOUVER — (CP). — A plea for more women in public ofifce came Friday from the 13th biennial convention of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

The objective is "more women in Parliament and the Senate."

Miss Dorothy A. Heneker, now of London, England, but the founder of the federation when she lived in Winnipeg 22 years ago, told the 400 delegates that Canada should have more women in public life.

"Great development is taking place in Canada now," she said. "We have a great contribution to make in our clubs and we might push to get more women in Parliament and the Senate."

She said it would be necessary to enlist the young women.

"There are many difficulties in the way of bringing the younger women into all organizations because it is hard for two generations to work together."

Young women, she said, had shown great interest and worked in recent British elections.

Dame Caroline Haslett of London, a special guest at the convention, expressed similar views.

"We must play our full part in local, national, and international government," she said.

Elsie M. MacCleave of Vancouver, provincial president for British Columbia, said women wanted to be partners not rivals with men in public life.

"The promotion of capable women in public life leaves much to be desired," she said.

"We remain unique in the Commonwealth with our Nancy Hodges, who was Speaker in the British Columbia Legislature.

"We are immensely proud of the shining examples of women in present Canadian governments who show their equality with their male counterparts."

The four-day convention closed last night with the biennial banquet.

SHAVERS' SAVERS

Legs and underarms are quickly cleared of undesirable hair if you'll shave right after the bath. Cut against the growth of the hair with a taper razor-comb that has a guard to protect from cutting. Follow your shave with a good hand lotion. You'll feel cool and smooth as a cucumber.

EYES RIGHT

When other make-up is forgotten, remember that to balance your lipstick, well-accented eyes are a must. Mascara and eye pencil, together with lipstick, can "carry" your face beautifully.

Pauline Trudeau Bride Of William Hudson

In a quiet ceremony at St. Peter's rectory this morning, Pauline Therese, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Trudeau of Peterborough, became the bride of William Harold Hudson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Hudson of Lakefield. The Rev. R. J. Garvey officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was becomingly attired in a white suit trimmed with navy and wore navy and white accessories. Her corsage was of sweetheart roses and gardenias.

Mrs. Bernard Trudeau, attending her sister-in-law, chose a light blue and white shantung suit and white accessories and she had a corsage of pink sweetheart roses. Mr. David Spence of Lakefield attended the groom.

A reception was held at Hooper's Palm Room where the bride's mother received, wearing a dress of ivory linen with cinnamon accessories. Her corsage was of red roses. The groom's mother also received, wearing a light blue linen dress with white accessories. Her corsage was also of red roses.

For travelling the bride chose a powder blue two-piece dress and white accessories. Her corsage when going away on a honeymoon motor trip was of pink and white button 'mums.

Mr. and Mrs. Hudson will live in Lakefield.

Children's Day At Belmont W.I.

HAVELOCK (ENS)—The Belmont Women's Institute held its annual "children's day" at the township hall Thursday afternoon.

The sports program was under the direction of Mrs. Alex Keene and Mrs. Clarence King. The following were prize winners:

GIRLS' RACES

Six years and under—Darlene King, Anne McGowan; seven to 10 years, Ruth Emery, Evelyn King; 10 to 14 years, Gail Sanderson, Ferne Emery.

BOYS' RACES

Six years and under, Bobby Peoples, Bill Hendley; seven to 10 years, John Hendley, Albert McGowan.

Kicking the shoe race—Norma McGowan, Janet Vilneff, Evelyn King (tied).

Threading the needle race — Norma McGowan, Joyce Wrightly.

Ladies' balloon race—Mrs. Earl Keene.

Mrs. W. Harris, president, presided for a short business session when an invitation was accepted from the Trent River Branch to attend their September meeting. It was decided to hold a pie social at the township hall on July 31. Readings were given by Gail Sanderson and Ruby Salter.

Refreshments were served at the close of the activities which included ice cream and pop.

Omemee Group Visits Ottawa

OMEMEE (ENS)—The Omemee and District Horticultural Society chose the Dominion Experimental Farms in Ottawa this year for the destination of their annual bus trip, which was in charge of director E. A. Corneil.

They were received by public relations officer J. H. Leroux. Facilities were provided for the visitors' basket lunches.

Part of the proposed program had to be curtailed owing to an hour's delay caused by a temporary obstruction on the road.

The tour through the food processing buildings was hurried, but there was opportunity to observe the machines for canning vegetables, fruits and milk, and the dehydrating apparatus, also the low temperature storage plants. It was explained that the main object of the low temperature storage was to extend the marketing season for the grower. But temperature, said the instructor, was not the only factor of concern. The metabolism of vegetables and fruits is studied to ascertain how they behave in storage and arrive at the proper picking maturity. Experiments were also made to determine how to remove undesirable factors. He recommended 72 hour cooling for all fruits before shipping.

Following that the party was turned over to Warren Oliver, who is in charge of ornamental horticulture. Mr. Oliver stated that gardeners did a lot to raise the standar dof country life. It was the farm's business, he said, to collect the plants from far and wide, and by experiment find those best suited for certain soils and temperatures, also to try out fertilizers, sprays, etc., to combat enemies of the plants and, in some cases to develop earlier and hardier breeds, as well as more beautiful varieties.

Some of the interesting spots included the McCowan memorial garden and the rock garden which has been in the making for only three years. The pink flowering crab apple trees are a comparatively new addition.

Considerable interest was taken in the test plots. Two members with whom lily crossing is a hobby, spent much time in that field. Three hundred of the 1,200 girls of the International Girl Guides' camp were also entertained that afternoon.

Before beginning the return trip the Omemee horticulturists saw some of Ottawa's other beauty spots and toured the parliament buildings. It was midnight when they arrived in Omemee.

Joan Wilson Becomes Bride Beautifully Gowned In Lace

A profusion of summer flowers was arranged in All Saints' Anglican Church this afternoon for the wedding of Miss Joan Eleanor Wilson to Mr. Robert John Orde, which was solemnized by Ven. Archdeacon C. W. Balfour.

The bride is daughter of Mr. and the late Mrs. Deyncourt Wilson of Apsley and she was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. Owen MacDonald. She wore a lovely gown designed with a white lace bodice and skirt of double nylon net over satin topped with a lace redingote which was fastened to the waist with tiny covered buttons. The back of the redingote extended in a train and it was finished with a stand-up collar in Queen Anne style and long sleeves with deep ruffles falling over her hands. She wore a three-strand pearl necklace and her fingertip veil of nylon net with lace medallions was caught to a seed pearl tiara. Her bouquet was a cascade of red roses and lily of the valley.

Matron of honor was her sister, Mrs. Owen MacDonald and the bridesmaids were Miss Dolores Sutton and Miss Joan Wright. They were in strapless bodiced frocks with skirt of nylon net over taffeta and they wore tiny lace shoulder capes and double net mittens coming to points over their hands. Mrs. MacDonald wore pale blue, Miss Sutton shell pink and Miss Wright wore yellow. Their sweetheart hats were in matching colors and they carried baskets of sweet peas in harmonizing shades.

The groom, who is son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Orde, Reid St., Peterborough, was attended by his brother-in-law, Mr. William Fisher. The ushers were Roger Wilson, brother of the bride, and John Orde Jr., cousin of the groom.

The reception was held at 489 Monaghan Road, with the bride's foster mother, Mrs. Albert Reid, receiving. She wore a gown of mauve crepe and a white straw hat with mauve trim, white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. The groom's mother was wearing a gown of lavender taffeta and net with a picture hat and accesories of lavender and a corsage of yellow roses.

The bridal couple are leaving the city for a honeymoon at Wasaga Beach and other points. Mrs. Orde is travelling in a navy nylon sheer dress and wearing a white and pink hat, white accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

They will live in Peterborough.

Reading Mothers Find Love Of Books Most Contagious

By NANCY CLEAVER

"My Mum can bake one swell apple pie!" Jimmie's voice rang with pride. "Bruce, what does your mother do?"

"My mother?" Bruce hesitated a minute. "Why, my mother is a reading mother."

"A reading mother—what's special about that?" scoffed Jimmie.

"If you had one, you'd know it was special!" — Bruce defended hotly.

✧ ✧ ✧

An investment in a good book is always money well spent. Families should include reading material in their budget. But for families on small or large incomes, the doors of the Public Library swing open. There the eager reader can find a marvellous choice of books of all descriptions, and friendly help from the librarian at the desk.

Take your child to the Boys' and Girls' Section of the library first of all and give him time to explore. Don't hurry him, and let him choose a book himself with illustrations, then you pick out one or two simple stories to read to him. When you go to the adult section, he can sit at a table nearby and look at his new library book, while you make your selection.

A mother may know exactly the type of book she enjoys most—romance, adventure, mystery, humour. But she doesn't have to stick to fiction. Travel, history and biography are all fascinating sections on the library shelves. In the Sociology division there are excellent books on child training. Both poetry and plays appeal to some readers, and so do essays.

The "How-to-do-it" books are very popular and here mother can compare original patterns and methods for knitting, sewing, covering furniture, gardening, shellwork or whatever is her special hobby. Readable psychology books on how to get along with other people and live at peace with one's self are also much in demand.

The homemaker who loves to read has an outlet which saves her from becoming bored with monotony or falling into pettiness. She must follow a housekeeping routine, which has to be flexible to accommodate unexpected happenings. But no matter how often she must repeat the same tasks as washing dishes or doing beds, she can choose her own thoughts. A book opens the windows looking toward far vistas. Through reading, a mother catches a glimpse of strange places, and gets to know new friends.

The newspaper has been called "the poor man's university"—and parents can create a real interest in current events by sharing their reading with the family. Mother and dad can have a lot of fun discussing the ideas in an article in a newspaper or magazine or a book they have both read—and perhaps reading aloud short bits which made a special appeal.

Little children love to have mother read aloud. A short while before bed time is ideal for this. On Sunday if dad is home and gives a little hand with the household tasks, mother may find there is a quiet half hour in the late afternoon for a book session. On a long rainy or very cold day, or when a child is convalescing from an illness, there are few activities which are so satisfying as mother reading aloud.

When a child begins to learn to read for himself, then mother does well to have him read aloud to her. Perhaps he may plead, "Oh, you read, Mummy!" but gradually, as he becomes more proficient he will find real pleasure in reading aloud and in reading to himself.

What attractive books at school with colored pictures and interesting stories have replaced the old-fashioned "reader"! In spite of all this wealth of fine reading material, why is it so many boys and girls grow up without any real love of books?

There's not much point in blaming the school system or the teachers for what a recent writer terms "our illiterate youth". "Spectator" recreation outside the home does compete against reading. But the child's lack of enthusiasm for books is usually just a reflection of the parent's apathy towards the printed page.

A love of books is contagious!

Reading children are usually following the example of reading parents. The movies, the radio—T.V., all the modern inventions for man's entertainment can never completely replace the value of literature in our culture. So, mother, here's a verse by W. L. Stidger for you to remember when you plan your child's Birthday or Christmas presents!—

"He who gives a child a book
Gives that child a sweeping look
Through its pages
Down the ages.
Gives that child a ship to sail
Where the far adventures hail
Down the sea
Of destiny."

Readers' Saturday Column

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: ...very interested in your column...the recipes are wonderful and although not able to eat all the things, being a diabetic, they do sound good ... you mentioned using sucaryl tablets and water for strawberries for the freezer. Would it be possible to use these for canning them ...an elderly man has been asking for old-fashioned Black Currant Roly-poly...it was boiled or steamed...wonder if you could send me the recipe...am sure it would delight him...enjoy hearing about your daughter-in-training... I too passed that way.—B. L.

NOTE: M. S. Letter was in this column yesterday. She too wanted way of using black currants, I love giving you this recipe. It belonged to my beloved mother who made it with a skilful hand for my English father. As I type this there are goose-bumps on my arms, in memory of those happy days.

BLACK CURRANT ROLY-POLY

Sift together 2 cups stirred but not sifted flour, 5 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, and quickly stir into them ½ cup milk—or enough to make a stiff dough that will roll out to ¼ inch thickness, on floured board. Have ready 1½ cups washed and dried black currants. Spread these over dough to within 1 inch of edge. Sprinkle over ½ to 2-3 cup sugar and ¼ to ½ teaspoon freshly grated nutmeg. Dot with 2 tablespoons butter. Carefully roll up, folding over and sealing the ends with a little water. Now gently pick it up and place on floured cloth, big enough to make at least 2 thicknesses when pudding is rolled. Fold over generous fold, and tie with new string, so that ends cannot escape. Boil 1 hour. Serve with

HARD SAUCE

One-quarter cup butter, ¾ cup powdered sugar, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ⅛ teaspoon grated nutmeg. Cream butter and sugar and when white and fluffy (this takes about 10 min.) add vanilla and nutmeg. Don't stint on the beating. Heap with fork on serving dish and chill. For those who are not familiar with roly-poly the pudding is rolled out of boiling cloth onto platter and cut in slices like jelly roll to serve.

Further reply to B. L.: Yes you can use sucaryl tablets in canning strawberries. Dissolve them in a little of the hot juice and then stir this into the main batch just before bottling.

CONT'D ANSWER TO MS. CURRANT SAGO PUDDING

(Danish—Rodgrod med flode)

One lb. red currants off stems, ½ lb. raspberies, ¼ cup black currants are stewed in 2-3 cup water until tender. Strain. Pour off a little of the juice to cool and mix with 2 oz. sago-flour. Stir this into the remaining juice and bring to boil stirring, and boil 2 minutes. Remove from heat and stir until cool. Pour into stemmed glasses and serve with cream and sugar. Very fine (sifted) minute tapioca may be used but needs a little longer cooking, than sago.

CLEAR RED SAUCE

(for cottage pudding)

Boil 1 cup stemmed red currants with ½ cup water gently until tender. Strain. Mix together in a saucepan ½ cup sugar and 2 tablespoons cornstarch and stir in gradually 1 cup boiling water and the strained currant juice. Boil 1, minute, stirring. Stir in ¼ teaspoon almond extract and if desired few drops red coloring. Keep hot to serve.

For Black Currant pie wait until early apples come and mix them half and half with black currants for a pie. All black currants are too strong. Have any of our readers any black currant ideas for M. S.? If so, please mail them to me. I'l be grateful.

GOOSEBERRY TARTS

Make 8 baked tart shells. For the filling cook together until tender 2 cups fresh stemmed and tailed gooseberries and 1 cup water. Drain off most of the juice and stir into a mixture of 1 cup sugar and 2 tablespoons cornstarch and cook until thick, then cook over boiling water 10 minutes. Add fruit and 1 tablespoon butter. Chill and pour into baked shells. If you don't care about the calories top with whipped cream or serve with cheese.

Thanks M. S. for asking me for these seasonal desserts. I might have missed the opportunity of giving them to you, because I'm snowed under with requests for canning instructions. Your recipe for Danish pudding is right. Butter the crumbs.

DOROTHY DIX

Protecting Neglected Stepchildren

DEAR MISS DIX: Can you help me save two little girls from a permanently ruined life? My sister Ann is married and has two children by a previous marriage. She also has three children by her preesnt marriage, but I am concerned with the older two girls. Ann's husband, Fred, is not too fond of the youngsters, and they know it. Although he supports them, he denies them the love and understanding they need.

He drinks continually and has trouble keeping a job. The family is always in a turmoil because of his condition. In these drunken spells, and at other times too, he beats his wife and frightens the children.

He is one of the cruelest men I have ever met—to the children as well sa his wife. The girls have told me many times they have been whipped. They love their mother dearly, but beg me to get them away from their stepfather. They have pleaded with their mother to leave him, but in spite of everything she still loves her husband.

My husband and I love these two nieces and want to help them, but are at a loss what to do. They frequently stay with us and are very happy and contented then. Both girls have lost so much weight that they are pitiful. They are seldom dressed decently and their stepfather even resents their going to church. The children are 9 and 11.

Is there any way I could bring them into my home? I hate to hurt my sister but, since she wants to stay with such a man, I feel she has no right to jeopardize the welfare of her own children. They are likely to become juvenile problems if something isn't done for them soon.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: While it is possible that your emotional upset over the hazards surrounding your nieces may have made your judgment too harsh, I am accepting it at its face value. The children are certainly in an atmosphere that is harmful to them physically, spiritually and morally. I have long since given up wondering why a mother exposes her children to such dangers for the sake of a drunken brute whom she believes she loves, but that is an unsoluble issue. Since, however, Ann is so completely indifferent to the welfare of her daughters, someone else should take them in hand.

If you are able, and willing, to give the children a good home and upbringing, there is a possibility that you could be appointed their guardian. Naturally, it must first be proven that the mother is unfit to keep them. Go to family court, where you can discuss the problem with trained workers who will give you proper assistance.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: About two years ago I began running around with women and drinking. Up until then my wife and I had lived almost four years of a happy married life. We have two children. My wife has finally filed suit for divorce, but I know now that I love her dearly and would do anything to win her back. She says she will give me one more chance. She has moved to another city and wants me to go there and try to win her back. I have stopped my bad habits and know they will not be resumed.

A. J.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your wife's suggestion is a very good one. Follow her to the city of her present residence, since it won't interfere with your work anyway, and begin your courtship all over again. It will take considerable effort to restore her faith in you, but surely it's worth anything you can do. You have hurt her most sorely, and are lucky that she is willing to give you another chance.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Do you consider it improper for an engaged couple to go alone on one-day auto trips to neighboring cities? My parents won't permit me to go on such journeys, although all my friends have done so.

MABEL.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The propriety of an action often depends on the purpose behind it and the circumstances under which it is conducted. It's true that many engaged couples go one one-day outings, and conduct themselves so circumspectly that no criticism could possibly be passed. If you and your fiance are people of that calibre, and your letter sounds as if you are, you should be permitted to take an occasional trip of this nature. However, if your mother will worry unnecessarily over it, better accede to her wishes. No pleasure is worth causing family concern.

FUNNY BUSINESS -- By Hershberger

"He fights every child in the neighborhood—unsuccessfully!"

What's Right?

You want to ask a personal question of a friend.

WRONG: Feel it is all right so long as you preface the question with "I know it is not polite to ask, but—"

RIGHT: If you know it is not polite to ask—don't ask.

6—In Memoriam

CHARLTON—In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Rfms. Lawrence Charlton, killed in action in Normandie, July 20th, 1944.
We do not need a special day
To bring you to our minds
For the days we don't think of you
Are very hard to find.
If all this world were ours to give
We'd give it all and more
To see the face of one we love
Come smiling through the door.
—Sadly missed and ever remembered by Dad, Mother, Sisters and Brothers

HARRISON.—In loving memory of Florence, Mrs. Harold Harrison, who passed away July 20th, 1946.
There is no Death. Our dearest ones
Are with us now and aye.
For naught can sever Love from Love,
It rests with us alway.
Though unseen now we'll see them
In eternity's bright day.
—Loved and remembered by the Family.

YOUNG—In loving memory of Charles R. Young, who passed away July 19, 1951.
Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear,
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps him near.
—Ever remembered by Wife and Children.

Cavan Sunday Schools Hold Joint Picnic

CAVAN (ENS)—The Sunday schools of Cavan United Church and St. John's Anglican Church, Ida, held a joint picnic at Nicholl's Oval, Peterborough, on Wednesday afternoon. Early in the afternoon while the smaller children enjoyed the slides, the older members of the Sunday schools had a game of ball. Later the races were run and the winners were as follows:

Chiang Doesn't Think Blockade Of Red China Would Start War

By SPENCER MOOSA

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—President Chiang Kai-shek of Nationalist China said yesterday he does not think a positive step against Communist China such as a blockade of the Chinese coast would provoke another world war.

The Nationalists do not need foreign manpower to recover China from the Reds, Chiang said. But he added that his forces need and are entitled to claim "other necessary assistance."

Chiang made these and other points in answers to questions submitted him by the Associated Press. He said last June 20 he wanted to give considerable thought to the questions which previously had been submitted in writing.

What steps could in your opinion be taken by the free world to halt Communist expansion in the far east?

RELINQUISH ILLUSIONS

"The free world should relinquish whatever illusions they might have regarding the Communist regime," Chiang replied. "Effective and prompt steps should be taken so that the free world may achieve unity of purpose and action in the Far East."

Do you think positive steps such as United Nations or American, British and French blockade of Communist China would provoke war? Do you think a blockade would cause Russia to aid Red China under the terms of the Moscow-Peiping treaty?

"My answers to both these questions are in the negative," Chiang said.

"In my view all actions of the Kremlin will be based on the calculation that they will strengthen the position of Soviet Russia as the 'motherland of international Communism.'

"The Kremlin will not deviate from this policy in the interest of its satellites. As it is clear that the outbreak of another world war at the present time will be disadvantageous to Soviet Russia, she will not come out in open conflict with the west merely because more military or economic pressure is applied on her Chinese satellite."

Hope To End Filibuster As Weapon

ADVANCE FOR 11 a.m. EDT...

CHICAGO (AP)—Senator William Benton of Connecticut moved today to wrest from southern senators the filibuster weapon they have used to kill federal civil-rights bills.

He demanded that Democratic platform drafters call upon the Senate to revise its rules so a filibuster can be ended. Assailing the Republicans, he said:

"In their civil-rights plank of two weeks ago, the Republicans pay the same old lip service to the ideals of equality under law, but conspicuously ignore the cancer of the filibuster. . ."

MAJORITY VOTE

Benton proposed "a Senate rule which makes it possible to put an end to a filibuster by a simple majority vote of those present and voting after 15 days of debate, and by two-thirds majority vote of those present and voting after four days of debate."

At present it takes a vote of 64 of the 96 senators to end a talkathon. The difficulty of getting this percentage has often blocked civil-rights measures.

Burma To Ask Russia For Aid

RANGOON, Burma (Reuters)—Non-Communist Burma will ask Russia and Communist China for economic aid, Premier U NU announced today.

"We want to see if Russia and new China would give aid to any country like ours which will refuse to become their satellite," he told a mass rally.

United States economic aid to Burma was given without any strings, U NU said, adding: "We want to know if similar aid will be forthcoming from Russia and China on the same terms."

Political sources close to the premier said his "bombshell" this morning was intended to convince Burmese Communist rebels that no unfettered economic aid would be forthcoming from Russia and Communist China.

The rebels have been campaigning for Burma to give up U.S. economic aid and ask Russia and Communist China for aid "without strings."

Liberal Party Names Rhee As Candidate

TAEJON, Korea (AP)—The deminant Liberal party of South Korea today nominated President Syngman Rhee as a candidate for re-election, despite a message from Rhee saying he did not want the office. Liberals made the nomination at their national convention.

The 77-year-old statesman-politician had hinted, however, he might accept re-election "if it is demanded by the free will of the people."

The presidential election is scheduled for mid-August. It will mark the first time the chief executive has been elected by popular vote.

Until Rhee recently forced an amendment to the constitution, the president was named by the assembly.

Drowns In Lake

TORONTO (CP)—Police said a 45-year-old woman tied a chunk of concrete around her neck with a brightly-colored scarf and jumped into Lake Ontario Thursday night. Her body was recovered 40 minutes later.

Lose Kolapore Cup To South Africans

BISLEY, England (Reuters)—Canada today lost the Kolapore Cup she won last year at Bisley in the annual short-range rifle match.

The South African team scored 1,123 points, six more than the British eightsome.

Canada was third with 1,112.

Boost Canadian Sleeper Rates

MONTREAL (CP) — Spokesmen for Canadian National Railways said today the 23-per cent rate increase in sleeping-car accommodations, ratified by the United States inter-state commerce commission, affects the Canadian as well as the U.S. portion of travel as far as their international runs are concerned.

The Pullman Company, an American firm, today received permission to raise its minimum charge and the right was extended to the two Canadian railways as each operates sleeping-car facilities on international runs as well as the Pullman Company.

The new schedule of rates will establish a minimum charge of $5 for a lower berth in a standard sleeping-car. All other types of sleeping accommodation will take a proportional advance.

If Truce Talks Settled Call Special Meeting

HELSINKI, Finland (AP)—The United Nations secretary-general, Trygve Lie, said today he has been empowered to call an extraordinary meeting of the General Assembly within a fortnight if Korean truce talks prove successful.

"Nobody really knows what is happening in Korea right now except the participants in the truce talks," Lie told a press conference.

Earlier this month, Lie predicted peace might come to Korea by the end of July or the beginning of August.

Susan E. Henderson

The funeral for Susan Elaine Henderson, eight - month - old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Henderson, 198 Rubidge St., who died Wednesday, was held Friday from the Comstock funeral home.

The Rev. B. S. Morwood of Mark St. United Church conducted the service.

Pallbearers were Donald Bell, Douglas and George Sheppard and Peter Ashby. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

Sign Agreement

BONN, Germany (Reuters)—The United States high commissioner, John J. McCloy, and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer signed an agreement yesterday providing for an exchange of teachers, students and scholars. The agreement sets up an American educational commission in West Germany, which will take 200 to 250 West Germans to the U.S. for a year each year, and will bring as many Americans here.

Men Duel To Death

NEW YORK (AP)—Two men slashed each other to death in a 12-minute street duel with pocket knives today as a crowd of onlookers stood by, apparently afraid to try to intervene. Police, who identified the men as Willie Kirkpatrick, 39, and Elmore Hayward, 40, were not immediately able to determine the cause of the fight.

Bethesda WMS Celebrates 50th Anniversary

HARWOOD (ENS)—Mrs. M. C. Fisher, of Brooklyn, was the guest speaker at the Golden Anniversary of the Bethesda W.M.S., held in the Bethesda United Church Wednesday.

Mrs. Fisher brought greetings from her own society.

To become a member of a church, a member of an auxiliary and help in Christianizing the world is a spiritual heritage of Canadian people, she said.

She urged members to carry on in the same way as had been done in the branch for the past 50 years. The W.M.S. was a great influence for good in the community. The more members do the work of the W.M.S., the more they realize the need for it, she said.

"Our best that we can do is no more than we ought to do," she said.

President Mrs. Donald Herriott was in charge of the meeting. Members from the Roseneath W.M.S. took part in the worship service. Mrs. Lovelace, Mrs. George Mouncey and Mrs. T. Coyle led in prayer.

The flowers were in memory of the late Mrs. Enoch Merriam and were presented by her niece, Mrs. Frank Sergeant, the former Noreen Osborne, of Peterborough.

Mrs. Murray Manley, of Bewdley, sang "He Smiled On Me." Mrs. Alp, whose husband was many years minister at Bethesda, expressed pleasure at being present, after 36 years away.

The Rev. M. C. Fisher said this society has carried on the work of those who have gone before, and congratulated all on their faithfulness. The W.M.S. thinks of others, as well as beautifying their own edifice, he said.

"There is the true missionary spirit here, remembering those who are in far greater need than we are." In closing, he said "Carry on with courage." Mrs. D. Sherwin spoke briefly. The Rev. A. E. Larke, of Springville, was glad to see so many happy faces once more. He said it is almost impossible for us to see in true perspective the things we do today. Whatever we do today in our churches has an effect on the world, political, social and in other fields.

The Rev. A. E. Smith, Gore's Landing, was the next speaker. Mr. Smith said, "History is really a hidden story. If it had not been for the pioneers we would not have this opportunity today. We cannot afford to be without missions; it was through missions we have a church today. It is also a lovely day today, as it surely was fifty years ago.

The Rev. A. Y. Robertson, the pastor of the church, spoke briefly. He congratulated the W.M.S. on their fifty years of achievement, and warned our young people must enter into a share of the work if our church is to continue as in the past.

Mrs. Seth Copeland spoke a few words of greeting, and Mrs. Walter Johnston, of St. John's W.A., read a poem entitled, "The Country Church." Miss Beverley McFarland sang "In the Garden."

The decorations throughout were white and gold. Mrs. M. C. Fisher said members gave their gifts because they have faith in the future of their work. "We love to give, because all we have, and all we are, our Lord gave to us, to build up the work." Miss Ina Dennison then gave a complete resume of the past fifty years of the W.M.S. as follows:

July 16, 1902, a meeting was called to organize a Women's Foreign Missionary Society. The first president was Mrs. Clapperton; first vice-president, Mrs. William Isaac; second vice-president, Mrs. Alex Skeen; secretary, Miss Lillian Isaac; treasurer, Mrs. James Ross (the minister's wife).

On October 27, 1903, the Rev. Mr. Mitchell, a returned missionary from Honan, addressed the meeting on China.

January, 1904, the first quilts were planned for the bales.

In 1905, the minister's wife, Mrs. W. R. Johnston, was president, and the study book was on "Japan." Then in October, 1905, the Rev. John Griffith was home from China on furlough and addressed the meeting. In 1906, Mrs. Johnson read the report of the General Assembly held in Winnipeg, sent by Mrs. Lord, of Grafton. Then the society began their continuous sewing for bales for foreign fields. In October, 1906, the Rev. James Skeen, of Baltimore, addressed the meeting. Mrs. S. C. Isaac was the next president. In 1911 the meetings were held in the homes of the members in winter, and in the church Sunday school room in summer. Many bales were packed for foreign missions.

On Oct. 10, 1912, the guest speaker was Rev. B. S. Black, who addressed the meeting. His subject was help those who labour with me in the gospel and mission work as he saw it among the Jews in Palestine.

The report of the amalgamation meeting in Toronto of the Home and Foreign Missions was given by Mrs. S. C. Isaac. Other addresses were given by Mrs. Purdy and Mrs. Horne of Cobourg.

In 1916 Mrs. Alp was president. The W.M.S. were asked to help clear off a deficit of $27,000 and they proceeded to do so. Then Rev. and Mrs Alp left for Granton and Rev. Thomas McNaught brought his bride to Bethesda Church manse. Mrs. McDougall was the next guest speaker at the W.M.S. From 1919 to 1921 the president was Mrs. McNaught. From 1922 to 1926 Mrs. McCord was president.

In 1924 the allocation was set, and we were asked from then on for a definite amount. In 1927, the next minister's wife gave the address. Mrs. Robert Barbour. Then in June 1927, Bethesda held their silver jubilee. Mrs. Daley gave the address and Mrs. Roberts and Mrs. Field of Cobourg brought greetings. Mrs. Barbour visited each home in the congregation, and as a result there were forty-five members at the time of the silver jubilee. In June of this year $100 was sent for Miss Clark, who was going as a missionary to Trinidad. In June of 1929 Miss Laitmer of an Indian school in Saskatchewan gave a sketch of her work in that school. Many of the bales from here went to that school.

In 1938, the World Day of Prayer was begun with St. John's W.A. Each society taking year about. Miss Haig was the guest speaker this year.

The society regretted losing Mr. and Mrs. Mellow; and this year Mr. and Mrs. Fisher came to the parish.

In 1942 a baby band was formed with Mrs. Garnet Isaac as leader.

In June 1943 Mrs. Laing (nee Ina Rosevear) gave a talk on her life in California.

January 1944 a donation was sent to Mrs. Crego in aid of the new church being built in Batawa for the Czeck people there. The Rev. M. C. Fisher put on slides showing Africa and its people and some of the missionary work being done there.

In June 1946, help was sent to European relief. In June 1947 the Rev. and Mrs. M. C. Fisher left for Brooklin.

In November Mrs. F. McCulloch was presented with a lamp, as they were moving to their new home in Baltimore. Mrs. R. C. White of Roseneath was our next guest speaker. Mrs. Card and Mrs. Scott of Toronto gave information on packing and sending bales.

Ladies catered for a wedding in the Sunday school room.

Mrs. Luffman of Baltimore was guest speaker at one of our meetings. Donations were made towards the junior choir.

In 1950 Mrs. G. U. Isaac was elected president. Miss Linda McIntosh gave her travelogue and slides through Europe after the pot luck supper in the community hall. Money was sent to the new training school in Toronto. Bethesda Mission Band came fourth in their gifts for 1951. The president is now Mrs. Donald Herriott. In the fifty years the following was sent to the presbyterial, $2,143.77. Bales sent and Red Cross, $778.42. Number of meetings held 424.

The past presidents who were present were Mrs. Alp, Mrs. Harvie, Mrs. McCullough, Mrs. Lawton, Mrs. Graham, Mrs. Drope, Mrs. G. Isaac and Mrs. Herriott.

Afterwards a social hour was held in the Sunday school room. Mrs. Herriott and Mrs. Drope presided at the tea table, and the three-tiered cake was cut by Mrs. A. McFiggin and Mrs. D. Sherwin, the only two charter and first members of this W.M.S. The tables were beautifully decorated in white and gold, with marigolds for table centre, and gold candles. The menu had a touch of gold throughout.

The Rev. A. W. Smith of Gore's Landing wrote and read the following poem at the tea at the request of the president, Mrs. Herriott.

Bethesda Church W.M.S. 50th Anniversary

Bethesda Church doth celebrate,
On this most lovely day,
A past event, important date,
A work that came to stay.

It was just fifty years ago,
When women formed a band;
A missionary group to go,
Or help, in every land.

ALLEGED KILLER—Bayard Peakes, 29, who reportedly confessed to the slaying of 18-year-old Ellen Fahey in a Columbia University office, stares at his reflection in the window of a New York-bound train. A former Columbia student, Peakes said he wanted revenge on the university because it rejected a thesis he wrote and "took it out on the first person I saw." Captured by police in Boston, Mass., he is a resident of Dover-Foxcroft, Me.

Name Winners Of Scholarships

TORONTO (CP)—International Nickel Co., of Canada, Ltd., yesterday awarded three new graduate fellowships to three Canadian students. Each has a possible tenure of three years and a possible value of $6,000.

Winners are Charles Elbaum, native of Poland, who will study at the University of Toronto; K. Ekler, native of Hungary, who will study at McGill, and Paul-Emile Fortin, native of Val Jalbert, Que., who will study at Laval University.

Mr. Elbaum has been in Canada a year, and Mr. Ekler since 1940.

Renewals of fellowships awarded last year were granted to C. R. Cupp, University of Toronto; G. V. Meuller, McGill, and A. T. Casey, University of British Columbia.

Purpose of the fellowships is "to promote and encourage academic research in the technical fields serving Canadian metal industries." Judging is done by the National Conference of Canadian Universities, under Dean D. L. Thomson of McGill.

Seek Car Owner

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Owner of a car in which a Centralia airman was killed near Elginfield Wednesday night is being sought by provincial police. The car is registered to Nelson White, of 3446 Sandwich Street, Windsor, whom police have been unable to locate.

A 1935 model, it overturned and burned, killing Joseph A. G. Desabrais, 17, of Hull, and injuring another Centralia airman.

Woman Killed In Car Crash

WINDSOR (CP)—A 20-year-old Tecumseh woman was killed early this morning when an auto in which she was a passenger went out of control and careened into a ditch on highway 39 about two miles east of the Pike Creek bridge.

Dead is Mrs. Ethel Robinet, 20, of 213 Bedell Street, Tecumseh.

The driver, Arthur Clarke, 24, of Belle River, is in Metropolitan Hospital suffering severe shock and undetermined hip and leg injuries.

As the right side of the car hit the bank, Mrs. Robinet, who was sitting beside the driver, had her head pinned between the car and the bottom of the ditch.

Minutes after the accident occurred, a car carrying four Detroiters stopped and released Mrs. Robinet from beneath the twisted mass of wreckage.

An ambulance from Belle River rushed the injured woman to hospital but she was dead on arrival.

Three Workers Retire, Total 124 Years In CGE

Three C.G.E. employees with a combined working career of 124 years in the Peterborough plant are now retiring.

Two of them—George East, of 626 Lundy's Lane, and Alec Kirkcaldy of 163 Westcott St.—had the novel experience of beginning at the plant on the same day (July 13, 1911) and finishing on the same day (July 18, 1952); that is 41 years later.

The third member of the trio is Ray Collett, 507 Albert Street, a skilled machinist, who is retiring after more than 42 years of service with C.G.E.

Mr. Kirkcaldy was born in Scotland and came to Canada in 1906. He worked out west for a while on ranches and as a railwayman. In 1911 he joined the wire department at C.G.E. in Peterborough when there were only about 50 people in that department.

STOREKEEPER

He served as a combination storekeeper, receiver and shipper and toiled a 60-hour week at the rate of 15 cents an hour. His entire service has been as a storekeeper and shipper; only Walter Killingbeck has been in the department for a longer time.

Mr. Kirkcaldy has been historian of the Quarter Century Club. He has kept a history of all members. By special request he will carry on in this capacity.

Mr. East was born in England and joined the old transformer department in 1911. He remained there until the outbreak of the First World War and then enlisted in the Canadian Army Medical Corps. He was four years overseas.

He returned to Transfomers after the war and was heartened to find a scale and plug of tobacco that he had left underneath his work bench four years before. When transformers were transferred to Toronto he entered the brass department and in 1920 the lightning arrester department.

A few years ago he was the only man left in the department which has since been taken over by Control.

WANTS TO TRAVEL

Now that he is retired Mr. East wants to travel. He and Mrs. East hope to visit Edmonton and Vancouver this summer and hope to take a trip to England next year.

Mr. East has been the central figure for thousands of children at the annual Christmas Tree. But because of the nature of his new role few of the children would know him — without a white beard anyway.

Messrs. East and Kirkcaldy just happened by chance to join on the same day, 41 years ago. They have since been fast friends and have often mentioned that they should keep the record intact by retiring — the same as they joined — together.

Mr. Collett was born in France and came to Peterborough in 1910. He became a boring mill specialist and worked with that machine, either as operator or foreman, during all his 42 years of service.

Ill health has dogged him since this spring when he was forced to retire from active work under the pension plan.

In 1936 he was transferred to the boring mills in induction motors and he worked as foreman on Genelco boring mills during the Second World War. One of his major problem was training unskilled workers to be qualified operators.

After the war he returned to the machine shop and worked there until his retirement.

Seek To Settle Dispute

TORONTO (CP)—Louis Fine, Ontario's chief conciliation officer, will meet Wednesday with representatives of the Steel Company of Canada and the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) in an effort to reach a settlement in their wage dispute. The union earlier asked for either a settlement or the appointment of a conciliation board by Monday to settle the five-month dispute. Main issues in the differences are wage increases and a job classification plan sought by the union.

Trip Costs $1,500

BRAMPTON (CP)—A resolution which Deputy Reeve J. C. Saddington said was passed in jocular spirit, will cost Peel county council $1,500. The resolution, passed in June, approved an all-expense trip for the 15 members and clerk of county council to Calgary to attend the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Reeves convention. It was fortunate, said Mr. Saddington, that only four persons accepted the offer of the free trip. The bill was $375 for each member. If everyone had gone, the county would have had to pay $6,000.

Fleeced of $1,000

TORONTO (CP)—Walter Garnet, 37-year-old Barrie district farmer, yesterday told police he was fleeced of $1,000 by three strangers who offered to "show him the town." He said the men persuaded him to match dollar for dollar in a hotel room game, then walked off with his money.

Plane Locates Barge

JACKSON'S POINT (CP)—A barge carrying 35 boys from Camp de la Salle, two miles from this Lake Simcoe resort, was towed back last night after it was reported missing for several hours. The craft encountered engine trouble and was adrift for more than three hours. It was located from the air about 10 miles off shore. The barge was taking the boys, ranging in age from 12 to 14 years, on an overnight trip to Whitney Island.

First Aid For Thermostat Roof Leaks Caused By Ice

QUESTION: Is there a simple solution to this problem? We have just moved into a house about 5 years old, equipped with automatic heating. Somehow the mercury in the thermostat has become separated and I'm lost for a method of getting the separated sections together. Tapping the case has had no effect. Perhaps my best bet would be to send it back to the factory for repairs.

ANSWER: Before you take the time and trouble to send it back to the manufacturers for repairs, try these three tricks suggested by the Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Co. Ltd. First, tap the case in the palm of your hand bulb down. If this doesn't work, try centrifugal force by attaching a stout string to the thermomeer and swinging it in a circle around your head. Finally, there is the refrigeration technique. All his involves is placing the thermostat in the freezing compartment of the refrigerator where the cold will draw the lifuid down into the bulb.

QUESTION: This past winter our new storey-and-a-half home developed leaks in the roof which we at first thought were the result of condensation but which we are now told by a neighbor are the result of ice dams forming at the eaves. I'm rather hazy on just how this can cause a leak—could you enlighten me?

ANSWER: Snow and ice dams are usually found after heavy snowfalls followed by temperatures a little below freezing when there is sufficient heat from the living quarters to cause metling along the roof surface. The water creeps down over the roof surface, and on reaching the overhand of the roof, freezes causing a ledge of ice to build up. Water reaching this ice ledge may back under and between the shingles and into the house.

Simplest method of preventing such leakage of water is to lay a single course of heavy roofing felt over the roof sheathing boards et the eaves and extending under the shingles well above the inside line of the wall. Sheet metal could also be used as a lining material.

QUESTION: I have just read through a rather comprehensive article on reducing fire hazards in the home through proper precautions in construction. No mention was made as to the minimum temperature at which wood used in construction will ignite — have you any figures on this?

ANSWER: Authorities are not agrdeed on the minimum temperature at which wood or other cellulosic material will ignite. Technical literature frequently gives aproximately 480 degrees F. as the ignition temperature of; wood. Actually, this may vary widely, being influenced by duration of exposure to elevated temperature, moisture content of the wood, density of material, dimensions of the unit, character of surface, circulation of air and similar factors.

Exposure to temperatures not greatly in excess of 212 degrees F. has been sufficient to carbonize wood after a few years, but failed to cause ignition. On the other hand, there are reports of spontaneous fires in buildings where wood in confined areas was exposed to temperatures that probably did not exceed 212 degrees F. National Fire Protection Association considers it good practice to so install heating devices that under conditions of maximum heat the temperature of exposed woodwork will not exceed 160 degrees F.

QUESTION: What makes the strongest wood — air-drying, or kiln-drying?

ANSWER: Claims have been made that air-dried wood is stronger than kiln-dried wood and the reverse. Comparative tests have shown, however, that good air-drying and good kiln-drying have the same effect on strength. It is important, however, to note that severe kiln conditions may injure the strength of a piece of wood without producing any visible difference in appearance. Good kiln drying requires the proper application conditions appropriate to the species, grade and thickness being dried.

QUESTION: A section of our hardwood floor has developed some very annoying squeaks. A neighbour suggests that this might be stopped by applying oil liberally through the joists. Is this a practical suggestion? Thickness of the oak flooring is ⅝-inch.

ANSWER: Poor nailing is almost always the reason for squeaky floor—the only satisfactory solution being to re-nail it. Drive 1½-in. finish nails straight through the flooring into the subflooring. The nails should then be set lightly and the holes filled. Applying oil is only a temporary cure at best and usually a waste of time. Loose sub-flooring might be another cause of this trouble in which case nails (either 2½-in. or 3-in. finish) should be driven straight through to the joists.

QUESTION: Where would butt hinges be located on a door—how far from top and bottom?

ANSWER: Top edge of top butt hinge should be 5-in. from top of door—lower edge of bottom hinge 10-in. from finished floor.

Orange Council Elects President

GLASGOW (Reuters)—The Imperial Grand Orange Council of the World, meeting here yesterday, elected James A. Barlowe, deputy grand master of Ireland, as imperial grand president.

He succeeds Lt.-Col. T. Ashmore Kidd of Kingston, Ont., who retired after three years.

(Orangemen are members of a Protestant political organization, originating in Ulster, which exists in Canada, Britain, the United States, and other Commonwealth countries.)

J. M. Andres of Belfast was reappointed imperial grand master. H. Loftus Reid of Toronto, who retired from the office of imperial grand secretary, was replaced by H. Burdge of Belfast.

HOUSE 59-25.—There's an air of restfulness — of warm, informal hospitality expressed by this attractive home. Extensive planning, including ivy partly covering the grey stone, contributes in large measure to its charm. If you want attractive individuality and modern step-saving convenience in planning this home would be hard to beat. The all-too-seldom seen screened porch will appeal particularly to families with young children. Should an extra bedroom be required, the present dining room could readily be used — the family dining area being re-located at the far end of the huge 24' living room.

Road Tour Of Biggest Lake

As we pass along, I note a road sign: "Cultivated Dew Worms," that shows how enterprising the people of Roseneath are; a product is wanted, they grow it.

We have lost the lake now, and speed along to Hastings, nestling in the valley of the Trent. Hastings, a busy place, the biggest in the district, is at the other extreme of the lake from Bewdley, and at the beginning of the Trent river. There is a licensed hotel before you cross the bridge; and beside the river an old grist mill, kept in good repair and the machinery for grinding the grain is still powered by water and water-wheels. Farther down, nestling below the bridge, is a fine old stone building, a tannery. (Photograph 5).

THE TRENT BEGINS

Coming out of Hastings you can take your choice of roads—but be sure not to take the highway; that gets you to Number 7 and there is all the north shore of the lake to see yet. Even if you are in a hurry back to Peterborough, it is just as short to go by way of Keene. If you want to linger over the lake a little near Hastings, take the road nearest the lake. It becomes something of a track after a mile or so, but you can go north off it on a concession road to the county road. Thus taking a short jaunt along the lake-view road, you get a fine view over the Trent - Rice Lake countryside; beautiful hills patterned by cultivated fields and woodlots; you see the neat shores, and the well-buoyed channel.

We are now on the county road heading west towards Birdsall's station. But just before we get there, having taken a sharp left turn, we cross a small stream, the east branch of the Ouse, where good trout fishing is to be found, not there, but elsewhere — in spots fishermen are loath to disclose.

COUNTRY STATION

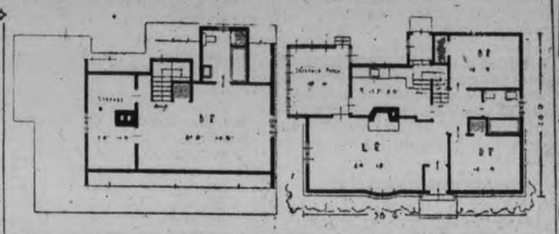
We come to Birdsall's—the ancestral territory of several generations of the Colonels Birdsall. The local history of Hastings, Asphodel, the Birdsalls, has been well related in numerous articles in the Examiner by Mrs. Helen Marryat, of Hastings. The country hereabouts is lovely from May to October, and I suspect at any time of the year. It has the air of having been lived in and cultivated for many generations — which it has. Fine pastoral country. There is a great variety of birds and bird songs here, as we discovered when we stopped to take the picture (Number 6) of Birdsall's Station, a whistle-stop on the C.N.R. which served the area well before cars and trucks. It was something of a shock to hear among the bird songs a radio newscaster's voice from a nearby house—so serene and remote from the hustle of life do these parts of Otonabee and Asphodel seem.



Next on our route westward we pass Villiers, which has an old low blacksmith shop now converted into a hot dog stand. The name comes from the Napoleonic wars, not from the French poet.

DROPPING INTO KEENE

And so we drop down into Keene, seeing a graceful spire rising above the trees (photograph 7) as we cross the marshy wide mouth of the Indian River which empties into Rice Lake at this point; the Indian River which rises at the Stoney Lake watershed and through which Champlain may possibly (but according to Professor G. H. Needler, could not) have made his journey in 1615.

There is a good view south from the Keene bridge.

Around the Keene war memorial are some neat and prosperous spruce.

Now is not the time to give up the tour of Rice Lake and nip home. Some of the best is still ahead, and I shall mention it briefly. From Keene, to get down and around the lake you have to take the county road to Bensfort Bridge and cross the Otonabee there. Before you do, drop down into Hiawatha, two miles south of the county road. Here is another old Indian reserve and summer place. Nearby are the prehistoric Serpent Mounds, which archaeologists are now investigating. These are east of Hiawatha and due south of Keene. The sequence is: Keene, Serpent Mounds, Hiawatha.

After Bensfort Bridge you can come down to the Lake again by concession roads, old roads, some with root and stump fences which show how large were the trees in the district in the last century when these fences were made.

PENGELLEY CEMETERY

You pass by the Pengelley area; the big old farm house is on the lakeshore road. Turn up the main township road beyond it — this is the last good concession road before you strike Highway 28 again. Mount the hill half-way, and on your right you see a neat cottage surrounded by delightful flowers. Here Mr. F. H. Pengelley and his sister make their summer home, and tenderly care for the private cemetery. Here, in from the road by a private walk, is the grave of Joseph Scriven. There is a sign by the road noting this fact.

Quiet and reasonable visitors are permitted to visit the small Penegelley cemetery, surrounded by a low small-stone wall, bushes, hedges and flowers. Here, amidst Pengelley forebears, in a quiet corner, is the grave of the writer of the hymn (he died 1886), and beside him, the grave of his young sweetheart who died prematurely. The Scriven grave is surmounted by an imposing memorial.

We began this tour at the memorial stone to Scriven south of Bewdley. We end it at his grave.

If you are not in a hurry, one of the widest views in the whole countryside is to be obtained from the very top of the hill on the same road, half a mile north of the Pengelley cottage (the spot is marked Number 8 on our map). It is a spectacle, especially at sunset.

We leave you surveying the sunset to find your own way home by any route you want to take. The countryside up through Otonabee is lovely, but if you are in a hurry you can scoot across to Highway 28, at Bailieboro.

The tour around Rice Lake is especially rewarding to those who allow time to do it in leisurely fashion. There are enough gas stations, hotels and snack booths to keep you supplied; and as many delightful and secluded picnic spots as you could wish — even if there are no roadside tables.

Proper Age

WINNIPEG (CP)—School officials here say starting a child at kindergarten too soon can handicap him in the next grade In a circular they say it takes a mental age of 6½ years to handle the reading program in the first grade.

DESIGN-OF-THE-MONTH — Although this three-bedroom bungalow falls within the classification of a 'small house', careful planning has given it an air of spaciousness.

The full-length windows in the front wall of the living room are an architectural feature which enhances the exterior appearance and ensures sufficient natural light for the main living section of the house.

Plenty of sunshine and fresh air reach the front bedrooms which have three windows each and the third bedroom, at the rear, has a double window.

Designed by the architectural firm of Wilson and Newton, Toronto, the house is of brick veneer construction with wood siding on the gable ends of the roof. The floor area is 983 square feet and the cubic measure is 18,435 cubic feet. The exterior dimensions are 40 feet by 24 feet seven inches.

Working drawings for this plan, known as Design-214, are available from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation at minimum cost.

Railway Engineers Get New Wage Pact

MONTREAL (CP)—The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Canadian National Railways announced yesterday the signing of a new wage agreement giving locomotive engineers in the C.N.R. Atlantic and Central regions an 11-per-cent increase in basic rates of pay with no rule changes.

The agreement, which goes into effect Oct. 1, 1952, for one year, will not apply to the Newfoundland district.

Dalhousie St. House Owned Davidson Family 79 Years

The house at 202 Dalhousie St., for years the home of the late Robert Stewart Davidson of the former Peterborough Hardware Company, has been bought by George Heffernan, who is converting it into six apartments.

This transfer of ownership kindles somewhat dim business and social memories of a generation that is receding into the past of Peterborough.

Mr. Davidson and Robert Brown McKee were two ambitious young men who formed a partnership in the hardware firm that was known as McKee & Davidson. Their retail store was in the premises now occupied by the Churchill restaurant.

About the same time, two young men who had worked for them as clerks, R. F. Fortye and Harry Phelan, acquired the retail hardware business which had previously been conducted by John Bertram, one of the leading citizens of Peterborough and afterwards prominent in Toronto. The Bertram home was the big red brick building west of Jackson Park.

GEORGE ST. SITE

Mr. Bertram first sold his business to Melville Miller of Orillia, and it was from him that it was purchased by Fortye & Phelan. Their store was on the west side of George St., occupying part of the site of the new building that is being erected by Principal Investments Ltd. for Metropolitan Stores.

In retrospect, part of that central block bore the names from north of south, of John Bertram, in hardware; John Hackett in drygoods, and Robert Fair, also in drygoods.

The Fair store retains that name but as Robert Fair & Co., proprietors of which are Kenneth Couch and Oswald Newton of Trenton. The manager is C. W. Collins.

Robert Fair, who came to Peterborough from Millbrook, occupied the premises in which Thomas Bradburn had carried on business as a general merchant. He was the owner of the building, and it remains today a proepry of Bradburn Securities Ltd. Thomas Bradburn was the grandfather of Herbert I. Bradburn.

These are incidental realty and personal recollections of the period when McKee and Davidson organized with Fortye and Phelan the Peterborough Hardware Company. For them, the Toronto Savings and Loan Company erected the building which was long identified by the company's name, and is now occupied by Pattenick as a department store.

REORGANIZED

Eventually, Peterborough Hardware Company was reorganized with Vincent Eastwood, Theodore McWilliams, Manson Comstock and Harry Morgan as its principals. Late in 1906, Mr. Eastwood sold his interest to his associates, becoming the first manager of the Royal Bank in Peterborough.

The Royal Bank decided to open a branch in this city shortly after the failure of the Ontario Bank. Presumably Mr. Eastwood was recommended for the responsibility as manager by his broad experience, extensive connection, and reputation in the city and its district of those days. He remained in charge of the bank until 1929.

Robert Stewart Davidson was the son of a pioneer family of Smith township. He married Clarice Menzies, a daughter of Thomas Menzies, proprietor of a bookstore on the east side of George St., second store north of Hunter St. Two daughters of the Davidson family were Helen, who died last year; and Mrs. Madge Waldinger of Newton Centre, Mass., near Boston, who was here about a month ago, disposing of the old home on Dalhousie St.

ONLY SURVIVOR

Mrs. Waldinger is the only surviving member of the two families of the hardware business partners of years ago.

R. B. McKee's wife was a Pentland, sister of Dr. Pentland who was a dentist in Peterborough about 40 years ago. Their daughters were: Edith, wife of Theodore McWilliams, who was a brother of Hon. R. F. McWilliams, present Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba; and Nellie, wife of the late Dr. Harry Wightman, dentist, wose office was in the premises now used by Dr. J. J. Craig.

The McKee residence was at the southwest corner of Charlotte and Rubidge Streets, just east of the Peterborough Clinic. It was one of the earlier corner sites purchased for a service station.

OBTAINED FROM CROWN

The property at 202 Dalhousie St. was obtained from the Crown in 1854 by Charles Rubidge, after whom Rubidge Street was named, a prominent citizen of the lumber town on the Otonabee a century ago, and earlier.

Three years later he sold it Ivan O'Beirne, proprietor of one of the weekly newspapers in 1857. Then, in 1872 O'Beirne sold the property to John W. Alford, and on August 20, 1873, it was bought by R. S. Davidson.

Date of the building of the house at 202 Dalhousie St. is not definitely known. Probably it was Mr. Davidson's investment. Information of earlier property transfers do not definitely indicate that it was residentally occupied by Mr. Alford, nor does it exclude the possibility that a house may have been built by Mr. O'Bierne.

Ownership continued in the Davidson family 79 years, until a month ago when the elder daughter of Robert Davidson and Clarice Menzies decided to sell it, severing a final material tie with a community so long their home.

Surviving associates of the daughters of the hardware firm of McKee & Davidson remember them as charming girls of the junior social set early in the century, a generation of femininity endowed with a full share of comeliness.

READY FOR ELECTION—Nelson Castonguay, Canada's Chief Electoral Officer, is preparing for the next Federal election even though the government has until Aug. 25, 1954, to pick an election date. With Mrs. F. Loop, a member of his office staff, he looks over some of the hundreds of tons of supplies now being mailed to returning officers in all parts of Canada.

Castonguay Busily Prepares For Next Federal Election

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—In an unpretentious, second-floor office in downtown Ottawa, Nelson Castonguay, Canada's chief electoral officer, is busily preparing for the next federal election.

"I have no information as to when the next general election will be held," Mr. Castonguay said recently in an interview. "All I know is that an election must be announced before the life of the present Parliament expires Aug. 25, 1954.

"I want to be in a position to run off an election in the minimum possible time once the government fixes the date.

If plans work out he will be ready Aug. 15 to hold an election in a minimum of 60 days. For instance, if the government decides on a fall election it could dissolve Parliament Aug. 25 and have the election Nov. 3.

GUESSING THE DATE

Although the government hasn't dropped any hints, many members of the Commons are predicting that an election will not be held until the fall of 1953. Some MEMBERS OF THE Commons a are mentioning Monday, Oct. 5, 1953, as a possible date. The party in power fixes the election date.

In 1949, Parliament was dissolved April 30 and the election was held June 27.

The result:

Liberals 193; Progressive Conservatives 41; C.C.F. 13; Social Credit 10, Independent four; Independent Liberal one; total 262.

The present standing in the Commons:

Liberals 182; Progressive Conservatives 49; C.C.F. 13; Social Credit 10; Independent Liberal two; Independent four; vacant two; total 262.

THREE NEW SEATS

In the next Parliament, membership in the Commons will be increased to 265. The increase was provided in a bill adopted at the recent session of Parliament. The bill also provided for changes in the boundaries of 125 constituencies.

Probably few voters realize when they mark their ballot on election day how much preparation is necessary to assure them of an opportunity to exercise their franchise.

Mr. Castonguay's office is the nerve-centre of an elaborate smooth-running machine that reaches into every corner of Canada and into every Canadian defence establishment at home and abroad.

As soon as Parliament ratified the change in membership and in constituency boundaries, Mr. Castonguay switched his election machinery into high gear.

He sent revised maps of the constituencies to returning officers in all parts of Canada.

He asked them to revise the boundaries of their polling divisions and to complete the work by Aug. 15. Each division should contain between 300 and 350 electors.

That done, he estimated the number of polling divisions there will be in each constituency. He figured the number of enumerators needed to collect the names of persons eligible to vote.

TONS OF MATERIAL

The next move was to send to returning officers much of the material they will need to conduct an election. The material—it runs into hundreds of tons—includes a copy of the Canada Elections Act, instructions to returning officers, instructions to enumerators, paper and supplies for enumerators and information on the revision of voters' lists.

The returning officers in each constituency will fill the requirements of their deputies, of polling clerks and enumerators.

Returning officers soon will be in a position to complete an enumeration of electors within six days after the date of an election is announced.

After the date is known Mr. Castonguay will dispatch additional material. It will include blank ballot paper, pencils and papers for polling booths, ballot boxes, instructions on ballot folding and on the type of marks on ballots to accept or reject in counting votes.

The names of candidates nominated in each constituency are printed locally on the blank sheets of ballot paper supplied by Mr. Castonguay.

Besides providing for the vote of some 9,000,000 civilians, Mr. Castonguay also has to plan to handle the vote of service personnel at home and abroad.

MUST BE PREPARED

In a letter to returning officers, Mr. Castonguay informed them that he has no idea when an election will be called. He added:

"Nevertheless, it is of utmost importance that you place yourself in a position to put the election machinery in operation immediately upon the receipt of a telegraphic message from this office informing you of the issue of writs ordering the general election.

"Experience has shown that when it is desired to hold a general election, a minimum of time is given for the appointment of rural and urban enumerators and for furnishing them with the necessary supplies."

The 38-year-old Mr. Castonguay, who succeeded his father as chief electoral officer in 1949, will not be setting a precedent if election supplies reach returning officers months in advance of an election.

The returning officers had their supplies for the 1945 election on hand for a year. In 1949, the supplies reached them eight months in advance of the election.

Need 3,000 Men To Help Harvest Crops

OTTAWA (CP)—The likelihood of bumper crops on the Prairies this year indicates the probable need for 2,000 to 3,000 harvesters from other parts of Canada and arrangements for their movement have been made.

The Labor Department said in a statement today that as in other years, the railways are co-operating in providing special low rates. The movement is expected to begin about the middle of next month and reach its peak about the end of August or beginning of September.

The departments said it anticipates "no great difficulty" in recruiting harvest workers for the west from the areas of Ontario and Quebec which provided them in the past. It also was considered likely that a substantial voluntary movement of workers from British Columbia would take place.

The existing farm labor situation was described as "fairly well under control." There had been some shortage of workers for haying in eastern Ontario but this had been met with farm workers from the west, the Maritimes and Newfoundland.

The annual movement of skilled tobacco curers to Ontario from the southern United States also has been arranged.

No Charges Brought Over Election Riots

LEVIS, Que. (CP)—Mayor Adelard Begin of Levis said yesterday no charges will be brought against persons connected with an election night disturbance Wednesday near the home of Raynold Belanger, Liberal candidate elected for this city constituency.

Mayor Begin said police collected the names of about 15 leaders in the riot but no charges will be pressed. However, he said persons who were attacked or suffered property damage could take civil action.

Cars and windows were smashed in the five-hour disturbance which attracted 1,200 persons at its height.

Work Out Agreement On TV Channels

WASHINGTON (AP) — Canada and the United States have worked out a new agreement governing television channels along the border, the State Department announced yesterday.

Agreement covers assignment and use of 82 TV channels between 54 and 890 megacycles within an area of 250 miles on either side of the border.

Ford Will Re-open Assembly Plants

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Company announced yesterday it will re-open its assembly plants for five days next week, but said no further definite work schedules can be worked out at this time because of the steel situation.

Practically all of Ford's operations were at a standstill this week, with many of the firm's 140,000 workers idle.

$540,000,000 Expansion In U.S. Security Benefits

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman yesterday signed legislation providing for a $540,000,000-a-year expansion of United States social security benefits.

The new program provides that:

About 4,500,000 retired persons will have their monthly social security payments increased by $5 or 1½ per cent, whichever is greater, effective after September 1.

Almost 3,500,000 recipients of public assistance—the aged, blind, totally disabled and dependent children—will share in a $300,000,000 boost in the federal government's grants to the states for such programs.

The act calls for a $5 boost in monthly payments for the aged and disabled to begin Oct. 1 and run for two years; and this amount would be doubled if the federal grant is matched by the states.

The provision affecting the blind, calling for a like increase, is retroactive to July 1 and will run until Sept. 30, 1954.

The aid to dependent children will be boosted by $3 a month for each recipient and this will run from Oct. 1 until Sept. 1 until Sept. 30, 1954.

The amount of earnings a retired person can get without losing his benefits will be $75 a month instead of the present $50.

Decide Morons Best Drivers

CHICAGO (AP)—The best type of motorist is not a person of high intelligence but a high-class moron with a mental age of 10 or 12 years.

The job of operating an automobile is not for one who is mentally keen.

These observations were advanced yesterday at a seminar of Northwestern University's traffic institut by James Stannard Baker, director of the institute's research and development. Said Baker:

"The low mentality motorist, once he is taught to drive properly, will not deviate from what he has learned. The higher mentality is inclined to experiment and also to think about other things to the detriment of his driving."

Police Capture Bank Robbers In Blazing Gun Duel

VIVIAN, Man. (CP)—Police shot one man to death and wounded another Sunday in a blazing gunfight with two suspected bank robbers near here. Constable John Frederick Friend was shot in the cheek by a blast from a .45 pistol. He was reported in good condition in hospital at Winnipeg, 30 miles west of this farm community of 10 families. John R. Zahara, 42, of Penticton, B.C., died under a hail of police bullets. His companion, 33-year-old Alexander Zakopiac of Winnipeg, was shot in the foot. Police said he was wanted in Vancouver on a charge of attempted murder. He is under police guard in hospital at Winnipeg.

The R.C.M.P., searching for two bandits who robbed a suburban Winnipeg branch of the Imperial Bank of Canada of $2,000 Friday, was called to Vivian when residents became suspicious of two armed men prowling in the woods.

Police were greeted by shots when they caught up with the men off a side road about 1½ miles west of here. The fire was returned when the men refused to surrender.

Angus McNeill, 72-year-old war veteran, was the only bystander. He was reading the paper when police entered his home and asked if he had seen the two men. Seconds later he heard shots across the road, about 60 yards away.

He watched the fight from a safe distance and later gave a drink to the wounded men. The dead man lay nearby, his shirt torn to shreds by police bullets.

Strips from a sheet were used by McNeill to bandage the wounded men.

The hunt for Zahara and Zakopiac started after Mrs. Fred Anderson, 38, noticed two armed men sitting on the road near her farm home. That was Friday night.

Sunday morning her father, Fred Palmer, 65-year-old pump house man at the Canadian National Railways station here, saw the same men steal water. He told Telegrapher Emile Deconinck, who tipped off police by messaging Winnipeg.

The loot from the bank branch was recovered. Bandits rifled the $2,000 from the teller's cage after forcing employees, customers and the police chief to lie down on the floor.

Bancroft Child Strangles In Trailer Bed

BANCROFT (CP) — Jimmy Woodcox, 17-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Woodcox, Bancroft, died of strangulation Saturday when he attempted to slide under a slat over his upper bunk where he had been sleeping.

The lad was discovered by his grandmother, Mrs. Roy Sears, who had put him to sleep 10 minutes earlier in the family trailer. She was looking after the child while the parents were away on business in Minden. The grandparents live two and a half miles from Bancroft on the town line.

Mrs. Sears put the baby in the double bunk bed in the trailer which has been the Woodcox home, early Saturday afternoon for its nap. The baby was not used to sleeping in the house and so was put to bed in the trailer.

The grandmother went to look at the child about 2:30 p.m. and found it sleeping normally in the bunk. She returned to the house and 10 minutes later, on returning to the trailer she found the child dead.

CAUGHT IN SLATS

Slats were placed around the top of the bunk to keep the baby from toppling to the floor, about a six-foot drop. When Mrs. Sears found the boy, he had slid down the sheets, feet first, between the mattress and the slats. It's head couldn't go through and the baby was left hanging there.

Mrs. Sears lifted the child from the bunk and ran to the house where she tried to revive the baby by throwing water on it. But it failed to respond.

When the child didn't revive, Mrs. Sears ran to the road and flagged down a car. The driver rushed to Bancroft and notified Dr. O. W. Anderson, who is also the district coroner.

PRONOUNCED DEAD

Upon arrival at the Sears house, Dr. Anderson pronounced the baby dead due to strangulation. It is believed the child was dead when the grandmother found it in the trailer. Cpl. Archie Grayling, Bancroft detachment O.P.P., investigated. No inquest will be held.

The boy was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Woodcox. The funeral was held today from the grandparents' home and burial was in St. John's Anglican church cemetery.

Youth Falls 40 Feet Lies Hr. Before Rescue

HAMILTON (CP)—Nelson Bulloch, 17, suffered internal injuries and skull cuts last night when he fell 40 feet down a shaft and lay there an hour before being rescued.

Hospital officials said today his condition was fair. Police said they believed the young hard-rock miner working on a sewer project, had been overcome by gas fumes.

He has played hockey with Toronto Marlboros and Timmins Lions Club.

Dr. John Harper was lowered down the shaft to administer morphine before Bulloch was brought to the surface.

Could Lower Lake By 12 Inches—Official

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The chairman of the United States section of the International Joint Commission predicted today that the level of Lake Ontario could be lowered 12 inches.

Augustus O. Stanley added, after a 160-mile power-boat tour of the lakefront near here, that he expects the joint commission to "afford a degree of relief" after a public hearing scheduled for tomorrow.

Stanley said the Gut Dam in the St. Lawrence River contributed at least 8½ inches to the height of the Lake Ontario water. Drainage of the Ogoki river in Northern Ontario into the Great Lakes basin, diverted from the Hudson Bay basin in 1937, accounted for another two or three inches, he said.

Stanley, former U.S. senator from Kentucky, was accompanied on today's tour by Roger McWhorter, a commission member, and State Department and army engineers representatives.

At tomorrow's hearing, the commisioners hope to see and hear every particle of evidence."

10 Prisoners Escape

GALT (CP)—Ten prisoners at the Ontario girls training school here escaped Sunday. Later three them were picked up by Provincial Police at Brantford. School officials refused to discuss the breakout, said to be the largest in the institution's history.

Missing Man Drowned In Trent Canal

Youth 24, Attending Railway Picnic, Companion Vanishes

Richard Charles Dwelly, a 24-year-old Toronto factory worker, drowned Saturday afternoon in the Trent Canal, 150 feet south of the Liftlock. He was within easy shouting distance of other swimmers and his companion was only a few feet away.

Because of a strange mixup, the body of Dwelly was not identified until nearly 30 hours after the drowning. At 9:30 p.m. Sunday a brother, Frank of 79 Salem Ave., Toronto, went to Kaye's funeral home and said it was his brother, Richard.

The accident occurred about 4 p.m. Saturday and the body was not found until 9:20 a.m. Sunday. Both firemen and city police tried dragging late Saturday afternoon and Saturday evening but thick weeds impeded their work.

The only previous clue was the nickname "Ricky" that Dwelly was known by to a chance acquaintance, Roy S. Clayton of Maint St., Toronto. While the search for the body was still going on Clayton picked up the drowned man's clothing—including the trousers that would probably contain a wallet, and a means of identification—and made off.

As of press time today Clayton had not reported to Peterborough police.

It is understood, however, that Toronto police recovered the clothes Sunday afternoon. City police have not yet been informed of this by the Toronto Police Department.

Clayton told a Toronto St. John Ambulance man, who saw him on a city bus with the clothes, that he knew his friend was drowned and was taking them back to the railway station.

CromiePresident Drama Festival

TORONTO (CP)—Donald Cromie, publisher of the Vancouver Sun, has accepted the presidency of the Dominion Drama Festival, succeeding D. Park Jamieson of Sarnia.

Acceptance by Mr. Cromie, a former president of the Vancouver Little Theatre Association, was announced today by David J. Ongley of Toronto, vice-president of the festival.

At 37 Mr. Cromie becomes the third president of the festival since it was formed in 1932 by the Earl of Bessborough. First president was the late Col. Henry Osborne of Ottawa.

The next festival will be held at Victoria, the first time it has been staged in British Columbia. Policy is to select a president from the province where the festival will be held that year.

FIREMEN DRAGGED for the body of Richard Charles Dwelly, 24, of Toronto, Saturday afternoon and evening, but without success. Thick weeds hampered them and when the victim's companion disappeared it was thought it might have been a hoax. But Sunday morning two children saw the body in the canal just south of the Lift Lock at a point marked with an X, and the body was soon recovered. Dwelly was attending the C.P.R. picnic.—(Parks Studio Photo)

Say Labor Law May Play Campaign Role

WASHINGTON (AP)—Politicians, both Republican and Democratic, are wondering what part the controversial Taft-Hartley labor law will play in the United States presidential campaign and fights for lesser offices next November.

The Republican platform includes a plank which defends the law as a good one but calls for "such amendments" as time may indicate are needed. None is mentioned specifically.

In 1948, the Democratic platform attacked the law, passed in 1947 over President Truman's veto, and pledged the party to repeal it.

Repeal never came, although serious efforts were made by both Democrats and Republicans to change the law. Organized labor has been unalterably opposed to it and has made strong demands on the Democrats at Chicago for repeal.

The act was written by the Republican-controlled 80th Congress. Almost half of it is in the form of an amendment to the Wagner Act—the National Labor Relations Act of 1935.

Most leaders of labor were well satisfied with the Wagner Act. Management, however, did not regard it in as kindly a light. Union leaders want the Taft-Hartley Act erased from the statute books and the Wagner Act put in its place.

Number one reason: They don't like the Taft-Hartley injunction provisions.

THE DIFFERENCES

The act provides for different types of these devices, but the one most bitterly assailed was designed for use in national emergency strikes. It allows the president, after setting up a fact-finding board, to ask a U.S. district court for an 80-day, no-strike court order.

The Wagner Act contained no injunctive provisions at all.

Drive Chinese Off Hill Crest

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—United Nations infantry today drove Chinese Communists off the crest of Old Baldy' on the Korean western front in the wake of a tremendous barrage by artillery, tanks and planes.

The bitterly-contested neight west of Chorwon was captured, but front-line dispatches indicated the crest of the hill was a no-man's land with U.N. troops dug in below.

A U.S. Eight Army staff officer said the hill definitely was not secured and Associated Press correspondent George McArthur said the Chinese had not given up their bid for the vital hill they wrested from the Allies last Thursday. Chinese soldiers were sneaking back despite intense Allied fire.

More than 50 U.N. planes raked the hill with flaming gasoline, rockets and machine-gun fire. U.N. tanks and artillery blanketed the hill.

Chinese casualties were reported heavy.

Communist artillery fire was heavy but did not equal that of the Allies. Red fire, however, knocked out two U.N. tanks. Both sides continued hurling shells this afternoon.

Premier Qavam Resigns As Mobs Storm Parliament

TEHRAN (AP)—Premier Ahmed Qavam resigned tonight after violent hours-long rioting in Tehran and other cities subsided. He gave up, after two days, his attempt to form a government pledged to solving Iran's oil deadlock. Before Qavam gave up, near-revolutionary violence flared, with Communists strengthening Nationalist mobs. Government forces with gun shots, tear gas and bayonets fought to keep control.

Twenty persons were reported killed in the bloody rioting. No official reason was given for Qavam's quitting but apparently he acted to stop bloodshed.

As news of Qavam's resignation spread crowds began marching towards the residence of former Premier Mohammed Mossadegh.

Today's fighting broke out when a crowd of some 2,000 persons tried to storm the parliament building.

Wild disorder reigned throughout the city. Countless numbers of demonstrators were injured or arrested. In many instances troops charged into surging crowds with fixed bayonets, leaving bloody injured behind.

CRY "DEATH TO QAVAM"

"Death to Qavam," the mobs shouted wildly, venting their fury at the new Premier's declaration that a settlement of Iran's long and crippling oil dispute with Britain would be a chief aim of his regime and that nationalist violence would not stop him.

Today's demonstrators were supporters of the former premier, Nationalist leader Mohammed Mossadegh, but many members of the outlawed Communist Tudeh party swelled the crowds.

Says Industry Revoked Plan

PITTSBURGH (AP)—President Philip Murray of the United Steel workers (C.I.O.) charged today that the steel industry repudiated a strike settlement which he worked out with officials of Bethlehem Steel Corporation last June 17.

Murray told the U.S.W.'s 170-man wage-policy committee that President Charles White of Republic Steel previously had urged the steel companies to accept suggestions thought could have led to a settlement.

The potent wage-policy committee was called together to hear Murray's report on the 50-day walkout which has made idle more than 1,500,000 and to give the union chief some guidance on future strategy.

The committee heard Murray say that negotiations with Vice-President Joseph M. Larkin of Bethlehem and Bethlehem counsel John Morse produced a "memorandum of understanding" in which the steel company executives "substantially accepted the union shop."

Murray said Larkin and Morse took the memorandum before the other major producers with the understanding they would press for its acceptance.

Murray said that June 20, the Bethlehem Steel men returned and "both expressed considerable disappointment that the other steel companies had refused to accept what they believed to be a solution of every aspect of this situation."

Murray added:

"They stated they had been repudiated and told us they felt a deep sense of humiliation."

Seven Injured Near Port Hope

PORT HOPE. — Seven Toronto persons, including three children, were taken to hospital here Sunday after a two-car, head-on collision on No. 2 Highway east of here. Most seriously injured was William Howard, 73, of Maplewood Ave., who suffered a crushed chest and broken arm.

Police Chief C. W. Graham said Herbert Johnson of Jarvis St., Toronto, has been arrested and charged with driving while his ability was impaired.

Howard was a passenger in an eastbound auto driven by his son, George, 44, who suffered minor injuries. Miss Alice Arkwell, an aunt of George Howard, was also hurt and removed to the Toronto General Hospital, where her condition is reported as satisfactory. The three were on the first day of their vacation.

Police said the Howard car collided with a westbound auto driven by Johnson. Mrs. Robert Barlow, 28, of Mutual St., and her three children, all passengers in the west-bound car, were treated for minor injuries at Port Hope General Hospital.

Chief Graham said the westbound car swerved to avoid an auto preceding it and collided with the Howard auto.

Charged With Murder In Woman's Death

TORONTO (CP)—George W. Humble, 41, was charged witt murder today after the death in hospital of Jean Peters, 41-year-old hand lotion demonstrator.

Humble previously was charged with attempted murder. He is alleged to have shot Miss Peters three times on July 9 during an argument in the house they shared. Police found her lying in a pool of blood on a chesterfield.

Thieves Get Haul

SUTTON (CP)—Thieves Saturday night entered a summer cottage here through a bedroom window and stole $2,300 worth of jewelry and clothing while a bridge game was in progress on the verandah. The cottage is owned by Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Hansen of Toronto.

Doctors and Nurses Fighting Way To Stricken Area

LOS ANGELES (AP)—At least nine persons died today as California's strongest earthquake in nearly a half-century hit with sudden violence in sparsely-settled mountains north of here. Rescue crews trying to reach the stricken town of Tehachapi fought against blocked roads and downed power lines. Reports filtering out of the little mountain community pleaded for doctors and nurses. Sheriff's Capt. F. D. Jones in Bakersfield, nearest major city to the quake's centre, said: "It looks like there must be many injuries."

Two tunnels, used jointly by the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe railroads were blocked by cave-ins, Jones reported.

He added that the situation on the main highway between Bakersfield and the desert town of Mojave which goes through Tehachapi, was so bad that ambulances and sheriff's cars were trying an old road through the hills.

The quake was felt generally through much of California, from San Francisco south to the Mexican border and inland into Nevada.

The Ridge route, main inland highway between here and San Francisco, was closed by a towering earth slide, which the state highway patrol reported was 25 feet high at one point.

The first report of loss of life came from the Kern county sheriff's office, in Bakersfield.

WHOLE TOWN DOWN

Sgt. Carl L. Weber said, "the whole town of Tehachapi is down, according to our reports."

He ordered all available ambulances from Bakersfield and other county towns, and from the naval ordinance test station at China Lake, northeast of the little town in the foothills of the Tehachapi Mountains.

OIL-TANKS AFLAME

Fire in the Paloma oil field, about seven miles southwest of Bakersfield, swept storage tanks within moments after the quake, Weber said. There was no reported loss of life there.

At California Institute of Technology, seismologists gave the first clue to the centre of the quake, felt over most of a vast area with a rolling motion.

Caltech rated its intensity at 7½ on a scale of eight, compared with 6¼ for the Long Beach quake which killed scores near here in 1933. The San Francisco quake of 1906, one of the worst on record, rated 8¼ on that scale.

Man Survives 44,000 Volts

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—A man was hit with a 44,000-volt charge of electricity yesterday and lived.

The charge was 20 times the voltage and from 125 to 200 times the amperage used in some electric chairs.

Don Cunningham, 27, an electrician's helper, was preparing to help clean and paint the electric sub-station of American Foundry and Machine Company when a wire-reinforced ladder he was moving touched a 44,000-volt power line in the building.

The blast of electricity caused severe burns on Cunningham's feet and chest and knocked him several feet across the room.

When other workers reached him, Cunningham was not breathing and his hair and clothing were afire. Chief electrician Lester Hansen applied artificial respiration and revived him.

Cunningham was taken to hospital, where his condition was described as "fairly good."

'Quake Makes Town Shambles In Few Seconds

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP)—A witness to the earthquake at Tehachapi early today said "there was a terrifying rumble" and in a matter of seconds the whole town "was turned into a shambles."

Ed Ritter, of Riverside, said this was how he saw it:

"I had just driven into a service station in Tehachapi for gas when there was a terrifying rumble.

"The earth rocked convulsively and the entire face of buildings on the main street crumbled and fell into the roadway.

TUMBLE INTO STREET

"The lights went out. Then men, women and children poured from the wrecked building. Some of the men and the children were screaming and moaning as they crouched in the streets.

"A big water tower at the head of the street collapsed and the water swirled through the debris of the main street."

Kent Prisoners Demonstrate

CHATHAM (CP)—A demonstration by prisoners at the Kent county jail yesterday was reported put down seven minutes after a call for help was sent in to city police.

No prison break was attempted, guards attacked. It was learned guards atacked. It was learned that about a dozen prisoners took their food, dumped it on the floor and threw it down the corridor.

Jail officials refused to disclose any information about the reported demonstration.

The policemen, called to help in quelling the demonstration were reported to have been told not to say anything about what went on in the prison unless authorized by the chief constable, now out of town on his holidays, or by the sheriff, who has refused to say what went on.

Report Eva Peron Rallies Slightly

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Eva Peron, gravely ill wife of Argentina's President Juan Peron, was reported holding her own today after rallying slightly over the week-end.

A medical bulletin said there was no change in her condition in the last 24 hours. Fears had been expressed for her life Friday after she took a turn for the worse in her nine-month-old illness.

Yesterday thousands of organized workers under leadership of the general confederation of labor stood in the rain in Buenos Aires' central Plaza de la Republica for nationwide mass praying for her recovery.

The blonde first lady underwent an operation last November after consultations with a New York cancer and tumor specialist. The nature of her illness has never been officially disclosed.

Handed Down For Generations

Saskatchewan Indians Revive Rain Dance

INDIAN HEAD, Sask. (CP)—Ancient ceremonies of the Rain Dance have been revived by Saskatchewan's Indians after a lapse of many years.

Assiniboine Indians of the Sintaluta reserve near here staged a Rain Dance following another held near Carlyle, Sas., where Indians from both sides of the international border participated in costumes which district residents had not seen before.

The revivals mark a part of Indian religious life being passed on by older members of the tribes to the younger generations at a time when it was about extinct.

On the Sintaluta reserve, only the dancers were costumed, their bodies painted with patterns interpreted from dreams.

But much of the pageantry was lost. Ordinary farm clothes of other participants appeared incongruous with the ancient rites.

GENERAL APPLICATION

Although called a Rain Dance, the Sintaluta ceremony could be called a Sun Dance. Its prayers might be for rain, sunshine, peace, health or the general welfare of the tribe. Special requests are made for the healing of the sick or the protection of those in danger.

Three women took part in the ceremony to plead for the safe return of soldier sons in Korea and Germany.

No written accounts exist within the tribe of the ritual handed down orally from generation to generation. Thus there were many variations among the bands who gathered on the reserve from File Hills, Moose Mountain and Crooked Lake in Canada and Fort Bellamy and Fort Peck in Montana.

Tangled trails led six miles from here to the camping ground.

In the centre of a secluded area stood the medicine lodge, constructed of poles covered with leafy branches.

In the centre of the lodge was the upright Sacred Tree, painted on all sides. It was striped to represent lightning and tied with broad streamers of red, white and blue cloth at the top and other colors at the bottom.

SYMBOLIC COLORS

The colors have a definite significance. Red is for sacrifice, blue for the sky, white for day and black for night.

Extending from the Sacred Tree were 40 poles, said to represent the 40 days Christ spent in the wilderness.

Inside the lodge a railing formed an inner circle behind which the ceremonial dancers performed.

Men with drums were seated around a buffalo hide. They chanted and sang the ancient songs. At intervals, the dancers rose from behind the inner circular partition, their painted bodies swaying to the drum rhythm.

Most kept time to the drums with whistles made of eagle-wing bones. Feathers dangled from the whistles, held in clenched teeth. The dancers also carried large eagle feathers which they waved as they danced.

Albert Eashappie, George O'Watch, Charles Ryder and others led the ceremonies. All fasted 12 hours before the ceremony and continued their fast for two ritual days. Then they joined in the feast and merry-making which climaxed the reunion.

It Shouldn't Happen To A Seadog

Half Fleet Capsizes- Remainder Beached

VICTORIA (CP) — The Royal Canadian Naval Sailing Association scheduled a regatta for Esquimalt harbor Saturday.

What happened shouldn't happen to a seadog.

The 10-boat snipe fleet was racing from Cadboro Bay to Esquimalt when a 50-mile-an-hour gale sprang up.

Half the fleet capsized. One boat lost her mast. The remainder were beached. No one was injured.

Two other navy boats racing in Esuimalt harbor also capsized.

Some details of what may go down in the annals of the Royal Canadian Navy as the "Disaster of Clover Point":

Llyle Russell's Ishkoodah lost her mast off Trail Island when a shroud gave way. She was taken in tow by the navy tug Lakewood but turned over under tow, broke loose and was washed ashore at Clover Point. A new suit of sails was lost.

ONE BOAT CRUSHED

Several boats dumped off Clover Point when they ran into the full force of the gale. These included Sub.-Lt. Michael Powell's Malahat and Navy Nursing Sister Betty Dawson's Cee Bee. Malahat's port side was crushed in when she drifted ashore.

Navy cadet Morgan Earl beached his PDG. Joyce Roberts' Wee Joe shed her rudder and was blown up on the city sewage outlet.

Commissioned engineer Alec Satchwell's Roughrider and CPO. H. Balcome's Scarlet Runner were beached on Clover Point. Lieut. Robert Leckie ran his Stormy Petrel aground in a cove.

Cmdr. P. H. Sinclair suffered the worst ignominy of all. His Nova dumped off Brotchie Ledge, was re-floated, then turned turtle again when she got inside the harbor.

One navy dinghy and one whaler also capsized in the harbor.

While all this was going on, the Lakewood and a pilotage boat were dashing frantically to and fro picking up dunked sailors and taking their craft in tow.

Luxury Liner Rescues 45 From Sea

NEW YORK (AP)—The luxury liner Gripsholm turned mercy ship Saturday and snatched from death 45 of 49 persons fleeing a freighter fire 65 miles off the eastern tip of Long Island.

The 5,000-ton freighter, the Black Gull, carried nine passengers, a crew of 49 and a rich cargo, including volatile chemicals.

A Gripsholm lifeboat, churning through the tossing waters of the Atlantic before dawn, plucked 21 officers and crew members from the bow of the flaming freighter.

They were clustered together, ready to leap into the sea as the chemically-fed inferno roared relentlessly toward them.

Another 24 crew members and passengers, six of them women, had jammed into the Black Gull's last lifeboat and pulled away from the burning vessel.

The other lifeboat had been lost.

FOUR MEN LOST

The four missing crew members leaped off the stern of the Black Gull.

Coast Guard cutters and planes found no trace of them.

The smouldering wreckage of the Black Gull was taken under tow yesterday by a salvage tug.

Forty-four of the 45 survivors were transferred from the Gripsholm to the Coast Guard cutter Mackinac and were brought to Staten Island here Saturday night. Eight went to hospital.

The 45th man, Third Officer Nils Varen, was burned so badly he was kept aboard the Sweden-bound Gripsholm for medical treatment.

STEWARDESS LAUDED

One of the surviving passengers, Thomas Lesson, a Briton accompanied by his wife, said a blonde stewardess known only as Suzanne was the Black Gull's heroine.

She calmly went about the ship, arousing passengers and helping them into lifebelts and the one lifeboat, he said.

Lesson said persons in the lifeboat found the heat from the burning ship so intense they had to crawl into the water to keep cool.

Democrats Fear Deadlock As Convention Under Way

By C. R. BLACKBURN

CHICAGO (CP)—Democrats today plunged into their 31st national convention to pick a presidential candidate with scarcely anyone prepared to make even a guess as to the ultimate choice. An exception was Estes Kefauver, crime busting Senator from Tennessee. This 48-year-old aspirant made a round of the delegation headquarters late Sunday night and declared he was sure of the nomination and had his campaign and administration plans well in hand.

He is leading the numerous candidates in the number of state delegations pledged to vote for him, but there are many observers here who say he cannot win.

17 CANDIDATES

There are about 17 avowed candidates claiming a total of 725 pledges among the 1,230 full votes on the convention floor. A candidate needs 616 to win. There are at least 500 unpledged votes and it is reported President Truman could swing 400 of them.

Thus the answer to the party's choice may lie with the president who so far has refused to disclose his preference.

Thomas J. Gavin, a Kansas City real estate man, is Truman's alternate delegate on the Missouri delegation and will cast the president's vote.

Best guessing here seems to be that Alben Barkley of Kentucky, vice-president and popular man with all parties, who wants to be president, has a good chance of winning the nomination.

His age—74—is against him, and on that account Labor leaders said they would not support him. But he is notoriously robust. When he arrived at the Illinois central station he walked the five blocks to the Blackstone Hotel.

Averell Harriman, the New York multi-millionaire administrator of mutual security funds and a key man in the administration's international affairs for years, is looked upon as a strong contender. He is believed to have Truman's backing, if any in the field has, but it is doubtful if he could get southern support.

1948 PLANK

He advocates the 1948 Democratic platform plank for a Fair Employment Practices Commission which split the party wide open then and now threatens to do it again.

This will be a subject to debate on the convention floor today or Tuesday and it would seem there must be some sort of compromise before the party can hope to win an election next November.

The F.E.P.C. proposes a federally-administered organization to ensure fair treatment of Negroes. Southerners oppose it on grounds that such things are for the states to administer.

Senator Robert Kerr of Oklahoma, an oil millionaire who was born in a log cabin and has a replica of it in his committee rooms, is a colorful but probably unsuccessful candidate.

The man who might be the leading contender but for a reluctance just short of absolute refusal is Governor Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, a 52-year-old divorced man whose marital status might be against him even in spite of his great popularity. No divorced man has ever been president. All this uncertainty adds up to about the dullest convention on record.

Strangely enough the most activity about the convention hotel Sunday was a demonstration of placard carriers booming General Douglas MacArthur, who made the keynote address at the Republican convention.

About the only thing likely to spark the convention into life would be an announcement from the White House that Truman would himself be available or had made a straight endorsement of a candidate.

THE SAME FIGHT

The question of whether Truman would agree to run again in the event of a deadlocked convention was still being discussed. George Allen, a close friend of the president, said in a television broadcast he believes Truman would let the Democrats nominate him for another term if the party's convention should become a "real deadlock."

Democrats, like Republicans, have a fight over disputed delegations. Two delegations are here from Texas and Mississippi, each claiming to be the rightful representative of its state.

Prices Slip Downward On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO (CP)—Prices edged downward today in slow early afternoon stock market dealings.

Volume for the first three hours was 910,000 shares.

Textiles led industrials with a scattered list of fractional declines. Papers, steels, foods and refining oils also slipped but liquors and manufacturing companies edged upward. Utilities and banks were mixed.

Western oil losses outnumbered gains about two-to-one. Anglo-Canadian, Britalta, Marigold, North Canadian, Peace River and Scurry slipped.

Base metals eased as Ason, Bervue, Consolidated Smelters, East Sullivan, International Nickel, Noranda and United Keno Hill turned lower.

Senior golds showed little change. Junior producers and prospects posted a slim majority of penny losses. Holding companies were mixed.

The exchange's 1 p.m. indices showed industrials down .22 at 319.42, golds down .08 at 94.44, base metals down .22 at 191.28 and western oils down .57 at 137.69.

Fear Trout Streams Soon All Be Private

LONDON (CP)—Concern at the number of persons purchasing small trout streams, therefore cutting down the number of places where less fortunate individuals might fish, was expressed Saturday by the executive of the Huron and Erie zone, Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters.

In a discussion of amendments to the Game and Fisheries Act conducted by E. R. Meadows, of the Lands and Forests Department, members expressed anxiety regarding the future of trout fishing.

The situation was termed "serious" by Mr. Meadows because of the number of persons purchasing head waters of trout streams.

Die On Fishing Trip

CREEDE, Colo. (AP)—Five persons homeward bound from a Sunday fishing trip were killed last night when their light plane crashed into Mammoth Mountain just above the water tower north of Creede, Colo.

Dazed Guide Brings Aid To Injured Pilot

ROLPHTON — A dazed guide, one shoulder dislocated, both legs and his scalp gashed in an airplane crash, wandered a half-mile through dense woodland to summon aid for the injured pilot. Another companion perished in the accident.

The victim was Charles Johnston of Troy, N.Y., proprietor of a hunting and fishing camp in Quebec near the Dumoine River, and 35 miles north of Rolphton, site of the Des Joachims hydro development on the Ottawa River.

Johnston was killed instantly when a single-engined Seebee amphibian crashed in shallow water along the shore of the Dumoine River. The engine failed on takeoff, causing the aircraft to stall and pitch back into the water.

Pilot William Wilt, 30, of Albany, N.Y., and guide Percy Larice, 31, of Deep River, Ont., were knocked unconscious by the impact. Both are in Deep River Hospital, Wilt with severe shock, head cuts, and loss of blood. His wife arrived today at Deep River from Albany.

Missing Man

ON PICNIC

The two men came to Peterborough with a group of C.P.R. picnickers from Toronto, who spent the day at Nicholls Oval.

During the afternoon, Dwelly and Clayton went down to the canal, and decided to go in swimming just south of the liftlock.

Around four o'clock, Clayton dozed off, on the bank, while Dwelly was in the water, a short distance off shore.

When Clayton awoke, about 4:30, he found Dwelly's clothing beside his own on the bank, but there was no sign of his companion.

An unidentified American tourist saw Clayton frantically running up and down along the bank, shouting "Ricky."

The tourist ran across the road to the home of Lew Clarke, who lives on the east side of Armour Road, across from where the tragedy occurred.

NEARLY HYSTERICAL

He explained what had happened to Mr. Clarke, who telephoned the police. When Patrol Sgt. Gordon Trennum arrived, Clayton was in a semi-hysterical condition. He kept calling "Ricky" and running along the bank.

Clayton told Sgt. Trennum that he only knew the man he was with as a casual acquaintance and that they had been drinking liquor on the way down on the train and during the afternoon. He was able to give the man's age as about 22, and said he lived at 228 Concord Ave., Toronto. Clayton was only able to identify the man as Ricky, which he told Sgt. Trennum was the man's last name.

While Sgt. Trennum was learning the particulars of the incident, he and Mr. Clarke, who had come across the road to the canal bank, looked up and saw Clayton running up the steep bank of the Lift Lock.

Clayton was carrying both his own clothing and that of the man he identified as Ricky. That was the last that anyone has seen of Clayton or the clothing.

DOUBTED STORY

When Clayton could not be located and failed to return, Sgt. Trennum began to doubt the truth of his story. However, he went ahead and arranged to have the Trent Canal drained at 9 p.m.

Shortly after 6 p.m., Firemen John Luther and Red Ray began dragging the canal, but from the start, their efforts were hampered by weeds a few feet off the bank.

About 30 people had gathered along the bank by 6:45, but when a search of Nicholls Oval failed to turn up the missing Clayton, Sgt. Trennum became even more sceptical of the story Clayton had told him, before fleeing north over the Lift Lock hill.

Shortly after 8 p.m. dragging operations were called off.

SEEN BY BOYS

The body was discovered Sunday morning by two nine-year-old Armour Road boys—Ted Sillvester and Ronnie Peters. The two boys saw the dragging operations Saturday night and started out early Sunday to see if they could see the body now that the sun was out.

They walked along the canal bank and noticed "something white" in a clump of weeds, lying on the bottom. It was the drowning victim, lying in seven feet of water about 20 feet from the west bank of the canal.

The boys ran to Trent Canalman Clair Trew and reported their find. Mr. Trew confirmed it by going out in his punt, and he could see the body, unclothed but for undershorts, lying on the bottom.

Dwelly was pulled from the canal by Captain Bill Sorrie of the fire department and Constable Wilfred Perry. He was taken to the Kaye funeral home where he was later identified by his brother, after being missing nearly 30 hours.

Toronto police were informed of the drowning and the difficulty of identification. And they informed the Dwelly family.

Dies In Hospital After Crash

KINGSTON (CP)—Shirley Mcgill 21, of Newburgh, died in hospital Sunday night as a result of head injuries suffered in a two-car crash here.

Also injured in the Saturday night collision were Glen Lockhead, 37, facial lacerations, and Gertrude Lockhead, 35, hip injury. Both live at Napanee. Their condition today was described as satisfactory. Police said the driver of one of the cars, Mary Schwar, Kingston, was not injured. The other driver was Glen Lockhead.

Obituary

MRS. EDGAR ROSEVEAR

ROSENEATH (ENS)—Relatives and friends at Roseneath learned of the death Saturday of Mrs. Edgar Rosevear, for many years a resident of this community. Her death occurred at her home near Port Hope, following an illness of two weeks.

Formerly Harriett White, she was born near Dartford 71 years ago, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph White, receiving her elementary education at S.S. 10, Percy. Forty-nine years ago she was married and came to the Rosevear farm, east of Roseneath, where they resided for many years. Mrs. Rosevear was an active member of Roseneath Women's Institute, a member of the Roseneath Methodist Church and assisted with the choir work.

Having disposed of their large farm here, they moved to a farm near Port Hope, where they have resided since.

Mrs. Rosevear is survived by her husband, one daughter, Mrs. Oscar Lightle (Helen), of Camborne; a son, Gussie, of Tyrone; a sister, Mrs. Harry Jones (Mabel), Toronto.

The funeral service was held today at the George funeral home, Port Hope, at 2.30 p.m.

Premier Qavam

The ultra-Nationalist Pan-Iran party, spearhead of a drive to force Mossadegh back into power, has threatened Qavam with assassination.

Witnesses to the firing in the Parliament Square said police and soldiers opened up with revolvers and automatic rifles as some demonstrators attempted to climb the gates and walls. The soldiers fired into the air at first in an effort to disperse the crowd. When this failed, they threw tear gas.

One reporter said at least 12 persons fell to the ground after the first volley of shots.

Mobs of 600 to 700 converged on the square from various parts of the city for an hour after the first outbreak, but military police finally gained control.

SWARM OVER TANK

In the city's main square a crowd of 3,000 swarmed over an army tank and surged on toward other waiting soldiers.

The soldiers and demonstrators began embracing and kissing when a false report spread that Qavam had resigned.

Thousands of troops patroll the city.

Police reported crowds in some sections of the city dragged corpses through the streets to arouse other followers.

Anti-Mossadegh newspapers were reported under attack.

Only a few hours before the parliament incident, pro-Mossadegh deputies broadcast a radio appeal to their supporters to quit demonstrating and avoid clashes with the soldiers and police. Apparently, they feared the Communists might take control of the demonstrations in order to create public panic. Nearly all of Tehran's 30 privately-owned bus lines halted. Most shops were closed in the capital.

SIREN SONG — Shirley Harder, 19, who placed third, perches atop a police cruiser, hand on the siren, announcing the Toronto Police Games and bathing beauty contest. Winner among the 60 beauty contestants, Thelma Brewes, got a $1,000 prize and the Miss Toronto Title.

Selwyn Women Plan August W.I. Meeting

SELWYN — (ENS). — Highlight of the Women's Institute meeting held in the church hall this past week was the demonstration put on by a sewing machine firm to the 16 members and 10 visitors that were present.

The president, Mrs. Kenneth Sweeting, was in charge. For the August meeting the ladies planned to join with the Lakefield Institute in a bus trip to the nepheline mines. That will take place on August 7. On September 4 in the evening they plan a trip to Apsley for a meeting, when Selwyn women are asked to provide the program.

Before the demonstration started, a piano duet was played by Mrs. Clayton Fitzgerald and her daughter Pauline. One new member joined the Institute.

Planning 3rd Defence College Along Richelieu

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's third officer-training school will be called College Militaire Royal de St. Jean, a French name for an institution designed primarily to meet the need for French-speaking officers in the three armed forces.

Announcement was made today of the name of the school that will be located at St. Johns, Que., near Montreal, on one of the most historic military sites in Canada and one which American invaders once called the key to the conquest of Canada.

The school will join Royal Military College at Kingston and Royal Roads on Vancouver Island this September in the job of training young men to be officers. They are jointly called the Canadian services Colleges.

It now is possible for young men with junior matriculation to have their way paid through the services colleges if they agree to stay in the forces three years after graduation. Men going into fighting-branch or executive commissions need only two years training now. Men going into the technical branches need four.

For the time being, cadets will go to St. Johns one year, then on to R.M.C or a university. It is designed primarily for French-speaking cadets but is open to students from all over Canada and will stress the teaching of languages other than the mother tongue to any given student.

The new college is on a site on the Richelieu River which was a trading post three centuries ago. Champlain sailed past there in 1609 and eventually all military expeditions came to use it as a rendezvous en route to Lake Champlain and northern New York state.

FIRST FORT

History indicates the first fort was built in 1748. When, in August, 1760, it appeared to the French the fort would fall into the hands of the English, Commandant de Roquemaure had it blown up in compliance with orders from Governor de Vaudreuil. Rebuilt under English rule by Governor Carleton in 1775, St. Jean was tagged by invaders from the south as the "key to Canada" during the American Revolution.

On several occasions in 1775 large forces of United States troops under General Montgomery were sent against the fort. One contingent of 800 men, after landing nearby, was "seized with a sudden panic and dispersed."

FALLS UNDER SIEGE

Under Maj. Charles Preston, elements of the 26th regiment assisted by French-Canadian troops and Indians held the fort for 45 days against a powerful American siege. When forced to capitulate because of food and ammunition shortages, the garrison demanded and received the right to "march out with the honors of war" because, as General Montgomery declared, "of their fortitude and perseverance."

Again, some 65 years later, the fort played a prominent part in the rebellion of 1837-38.

Little of the old forts remain. Three brick buildings still in use around the parade square date back to 1837. The administration building was constructed just prior to 1939.

Graduated Nurse In Hospital After Accident

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — A Campbellford girl who recently graduated from Peterborough Civic Hospital is back as a patient today following an accident on Highway 30 near Campbellford on Saturday night.

Betty Sutton was a passenger in a car driven by Jerome Forester, of 100 Bedford St., Port Hope. She received lacerations to the forehead and bruises while another passenger in the auto, Donna Bound, of Campbellford, was less seriously injured. She suffered a bruised head. ➳

The car driven by Forester was travelling north on Highway 30 following a truck driven by Geo. F. Elmhurst, of R.R. 4, Campbellford. The truck had stopped, and another car had stopped behind it. Mr. Forester swung out to pass the truck, which started to pull out also, and struck the front left fender of the truck with the right side of his car, a small English make, sending the lighter vehicle rolling onto its side. The injured were all in the car.

A third car, one which had stopped behind the truck, disappeared after the accident, and no trace of it has yet been found. Provincial Constable Archie Eady investigated. No charges were laid.

THIS SMALL ENGLISH AUTO came out second best in a mixup with a truck on Highway 30 about four miles north of Campbellford on Saturday night. Driver, Jerome N. Forester of 100 Bedford St., Port Hope, was uninjured, but two passengers, Donna Bound and Betty Sutton, required medical attention for cuts and bruises. Miss Sutton, a graduate of Civic Hospital, is back as a patient today as a result of the mishap.—(W. W. Reid Photo).

Counties Council Strikes Mill Rate Amid Protests

COBOURG — (ENS).—Twelve and a half mill rate for Northumberland and Durham Counties in 1952 was struck at Saturday's session of the Counties council. This is an increase of one mill over last year.

The rate was not raised without a struggle and objecting strenuously was Reeve Elmer Scott of Hope Township, who said that a half-mill increase was all right in view of the decision to wipe off the two years' deficit of $18,000, but not a whole mill, and he did not see why council could not do some economizing and keep within the budget.

Discussion on the finance report became almost hopelessly involved in motions, amendments and amendments to amendments, until one councillor pleaded for a new motion to throw out all the previous motions and amendments and to start over again. However, after about an hour's talk, council did what other councils under similar circumstances have done in the past, worked its way back to the beginning and passed the finance report without amendment. The confusion of motions and amendments stemmed from Reeve Scott's demand to keep the tax rate down by cutting expenses, the discussion swinging to hospital grants.

The finance committee had recommended that the amount of 50 cents per day be deducted from hospital bills of counties patients attending Peterborough Civic Hospital, as of July 18. Reeve R. McCann of Brighton Township pointed out that $8.00 in grants to hospitals had been authorized at this session, and it was showing partiality to provide a 50-cent per day bonus for people living in the north end of the counties who go to Peterborough Civic Hospital. There were counties' residents in the east end of the counties who went to Belleville Hospital and Reeve McCann moved that they be given this assistance too. Reeve J. H. Lowery of Clarke Township declared that up in his end of the counties it was handy to go to Oshawa Hospital.

"WE'LL GO BROKE"

"If we keep this up we'll go broke," piped up another councillor.

"It is only for the past five years that we have been getting any help in going to the Peterborough hospital although we have been paying for 50 years to help other hospitals by way of grants," it was pointed out by Deputy-Reeve L. Hootan of Cavan Township.

"Let's discontinue all hospital grants then," suggested Reeve A. Billen of Seymour Township. Reeve A.. Beer of Manvers Township said that such a move would be unfair to those hospitals which had planned their expenditures by including the expected grants. Reeve J. Simpson of Brighton Village sponsored a motion that no moneys be paid to any hospital outside the counties.

Two more amendments worked their way into the ensuing tangle until Reeve Ralph Locke of Campbellford, chairman of the finance committee, asked the Warden where they stood in regard to which amendment to vote on first. By process of some sponsors of amendments agreeing to withdraw their amendments, plus a couple that were lost in the shuffle, the vote finally centred on Reeve Simpson's amendment, which was defeated. After all this discussion, council ended up where it started by passing the report as read.

In regard to the mill increase, chairman Ralph Locke explained that, apart from the half-mill to wipe off the deficits of the past two years, the other half-mill was due to expenses over which the council had no control, such as old hospital accounts, some of which went as far back as 1948.

E. R. Marsten, Department of Highways engineer, told the council that the Department was quite pleased with the construction work done to date this year, but he warned them that some municipalities had spent from 60 to 75 per cent of their road appropriation already, with the year only half gone and that if they were planning on supplementary by-laws to take care of the over-expenditure, they likely would be disapopinted in view of the fact that the Department had permitted increased road expenditures already.

Road engineer Jack Jordan gave a brief report to council in which he pointed out that not quite 50 per cent of the counties road appropriation had been spent by June 30. Under bridge construction, a culvert had been completed on the Gore's Landing Road, one near Centreton, and two near Brighton. The Factory Creek bridge in Cobourg was now under construction. Work had also been started on a 24 x 40 foot arch on No. 65 in Hope Township. The road between Wooler and Stockdale had been fixed and road construction done at the south end of the road between Brighton and Wooler, the Trenton suburban road, near Morganston, between Hastings and Campbellford, Warkworth, and Burnley, and a 9-10 of a mile mixed mulch pavement west of Carrying Place on the boundary road with Prince Edward County sharing the cost. Crushed gravel had been placed on a number of other roads.

Girl On Bicycle Hit By Car, Lands On Sandpile

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—An eleven - year - old Campbellford girl, Caroline Dunham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Dunham, was injured Saturday when she was struck by a car in a freak accident as she rode her bicycle on Highway 30 a few hundred yards from her home.

The little girl was riding her bicycle west on the highway and two cars travelling in the same direction had overtaken her. A car was also approaching from the opposite direction. ➳

The first car behind the bicycle, driven by Lenna May Teal, of Campbellford, had slowed down to the approximate speed of the bicycle, waiting for the car coming from the opposite direction to pass so she could also swing out and pass the child.

As she slowed down near the cyclist, a car coming from behind and driven by Lloyd G. Hawkins, of 85 Peter St., Port Hope, ploughed into the rear of the Teal car, causing Mrs. Teal to lose control and strike the bicycle.

The Dunham girl was knocked from the bicycle and thrown into the air. She landed on a pile of sand at the roadside which workmen are using to level the shoulders of the newly paved highway.

This cushioned her fall and possibly prevented her injuries from being more serious. She suffered a bad cut on the right leg and numerous cuts and abrasions as well as shock. She was rushed to Campbellford Hospital by Dr. J. R. Anderson, who was called to the scene, and he, with Dr. W. W. Baker, attended to the child's injuries. After X-rays at the hospital revealed no further injuries, she was released Saturday night but will remain in bed at her home.

A baby on the front seat of the Teal auto was thrown to the floor but was not injured in the accident.

Provincial Constable Archie Eady, who investigated, said no charges have yet been laid.

It was on July 17, almost exactly a year ago, that Richard Dunham, age 7, a brother of Caroline, was struck by a car as he crossed the road from the mail box near his home. The younger child was more seriously injured and spent a considerable length of time in hospital and a still longer period recuperating at his home.

Boys Take Cruise To Rice Lake

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — A group of senior and intermediate boys of the Campbellford Baptist Sunday school enjoyed a cruise on the Trent on the weekend. The cruise started from the Woodland Estate at Healey Falls, six miles north of the town, and took the boys to Rice lake before returning to the starting point. The trip was made in the yacht "Wanda," owned by Charles Wickens of Campbellford.

The group left Campbellford in cars and went aboard the yacht before noon with picnic lunches packed to be consumed during the trip.

After passing through the locks and swing bridge at Hastings, the yacht was docked and the group had a short visit on shore. During the run to Rice lake a rain storm came up and the water became very rough, giving some of the youngsters a few anxious moments.

On the return trip, the "Wanda" was tied up to a dock and the group enjoyed a swim at the beach. On completion of the trip the group enjoyed a lunch provided by the snack bar at the Woodland Estate.

A similar event is being planned for other groups in the church.

Blinded By Lights Cars Crash On Hilltop

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS—Two vehicles were badly damaged but no one was injured on Saturday night when two cars met in a sideswipe after being blinded by headlights on Highway 30 four miles west of Campbellford.

Keith J. Bound of Bridge St., Campbellford, was driving south on the highway and Leonard Hazlewood of Hastings was driving north when the accident happened at the top of a hill. Both drivers were blinded by each other's headlights and met at the top of the hill. The sides of both cars were damaged badly but neither driver was injured. Provincial Constable Archie Eady investigated.

Two Cars Collide In Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—An accident Saturday afternoon spoiled a holiday for a Toronto man, R. A. Seward, 54, of 12 Strath Ave. Mr. Seward was driving a car owned by Bomac Engravers of Toronto, travelling south on Front St. He attempted to make a left turn and met in collision with a car travelling north driven by Glen McMaster, 25, of Campbellford. The car was owned by his father, G. McMaster.

The front of both cars was badly damaged but outside of a shaking up, neither driver was injured. Chief Constable George H. Hardy investigated.

A TWISTED BIT OF WRECKAGE that was once a child's bicycle lies pinned under these cars on Highway 30 on the northern outskirts of Campbellford. Eleven-year-old Caroline Dunham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Dunham of Campbellford, was injured in the mix-up. She was knocked from her bicycle onto a pile of sand.—(W. W. Reid Photo).

Counties' Per Capita Cost For Health At 1945 Level

COBOURG (ENS)—The summer session of counties council was the seventh anniversary of the founding of the Northumberland and Durham Counties Health Unit, it was pointed out in the report read at counties council by Dr. J. W. Wright, reeve of Millbrook, who is chairman of the counties board of health. During the past six full years in which the health unit has been in operation, there has been no increase in the per capita expenditure of counties funds.

The day to day routine work of the Unit is handled by the staff. At regular meetings the medical officer makes reports on the work of the board and the accounts are scrutinized. All questions of major policy are referred to the board for consideration and final decision. The family depends on the advice of their family physician in regard to general care of their children and in regard to treatment required for any illnesses that occur. In the same way, the Medical Officer of Health with his staff is the general advisor to the community served by the health unit. Purpose of the activities of the staff is to stimulate, promote and organize all activities which can prevent disease and improve the health of the community.

Figures compiled to show the work done by the Health Unit for the period of 1946 to 1952, show that in the field of communicable disease control, other than tuberculosis, the staff of the Unit made 6,615 home visits to cases and contracts and at clinics in schools and health unit offices, 57,050 immunization doses and vaccinations were administered. In promoting the health of infants and preschool children, there has been an attendance of 11,539 at child health conferences. A total of 4,604 immunization clinics and child health conferences have been held in schools, offices and rural communities.

In connection with the health of the school child, 1,995 inspections and reports have been made on school buildings. The nurses have made 37,586 inspections of school children and 11,049 vision tests. During the period of 1946 to 1949, the medical officers examined 9,429 school children and since 1950 the family physicians have examined and reported to the medical officer of health on 2,602 children entering school.

Through the co-operation of various groups and the support of the public through the sale of Christmas seals, a total of 53,130 chest x-rays have been taken since 1946. In addition, staff nurses made 51,170 visits to homes in connection with other aspects of the work.

During these past seven years there has been no outbreak of controllable communicable disease such as diphtheria, and this compares very favorably with other parts of the country that have not been so fortunate. There have been no deaths among children directly attributed to communicable disease, other than polio and meningitis.

In 1945 and 1946, slaughter houses were found which were in filthy condition and surrounded by nauseating masses of decaying vegetable matter. In contrast now, slaughter houses are clean and sanitary. When this health unit was initiated, restaurants were found where the dishwashing was so inadequate that cultures from the utensils gave bacterial counts running into the millions. These conditions were later corrected by the Health Unit.

Broke Into Hall Warsaw Legion

Charged with breaking and entering the Warsaw Legion Hall Friday night, Stanley Zinston, R. R. 2 Warsaw, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to three months in jail in police court today.

Zinston elected summary trial before Magistrate W. R. Philp and said he was drunk when he broke into the hall and took $18 from a tobacco tin locked in a refrigerator.

The magistrate told Zinston that he found it hard to believe that anyone could be intoxicated enough to not know what they were doing and still be able to hacksaw through a lock.

O.P.P. Constable Kenneth J. Barber, said that the hall was broken into sometime during the night of July 18, according to information he received. He said the west door had been entered after a lock on the door had been hacksawed off.

"Even at that, you are very fortunate," the magistrate told Zinston, after sentencing him to three months. "Persons convicted of breaking and entering usually go to reformatory, because it is a serious crime that cannot be tolerated."

No Apparent Break In Truce Deadlock

MUNSAN, Korea (AP)—United Nations and Communist armistice delegates met in secret for only 20 minutes today and adjourned without any apparent break in the protracted deadlock over exchange of war prisoners.

They scheduled another executive session for tomorrow at Panmunjom.

GREAT LAKE

Lake Huron, second largest of the five Great Lakes, has an area of 23,010 square miles with maximum depth of 750 feet.

Durham Plant Fire Damages

DURHAM (CP)—Fire extensively damaged the Durham Furniture Company plant early today, forcing a shutdown on the same day that 150 employees were due to strike for higher wages and union security.

Damage may reach $25,000. The fire was believed caused by lightning.

The employees, members of Local 152 of the International Woodworkers of America, (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) had decided to strike when the company refused to meet their demands for a 12-cent-an-hour wage boost, union checkoff and fringe benefits.

A conciliation board, in a split report, had recommended an eight-cent-an-hour wage boost. The company representative had recommended a six-cent increase, the union representative, 15 cents.

There was no immediate indication how long the fire would force a plant shutdown even if there were no strike.

Durham is about 25 miles south of Owen Sound.

Find Steverson Steals Show At Convention

CHICAGO (AP)—The eyes of the Democratic convention focused today on the man who seems to be its reluctant dragon.

Adlai Stevenson, governor of Illinois, heir to five generations of public service, and an overnight success-story in politics, is the man many Democrats would like to see emerge as the party's candidate for the presidency.

Stevenson has been saying, for many months, that he doesn't want that honor, that he wanted only to be returned as governor.

Yet today, with the convention opening, the Chicago story is still Stevenson. There are five principal candidates in the field, each with an apparently solid bloc of supporters—but none with enough to win at this point—and still, wherever you go, people ask:

"What about Stevenson? Do you think he will be the candidate?"

An accurate measure of the interest in the answers developed late Sunday. The Illinois delegation, with Stevenson present, held a last-minute caucus.

It was behind closed doors, but there were large apertures beneath the doors. The best newspaper talent in the country simply glued ears to the wide open spaces.

Most of them were impressed by one point: Stevenson did not say he is immune to a draft.

Stevenson goes before the convention today with a welcoming speech to the delegates. His friends hope it may be the pebble that starts an avalanche.

Canada Fourth

After the war Canada was the third greatest trading nation in the world. The United States and Britain were first and second. Last year France relegated Canada to fourth place; and West Germany is crowding her for even that. This ranking has no special virtue; what matters is the quality, extent and profit in the trade. In these three characteristics, Canada is still doing well. Her trading is still world-wide and the greatest for any nation of comparable population.

* * *

The external trading activity of France and Germany is amazing, considering the low straits to which the war had brought them. What accounts for its resurgence? We need not rehearse all the reasons, but point out that there has been feverish rehabilitation of business and industry in both countries, stimulated by huge dollar and pound loans, from the two chief trading nations, Britain and the United States. Even Canada has contributed considerably to their recovery by Canadian dollar credits. The system has worked two ways. Canada's trade has mushroomed because of Canadian and American credits to Europe, which have kept Canadian farms and industries busy furnishing the goods which the European countries could buy here with the credit. Similarly, the surge of rebuilding in France and Germany has itself created a boom, which accounts for their return to status as chief trading countries. Canadian trade, and French and German trade have ridden the crest of the same boom.

* * *

The German newspaper Die Welt has editorialized, under the heading of "Illusion of a Boom": "After a comparatively short period of fantastic resurgence the recovery of the German economy has come to a standstill. Pessimists already see the spectre of a crisis, but optimists are looking forward to a 'rearmament boom as in the good old days'."

* * *

The impulse to Canadian trade which Western European recovery had given (through the Marshall Plan) spent itself a couple of years ago. Germany and France are now beginning to feel the wane. But war in Korea and the hotting up of the Cold War with Russia in various parts of the world created a new boom in Canada. So likewise the rearmament in Germany and France will probably continue the boom which those countries had felt because of the work of rehabilitation.

* * *

It is rather shocking that the results of war created the first post-war boom; and that the slacking of it is now being compensated for by the threat of another war and re-arming for it. To see such a statement in Die Welt as a "boom as in the good old days" (good old days of Nazism), no matter how true it may be, is disturbing. Can western economics not be made to serve the wealth and enjoyment of democracies, without the devastation of one war and the threat of another?

Another U.S. Party Division

The Democratic Party which opens its convention in Chicago today is divided, as was the Republican Party when it opened its convention two weeks ago, but the division in the former is more serious. It is caused by the same issue that split the party four years ago, when the Southern States broke away, and it came to the surface when the Democratic platform was being drafted late last Thursday. Northern demands for Federal action to outlaw racial discrimination resulted in an angry outburst in which a Florida delegate charged that the South would have no Negro problem had it not been for the "Northern carpetbaggers" who poured into Dixie after the war between the States.

We have read a great deal about the period followed the Civil War, from time to time, and it is difficult to escape the conclusion that the accusation of the Florida delegate is true. It is probably not the whole truth, but there is truth in it. The carpetbagger helped to create the problem, and he helped to intensify it. The carpetbaggers were, in the main, political adventurers from the North who gained control of Southern Administrations through the Negro vote.

The suddenly enfranchised Negro was utterly incapable of voting intelligently in the vast majority of cases. Nor was he any more ready for equality of citizenship than most ignorant persons whose lives had hitherto been ordered by others. He was an easy victim for adventurers and demagogues, and there were many of these. The scars of that era still throb painfully in the South, and it is hardly surprising that Northern intervention in the Negro problem causes resentment when Southerners remember that Northern adventurers helped to create the problem.

How seriously this division will affect the Democratic Party's chances this year remains to be seen. The Southern States are more powerfully aligned today than they were four years ago; they are well organized and they have a fairly strong candidate in Senator Richard Russell of Georgia. The angry South, through Senator Russell's votes, may be able to control the selection of the candidate—and Senator Russell's votes will not go to a crusader for civil rights.

Majority Is A Fair Standard

Once again in the U.S.A. there is a move to lower the voting age from twenty-one to eighteen; the Judiciary Committee of the U.S. Senate has approved a proposal to amend the constitution in this respect. The arguments in favour of such a move are the usual ones—a man does not have to be 21 in order to fight for his country, or to marry, or do many other things which are considered the acts of an adult. Why, therefore, should he wait until he is 21 to vote?

If the U.S. lowers its voting age there will certainly be pressure in this country for a similar move, and therefore we shall give an answer to the above question. A man may fight for his country at 18, though few nations send men into the field at that age unless they are driven to it; but a soldier of eighteen does not make decisions—he follows orders. When he casts a vote he is making a decision, and an important one; the cases are not alike. So also a man may marry at eighteen but few judicious men do so, because marriage involves a most important decision. Because a few young men rashly marry very young, is that any reason why all young men should help to decide the policies of their country?

Further, these decisions will not affect young men only, but young women also, and they are, if anything, less interested and informed about political matters at eighteen than their brothers. Why throw a large number of new and not particularly interested voters into the political scramble? Enough foolish things are proposed at election time now to catch the votes of special groups, and what would be promised to catch the under-twenty-one group we shudder to imagine.

Reaching the age of majority is a good time for the vote to be given to the young citizen. We shall say nothing of our own pet proposal that the voting age be raised to twenty-five.

Miss Universe

We cannot take a world beauty contest seriously for the same reason that we cannot take the World's Series seriously. The latter is a small—almost parochial—contest among a few teams, in a single country, playing a game of which most of the world's population knows nothing. A world beauty contest concerns, at most, a few hundred girls who are judged according to standards which most of the world considers inacceptable. Miss Helena Kuusela, the Finnish girl who has been given the title of "Miss Universe" is quite a pretty girl, though we could name a dozen women, offhand, who seem much prettier to us. And to most of the world Miss Kuusela is not pretty at all.

What Chinese would look twice at her? What would the millions of India think of her? To the natives of Africa she would be downright repulsive. She is fair; despite the notion that gentlemen prefer blondes, the fact is that millions of gentlemen prefer brunettes. And we would undertake, if someone would pay the bills, to go to Finland and find prettier girls there than Miss Kuusela. She is, we repeat, quite a pretty Finnish girl. And that, of course, is a very nice thing to be, and we are sure that Miss Kuusela is a charming person.

But "Miss Universe"! What an idiotic title! She does not satisfy the criteria of the greater part of the earth's population, let alone the heavens above and the waters under the earth. Besides, real beauty is mystery, and nobody with a crumb of mystery would dream of entering a beauty contest.

NOTES AND COMMENT

The lovely and world-famous Lodge at Jasper Park, a C.N.R. mountain resort hotel, has been destroyed by fire. But the mountains still stand in their beauty and grandeur, defying the ravages of time; it is to be hoped that Jasper will rise again to face them.

"Much that is good in Canadian life comes from the smaller communities," says the Victoria Times in the patronizing manner which big cities loftily assume. We wonder if the Times is thus shedding a tear for Victoria's pre-war smallness? Victoria was prim and proper with 44,068 in 1941. Now as "Greater Victoria" the old lady has become a crone with varicose veins and 104,303 inhabitants.

Will India Go Red?

By RUTH FISHER

(ED. Note: Ruth Fischer, a foundation member of the Austrian Communist Party, leader of German Reds, was expelled from the party in 1926.)

THE Kremlin's schemes for India have gained a valuable asset in the new role of parliamentary opposition won by the Indian Communist Party through its success in last November's general election.

Under present circumstances the Indian Communist Party has little chance of seizing control of the country, but it has won an excellent base for its double function as pressure group and centre of infiltration. If the Indian Government is unable to speed up the tempo of agricultural and social reforms, this danger of Communist infiltration will present a problem to the ruling Congress Party.

✧ ✧ ✧

WHEN I arrived in India on the eve of the general election, my Socialist friends were in high spirits. They expected returns substantial enough to make them the major opposition party, driving the Congress forward on the road to democratic Socialism. The Communists, I was told, would fare badly; they were in decline because of their adventurous strategy and their internecine strife.

In writing these lines today, I feel as though I were referring to a historical period long past. The Communists emerged from among some fifty anti-Congress parties as the undisputed winners, although they were able to present candidates in only a minority of constituencies. In Madras, Hyderabad, and Travancore Cochin they are so strong that the Administration faces an unstable government situation there.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT is poor political arithmetic to compare the small total vote of the Communists (6 million) with the Congress vote or even with that of the Socialists (12 million); the Indian electorate is not separated by an iron wall from the Communist Party, and the Party's initial success may prove attractive in geometric progression. India is one of the oldest countries in the world, which can look back proudly upon an ancient and continuous civilization; nevertheless, Indian democracy is only five years old, and events in such a formative phase are likely to shape the mentality of a generation. The defeat of the Socialists, who presented themselves as the Asian branch of their Western confreres, has left its imprint on the public mind.

✧ ✧ ✧

WHAT is the cause of the Indian Communists' success? Their fortunes were running low after India won her independence. They tried to build up their Yenan (northwest Chinese province which was Mao Tse Tung's stronghold) in Hyderabad, hoping to ride to power in Delhi on the wave of an unfolding civil war. In this they misgauged the strength of the Congress Party, which for decades had been the spirit and the organizer of the awakening Indian nation.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE energetic countermeasures of the Nehru Government against the Communist rebels hit them hard, and forced them to limit their activities to restricted sectors. They continue where the Congress Party had left off in 1947, in a vitriolic campaign against British imperialism (with American imperialism as a close second), and they demand the expropriation without compensation of all British enterprises; but they state explicitly that the Indian business man must have the people's support in his effort for productive expansion. They attack Nehru for overruling the legitimate aspirations of the many Indian races and peoples for self-government, and for forcing administrative unification, Western-style, upon them.

✧ ✧ ✧

THUS they meet the Hindu Communalists in many points, but they also co-operate with the Dravida Kazhakam organization in Tamilnad, an anti-Brahmin movement. They demand autonomy for Andhra in North Madras; if this autonomy, which was promised by Nehru, were granted, it would create a Communist State in Madras and in Communist-dominated Telengana in neighbouring Hyderabad, the centre of 30 million Tologu-speaking people.

The Communists are also strong in Tripura, a mountainous, isolated state on the Pakistan border, which can be reached only by air or on horseback, populated mostly by illiterate tribesmen, but equally in Travancore-Cochin, the most literate state, which, incidentally, has the greatest percentage of Christians of any Indian State.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN proletarian centres such as Calcutta and Bombay, the Communist Party is still a relatively minor factor; but this is a small consolation, for the central figure in India is, and will be for a long time, the small peasant. In concentrating on winning the peasants, the Communists show that they have learned their lesson from China.

✧ ✧ ✧

THEY did not reach this policy without internal convulsions. P. C. Joshi, a reporter for the New York Daily Worker during the war, leader of the moderate anti-Fascist wing of the Party, was succeeded by B. T. Ranadive, who advocated the seizure of local power. When Mao Tse Tung won in China, the Indian Communists, jealous of their neighbour's success, tried rather clumsily to exploit the secret differences between Moscow and Peking by attacking "reformist deviations" within the Chinese Party. For this escapade they were drastically censured by the Politburo in Moscow: they have no right to intervene in the affairs of the Communist Big Two. The Politburo ordered a change of policy in India in accordance with the new line followed everywhere in the Russian orbit since the death of Andrei Zhdanov, former chief of the Cominform. The warring factions, which had been played off against each other, were reconciled. One of the moderate leaders, A. Dange, a trade unionist rather well known in Europe, was conspicuously pushed into the foreground, and the Nehru Government and the Indian Constitution were de facto accepted—a policy in striking contrast to the revolutionary activities of the Telegana days.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE Indian Communists had to learn not only a Chinese lesson, but an Indian one as well; they were ordered to accept the role of a legal opposition, articulating the thousand and one grievances of the Indian masses and keeping watch in Delhi to ensure that India's foreign policy was linked to the Asian camp and not deflected in favour of the West.

Nehru, (India's Prime Minister) is, I am convinced, fully aware of the threat to Congress that the Communist Party represents. He knows that the next five years will decide whether Congress has been the party of national liberation only, or whether it will remain as the party of India's renaissance.

An American View: THE BIG PARADE

Letter To The Editor

AUTHOR JUSTIFIES HIMSELF

Sir: In the Peterborough Examiner for June 25, 1952 you have reprinted an article from the Montreal Star which comments on charges by A. E. Porsild in the Beaver against Mr. Farley Mowat, author of "People of the Deer".

I am enclosing with this letter the text of Mr. Mowat's full reply to Mr. Porslid, together with a short summary of the main charges and replies.

I am confident that, in view of the serious nature of the published charges against Mr. Mowat that you will furnish him with the opportunity of answering them in the pages of your newspaper.

Yours sincerely,
JOYCE ANNE RANKIN
McClelland and Stewart Ltd.

SUMMARY OF THE MAIN CHARGES made by A. E. Porsild against Farley Mowat together with summary of Mr. Mowat's reply:

Mr. Porsild charges that Mowat claims falsely to have spent two years in the Arctic; that he conceals the fact that in 1947 he was a junior on an expedition led by Dr. Francis Harper; and that he was junior to Andrew Lawrie on a government expedition in 1948. He implies that Mowat lies when he describes thousands of caribou crossing Windy Bay, by quoting Harper as saying the largest herd seen by him numbered 75; and (b) that the estimate of thousands of deaths caused by tuberculosis boils down, on analysis to 73. Porsild also charges that it is impossible to learn any Eskimo in a few months, that Mowat traded without a licence and as shabbily as the traders he attacks, and that his estimate of earlier population in the north is wildly exaggerated.

Mowat replies that the information so triumphantly produced by Porsild, from another source, as to the true length of stay in the north may be found on pages 115-117 and 320 of his book.

He makes clear that he was never attached to Dr. Harper's one-man expedition— a fact borne out by Harper's omission of his name in an article written before the appearance of People of the Deer. Only in a technical sense was he subordinate to Lawrie in 1948, since the plan executed under government auspices, was one previously drawn up jointly by them both and which the government gave them a free hand to carry out. In reference to the caribou migration, Mowat points out first, that Harper did not visit the crossing places until after the main migration was over, second, that his own description is backed by Lawrie's reports (which Porsild quotes in other instances and hence must believe reliable); and third, that the reports of the Caribou Investigation under Mr. Bannon, the nominal controller contain similar observations to Mowat's in the same general area at the same time of year. All these reports are available to Mr. Porsild.

On the tuberculosis issue, Mowat makes plain in the book that he deals with ALL northern natives (which includes those in northern B.C., Prairie Provinces and Quebec) not just with those in the Northwest Territories,—a population which swells by many thousands the 9,650 figure that Porsild gives for Indian and Eskimo population of Northwest Territories. Moreover, he points out that the 1950 census gives the Eskimo population alone of N.W.T. as almost 10,000. Further he deals not only with deaths directly caused by tuberculosis, but those with tuberculosis as a contributing factor; and those "ill-defined" and "unknown" deaths of which McGill University Report remarks that had they been diagnosed they would undoubtedly have sharply raised the tuberculosis death rate for the north (a figure already 14 times that of the white population of Canada).

Mr. Mowat's ability to learn Eskimo was shared by Mr. Lawrie, and their interpretations have subsequently been confirmed by J. Miche of Paris a professional anthropologist and Eskimo linguist who visited the Ihalmiut in 1951. We are also referred to the work of Douglas Leechman, Dominion Archaeologist, and "Hudson Bay Trader" by Lord Tweedsmuir as but two examples of swift progress in the language.

Mowat's "trading" was done, as Porsild should know, under special government permit to get furs for scientific purposes. The furs are now in the Royal Ontario Museum. "Parsimonious gifts" were the result of Mowat and Lawrie running short on supplies one-third of which they had already given the Ihalmiut to help avert starvation.

On the population issue, Mowat quotes from the same report by Kaj Birket-Smith mentioned by Mr. Porsild, as well as from other governmental, religious and commercial records to back up his claims as to the drastic decline in population over the years.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And the Lord spake unto Moses in mount Sinai, saying, Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When ye come into the land which I give you, then shall the land keep a sabbath unto the Lord . . . . And ye shall hallow the fiftieth year, and proclaim liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof. (Lev. 25:1, 2, 10.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Teach me, O Lord, the way of thy statutes; and I shall keep it unto the end . . . And take not the word of truth utterly out of my mouth: for I have hoped in thy judgements. So shall I keep thy law continually for ever and ever. And I will walk at liberty: for I seek thy precepts. (Ps. 119:33, 43-45.)

✧ ✧ ✧

The Spirit of the Lord God is upon me; because the Lord hath anointed me to preach good tidings unto the meek; he hath sent me to bind up the broken-hearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound . . . . to appoint unto them that mourn in Zion, to give unto them beauty for ashes, the oil of joy for mourning, the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness; that they might be called trees of righteousness, the planting of the Lord, that he might be glorified. (Isa. 61:1, 3.)

The Bat a Clean Animal

(Ottawa Journal)

For thousands of years man has nurtured senseless superstitions and groundless fears concerning the things he does not fully understand. An apt illustration is the general opinion concerning bats. These interesting night-hunters consume tremendous quantities of insects; they have long been labelled unclean and hosts to bedbugs and crawling lice. In reality a bat is a cleanly animal and spends much time grooming itself. The popular expression "Blind as a bat" is misleading, for the animals can see fairly well in daylight.

There are some 2,000 varieties of bats on our planet—from the four-foot wing spread "flying fox of the East Indies" to small forms of less than two-inch spread. The Little Brown Bat, our most common variety, is numerous from Labrador to Alaska and south to Mississippi. It is not a contestant for beauty prize with its grotesque face, oversize ears and snake-bright eyes. The bat's great distinction is that it is the only winged mammal.

To the Little Brown Bat one young is born in late June or early July. Scientists have never been able to authenticate the legend that the mother carries her young on her back while flying.

The bat probably has the keenest sense of hearing of any animal form; it was using the principle of radar long before the idea occurred to man. In its flight in the darkness the bat sends forth a high-pitched note—a higher vibration than the human ear can receive. It is the echo from this sound, bouncing back from obstacles, that enables the bat to avoid obstructions. The specialized fore limbs of Myotis lucifugus with their wing membranes give it the power of flight. When Winter comes, bats gather in caves and hang head downward in large clusters. Bats will never become favourite forms of life, but they play their ordained role in the balance of Nature.

Air-Conditioning Year-Round Soon For Houses

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Complete year-round air-conditioning of a new home at no extra cost may be just around the corner, say equipment manufacturers.

They hope to be able to show that you could offset the cost by taking advantage of savings in construction that would be possible by designing a house specifically for air-conditioning.

Cloud Wampler, president of the Carrier Corporation, said "it's something we're trying to evaluate," along with future savings in costs of redecorating and keeping draperies, rugs and furniture clean.

However, he said that "we can't say we now know enough to say air-conditioning wouldn't cost the home owner anything."

INHIBITIONS

It depends in considerable part on how much the home owner can get away from the inhibitions of the past in designing his new home.

The home owner could save money by leaving out windows that added little or nothing to the view from the inside or the appearance from the outside. He wouldn't need them for ventilation.

"There would be no need for screens, ventilating devices or storm windows," he said.

Also, another possibility of saving money would be to omit a breeze-way, screen porch or other place designed especially for keeping cool. You could keep cool, better inside.

Meanwhile, what appears to be a boom in complete year-round air conditioned houses has started.

CONTINUES VIGIL—A workman tries to make friends with a mysterious collie dog who has kept a 17-day vigil at a water-filled abandoned mine shaft near Joplin, Mo. # Man Who Pioneered Psychiatry Celebrates His 90th Birthday

By ELON TORRENCE

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Dr. Charles F. Menninger, a doctor who once had nothing but "sugar pills and a few words" for patients with emotional disorders, celebrated his 90th birthday this month still active as chairman of the country's largest training centre for psychiatrists.

With his sons, Karl and William, also doctors, Menninger developed the centre from a small family clinic established 33 years ago.

Today the Menninger Foundation is a non-profit organization operating on an annual budget of more than $1,600,000 and employing 400 persons, including 150 professionally trained in psychiatry, neurology, psychology and related fields.

It spends more than $100,000 a year on research alone.

The senior Menninger is not oly active in affairs of the foundation but teaches classes in gardening, mineralogy and conchology (sea shell collecting) for patients and maintains responsibility for landscaping of the foundation grounds.

PRIMARY INTEREST

But treatment of the mentally ill remains his primary interest and today, more than ever, he is confident mental illness will be conquered.

Menninger says that patients used to come to him with all sorts of pains—obviously suffering—but with no physical signs of illness.

"After a while I came to the conclusion their physical complaints were merely foundabout efforts to communicate their vague feelings of emotional need. I did what I could to help.

"First, I would usually make them take something—a sugar pill perhaps (we had many different colors, sizes and shapes) and then I would talk with them.

"I really didn't know anything about psychotherapy at that time—

THERE WERE FEW WHO DID

The dream of establishing a clinic was born when he attended an inter-state medical meeting at the Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn., in 1908, Menninger says.

"I went home filled with a vision of what medicine could be when practised in a group. When doctors worked like a team, instead of always alone, sick people got well.

It was then that Menninger decided that his sons would help him make the dream a reality.

Karl, then 14, now is director of the foundation's educational programs. William, then 8, is general secretary of the foundation. Both have gained international renown as psychiatrists, authors and lecturers.

GREATEST CHANGE

Looking back on his long career, Menninger says one of the greatest changes he has witnessed in medicine followed the discoveries of Sigmund Freud, the father of psychoanalysis.

"Nowadays we all know, in spite of prejudice that still exists, that we have a kinship with the mentally ill. We have a key to understanding them and to understanding ourselves better.

"This fellow feeling, as it spreads farther and deeper, will do more to benefit human beings than any other one thing."

Using Formula To Keep Films Timeless

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The man who made the current box-office champion, "King Kong," has a unique formula for movie success: Make 'em timeless.

The 19-year-old "Kong" is the surprise hit of the year, outdrawing most of the 1952 films. Merian C. Cooper, who made the picture, should be kicking himself, but he isn't. It's the only movie he has made without holding a percentage of the profits.

"Kong's" success bears out Cooper's theory of movie making. The veteran film producer, long associated with director John Ford, shuns subjects which will be dated by the passing of time.

HIGH RESALE

"Ford and I both foresaw the value of the reissue market and of television," Cooper remarked. "Since the war, we have made only timeless pictures".

"The things that date a picture are women's dresses and hats. I try to avoid filming styles that will appear grotesque in future years. Also, the cars date a picture, but there's not much you can do about that."

"It cost about $400,000 to make 'Kong' and it took us a year," he said. "All of it was filmed in Hollywood, with the exception of some port scenes, which we made at San Pedro. Willis O'Brien, who did the technical work, and I had to invent the trick stuff as we went along.

"We had to do the same thing with 'Mighty Joe Young.' It didn't do as well as 'Kong,' because it wasn't as good a picture. Also, it cost too much."

Does Cooper have another spectacular film in mind?

"You bet I do," he replied positively. "It's just as wild an idea as 'Kong' and I have hired O'Brien to start work on the technical aspects. But I'm not telling what it's about."

SEEKS ELECTION—Blind since the age of 17, Anita Blair of El Paso, Texas, told New York newsmen she hopes to be the first sightless woman elected to Congress. # Yoshida Planned To Make Hess Peace Flight

TOKYO (AP)—The Nippon Times reported Saturday that Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida wanted to make a "Rudolph Hess" peace flight from Japan to Britain in the closing months of the Pacific war.

The newspaper said he was discouraged from doing so by a Japanese admiral and later arrested as a Pacific and Liberal.

There was no immediate comment from Yoshida.

In those days Yoshida was a retired career diplomat out of a job, and being trailed by the dread Kampeitai—the secret police.

Saturday's account was an English translation of an article by former Vice-Admiral Jisaburo Ozawa that first appeared in Japanese in the Yomiueri Weekly.

DIPLOMATS BROODED

Ozawa said he was approached by a group of retired diplomats who were brooding over the ruinous course of the war in late 1944 and convinced that Japan should open peace negotiations.

At that time the Japanese carrier air force had been annihilated off Saipan.

Things were worse in April 1945, when Yoshida called upon Ozawa.

"I was upset when I learned that Mr. Yoshida was planning a trip to Britain to see if he could get the Britons to concern themselves with ending the war by negotiation," the ex-admiral said.

"Then he asked me whether I could arrange for a plane or submarine to take him to Britain or any place in the British area."

Yoshida, who had been ambassador in London, probably had hopes of using former contacts to start either official or unofficial peace talks.

NOT A 'CRACKPOT'

Although Yoshida's plan was desperate, he was no crackpot like Hitler's deputy, Rudolph Hess, who parachuted from a fighter plane over Scotland in April, 1941, to attempt to make peace between England and Germany just before Hitler invaded Russia. British authorities put Hess in a mental hospital.

Ozawa told Yoshida that "there was not a single plane in Japan that could be used in such a flight," the Times reported.

"At that time our submarines were more deficient than our planes," Ozawa relates. "There were no submarines we could use even in the vital Okinawa operation."

"COOL CONTROL"

THE STANCE

1-Square Stance

Balance and control are 'musts.' There are three basic stances — first, the Square Stance, as above. This stance requires both feet to be placed square to the intended line of flight.

2-Open Stance

All stances require the club to be soled directly back of the ball so that the bottom of the club sits evenly on the turf. If toe of club sticks up, you are too far away. If toe is down, you are too close. In Open Stance, left foot is drawn back from line of flight, and body is turned slightly toward left. Use when slice or fade is desired.

3-Closed Stance

Opposite from Open Stance. Draw right foot back from line of flight. Use when hook from right to left is required. Recommended for driving because of overspin imparted to ball when hit.

It's control that counts, in golf as in every sport — control which brings the balance, the comfort and the extra quality that sets one performer above the other. In the ability to approach things coolly, to control every move and moment, lies the answer to better results.

Palmer Of North Carolina Golf Champion Shoots 263 For 72 Holes, 25 Below Par

By FRASER MACDOUGALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—Johnny Palmer, a friendly invader from North Carolina, wrote a new chapter for the record books and debunked two golfing traditions in winning the Canadian Open golf championship Saturday.

Palmer took home $3,000 first prize money and the Seagram Gold Cup with a record medal score of 263 over the 72-hole route on rounds of 66-65-66-66—25 strokes below par. That clipped five strokes off the previous record of 268 shot by Bobby Locke of South Africa in 1947.

His 11-stroke margin over the second-place finishers was the biggest in records dating back to 1933. Lawson Little won by eight strokes in 1936 and Joe Kirkwood by eight in 1933. Figures for previous years are not available.

SHATTERS TRADITION

Palmer shattered a Canadian Open tradition that the second-day leader won't wind up on top. And he reversed the old theory that in golf the pressure is on the leader. His nerveless, near-perfect play put the pressure on the field—and the field gave way.

His score was 10 strokes better than the 273 Jim Ferrier, the big Australian who plays out of San Francisco, shot to win the title a year ago. Ferrier, also winner in 1950 with 271, was completely out of the picture this year with a score of 284 which put him in a tie for 21st place.

Freddy Haas, Jr., of New Orleans, who finished with a brilliant 66 over the St. Charles Golf and Country Club course where he won the Canadian Amateur in 1936, pulled into a second-place tie with Dick Mayer of St. Petersburg, Fla., in the final standing with 274.

Canadian pros didn't get into the picture until the 12th-place ranking where Stan Leonard of Vancouver appeared with 280 to win the Rivermead Cup as low Canadian professional for the fifth time—more than any other golfer. Bob Gray of Toronto is a four-time winner. Leonard has three consecutive wins plus others in 1945 and 1946. His score was two strokes better than the 282 he shot last year to finish sixth. The record score for a Canadian was the 276 Gray shot in 1941. Leonard won $325 plus $200 as low Canadian.

25 STROKES below par, Johnny Palmer, of North Carolina, won the Canadian Open golf championship Saturday in Winnipeg. He clipped five strokes off the previous record shot by Bobby Locke, of South Africa, in 1947.

4 CANUCKS IN MONEY

Four other Canadians got into the money list—Henry Martell of Edmonton won $200 with his score of 282, Rudy Horvath of Windsor $175 with 284, Al Balding of Toronto $141.66 with 285 and Gordon Brydson of Toronto $75 with 287.

Palmer, 34, who tied for 14th place in last year's championship with 285, had the closing show largely to himself.

He started the final round by shooting a sensational birdie on the first hole to dispel any lingering doubts as to whether he could hold the eight-stroke lead he enjoyed after the first three rounds.

After that, it was simply a question of how many strokes he would take off Locke's record.

NEVER CAUGHT UP

Leonard summed up the feelings of players and gallery at the trophy presentation Saturday night when he said: "I still think Palmer has nine holes left to play."

Two other players, Leonard and Skee Riegel of Tulsa, Okla., matched Palmer's opening-day 66. On the second day they slipped but he applied more pressure to the field by shooting a 65. His third-round 66 was the lowest score that day. Four other players, in a final drive to improve their showings, matched his closing 66.

All four rounds bettered the previous competitive record for the St. Charles course—a 67 Wally Ulrich of Austin, Minn., shot three years ago. They compared with Locke's 1947 record string of 68-66-67-67, 16 strokes under par for the Toronto Scarboro course which plays at 71. St. Charles is 72.

Palmer set a personal record. His best previous 72-hole tournament score was a 265 he shot at Tucson, Ariz., in 1949. His 263 was four strokes over the world record of 259 held joinly by Byron Nelson and Walter Hagen.

The $3,000 prize brought his golf winnings for 1952 to $8,577 and moved him up from 15th to eighth place among the U.S. pros.

Jack Penrose of Miami Beach, Fla., won the medal for low amateur with 291. Allan Boes of Winnipeg, only other amateur to qualify for the last round, shot 292.

Czech Major Stuns Olympic Crowd Breaks His Own Track Record

By JACK SULLIVAN

HELSINKI (CP)—Canada's girl athletes make their bow in the 1952 Olympic Games today and they have plenty to shoot at.

Sunday's big opening of the world sports spectacle pointed out one outstanding fact: These games are operating strictly on the theory that records are made to be broken.

Three events were completed yesterday and the Olympic record in every one of them was smashed. A fourth mark was set in a preliminary heat.

HUTCHINS SCORES

In the face of this record-busting display, the first-place finish of Jack Hutchins of Vancouver in an 800-metre heat created excitement only in the Canadian camp.

Here's what happened in the record smashing:

Emil Zatopek electrified the crowd of 70,000 jammed into Helsinki's Olympic Stadium by breaking his own 1948 mark in the 10,000-metre race. Zatopek, a major in the Czechoslovakian army, became the first hero of the 1952 Games.

Zatopek, when running, looks as if he were undergoing a major operation without benefit of anaesthetics. He rolls his head, grimaces, sticks out his tongue and waves his arms.

The more it looks as if he were about to collapse, the faster he goes. In winning the 10,000 metres yesterday Zatopek lowered his old mark, made at London four years ago, from 29:59.6 to 29:17.0.

RUSSIAN WINS DISCUS

Nina Romaschkova, a new name among the powerful Russian athletes, hurled the discus 168 feet, 8.46 inches—51.42 metres—to set a record for women discus tossers. The old mark of 47.63 metres was made at Berlin in 1936 by Gisela Mauermayer of Germany. Two other Russian girls placed second and third behind Nina.

Walt Davis, a Texas cowboy, broke the high-jump record, clearing the bar at six feet, 8.32 inches—2.04 metres—to eclipse the old mark of six feet, 7.93 inches set by Cornelius Johnson of the United States, also in Berlin in 1936.

The fourth record went to Charlie Moore, a former Cornell University star from Ithaca, N.Y., who won his heat in the 400-metre hurdles in 50.8 seconds, three-tenths second better than the previous mark.

Hutchins' heat-winning performance in the 800-metre preliminaries proved Canada's best showing in track and field. He came from behind to win by half a step from John Barnes of the United States and Jeno Bakos of Hungary. The finish was close, all three runners were clocked in 1:54.5.

Bill Parnell of North Vancouver beat Hutchins' time with a 1:53.1 clocking but had to settle for third place—a qualifying spot—in his heat. He was beaten by France's Patrick el Mabrouk and Denmark's Gunner Nielsen.

ROSS FAILS

John Ross of Oakville, Ont., whose specialty is the quarter-mile, took a crack at the longer distance and missed qualifying. He was fourth in a heat won by Heinz Ulzheimer of Germany, who had the best heat-winning time of the day, 1:51.4. Mal Whitfield and Reg Pearman of the United States were also qualifiers for today's semi-finals.

Preliminary heats in the 100-metre sprints proved a complete blackout for Canada. Don McFarlane came up with a third place and just missed qualifying. He was beaten by Germany's Werner Zandt and Pakistan's Jedmadar Aslam.

Bob Hutchison of Victoria was fifth in his heat and Pete Sutton of Toronto sixth.

Elsewhere in the all-day competitions Canada was still in the running in wrestling and rowing.

LITTLE WRESTLER WINS

Little Armand Bernard of Montreal, featherweight wrestler, was the only Canadian winner among the grapplers. He pinned Ignacio Lugo of Venezuala in 10:55.

Nick Mohammed of Vancouver lost a decision to Alberto Longarelo of Argentina and Robert Setckle of Kitchener, suffered a fall loss to Willy Lardon of Switzerland. Both Mohammed and Steckle remain in competition under the scoring system.

Russia's soccer team overcame a four-goal deficit to earn a 5-5 overtime tie with Yugoslavia in first-round play. The teams must replay the match. Brazil defeated Luxembourg and Germany whipped Egypt. More first-round matches are scheduled for tonight.

RUSSIA TOPS STANDING

The first day of competition left Russia on top in the unofficial point scoring compilation with a total of 23. Nineteen of these points were accounted for by the Russian women's triple in the discus throw.

The United States was next with 15 points—all on first and second place in the high jump. Then, thanks to Zatopek, came Czechoslovakia with 10, followed by France with five, Britain, Sweden and Brazil four each; Finland and Japan three each and finally Austria and Romania with two each.

The unofficial tabulation by countries is based on 10-5-4-3-2-1 points for the first six places in completed events.

Canada's rowing team, using borrowed shells from Sweden, had no firsts in the 2,000-metre heats but kept its chances alive. Hamilton Leanders were third in their heat of fours without coxswain; Toronto Argonauts' eight-oared crew got a fourth and so did Bob Williams and Derek Riley of Winnipeg in the double sculls.

All three Canadian crews now go into the "repechage"—the second-chance class. Heat winners automatically qualify.

Rowing performances yesterday ran a close parallel to the record-smashing in track and field competition, but there are no Olympic records in rowing. Regattas vary so much that records in this sport are unreliable.

Yugoslavia and France won heats in the four-oars without coxswain, the Yugoslavs timed in better mark than that made by Great Britain in 1928.

U.S. CREW WINS

The unbeaten eight-oared crew from the United States Naval Academy won from Britain's Leander club but both boats qualified easily and neither crew went all out. Yugoslavia also qualified in the eights.

The Russians, appearing in the Olympics for the first time, won their heats in the eight-oared crew and double and single sculls and qualified for the semi-final in the four-oars without coxswain.

Russia also led the field in gymnastics, after compulsory exercises, with Switzerland second and Finland third.

The Netherlands and India advanced to the final of the field hockey tournament with victories over Pakistan and Britain.

Mercurys Trim Mimico 21-7

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Saturday night action in the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior league left the winners still deadlocked for fifth place.

Owen Sound Mercurys trimmed the first-place Mimico Mountaineers 21-7 at Owen Sound as St. Catharines Athletics walloped Toronto West York by the same score at St. Catharines.

Johnny Lumley led the Owen Sound attack with four goals and three assists. Tony Oapula and Don McWhirter counted three goals each for the Mercurys. The top scorer for the mountaineers was Pat Chard with two goals.

Doug Smith fired three goals to lead the St. Catharines snipers. John Dewar and Ted Hogg counted three each. Leo Teatro practically put on a one-man scoring show for Toronto, tallying five of their seven markers.

Timbermen have two toughies this week, away against Mimico first and then back here Friday 'gainst the leading Mounties. By week's end, some of the local senior lacrossers will have shed a bit more weight, if they have any suet left. This warm weather has been hard on gutted-stick players, since it's a grind at any time and a rough sport. Apart from football—and it comes in cooler weather, with more pads worn—lacrosse is the roughest team game we have. A lot of stitching on a squad during a campaign, not to mention concussion, fractured limbs, cracked ribs, et al. It is indeed a man's game.

Port Hope Ontarios promise that it won't happen again. Meaning losing to the local juniors in the Lakeshore Intermediate Baseball League. Young Petes took 'em right in Port Hope last week and think they can repeat the dose here tonight. A 6.30 touch in Riverside. Can't tell who will hurl for the homesters and any name we mentioned would be strictly a guess—its' up to Al Menzies and Shockey Mein to decide just ere game time. The juniors have beaten Colborne twice as well as Lindsay and Port Hope, besides scaring the leading Bowmanville Roses plenty last start. They're coming along good now and deserve lots of local support as the schedule nears a close.

Away For Vacations

Holidays do roll around and they force some schedule revisions. Such is the case in the men's City Softball League, and we just learned Saturday of changes for this week. Tuesday's twin bill has Lakefield vs. U.E.W. at seven, followed by Lindsay vs. Revoy's. On Thursday, it'll be Seabrooke's vs. Lakefield in the opener and then Revoy's vs. Seabrooke's in the nightcap. A heavy evening Thursday for Red Sullivan's squad from over Ashburnham way. With a number of our larger shops closed down for two weeks, a lot of players are out of town in distant spots, hence some switches must be made. Anyway, this is the week's setup. No girls' games.

Peace on earth, goodwill toward man—that's the general idea of the Olympics, presently on in Helsinki. Plus the feeling of good sportsmanship on an international amateur basis. Let us hope things go right this time. The Greeks started the Olympics first and they were staged every four years, as they do today. But there was a gap of some 1,500 years when they weren't held at all, after one Emperor Theodosius banned 'em in 392 A.D. Too much friction betwixt Greeks and Romans, it seems. The Games weren't properly revived till 1896, and they've been run regularly since except for time out to fight a couple of world wars. There's the threat of war again, but the Summer Games proceed in Finland's Helsinki.

Info From The O.B.A.

Secretary Tom Rowdon of the O.B.A. advises that juvenile and midget teams be ready for provincial playdowns by Aug. 23, but bantam and peewees have to start by Aug. 2, which is less than two weeks away. Shows how summer is slipping around, eh? Peewee games go just seven frames, except when tied. Our senior and junior clubs are affiliated with the O.B.A. for playdowns, and it is believed some of the minor sections, if not all, plan on going into Ontario sawoffs, too. East City Braves and southend peewees have a 6:30 p.m. tilt tomorrow at Bonnerworth, next bantam contest being at Quaker on Friday eve, Welch's vs. the southenders.

Two upsets occurred Saturday night in the mad senior O.L.A. scramble. Two top teams were dumped by two in the second division and by identical scores. Owen Sound trimmed the first-place Mimico Mounties by 21-7 and St. Catharines downed Toronto Yorks by a similar count. Ken Dixon of Mimico sustained an injured leg in the deal, and Goalie Johnston of Yorks was banged up. Mimico still lead with Petes and Toronto tied for second, and Hamilton not far behind 'em. But St. Kitts and Crescents are beginning to make a bid toward getting into the first division race now. Toronto is at Hamilton tonight, St. Catharines at the Sound tomorrow, and Petes in Mimico next night.

Hamilton Leanders Eliminated At Games

HELSINKI (CP)—Hamilton Leanders were eliminated today from the four-oar (without coxswain) class of the Olympic rowing competition.

Leanders, who finished third in yesterday's heat, had another opportunity in the repechage, or second-chance phase for non-winners. But their best again was a third.

Poland's entry finished first and qualified for semi-finals. Hungary's crew was second and was eliminated along with Leanders.

Leanders rowed in the second heat. Great Britain's crew won the first heat, eliminating Denmark and South Africa.

Poland's winning time in the 2,000-metre race was 6:45.9. The Hungarians were timed in 6:50.3 and the Canadians in 6:51.3.

Calumet Horse Wins Chicago Race

CHICAGO (AP)—The combination of famed Calumet Farm, trainer Ben Jones, jockey Eddie Arcaro and the horse, Mark-ye-Well, was more than enough Saturday to win $105,375, the richest purse in three-year-old racing history.

Over a muddy racing strip at Arlington Park, Arcaro guided Mark-ye-Well to a five-length victory in the Arlington Classic mile before a sweltering crowd of 26,766.

Closest to Mark-ye-Well at the finish was the Kain Hoy stables' one-eyed colt, Armageddon; with Sub Fleet third.

Mark-Ye-Well, never before a starter in a Stakes event, splashed through the muddy mile in 1:39 1-5.

The victory was the fourth Classic triumph for Calumet Farms. It was the second for Arcaro who booted home the Greentree Stable's shut out in 1942.

Batting: Andy Seminick, Cincinnati Reds, and Del Ennis, Philadelphia Phillies—Seminick hit a grand slam home run in the role of a pinch-hitter in the fifth inning, then went behind the bat and scored the winning run after hitting a double in the 10th as the Reds won the opener 6-5. Ennis banged two doubles and a home run and scored three times in the Phils' second-game 4-3 win.

Pitching: Harry Dorish, White Sox—replaced Chuck Stobbs with Chicago leading the Yankees 5-4 in the eighth one out and runners on first and third. He fanned pinch hitter Hank Bauer and retired the next four batters to preserve Chicago's one-run margin.

QUEBEC CRICKETS WIN

Quebec retained the Lord Athlestan trophy by holding Ontario to a draw in a one-day cricket match Saturday at Montreal. Final score was: Quebec, all out for 257; Ontario, 109 for 6.

Here And There In Sports

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Detroit police department's track and field squad, led by Elmer Coleman, easily outclassed the Toronto police force in all but two events to win the team championship of the annual police games at Toronto Saturday.

The Detroit police racked up a total of 106 points to 47 for Toronto. Coleman, a sprinter and jumper, accounted for 23 of Detroit's total to take the individual scoring laurels.

The Toronto team missed hurdler Gordon Crosby, who is representing Canada in the Olympic Games at Helsinki.

Doug Wallace won the quarter-mile and Jack Hilder the 56-pound weight throw for Toronto's only victories. Jim Henderson, a field man, topped the Toronto point-winners with a total of 14.

Coleman's top performance came in the 220, which he ran in 21:9 seconds.

Bill Watson of Detroit was the leader in the field events, winning the 56-pound distance throw with a heave of 37 feet, 8¾ inches, the discus with a mark of 143 feet, 9½ inches and the 16-pound shot put with a throw of 47 ft. one inch.

Detroit won the tug-of-war, one of the top features of the games, two pulls to one.

The Toronto and Detroit teams meet again in Detroit, Aug. 2-3.

TO TEST UMPS

The senior Intercollegiate Football Union, in its effort to obtain additional qualified officials to handle its league games next season, intends to make the selections from the results of written examinations. These tests will be held the latter part of August in Toronto, London, Hamilton, Kingston, Montreal and possibly Ottawa.

CAPS ABANDON WINGS

Dick Miller, newly-elected president of the Indianapolis Coliseum Corporation, said Saturday Indianapolis Capitals of the American Hockey League have cancelled their affiliation with Detroit Red Wings. Miller, who succeeded Arthur Wirtz as president of the capitals, said the team will operate independently.

MAY REVIVE USHL

The United States Hockey League, placed in the deep freeze last year, may be revived on a smaller scale this winter. Representatives from five cities—Denver, Omaha, Kansas City, Tulsa and Wichita—will meet in Wichita before Aug. 1 to discuss reviving operations.

FIRE HALTS GAME

At Ridgeway, Ia., it wasn't rain or wet grounds which postponed a Northwest Iowa League baseball game here yesterday. It was fire. New Hampton led Ridgeway 3-0 in the fifth inning when the local fire gong sounded. The home club volunteers dropped their bats and went to fight the blaze. When they returned to resume play, New Hampton had packed up and gone home.

NEUHAUS RETAINS TITLE

At Dortmund, Germany, Heinz Neuhaus, European heavyweight champion, retained his title yesterday in an all-German contest when he knocked out Hein Ten Hoff, holder of the German title, in the first round of a scheduled 15-round fight.

SKIERS OUT IN JULY

At Laconia, N.H., the temperature was 85 yesterday but 40 of the east's top ski jumpers competed on a hill covered with 70 tons of crushed ice in the fourth mid-summer meet. A crowd of 3,000 watched the competitors, who wore regular ski garb from the waist down and light shirts or sweaters above.

F. Dyer Resigns As Captain Of Cricket Club

By C. H. IRESON

Frank Dyer has resigned as captain of the Peterborough-Whitaker Crick Club because of ill-health, but he will continue to play for the club when he feels fit enough. Bryan Roberts, vice-captain, will act as club captain for the rest of the season.

The game here Saturday was cancelled at the last moment when Toronto Parkdale "B" team failed to fulfill its scheduled contract to play here after the P-W club defeated them in Toronto June 21 by 204 to 32.

Frank Dyer has a wonderful record in local cricket. He joined the old Peterborough Club in 1924 and in 1926 was elected captain. Again in 1931 he was named captain and served the club in that capacity for 19 consecutive years, 1931 to 1949. Then he took a rest on the job for two years but in 1952 he was again appointed captain.

A LONG RECORD

He was a consistently fine bowler. In 1931 had 71 wickets average of 5.71 and was first in bowling average in "33 with 6.50. In 1949 he had 40 wickets average of 8.28. These figures taken at random from the records show his calibre. This season in five council matches he has 17 wickets at a cost of 7.59. No doubt, he has taken over 1,000 wickets for the local club as he had 860 wickets for an average of 6.34 in 1940. He was also a capable batsman and in 1925 was presented with a bat for being the best all-around player on the team. He is still a fine cricketer and a sportsman after his long record of service.

Next Saturday, the local club plays Toronto Avro "A" here, Avro having won the first match in Toronto on July 5 by 117 to 58.

Referee Attacked By Angry Fans

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—The referee of a Southern Ontario Soccer League game was attacked by angry fans Saturday night when he awarded a penalty kick to Niagara Falls Legion in their game with Hamilton Italo-Canadians.

Hamilton supporters swarmed on the field and one of them struck Referee Craig on the back. Unable to stop the milling he called the game with six minutes of regulation time remaining and Niagara Falls leading 4-2.

Mrs. J. C. Whitelaw Wins Golf Open

KINGSTON (CP)—Mrs. J. C. Whitelaw of Laval-sur-le-Lac Saturday won the Eastern Provinces women's open golf championship at the Cataraqui Golf Club.

Mrs. Whitelaw defeated Mrs. N. J. Carlson of Toronto 4 and 3 before some 200 spectators.

In the morning semi-finals Mrs. Whitelaw eliminated Rose Kampman of Kitchener Westmount 5 and 4 while Mrs. Clarson defeated Daintry Chisholm of the Royal Montreal Club 4 and 3.

Royals Edge Ottawa 6-5 In 13th Inning

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rocky Bridges is proving to be just what the doctor ordered for the International League's pace-setting Montreal Royals.

When the Royals sent out an S O S recently the parent Brooklyn Dodgers sent Bridges to Royals for 10 days to fill the gap created by injuries to Montreal infielders.

Bridges came through in the clutch yesterday, singling home Al Moryn from third base with one out in the 13th inning to give the Royals a 6-5 victory over Ottawa Athletics in the opener of a doubleheader. The Royals also won the nightcap 5-3 behind the six-hit pitching of Bob Alexander. Jim Pendleton shared the spotlight with Bridges as he collected three hits in each game to extend his batting streak to 12 games.

WINGS, CHIEFS SPLIT

The sweep enabled the Royals to move 2½ games in front of Rochester Red Wings who split a doubleheader with the third-place Syracuse Chiefs.

Lefty Fred Hahn blanked the Chiefs on five singles in the opener. The Wings' pounced on Art Hartley for four runs in the first inning of the second game but Lynn Lovenguth blanked them the rest of the way. Former Red Wing Johnny Blatnik led Syracuse's counter-drive, banging home four runs with a pair of homers.

The up-and-coming Baltimore Orioles shaded Springfield Cubs 4-3 in 10 innings. Al Cihocki singled with the bases loaded to break up the game.

Toronto Maple Leafs and Buffalo Bisons battled to a 5-5 tie as rain brought their game to a halt with the Leafs at bat in the ninth. The second game was postponed. Ed Stevens drove in all of Toronto's runs with his 14th and 15th homers.

In Saturday action, Ottawa defeated Montreal 4-1, Buffalo and Toronto split a doubleheader, the Bisons winning the opener 5-0 and the Leafs the second 1-0, Springfield defeated Baltimore 7-2 and Rochester won 8-4 over Syracuse.

Nats Take 4th Straight Win Down Browns In Twin Bill

By JOE REICHLER, Associated Press Sports Writer

Four consecutive victories by one run and 21 one-run decisions for the season—that is the principal reason why Washington's scrappy Senators are in third place today after all but a handful of experts had picked them to finish in the American League cellar.

The Nats took their fourth straight one-run victory yesterday as they swept a doubleheader from St. Louis Browns 7-6 and 6-3 to move into third place, a half-game in front of Cleveland Indians and a half-game behind Boston Red Sox. The double victory stretched their winning streak to five and left them five games away from the pace-setting New York Yankees.

Connie Marrero was the first-game winner and Bob Porterfield registered his seventh win of the season in the second game.

Previous to Marrero's one-run victory, the Senators had beaten Detroit 1-0 Thursday and nipped St. Louis 6-5 Friday and 2-1 Saturday.

RED SOX ADVANCE

The Red Sox picked up a full game on the Yankees, vanquishing the Indians 8-7 in 12 innings while the fifth-place Chicago White Sox were upsetting the world champions 5-4. Philadelphia Athletics took the opening of a doubleheader from Detroit 8-7 and played a 3-3 tie in the second game, halted by Pennsylvania's 7 p.m. curfew at the end of nine innings.

Brooklyn's runaway Dodgers maintained their 7½-game bulge in the National League, taking Pittsburgh Pirates into camp for the 13th straight time 8-5. The runner-up New York Giants whipped Chicago Cubs 9-7 and the third-place St. Louis Cardinals defeated Boston Braves 8-4.

Philadelphia and Cincinnati divided a doubleheader, the Phillies bounding back with a 4-3 win after the Reds had taken the opener 6-5 in 10 innings.

Del Ennis smacked two doubles and a home run as Robin Roberts won his 14th game for the Phillies in the nightcap. Andy Seminick, former Phil, cracked a fifth-inning homer in the role of a pinch hitter for the Reds in the first game.

Union Ties Up Fishing Industry In B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Another major British Columbia industry has been tied up by a worker-management dispute.

The United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union (A.F.L.) announced yesterday 6,000 coastal fishermen rejected an undisclosed operators' price offer in a week-end vote.

Alec Gordon, spokesman for the union, said the union has ordered fishermen not to fish.

The province's major industry, lumber, has been strikebound for more than a month, with 32,000 members of the International Woodworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.L.) on strike.

Originally the fishermen demanded a cent a pound more for sockeye salmon, half a cent for pinks and last year's price for cohoe and chums. The operators countered with a proposed reduction in prices for all varieties except sockeye, which would be the same as last year.

Operators said the fish market was falling of and they had a lot of last year's pack still in storage.

Forest Blaze Beaten Back

DIGBY, N.S. (CP)—Only a token force of firefighters today stood watch over the embers of a 100-acre forest blaze, which for a time threatened the farming community of Landsdowne, 10 miles from this Bay of Fundy fishing town.

The fire—born in a lightning flash last Monday—was beaten Saturday by a sudden, unexpected downpour and the continuing efforts of more than 1,000 firefighters, 400 of them naval volunteers from Cornwallis naval base nearby.

The fire, which burned across a three-mile front, crept Friday to within a mile of Landsdowne, a community of 40 homes. A morning breeze Saturday turned the flames southward toward the prosperous cherry-growing centre of Bear River. When the rain came the flames were four miles away.

Land owne residents stuck to their homes even at the height of the fire. Only a few packed belongings in readiness for a dash to safety.

Arrest Priest In Auto On 2nd Liquor Count

COOKSVILLE (CP)—Police yesterday arrested Rev. Clement Dougherty, 39, of Orangeville, when he stopped an automobile he was driving on a street here and refused to let a police cruiser pass. Father Dougherty, was charged with driving while his ability was impaired and having liquor in an illegal place.

Father Dougherty is awaiting trial on another charge of having liquor in an illegal place after being questioned two weeks ago near Malton.

Celebrate Saint's Day

ERIEAU (CP)—The feast day of Saint Anne, patron saint of the sea and sailors, was celebrated yesterday by thousands of Belgians and Netherlanders who made their annual pilgrimage to this little fishing village as they have been doing for the last decade. During morning masses sermons were preached in English, Dutch and Flemish.

Kingdom Of Heaven Topic At Coldsprings

COLDSPRINGS (ENS) —Seek Ye First, the Kingdom of Heaven," was the theme of the address given by Mrs. A. C. Luffman, of Baltimore, guest speaker at the July meeting of the Coldsprings W.M.S. In part Mrs. Luffman stated: "Do we the people at home, believe in God and love our fellowman, or do we let our religion branch into too many other channels?"

The meeting was held Thursday afternoon, at the home of Miss Edith Hoskin. There was 25 members and 10 visitors present.

Mrs. Leslie McIntosh, presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. A. Jamieson.

It was planned that the W.M.S. hold a Sunday service in August, while the Rev. V. M. Gilbert is on vacation.

Mrs. J. Ritchie gave a temperance reading.

Mrs. A. Taylor was in charge of the program. Scripture readings were given by Mrs. M. Linton, and Miss Stella Watt. Mrs. L. McIntosh gave a reading on "Prayer". Mrs. F. Ford led in prayer. Misses Dorothea, and Jean Bowman sang a duet.

"The Stranger of Galilee", was sung by Mrs. Paul Harris.

Mrs. N. Lang moved a vote of taking part.

Dies In Fight

TORONTO (CP)—Police, called to break up a fight outside a suburban New Toronto hotel Saturday night, found Hawrylewick Gezegorz, 43, dead on the sidewalk. Gezegorz had been beaten about the head but an autopsy revealed that death resulted from a heart seizure.

Find Bodies At Windsor

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—The bodies of two men whose overturned boat was found Wednesday in the Detroit River were found yesterday. Edward Makulski, 28, of suburban Riverside, and Felix Meloche 25, of McGregor, are believed to have been pitched into the river when the wake from a passing speedboat upset their rowboat.

Soldier Killed, 3 Hurt

WAINWRIGHT, Alta. (CP)—Pte. Jean Guy Gagnon of Quebec City was killed Saturday in an ammunition explosion at Wainwright military base. Three other soldiers suffered minor injuries.

U.S. Agreed In '47 Talks To Deposit Austrian Treaty Papers In Moscow

By SIGRID ARNE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ever since big four talks on an Austrian treaty started in 1947 the United States State Department has agreed that the final, signed papers should be deposited in Moscow.

The arrangement, however, has only recently become generally known. The news has been met with shocked surprise by leading European exiles here. They fear the effect on Europeans.

Traditionally, treaties are deposited in the capital of one of the signing countries. The official papers which pledge 60 countries to the United Nations, for example, are kept in Washington.

Moscow is the depository for the Second World War treaties with Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria, all now virtually parts of the Soviet Union, and the Russians demanded that Moscow be the guardian of an Austrian pact too.

FILING SITE UNIMPORTANT

U.S. and Austrian negotiators feel that if a treaty can be signed, moving foreign troops out of Austria, it will be unimportant where the agreement is filed.

George Dimitrov, former leader of the Bulgarian Peasant party and now secretary of the International Peasant Union, says:

"Granted, it will be a seeming victory for the west if the treaty moves Red troops out of Austria.

But, Dimitrov says, it will seem to many Europeans that the Russians have advanced a step, and Washington has lost, if Moscow becomes the guardian of the treaty.

"Further the Russians will use their guardianship in their own peculiar way. It will be easy for them to create a 'disturbance' in Austria. Then, quite likely, Moscow will reason that since the Soviets are the guardians of the treaty, they must also be the guardians of the peace. That is all the Kremlin needs as a reason for moving further into Austria."

Stanislav Mikolaiczck, former premier of Poland, who had to flee to save his life, doubts there will ever be an Austrian treaty. He says "Austrian oil is too important for the Russians. They won't leave Austria as long as they need the oil."

450 MEETINGS

U.S. State Department records show that the Big Four—the U.S. Britain, France and Russia—have had more than 450 meetings about an Austrian treaty since 1947. The meetings broke off in 1949, and Austria continues to be occupied by troops from all the Big Four. It costs the little country something over $20,000,000 a year to quarter the troops. Only the U.S. pays its own way.

The State Department says the negotiators started to work first on a draft treaty written in Moscow. It had 59 articles, including the arrangement to deposit the final paper with the Soviets.

Now, just to get a new start, Washington has proposed that talks start all over on an abbreviated treaty of only eight articles. London and Paris have agreed, but nothing has been heard from Moscow.

Article eight of the new draft says:

"The instruments (documents) of ratification shall, in the shortest time possible, be deposited with the government of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics."

State Department experts say the U.S. has never protested this arrangement.—

VOL. CV. No. 18 TUESDAY, JULY 22, 1952

MAIN STREET TOPICS

NO ABSENTEES

Board of Works and Finance Committees held forth in the City Hall Monday night from 7:30 to 11 o'clock. All members were present with the humidity.

DROWNING VICTIM

The funeral for Richard C. (Ricky) Dwelly, 24, of Salem Ave., Toronto, who was drowned Saturday afternoon in the Trent Canal is being held at 2 p.m. today in Toronto. Burial is in Park Lawn cemetery.

NO FIRES MONDAY

Firemen extinguished a rubbish fire at the home of Charles McNicholl, 268 Aberdeen Avenue, Monday afternoon. They explained that no fires may be lit outside without permission and no permission is given for rubbish fires on Monday. That is the day most housewives do their washing.

EIGHT PANELS

Eight billboards known as poster panels, will enclose the new Miller auto-wrecking yard on Aylmer Street north of the C.P.R. They are substituted for the fence that is required by the council. Board of Works approved last night the application of T. Proudfoot of the E. L. Ruddy Co. for permission to build the panels.

FINDS OLD COIN

Melville Wood of Bailieboro found a "half-dime" a silver coin dated 1837, while he was sitting in front of the W. L. Plews store in Bailieboro Saturday. Mr. Wood said the coin which was about the size of the small silver nickels which are no longer minted, had been used only a little. The printing on it was quite clear.

COUNTY REPRESENTATIVES

Warden R. R. Stewart and Reeves Gifford of Ennismore, Gordon Fitzgerald of Smith, Stewart Clysdale of Dummer, and Roland Tedford of Douro, joined in the greeting to the London travel promoters Monday. For the rest of the day Warden Stewart and Mr. Gifford had pressing engagements in their wheat fields and the sun.

A BLOWOUT caused this on Highway 7, near Fowler's Corners. The panel truck driven by Angus McIntosh, 27, Sherbrooke St. W., blew a tire, clipped off three guard rail posts and hit a tree. Bernard Geraghty, 26, sitting in the right hand seat, was thrown forward against the windshield and his 25-year-old wife, Claire, was thrown against the dashboard. Both were knocked out and, along with McIntosh, were taken to hospital. The shattered windshield is visible, just above the passenger's seat.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

City Ponders Should Drop Rent Control

Defeats Motion Endorsing Stand To Keep Controls

On a question of exemption from rent controls, finance committee defeated Monday night a motion by Ald. William Beggs, seconded by Ald. A. B. Burrows, "that we endorse our former position regarding rent control, and ask for maintenance of rent control in Peterborough."

Voting for it were Aldermen H. N. Young, S. J. Black, Burrows and Beggs. All members of the council were present, with Ald. T. D. Miller presiding.

Ald. Burrows' comment was: "We want to keep the status quo."

Even if it had been passed, the motion would not have changed the council's position but would have cut short discussion on the matter.

In disposing of the question before the committee, support appeared to be unanimous for a later motion by Mayor Waddell, seconded by Ald. Burrows, that the letter (from the select committee from the Ontario Legislature) be referred to the property commtitee for further study and report. Ald. H. S. Longhurst is property chairman.

GET BOTH SIDES

Actually there is no change of present action, and the Burrows "status quo" remanis, but the assignment to the Longhurst committee possibly affords an opportunity of getting both sides of the rent control question.

Text of the letter from the select committee of the legislature on control of rents and leaseholds was recently published in the Examiner. Referring to it in his presentment to the council, M. J. Reynolds wrote that after installing automatic heating equipment in a housing property his application for an increase over the current rent of $38 a month was rejected by control authority in Toronto. He said he had spent $2,000 on the new heating system. His apartments had cost him $14,000, but since 1949 he was not allowed to apply any increase to occupants.

The provincial select committee has been asking municipalities for their wishes on the proposed exemption from control. It was said that certain areas have already applied for it. Peterborough council was asked for its "views" on this subject. Any municipality favoring the lifting of control on rents would have six months, from September to March, in which it could change its position, if so decided.

WANTED NO CHANGE

Mayor Hugh Waddell recalled that the council "had advised them we did not want to change" from the present control system.

"Since then," Ald. J. A. Dewart remarked, "taxes have been increased, but landlords have no way of getting any increases."

Ald. Miller said he had heard of exceptional cases such as one in which a tenant was getting more for part of a house than the landlord's rent for the whole house.

Ald. Beggs said there were not sufficient houses in Peterborough for the needs of the people. He recalled the position taken by the council for the vacating of the houses in the Hatton area. If that went through, and there was no control of rents, some people would take advantage of the condition of a shortage of houses and many tenants would suffer.

Ald. J. E. Gillespie said before making any decision on this question the council might be prepared to invite representatives of "both sides" (landlords and tenants) as a means of getting exact information.

Ald. Dewart said the Dominion government had turned controls over to the provinces, "and now it is their responsibility to maintain or abandon controls in Ontario."

Ald. Dewart raised the point of information: "Are we really conversant with the situation?"

Ald. Sid Black agreed there was a housing shortage. "I feel as Ald. Beggs does. There's a lot of greedy people who'll stick you for all they can get."

Referring to the Beggs motion, Ald. Miller suggested that some members had not supported it because of lack of opportunity of knowing and discussing the facts.

Tri-Township Union School Wins 3rd Prize For Most Improvements To Schoolgrounds

A Peterborough county rural school has been awarded third prize in the Ontario competition for the greatest improvement in the appearance of school and grounds during the year ending June 30.

The T. Eaton Co. award goes to Union School Sections 9, 10, 14 of the townships of Burleigh, Harvey and Smith. This is the comparatively new school just north of Burleigh Falls where the road divides into the Oregon Trail to Buckhorn and Highway 28.

Its trustees, appointed by the Ontario Department of Education, are Mrs. G. K. Fraser, R. F. Downey, and Gerald Wood.

Most of the pupils of the school are Indian boys and girls of the rural neighborhood. The teacher is Miss Edith McLaren.

First prize school was No. 8, Crowland Township in Welland County, and second was No. 7 Minto Township, in Wellington County. There were 247 entries from across the province, although only six schools participated in the finals.

No Buying Spree But Sales Show Increases In City

City merchants cast a cautious eye today on Bureau of Statistics figures that have been interpreted as meaning a small buying spree is underway in Canada. Sales had increased over last year, but many businessmen feel that "normal business increases would explain the situation better. They seemed doubtful that a buying boom existed.

Across Canada in May, retail trade was up 13.1 per cent over May, 1951, and April was up 7.1 per cent. May's business was greater even than that of last December.

DEPARTMENT STORES UP

Eestimates from the Bureau of Statistics were that June sales in department stores were 10.7 per cent higher than in June of 1951. Leaders in the sales increases were furniture, autos, home appliances, and radios. In 1951, all showed decreased sales from 1950.

Merchants were willing enough to admit that the lifting of credit restrictions undoubtedly had an effect on the sales of once-restricted articles. But they felt that wasn't the whole story.

A dealer in electrical appliances said: "Any increase our sales show over last year should be put down to the work we've done. Increases aren't that big that you'd say there was a boom on."

Said a drugstore manager: "I wouldn't say it looked like a boom now. You'd have to wait until fall to tell for certain."

HURT BY STRIKE

A new car dealer whose firm also handles used autos, said more people were willing to buy cars, and had the money to do it. The U.S. steel strike had "scuppered" car dealers. Deliveries were slow and not always certain.

Another auto dealer said much the same thing. He could sell more cars if he had them, but he can't get them. As for a boom, "wait and see."

A third new car dealer saw the picture in the auto field as a discouraging one. The plant which made his product was closed because of the steel strike, and workers had been given holiday pay and told not to return until they were called.

Statistics and reports from the United States indicate a buying boom under way there which might be reflected in Canada by the end of summer.

But in Peterborough, at least, merchants agreed that caution was the keynote for the buyer. One furniture dealer said: "People just don't jump to buy the first thing they see. They pick and choose."

Mrs. Stevenson Civic Worker Dies In Winnipeg

One of Peterborough's most prominent workers in civic and welfare work for many years, Mrs. Arthur Stevenson, 86, died suddenly in Winnipeg Sunday while visiting her sister, Mrs. R. M. Dennistoun.

A member of one of the city's old families, Mrs. Stevenson, the former Georgina Maude b'Eresby Beck, was born in Peterborough, daughter of the Rev. Canon J. W. R. Beck and Margaret Brown, and lived here all her life. Canon Beck was the rector of St. John's Anglican Church for 33 years, 1856-1889.

Mrs. Stevenson was one of the originators of projects and improvements in the city that are still in existence. Much of this work was done through the Local Council of Women of which she was a charter member and president from 1924 to 1926.

BEGAN BABY CLINICS

She was one of the originators of the Well Baby Clinics which are now under the supervision of the Department of Health, and also the city playgrounds for children now operated by the Recreation Commission.

She was also one of the original instigators of Home and School organizations in the city.

She was one of a group instrumental in the appointment of a policewoman for the city and which also supported the election of a woman to the Board of Education. Before a policewoman was appointed, Mrs. Stevenson attended court several times when cases involved women.

PAY TRIBUTE

Tribute to Mrs. Stevenson and the group of women associated with her in the Local Council of Women during her active years of service was paid today by present members of the council. They spoke highly of Mrs. Stevenson and her group's efforts and said that the fruits of their work are being seen today.

She was a charter member of the 57th Regiment Chapter of the

Mother Rescues Son From Well

BONAR LAW (ENS)—A Bonar Law mother rescued her three-year-old son from an 18-foot well Sunday. The boy had fallen in in spite of a trap door covering the mouth of the well.

Early McFaul, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald McFaul, was playing with other children in front of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allen B. McComb, Sydney township, where his parents were visiting.

Mrs. McFaul and Mrs. McComb looked out at the children and saw Patsy Thompson standing near the well. Mrs. McComb warned her to keep away from it.

Then Mrs. McFaul asked: "Where's Earl?"

"He's in there," said Patsy, pointing to the well.

Mrs. McFaul rushed to the well and looking in saw her son clinging to the pipe about seven feet down from the well mouth. She got into the well and held onto the boy until a ladder was lowered and she was able to get out, carrying him.

Earl was unhurt, except for slight scratches on his back.

Tire Blows Truck Hits Posts, Tree

Three People Hurt After Crash On Highway 7

Three occupants of a panel truck were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital early today when the vehicle blew a tire, clipped off three guard rail posts, and crashed into a tree. The accident occurred on Highway 7, two miles east of Fowler's Corners.

In hospital, the full extent of their injuries still undetermined, are:

Angus McIntosh, 27, of R.R. 3 Peterborough, a fractured wrist and bruises.

Bernard G. Geraghty, 26, of 213 Simcoe St., a possible fracture of the right side of his jaw, facial cuts and bruises.

Mrs. Claire Geraghty, 25, wife of Mr. Geraghty, injuries to her right side, bruises and shock.

The trio were riding in a panel truck, owned and driven by McIntosh. They were travelling toward Lindsay at about 1:30 a.m. when the right front tire blew causing the truck to swerve onto the north shoulder of the highway.

CLIP OFF POSTS

After clipping off three guard rail posts the truck ran through the north ditch and crashed into a tree, a distance of 125 feet from where it left the paved surface.

McIntosh's wrist was broken but he was able to get out of the driver's seat unaided. Mrs. Geraghty was thrown against the dashboard and her husband against the windshield. Both were knocked unconscious.

They were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in Nisbett's ambulance and were treated by Dr. W. S. Fitzgerald.

The right front corner of the car is crushed in and the windshield shattered. Damage is estimated at $800.

O.P.P. Constables John Cawood and Harold Armstrong investigated.

Car Balks At Crossing Collides With Truck

NORWOOD —(ENS)—A small truck and a car collided at Spring and Bridge Sts. in Norwood Monday evening, causing total damage of $450 to the two vehicles. Nobody was hurt.

The accident occurred when Archie Miles of Ridge St. tried to make a left turn off the highway to go south on Spring St. The car started up balkily and did not get across the highway before it was in collision with the eastbound truck of P. Vandenburgh of Centre Dummer.

Miles' car received $250 damage, mostly to the right rear; and Vandenburgh's truck received $200 damage, mostly to the front end.

Provincial police from Peterborough assisted Chief Constable Herb Bradley in the investigation.

CowKicksMother Premature Birth Baby Doing Fine

BANCROFT (ENS).—In an incubator in the Red Cross Hospital here is a two-weeks'-old boy, who weighs only a little more than three pounds.

He was born three months early, hours after his mother was kicked by a cow. Obstetricians say that while such cases are "not remarkable," they are still not common.

The baby is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Vardy of Bancroft. Mrs. Vardy, 20, has been married since June, 1950, and has one other son, Wayne, 1.

Dr. O. W. Anderson of Bancroft says he is as positive as he can be that the boy is a six-months child. In spite of its size and prematurity, it has an excellent chance for survival.

The couple's other son, Wayne, was born two months prematurely, and Dr. Anderson said he was not sure whether the cow's kick precipitated labor, or whether the woman is one who would tend to have premature births.

A Peterborough obstetrician remarked that children born three months prematurely have not a very good chance of survival if they weigh less than three pounds. (The Vardy baby weighed three pounds, two ounces).

If they weigh more than three pounds, he said, the odds favoring survival are slightly in their favor.

Hospital officials report that Mrs. Vardy has recovered quickly from the effects of both the cow's kick and childbirth. She spent last weekend in Stirling, visiting relatives.

Council Defers Idea To Curb Board Of Education Costs

City council's expressed respect for the Board of Education Monday night inspired postponement of decision on a resolution from London, Ont., suggesting that legislation be sought giving municipal councils authority to refer school budgets to the Ontario Municipal Board.

The London council is circularizing other municipalities for support of their resolution that the Hon. George Dunbar, Minister of Municipal Affairs, be asked to introduce the proposed legislative amendment.

"Should we be a party to it?" Ald. J. A. Dewart enquired. "We have always had good relations with the Board of Education. There has never been a time when municipal councils had any jurisdiction over school affairs. It might be interpreted as dissatisfaction of this council with the Board of Education."

Ald J. E. Gillespie said the council was required to submit certain expenditures to the Ontario Municipal Board.

NO COMPLAINTS

Ald. A. B. Burrows: " We have never had any reason that I know of to complain about the Board of Education."

Ald. H. N. Young said school trustees were elected bodies, and were just as conscientious as municipal councils.

Ald. Burrows said this question required considerable thought. He suggested it might be let go to the association of mayors and reeves for their reaction.

Ald. Gillespie said that if there was an increase of four or five mills in prospect any year, as a conceivable case, and the council endeavored to reduce the rate by two or three mills, the Board of Education might not see fit to follow the same course.

WARFARE IN SOME TOWNS

Mayor Waddell commented that while there were good relations between the two elective bodies in Peterborough, "in some other places there is almost open warfare."

"I think there are some cases of that nature now before the Municipal Board," His Worship said. "It appears to be a question of a saw-off. It is a touchy subject in some other municipalities, but we are free of it."

A motion by Aldermen Gillespie and Longhurst was adopted deferring further discussion to the next meeting of the finance committee. Ald. T. D. Miller presided.

Council Approves Building $100,000 School

Approval of the Board of Education's proposed Public School at Cameron and St. Catherines Sts. at an estimated cost of $100,000 was recommended to the council by its finance committee Monday night.

The board expects to begin construction early in the fall, G. W. Craw informed the committee. Presenting a glimpse of the continuing school problem, Mr. Craw said the public schools would graduate 230 children and register 675 this year. A considerable part of the growth is in the south and western areas.

Supporting a letter to the council from K. S. Wightman, Superintendent of Schools, Mr. Craw said the four-room building would be for the younger pupils, and it was expected that the board would have to build another school on the Stenson property, north of Lansdowne St. and the new separate school in that section, and west of Western Ave.

Preliminary plans indicated that the Cameron-St. Catherines school would cost $82,000, plus furnishings and architects' fees which would amount to about $100,000.

"With four additional rooms the board hopes that the whole problem south of Lansdowne will be solved, at least for a little while," Mr. Craw said. "That part of the south end is pretty well filled up. Hardly any vacant lots are left, so as a residential section it may be regarded complete. It was felt by the board that four rooms for the younger children of that section would relieve them from having to walk longer distances and cross two busy streets."

Mr. Craw said King Edward School was filled to the doors, and at Prince of Wales a room was being opened that was not intended as a classroom.

School requirements were not static in Peterborough, Mr. Craw remarked. There are the new Ashburnham School, the project at St. Catharines St., prospect of another school north of Lansdowne St., Queen Elizabeth School on the north side of the city is crowded, and housing expansion is now active in that direction.

The board's request was for approval of financing the four-room school by issuing debentures.

AT THEIR WEDDING RECEPTION Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Collins were pictured cutting the cake. She is the former Miss Jean Neil.—(W. H. Staffen Photo)

Jean Neil Weds K. Collins

The marriage took place Saturday in Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church of Jean Eileen Neil, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Neil of Burleigh Falls, to Kenneth Joseph Collins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Collins of Peterborough. The Rev. Dr. F. M. Grant performed the ceremony.

The church was decorated with pink gladioli and red roses. Mr. Heribert Michel played the music and sang "On This Day" and "Ave Maria".

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and she wore a gown of white brocaded satin trimmed with nylon lace and net. It was made with scalloped lace yoke and long lace sleeves coming to a point over the hands, and her train had inserts of lace over net. Her veil was of tulle illusion and was cathedral length, and caught to a tiara of pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of American Beauty roses and stephanatis.

Mrs. Jean Freeman, sister of the groom, as matron of honor and Miss Marjorie Neil, sister of the bride, and Miss Isobel Fairburn, as bridesmaids, wore similarly fashioned gowns of lace and net with matching lace capes in pastel shades of blue, mauve and yellow. They carried fans made of net and ribbon decorated with roses and asters.

Miss Carolyn Neil as flowergirl was dressed in Nile green organdy trimmed with white lace. She carried a nosegay of roses and sweet peas. Little David Willis was ring bearer and carried the ring on a heart-shaped pillow made of white satin and edged with wide white lace.

The groom was attended by his cousin Mr. Paul Jones. Ushers were the bride's brother Clifford Neil and George Freeman.

The reception was held in the Empress Hotel Kawartha Room.

The bride's mother received in a gown of flowered crepe and she wore a corsage of red roses. The groom's mother wore a navy sheer gown with white accessories and her corsage was of Talisman roses.

For a trip to Montreal the bride chose a pale blue linen suit with white accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses and carnations.

They will live at 559 King George St.

MR. AND MRS. DONALD SHEA of Peterborough, the bride formerly Miss Mary Rice from Halifax.—(Roy Studio Photo)

Shea-Rice Nuptials

At St. Peter's Cathedral Saturday morning, the Rev. G. J. Weise said the nuptial mass and performed the marriage of Mary Veronica Cecelia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rice, of Halifax, N.S., to Donald Roy Shea, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Shea, of Warkworth.

A profusion of summer flowers was the setting and music was played by organist Mrs. R. G. Aman.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Edward Rice. Her gown was of French lace with inserts of nylon and she wore a matching bolero and mittens. A braided net headband held her veil which was finished with a scalloped edge. She carried a bouquet of rosebuds with baby 'mums. Mrs. Lola Cain, as bridesmaid, wore a similar gown in shrimp color with matching headband and she carried white daisy 'mums.

The groomsman was Mr. George Cain and Harold Shea was usher.

Guests were received afterward at the Empress Hotel with the groom's mother as hostess, dressed in figured nylon an dwearing a navy straw hat and corsage of pink roses.

The bridal couple are honeymooning in Muskoka following which they will live at 179 Aylmer St. Going away, the bride wore a mauve suit and hat and white accessories.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT JOHN ORDE were pictured as they cut their wedding cake at the reception following their marriage Saturday afternoon. The bride is the former Miss Joan Wilson.—(Parks Studio Photo)

Lorna McCartney Weds A. W. Woodhouse

A pretty wedding took place Saturday morning at the Church of the Sacred Heart when Lorna Della Elizabeth, youngest daughter of Mr. S. McCartney and the late Mrs. McCartney became the bride of Albert William Robert, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Woodhouse, all of Peterborough.

The Rev. Leo Leahy officiated. The altar was beautifully decorated with lillies and gladioli. The wedding music was played by Mr. Heribert Michel who also sang "On This Day" and other hymns during the Mass.

The bride, given in marriage by Mr. Joe Jones, looked lovely in a gown of white faille taffeta with square neckline, the bodice and peplum being of French chantilly lace. The skirt was very full with a slight train. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion with appliqued border was held to a Juliet cap of pleated net. She wore mittens of chantilly lace and carried a crescent bouquet of white camelias and red roses. She wore a gold locket which had been worn by the groom's grandmother and his mother on their wedding days.

Miss Marie Woodhouse, sister of the groom, as maid of honor, was in a gown of pale green brocaded taffeta with full skirt, and bodice of nylon net with Queen Anne collar. Her heart-shaped headdress and mittens were also of nylon net and she carried a nosegay of pink roses and sweet peas. Miss Margaret Woodhouse, also sister of the groom, as bridesmaid, wore salmon pink brocaded taffeta with portrait necline and a full skirt. She also wore a heart-shaped headdress and mittens of matching nylon net. Her nosegay was of yellow roses and sweet peas.

Little Elizabeth Jones as flower girl was charming in pale blue brocaded taffeta with full skirt and flower trim. Her poke bonnet and mittens were of matching nylon net and she carried a smaller nosegay of yellow roses and sweet peas.

The groom was attended by Mr. Al. Edwards of Toronto and the ushers were Jack Doleman and Walter Woodhouse, brother of the groom.

A reception was held at the home of the groom's parents where Mrs. Joe Jones received for the bride wearing printed silk with white hat and accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother dressed in grey and mauve printed silk with white hat and accessories. Her corsage was of bronze roses.

For a wedding trip to Manitoulin Island, the bride wore a dress of off-green nylon marquisette with white hat and accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds.

They will live at 257 Westcott Street on return.

Richlark-Ashby

In St. Peter's Cathedral on Saturday morning the Rev. John Hickey performed the marriage of Arlene Ashby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Ashby of Peterborough, to John Richlark, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Richlark of Saskatoon.

The bride wore a ballerina dress with skirt of white nylon net over taffeta and bodice of lace. Her fingertip veil was embroidered with pearls and caught in a sweetheart headdress of white satin. She carried a nosegay of sweet peas and carnations. Her attendant Miss Mary Collins was similarly frocked in pale blue and wore a tiara of blue pearls. Her nosegay was of variegated sweet peas.

Gromsman was Mr. Jack Doris.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, her mother receiving in a navy taffeta dress and wearing a pink and navy hat and corsage of pink roses.

Afterward, the couple left for Saskatoon, the bride wearing a pink gabardine suit with white accessories.

On Trip To Calgary

In the Immaculate Conception Church last Friday morning, Olive Teresa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Scott, became the bride of William Elmer Doran, son of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Doran, all of Peterborough. The Rev. J. A. Greenan was the officiating priest.

White gladioli and ferns decorated the church and wedding music was played by Mrs. C. O'Donnell, organist. Mrs. D. Campanaro sang "Mother at your feet us kneeling" during the signing of the register.

The bride wore a white figured organdy frock made with an off-the-shoulder neckline and fitted bodice with full, flared skirt. Her short veil was of white net with a figured edge and was caught to a coronet of pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

Given in marriage by her father, she was attended by Mrs. Dale McCabe, gowned in blue taffeta with matching hat and mitens. She carried a nosegay of pink roses, sweet peas and white 'mums.

Mr. Dale McCabe attended the groom and ushers were Clare Scott and Joseph Doran, brothers of the bride and groom.

Following a reception at the Empress Hotel, the bridal couple left for Calgary, Alberta. The bride went away in a pink sheer dress, wearing white accessories and a corsage of white 'mums.

After their trip, Mr. and Mrs. Doran will live at 421 Euclid Ave.

They were frocked in periwinkle blue nylon marquisette with matching mittens and hats in bonnet shape. The gowns were floor-length with very full skirts with blue lace insets. They carried bouquets of pink carnations and variegated sweet peas in a cascade trimmed with variegated ribbon.

Groomsman was James Tollerton of Oshawa, brother of the groom, and the ushers were James Feeley and Charlie Taylor of Peterborough.

A reception was held in the ladies' parlor of the church school where the bride's mother received wearing a gown of navy silk faille with a hat of navy straw with white flowers and navy accesories and a corsage of red roses. Mrs. D. C. Todd received for the groom wearing a gown of grey nylon with a hat of navy straw, navy accessories and a corsage of red roses.

During the reception a phone call was placed to the groom's parents, who were visiting England from Scotland.

Later the bride and groom left for a trip to Brockville and points east.

Travelling the bride wore a dress of blue and white nylon with navy accesories. Her corsage was a mauve orchid.

They will live in Peterborough.

What's Right?

You are a guest at a small summer resort hotel.

WRONG: Don't greet the other guests when you meet them on the grounds or in the lobby.

RIGHT: Say: "Good morning" or "good evening" to other guests.

PRETTY LEGS—WITHOUT TEARS

Keeping legs free from hair during hot weather takes a lot of attention. One ingenious way is to use a home hair-cutter called a taperette. This has a comb guard that keeps the blade back so you can't cut yourself. But what a close shave it gives you—smooth as cream.

Dorothy H. Leslie Bride Of Lloyd Starke

Queensborough United Church was the scene on Saturday afternoon of the wedding of Dorothy Helm Leslie and Lloyd Mather Starke, both of Peterborough. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Leslie of Queensborough and the groom is son of Mr. and Mrs. David Starke of Norwood.

Standards of gladioli and ferns banked the altar where the Rev. E. D. Snelgrove officiated, assisted by Mr. E. V. D. Lewis. Miss Shirley Starke also of Peterborough, played the wedding music and Mr. Reg. Peters was soloist. He sang "Because" before the service, "The Lord's Prayer" during the ceremony, and "I'll Walk Beside You" during the signing of the register.

The bride chose a gown of French Chantilly lace over taffeta with an accordion pleated nylon net skirt which fell to a graceful circular train. It was finished with a lace peplum and worn with a matching bolero. Her veil was of French illusion net, fingertip length, and caught to a cap of hand-made French white lilacs. Her bouquet was of red roses with ivy.

Mr. Leslie gave his daughter in marriage and her attendants were Mrs. George Murray, Miss Ruth Lewars, Miss Roberta Sager and little Judy Grant.

Mrs. Murray was dressed in orchid, Miss Lewars in yellow, Miss Sager in green and Miss Grant in orchid, the frocks all cut on similar lines to the bride's of nylon net over taffeta. Their hats were of matching lace over taffeta and they carried bouquets af mauve, green and yellow 'mums with carnations.

Mr. Tom Starke was his brother's groomsman and the ushers were Gordon Sager and Trevor Brown.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. R. Sagar. The bride's mother received in a gown of powder blue sheer with lace trim and wore a white straw hat and corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother assisted, wearing navy sheer and a navy straw hat and corsage of pink roses.

Leaving afterward on their wedding trip to New York city, via Niagara Falls, the bride wore a pink taffeta dress with powder blue accessories and a corsage of blue and pink carnations. (Just previously she had presented her bouquet to her 87-year-old grandmother. Mrs. Thomas Leslie).

Mr. and Mrs. Starke will make their home in Peterborough.

Hardy-Walker

At Cobourg last Wednesday afternoon, in the Trinity United Church, the marriage took place of Helen Gertrude Walker to Russell Nelson Hardy of Peterborough, the Rev. W. P. Woodger officiating. The bride is daughter of Mrs. Lewis Taylor of Cobourg and the late Mr. George Walker. The groom is son of Mrs. Roy Hardy of Campbellford and the late Mr. Hardy.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Walter Duncan and the bridesmaids were Miss Joyce Hoskin and Miss Cynthia Taylor, all of Cobourg. Groomsman was Mr. Wesley Hardy of Campbellford, and the ushers were Robert Hardy and Arthur Nelson.

Given in marriage by Mr. Lewis Taylor the bride was gowned in French silk lace with skirt of layers of net over taffeta and she carried a horseshoe bouquet of red roses, white carnations and ivy. Her attendants were gowned alike in baby blue lace and net over taffeta. They wore matching bandeaux trimmed with forget-me-nots and carried baskets of yellow roses and white sweet peas.

A reception was held at Tangmere House for friends from Stafford Springs, Conn., Ottawa, Toronto, Kitchener, Campbellford, Port Hope, and Peterborough attending.

Afterward the bridal couple left on a trip to points west and United States, the bride wearing a blue butcher linen suit with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations. They will live in Peterborough.

Pre-Nuptial Events

Prior to her marriage on Saturday Mrs. Barton Grainger, the former Miss Fay Adams, was entertained by Mrs. C. Grainger and Mrs. Ken Grainger as joint hostesses at the latter's home for a miscellaneous shower. Another shower by the girls of the C.G.E. Control Department was held at the home of Miss Gladys Langton at which a featherweight iron and rose wool blanket were presented. Club 72 of the C.G.E. presented her with a chenille bedspread.

Sister Is Tea Hostess

A trousseau tea was held for Miss Dorothy Lemmon at the home of her sister, Mrs. S. Malsch. Miss Lemmon received with her mother, Mrs. B. J. Lemmon, and Mrs. D. C. Todd.

The table was decorated with a mixed bouquet of flowers and candles, and a plant of 'mums was placed on the buffet.

Mrs. A. Acreman and Mrs. S. Gould poured tea during the afternoon, while Mrs. E. Davis and Mrs. R. Huggins served the guests.

In the evening Mrs. J. Black and Mrs. S. Millard poured tea, while Mrs. H. Greenlaw, Misses Hazel Davis, Yvonne Millard and Barbara Malsch served.

Miss Lemmon's trousseau and gifts were shown by Misses Yvonne Millard, Barbara Malsch and Alice Pilling and Mrs. R. Huggins and Mrs. T. Hamilton.

Others assisting were Mrs. Davis, Sr., Mrs. W. Hotson and Mrs. A. Millard.

Grainger-Adams Wedding

A pretty summer wedding took place in All Saints' Anglican Church, Saturday, when Margaret Fay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Adams, became the bride of Barton Grainger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Grainger, Ven. Archdeacon C. W. Balfour was assisted by the Rev. H. G. Douglas of Knox United Church in performing the ceremony.

The church was prettily decorated with a profusion of summer flowers. Miss Margaret Flowers was at the organ and Mrs. Clair Grainger sang "The Lords Prayer" before the ceremony and "I'll Walk Beside You," during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father the bride was becomingly attired in an imported gown of white Swiss embroidered organdy over white taffeta made with strapless bodice and full skirt. A short sleeved jacket with Queen Anne collar was worn over the gown. The finger-tip veil was of silk illusion enhanced with an embroidered edge and caught at the head by a halo of silk tulle adorned at both sides with two satin leaves embroidered with tiny seed pearls. Her bouquet consisted of white orchids, feathered carnations and spray orchids on a white prayer book.

Mrs. Elson Patterson, in white organdy over mauve taffeta, was her sister's matron of honor. The bridesmaids, Miss Donna Wilson, cousin of the bride, and Miss Isla Wilson, sister of the groom, wore white Swiss tissue over yellow taffeta. They all wore headdresses of organdy and sweet peas and carried nosegays of sweet peas and feathered carnations.

Mr. Clair Grainger was his brother's groomsman and the ushers were Ken Grainger, another brother, and John Hannah.

A reception was held in the Kawartha Room of the Empress Hotel, where the bride's mother received wearing a grown of icing blue faille with white lace hat and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses. The groom's mother also received. She wore a rose crepe gown with matching crochet straw hat and a corsage of Johanna Hill roses.

The bride and groom left for a motor trip to Muskoka and Northern Ontario.

For travelling the bride chose a dress of pink linen with detachable cape, white accessories and a white orchid corsage.

On their return they will live at 523 Aylmer St.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT WELSH, the bride formerly Miss Joyce Sucee.—(Choate Studio Photo)

Joyce Sucee Weds Robert J. Welsh

Miss Joyce Earline Succee became the bride of Mr. R. J. Welsh on Saturday at Park St. Baptist Church with the Rev. E. J. Whan officiating in the ceremony. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sucee and the groom is son of Mr. and Mrs William Welsh, all of Peterborough.

The bride's gown was of Chantilly lace over satin simply styled with fitted bodice and tight sleeves pointed at the wrist and a full skirt. Her veil was of French lace crowned with seed pearls and rhinestones and she carried Sweetheart roses.

Given in marriage by her father she was attended by her sisters, Misses Barbara and Shirley Succe and her cousin, Miss Jean Bowen, was maid of honor. Their frocks were of pink, yellow and mauve net over taffeta with bodices of lace and they wore matching boleros and mittens. Each wore a halo headdress of matching orchids and they carried nosegays of sweet peas, baby 'mums and yellow roses.

Groomsman was Gerald Tully and ushers were Beverly Graves and Louis Nickle. The wedding music was played by Mr. Adam Hawley.

The reception was at the Club Aragon where the bride's mother received in a mauve crepe dress and mauve straw hat, wearing a corsage of Sweetheart roses. The groom's mother was dressed in blue crepe and wore a white straw hat and corsage of, pink roses.

Leaving on a honeymoon trip to Detroit and other points in the United States the bride wore a pink nylon dress and white accessories and corsage of sweet peas and baby 'mums.

Mr. and Mrs. Welsh will live on Stormont St.

Rector's Daughter Married

GORE'S LANDING — (ENS)— The bells of St. George's-on-the-Hill rang out Saturday afternoon for the wedding of Miss Mary Smith, elder daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Smith, the rector, to Maurice Harris of Peterborough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Harris of this village.

The Rev. J. W. Crisall of St. John's, Port Hope, officiated, and the organist and choir of St. Paul's Church, Perrytown, furnished the music for this occasion.

The church was beautifully decorated with blue and white flowers. The choir preceded the bridal party up the aisle singing "The Voice that breathed o'er Eden." As the wedding march pealed forth, the two ushers, one a brother of the bride, Gordon Smith, headed the wedding procession. The bride was a lovely picture in white satin and lace, with fingertip veil and carrying red roses. She was given in marriage by her father.

Bridal attendants were Mrs. J. Lipscott, sister of the groom, as matron of honor gowned in green satin and lace, Miss Margaret Smith, the bride's sister, in pale pink satin and lace, and Mrs. S. Smith of Cobourg, in yellow satin and lace. They wore hair bandeaus in pink, yellow and green with rosettes and streamers and carried variegated nosegays.

The groom was attended by Mr. J. Lipscott.

Following the marriage ceremony, Holy Communion was served the bride and groom. During the signing of the register the Perrytown choir sang a hymn.

The reception was held on the lawn at Mr. and Mrs. William Babb's home. Receiving with the wedding party were the bride's mother dressed in royal blue with white and corsage of pink roses, and the groom's mother in pale grey flowered sheer with pink rose corsage. Guests were present from Oshawa, Cobourg, Harwood and Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris will live in Peterborough.

DOROTHY DIX

Quarrelsome Parents Bring Life Of Discord To Family

DEAR MISS DIX: If parents knew what separation does to their children I don't think there would be so many divorces. I should think people would straighten out their difficulties just for the sake of their children.

I am a teen-ager of 17 and a victim of such circumstances. My parents were divorced when I was small and each has remarried. I live with my mother, and now, after eight years, it looks like another crisis brewing. She and my stepfather are always arguing and quarreling. She is suspicious of every move he makes for fear there is another woman involved. Sometimes when he is late for dinner she says, in front of me and my little sister, that she wishes something would happen to him. This life of discord is awful. I envy those who can honestly say they live in a happy home.

DAWN M.

ANSWER: It is, indeed, a wonderful blessing to have a happy home. The unfortunate part of it is, though, that few children realize how fortunate they are to live in a household free from discord.

While it is true that many divorces would be averted if parents stopped to realize the effect of the action upon their youngsters, it is also true that some people simply cannot create a harmonious atmosphere around them. Such a one, apparently, is your mother. Since she could not make a success of her first marriage, and is certainly not being too cooperative in this one, it would seem to be her nature, rather than the fact of the divorce, that is keeping your home life so unhappy.

HAS OWN TROUBLES

Probably she in turn, however, is beset by worries of which you know nothing, so don't judge her actions too hastily. Perhaps she is so wrapped up in her own troubles that she is completely unaware of the bad effect her disposition has on you children. If you have a friend or relative in whom you can confide, try to bring the seriousness of the situation to your mother, through a third person.

By being cheerful about the house yourself, you may help change her attitude toward life.

Whatever you do, Dawn, don't leave home at your tender age, or jump to the conclusion that marriage may be an escape for you. Living under present conditions, and doing your best to improve them, is a job you must do. Don't shirk the responsibility and, with God's help, you may be able to create harmony from the present discord.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband and I have one problem which we cannot agree on. That is the upbringing of our two-year-old son. My husband is a strict disciplinarian and punishes the child for everything—climbing on chairs, taking too long to eat, singing or talking to himself when he's put to bed, etc. He says he wants to be proud of the boy and that this is the only way to train him correctly. I feel that so much spanking will make him dull and slow.

A. E. L.

ANSWER: Your conclusion is much more correct than that of your husband. A boy whose spirit has been completely broken by constant, unnecessary punishment will be the dull child who will be a credit to no one. The natural curiosity of a youngster should be encouraged—not quelled. Your husband is already depriving himself of one of the pleasures of parenthood. By not letting the baby do the cute things typical of babyhood, Daddy will never be able to relate the anecdotes that are most parents' chief delight.

Since you are unable to convince your husband of his error, why not tell your doctor of the circumstances and let him advise dad?

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 19, soon to be graduated from high school. The man I love is 26. Is that too great a difference? Also, do you think I should continue my education in college where I will meet boys my own age?

R. R.

ANSWER: The age difference is not too great, provided background and tastes are similar. As to your education, the faculty advisor, student counselor, or principal of your high school should be consulted. Don't go to college just to meet boys, however. It's rather an expensive way to get acquainted.

MR. AND MRS. DONALD SIDNEY KATES pictured after their marriage Saturday in Park St. Missionary Alliance Church. The bride was formerly Miss Georgina May Renouf and taught in a Lindsay district school.—(Parks Studio Photo)

Kates-Renouf Rites At Park Alliance

The new Missionary Alliance Church, Park St. North, was the setting Saturday afternoon for the wedding of Miss Georgina May Renouf, daughter of Mrs. W. V. Vesterfelt of Peterborough and the late Rev. C. G. Renouf, to Mr. Donald Sidney Kates, son of Mrs. Sidney Kates of Glasgow, Scotland, and the late Mr. Kates.

The Rev. Ralph Hobson of Ottawa performed the ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Pte. Gerald Vesterfelt of Valcartier, Que., and her attendant was Miss Patricia Sturn of Windsor. The Groomsman was Mr. William Wyeth and the ushers were the bride's cousins, William Lowell Sr. and William Lowell Jr., all of Peterborough.

The church was decorated with gladioli and hydrangea banked with ferns. Wedding music was played by Mrs. Ben Smith.

A white linen suit with navy accessories and a corsage of red roses was the bride's attire. The bridesmaid wore an aqua linen suit, also with navy accessories, and her corsage was of white roses. The bride's mother chose a navy and white silk suit and a white hat and wore a corsage of white carnations.

Following a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Lowell, 592 Douglas Ave., the bridal couple left by motor for the Laurentians. On return they will live at 243 McDonnel St.

Telegrams from the groom's friends in Scotland were received during the reception.

Society Searches For Glamor At Lower Cost

LONDON (CP)—Glamor without bankruptcy is the aim of the newly-formed Society of Guinea Pigs.

A night out in London's West End has become a possibility for some 300 charter members of this organization which met at the Cafe de Paris, formulated a membership pattern and listened to Noel Coward sing.

Night life in London is so expensive that many young bloods are eliminated. So a group of under 24s made a deal with the Cafe de Paris.

Each guinea pig received a folder on how to dress (evening wear) and how much to tip—five shillings. While adults pay two guineas cover charge, the youngsters pay only one guinea. For this they must be at their tables before 9 p.m. A fruit cup is thrown in for good luck. After that they order what they like and keep their fingers crossed. It is not included in the guinea fee.

The scheme was devised by Lady Hardwicke, wife of actor Sir Cedric Hardwicke.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Wife's Life In The Yukon Leaves Much To Be Desired

By V. K. (via M. M.)

Count your blessings, ladies. If you can't think of any offhand, read V. K.'s letter from Whitehorse, Yukon, and you will think of quite a few before you are finished.

"WHITEHORSE, YUKON. — Dear Mary Moore: . . . enjoy your column . . . never written before . . . interested in your trip . . . we are station[illegible] the Yukon at Whitehorse but get the hometown paper a couple of weeks late, but it still gets read, every inch of it, as we have only a weekly paper here which carries only local news . . . the scenery is magnificent and weather not too bad although we have had a late spring (they tell me) I have only been here since January . . . but the thing that is hard to take up here, Mary, is the price of food and everything else for that matter although (mail order companies) are old reliables if you don't mind waiting.

Fresh milk we get but once a week on Saturdays, and it is 50c a quart. A 15-oz. loaf unsliced bread 20c, lb. margarine 51c, lettuce 45c lb., tomatoes 35c and 60c a tube, depending on whether they came by boat or plane. Jelly powders 12c each, large cornflakes 35c, graferuit 16c each, shortening 42c, side bacon 90c, tinned milk 22c tin . . . I hate to even mention meat prices — hamburg is $1.10 lb., same for stewing beef . . . pork is down to 75c although none of the meat is trimmed of bone and fat as I've been used to.

" . . . until we get an A.F. house we rent one downtown for $40 furnished (don't laugh )with a bed, spring and mattress (which we replaced) and small chest of drawers in bedroom. The L.R. has oil heater, 2 odd tables (old A. F. writing desks) and 1 couch. The kitchen has a camp stove, table and 5 chairs. There is no running water and we store ours in 45-gal. drum . . . the hydro for lights, toaster and iron runs $6 monthly. We pay the scavenger $1 per visit twice a week . . . we have what is loosely referred to as a chemical toilet . . .

"I burn about ½ cord wood a month for cooking and this costs another $10 . . . In Feb. and March we paid out almost $100 each month to keep the living room warm . . . ice would still form in the kitchen during the night when the stove was out . . . luckily we are granted $125 additional allowance up here . . . spend every penny of it . . .

"Things have brightened considerably . . . we are moving to a house with running water, and most precious, a flush toilet, shortly. By winter we hope to be in a proper A. F. house. There gives us a fully furnished modern house, complete even to bed we pay $75 a month rent which linen . . . everything else to be had in a well-run modern house . . . we are not allowed to bring anything but personal belongings . . . while we are living skimpily at present we are together as a family and that means everything.

"There is no earth in Whitehorse, and hence no gardens, although climate will allow things to grow . . . I have managed to obtain some soil . . . in a coal scuttle I have 5 tomato plants, a good supply of lettuce and radishes . . . "I've been gabbing a long time and haven't asked you what I intended . . . have you a recipe for macaroni and cheese similar to that which —— puts up . . . it is 35c a 15-oz. tin up here . . . I have a boy 6, a girl 5 and a boy 2 and they really eat . . . have you recipe for cakes that could be cooked on top of stove or in pressure cooker . . .

"On re-reading, do hope you didn't think I was complaining . . . I really like it despite all the gripes . . . V. K."

Reading that letter was like reading a story. Doesn't V. K. give you a clear picture. Aren't you glad our food prices are lower?

I am mailing V. K. the recipe for macaroni and cheese which I put in this column last Tuesday. Only fruit cakes can be "baked" sucessfully in the pressure cooker so far, so I am giving a

DATE PUDDING

Sift together 2 cups sifted flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt. Add ½ cup chopped nuts, 1 cup chopped dates and grated rind ½ orange. Stir in 1 beaten egg combined with 2/3 cup milk (in V. K's case diluted evaporated milk or dehydrated skim milk powder) and 1 cup ground suet. Pour into buttered moulds 2/3 full. Cover securely with four thicknesses wax paper. Place on rack in cooker, exhaust, cook 20 minutes at 15 lbs. pressure. Do not open until indicator returns to zero.

6—In Memoriam

ASHBY—In loving memory of a dear husband and dad, Wilbes P. Ashby, who passed away 5 years ago, July 22, 1947, and a dear grandson, Ray Alvin Barton, who was drowned July 27, 1947.
—Sadly missed and ever remembered by wife and family.

YOUNG—In loving memory of Charlie Young, who passed away July 19, 1951.
Those whom we love go out of sight,
But never out of mind;
They are cherished in the hearts
Of those they leave behind.
—Ever remembered by Mother, John and Mary.

7—Card of Thanks

I wish to take this opportunity of thanking Nisbett's ambulance, attending doctor, nurses, orderlies, relatives and friends who were so kind to me during my stay in Peterborough Civic Hospital.—Ronald Hardy, R.R. 2, Bowmanville.

Mrs. Douglas Young wishes to sincerely thank Doctors, Nurses and Staff of Civic Hospital; and clergymen and very kind relatives and friends for flowers, fruit, gifts and cards and visits during her recent illness.

Mr. and Mrs. James Carr wish to thank all their neighbors and friends for all kindnesses shown in the recent bereavement and loss of his mother, Mrs. Alice Carr.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hamblin, 267 Braidwood Ave., thank their family, many friends and neighbors, for their calls, cards and phone messages on our 50th wedding anniversary.

Strange Lights Near Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—A control tower operator said today "golden lights" have been sighted over Cleveland, and on one occasion he sent an airliner to look for something that appeared on a radar screen.

George Beers, senior operator on the midnight shift of the control tower at Cleveland Hopkins airport, said "one night six of us watched from the darkened tower room while a light hovered north of the field. We don't know what it was but all six of us saw it.

"Another time I personally saw a light making a circular pattern over or nearby Elyria. I picked it up on the radar screen and watched it.

"I sent an incoming airliner over to take a look and the thing disappeared from the screen."

On another occasion a tower operator and an incoming pilot both reported seeing a "light" that "climbed and travelled in an easterly direction much faster than the normal operational speed of any aircraft known to be in this vicinity," said Beers.

Pulpwood Backbone Of Canadian Industry

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada adds $100 to her income every time a cord of pulpwood is converted into a ton of pulp and paper, James A. Vance, president of the Canadian Forestry Association, said in a statement released today.

"Until we place a high tangible value on the living forest as the chief paymaster of the nation, we cannot properly gauge the enormity of the forest fire scourge," Mr. Vance said in a fire prevention message.

An average woodland acre was worth $2,500 to Canada through conversion of its wood into newsprint and pulp. The annual loss of 438,000 acres by fire was a "chain of tragedies."

2 Planes Machine-Gun Japanese Island

TOKYO (Reuters)—Japanese police on tiny Yakara Island, off the southern tip of Japan, reported that two big planes machine-gunned the island today, making five or six passes.

Police said there were no casualties.

Islanders on nearby Gaja Island recently reported that an unidentified plane machine-gunned a village there July 18.

Moore Trophy Won By Dental Company

OTTAWA (CP)—The Moore Trophy for the most efficient reserve force dental unit in Canada has been won by No. 9 company, Royal Canadian Dental Corps, of Edmonton, army headquarters announced today.

The trophy, awarded following competitive inspections in all phases of unit efficiency, was donated last year by Dr. Stephen A. Moore of London, Ont., honorary lieutenant-colonel of the R.C.D.C. Last year's winner was No. 3 company, R.C.D.C., also an Edmonton unit.

Albert Lafrance Given Remand To Aug. 7

OTTAWA (CP)—Albert Lafrance, 47-year-old laborer charged with the murder of Azel Bigras July 4, appeared in city magistrate's court today and was remanded to Aug. 7.

He was arrested after Bigras' body was found in the Ottawa River within sight of the Parliament buildings. Police said the men held a drinking party on the river bank where they had been fishing.

Youth Not Guilty Of Negligence In Car Fatality

In continuing to drive his dilapadated car on the River Road after his three passengers had climbed out and were hanging on the outside, Ronald Killingbeck, 16, of Princess St., was not guilty of a sufficient degree of negligence to warrant a conviction for dangerous driving.

Magistrate R. B. Baxter gave this decision in police court today in granting defence counsel W. J. Arthur Fair's motion for dismissal of the charge after crown attorney John A. Bradshaw completed the crown's case.

The stunting cost the life of 16-year-old Donald Grant, R.R. 11, Peterborough, who was fatally injured when he slipped off the front of the car and fell onto the gravel shoulder of the road. The accident occurred the evening of June 12 and Grant died at Civic Hospital shortly after midnight.

"If Killingbeck did anything wrong, it was his failure to do something," the Magistrate said after Grant, Donald Weese and Ronald Harrison got out of the car. "In view of the age of Killingbeck and the fact that the car was driven at such a speed that Weese was able to get out and walk behind the car and get back into the trunk, under these circumstances, I cannot find there was sufficient degree of negligence."

INQUEST VERDICT

Coroner's jury had already brought in a verdict that attached no blame to Killingbeck.

Mr. Bradshaw said the crown's case boiled down to Killingbeck's failure to stop when "seeing his passengers crawling out. He not only continued to drive but knowing the three were clinging like flies to the car, he speeded up to 15 or 20 miles an hour."

"If that is not dangerous driving I don't know what is," the crown attorney asserted.

In dismissing the charge, Magistrate Baxter said he was stating his judgment in such a way that Mr. Bradshaw could appeal it if he wished to do so, and also as a warning to others that "they are taking dangerous chances in conducting themselves in this manner whether they are Killingbeck's age or not."

Magistrate Baxter termed it "unfortunate that the oldest one of the group (20-year-old Ronald Harrison) was the one who gave the others the idea."

CLIMBED INTO TRUNK

It was Harrison who first climbed through the rear window of the car, and clambered over the rear fender into the trunk. There was no lid on the trunk and as Harrison was climbing back into the car, Weese said he got out of the car, walked back beside the slow moving car and climbed into the trunk.

Grant, he said, got out of the right front window ahead of him and was on the hood of the car when he last saw him.

The magistrate said that a warning which Harrison said Killingbeck gave to Grant "to get off the car because he was obstructing his view," did not exonerate the accused. "No person can absolve themselves of responsibility by a warning when a person is in the position Grant was."

However, the magistrate added that at the rate Killingbeck was travelling, he could not find that Killingbeck could have foreseen that Grant might have been seriously injured or killed, if he fell off.

As to punishment, Magistrate Baxter said, "I would suggest that the punishment he had received in the taking of the life of a boy his own age is sufficient warning and has hit him sufficiently hard that it will not soon be forgotten and will likely remain with him the rest of his life."

Washington Society Goes To Japanese Gov't Party

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—It's really official now.

And new Japanese Ambassador Eikichi Araki is one of the most relieved men in town, although he had a couple of nervous hours the other afternoon.

Japan is back in the old international fold.

As is generally recognized in this world capital, the Senate can ratify a dozen treaties and the diplomats can scratch their signatures on two leagues of good bond paper. But unless Washington society rules that a country's liquor is fittin' for drinkin' the other formalities don't count.

That's what had Ambassador Araki so worried when he sent out invitations for the first party in the Japanese embassy since some time before what is now known as Pearl Harbor Day.

The Japanese embassy was in the news last when a smart photographer caught the staff burning some papers outside of it on Dec. 7, 1941. The Swiss took care of the luxurious building overlooking picturesque Rock Creek Park during the war. And the Far East Commission has had it since then.

COLLEGE IN U.S.

The new ambassador, who went to college in the U.S. before the war and who is an important banker in his own country, had to sweat out the whole affair practically by himself.

He is a widower, and his daughter, Tomiko, who is only 21, is considered too young by Japanese standards to have any part in such parties. The wife of one of the staff members acts as his official hostess.

Had Araki been briefed on the standard Washington cocktail party routine, his pre-party ordeal wouldn't have been so trying. As it was, some time about an hour after the shindig was to have gotten under way, the first guests arrived. That's actually normal.

Even the arrival of the first batch of thirsty guests didn't allay all of his fears. Very first to arrive were Mr. and Mrs. John Steelman. He is the Assistant President and more or less has to go to such affairs. Following him was the official State Department cocktail party battalion who have to go, with no more or less about it.

Then, however, things started to look up. The dean of the diplomatic corps, Ambassador Munthe de Morgenstierne of Norway arrived. After that Araki knew he was a social shoo-in. The generals, admirals, Supreme Court justices, cabinet members, dowagers and just plain crashers showed up.

With high good humor at the way things were suddenly going, Araki wandered among the festive guests, explaining that the reason native Japanese dishes weren't being served was because of the weather. Too perishable in the heat.

HOT SAKI

He invited everybody there to another party, late in the Fall, for which he promises the real thing, including hot saki and at least seven different kinds of raw fish.

AMBASSADOR ARAKI and daughter: In the Fall, hot saki.

During the long gay evening no person was tactless enough to bring up the recent armed misunderstanding which temporarily put Japan out of the social club. No Russian representatives showed up, but then nobody seemed to miss them, either.

On the whole, the party was a tremendous success. The last guest staggered out some time around midnight, which is the real test here for a party that is supposed to be over at seven.

It was the consensus of the guests that the liquor, food and hospitality all measured up to Washington standards and that any time Araki wants to try it again, they're willing to do their part.

And bygones are officially bygones.

Boa Entering Olympic Tests

LONDON (CP)—While most of the Canadian Bisley team are packing for the trip home July 24 aboard the liner Franconia, Lieut. Gilmour Boa of Toronto, 1951 winner of the King's Prize, left today by plane for Helsinki to represent Canada at the Olympic Games.

Lt.-Col. J.T. Steele of Guelph, commandant of the Canadian camp, has left for Scotland for a brief visit. Some of the other members of the team also are tarrying a bit in Britain and the continent for a sight-seeing holiday before their departure for home.

Maj. C.F. Kennedy of Truro, N.S. team adjutant, said the team members were happy over their Bisley efforts. Although they lost the Kolapore Cup and the Queen's Prize, they did win the MacKinnon Trophy for long-range team competition. This is the first time the Canadians have won the competition since 1934.

Season Closed, Fined

Seven Americans who jumped the gun by fishing during closed season on June 28, entered written guilty pleas in police court today. They were charged by conservation officer Ray Simpson of Bobcaygeon with fishing during closed season from an unanchored boat while using artificial bait.

James Campriami, Jasper Campriami, Harold Fleck and W. B. Woolcock all of Akron, Ohio; Dr. W. B. Mitchell of Buffalo, Oklahoma, Dr. C. B. Mitchell, Erie, Penna., and Robert R. Wilson of Youngstown, Ohio, were each fined $10 and $2.50 costs.

Hold Two Brothers In Man's Stabbing

CORNWALL (CP)—Lawrence Sunday and his brother Frank of St. Regis, Que., are being held at Montreal by Quebec Provincial Police for an inquest tonight into the death of Jake Buckshot, 39, also of St. Regis.

Buckshot died in hospital here Sunday of knife wounds police say he suffered during a dispute with his neighbors, the Sundays.

Fined on Liquor Count

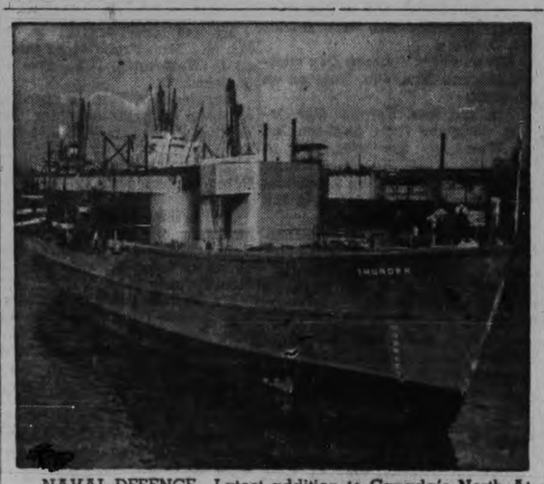
John Hicks, 77 Park Hill Rd., and Steven Senegal, 385 Ritzon Rd., Oshawa, entered written guilty pleas on charges of having liquor in a place other than their residences in police court today. They were each fined $15 and $2.50 costs for being caught with liquor in their automobiles.



NAVAL DEFENCE—Latest addition to Canada's North Atlantic Treaty Organization navy, HMCS Thunder, is shown as she slipped into the St. Lawrence at Canadian Vickers shipyards in Montreal. The ship is one of 14 coastal minesweepers being built in Canadian shipyards.

Whitfield Keeps 800-Metre Championship

By JACK SULLIVAN

OLYMPIC STADIUM (CP)—Mal Whitfield of Columbus, Ohio, retained his 800-metre Olympic championship today, first track and field champion at the third day of the games.

The day's show before 55,000 persons opened with a flourish. The discus throw record was broken when the final competition was scarcely under way.

Two Canadians qualified to enter second-round heats of the 200-metre sprint—Don McFarlane of Hamilton and Bob Hutchison of Victoria. Pete Sutton of Toronto failed to qualify.

Eighteen heats in the preliminaries of the 200-metre dash were whirled off. Only the first two places qualified.

McFarlane was winner in a two-man heat, Hutchison second in a four-man heat. Sutton placed fifth in his heat.

Remand Davies In Passport Case

OTTAWA (CP)—Raymond Arthur Davies, writer and former executive officer of the Communist party in Canada, today was remanded to Sept. 17 without plea on a charge of passport fraud.

The 44-year-old Montrealer's bail of $1,000 was continued.

Davies, born Rudolf Shohan of Polish parents, was charged with making false or misleading statements when he applied for a passport in 1936.

Davies was arrested earlier this month in Whitby, and brought here. The charge said Davies stated in a passport application that he had no other name than Raymond Arthur Davies, that he was born in Montreal March 15, 1908 and that his nationality was British.

Maximum penalty for conviction is two years in penitentiary.

Davies is a former newspaperman, a former leader of the Young Communist League, the Communist Party's youth organization. Later he was on the executive of the Labor-Progressive party, the Communist party's political arm.

City Ponders

PROVINCE'S JOB

"Plus the fact," said Ald. Gillespie, "that we consider this is a provincial responsibility."

Ald. Young remarked that "there is no motion here to take off controls."

Mayor Waddell said: "I think it would be a good idea to enquire into this question. Controls are now being handled through Toronto. Applications for rent changes are sent there."

One of the members remarked: "They send a man down here to enquire and that's the last you hear of it."

Mayor Waddell's motion referring the select committee's letter to the property committee was seconded by Ald. Burrows.

Ald. Burrows: "If Peterborough is asked do we want to control our own rents, are we prepared to go into it ourselves. And who would take on that responsibility?"

Presumably that is one of the aspects of the problem laid on Ald. Longhurst's doorstep.

Mrs. A. Stevenson

I.O.D.E., and served as regent at one time. She was also a member of the board of directors of the Y.W.C.A. and served as secretary of the board at one time.

During the First World War she was a member of the Patriotic League and was very active in the work carried on by this organization.

She was a member of the Peterborough Conservative Women's Association.

A member of St. John's Anglican Church, Mrs. Stevenson was always an active worker in the church and was a member of the Women's Association. She also taught the Women's Bicle Class at All Saints' Anglican Church.

She leaves one son, Dr. Romeyn Stevenson of Peterborough, two daughters, Mrs. D. L. McLaren of Toronto, Miss Margaret Stevenson of Peterborough, and one sister, Mrs. R. M. Dennistoun of Winnipeg.

Her husband, Arthur Stevenson predeceased her in 1939. He was associated for many years with the law firm, Dennistoun & Stevenson. Later he became manager of the Peterborough Light and Power Company and at the time of his death was Crown Land Agent for the Ontario Government.

Mrs. Stevenson was also predeceased by two sons, J. W. Stevenson and Alan Stevenson, who both died in 1938.

The funeral will be held Wednesday from her late residence to St. John's Anglican Church for service at 2 p.m. Archdeacon W. P. Robertson of St. John's Anglican Church will conduct the service. Burial will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

Had No Fishing Licence

Two tourists from Youngstown, Ohio, Allen Stewart and Lawrence Price, entered written guilty pleas in police court today on charges of being non-residents and fishing without a licence.

Both licence dodgers were fined $10 and $2.50 costs each.

British Craftsmen Say Glass Equals That Of Middle Ages

By STUART SAYERS

LONDON (Reuters)—Now that they know how to duplicate the "imperfections" that made the stained-glass windows of the Middle Ages so beautiful, Britain's modern-day stained-glass artists claim they can equal the best that the ancient artists produced.

In one of Britain's stained-glass studios, in the North London suburb of St. John's Wood, skilled artists patiently piece together a jig-saw of thousands of bits of glass to create modern masterpieces.

H. Pale, a partner in the firm, estimates the number of craftsmen employed throughout Britain making stained glass windows is only "a few hundred." There are about 70 recognized stained-glass artists, the key men of the craft who design the windows.

MUST KNOW BIBLE

The designer must not only be a skilled artist but must also have a knowledge of heraldry, costume, history, church architecture and the Bible. He must make sure that his window fits it surroundings in theme and period.

The secret of the old windows of the middle ages, lies, according to experts, in the fact that the glass was hand-made and "imperfect." It was full of bubbles and streaks and graduations of color which gave the light passing through it a quality that later missed.

The Victorians used colored sheet glass for their early windows but it was realized by the 1860s that this was too "perfect."

After years of experiment, the fine "antique" glass of today was evolved. All the imperfections of the ancient hand-made glass were deliberately reproduced, and with them came the glorious colors.

ALL BY HAND

The making of a stained-glass window is a long, painstaking process. Even the electric kiln in which the glass is fired is regulated, not by thermometer, but according to the expert judgment of the craftsman who tends it.

The artist's scale design of the window is worked up by other artists into a full-size drawing. The cutter uses the drawing as guide to cut the odd, jig-saw pieces from glass sheets.

From the cutting room the glass goes to the painters who trace the outline of the design, assemble the whole panel and cover it with a wash of pigment. The painter then etches off the highlights and passes the glass on for firing.

The last process is the glazing, when each piece is fixed by hand into its place in the leads.

Bethany Woman Gives Sunday School Bible

BETHANY (ENS)—At the Sunday morning Sunday school service in the United Church, Miss Elsie Richardson presented a large Bible to the school in memory of her parents, the late Thomas Richardson and Sarah Staples, both of whom during their lifetime had been active workers in the old Methodist Church.

In accepting the Bible on behalf of the school, A. H. Monk, superintendent, paid tribute to the Richardson family, telling of Mr. Richardson's activities in the church and his term of 20 years as class leader in the Sunday school. His family, of which Miss Elsie Richardson is the last surviving member, were all interested in the work of the church and Sunday school and members of the choir.

Miss Richardson lives alone in the village and although advanced in years maintains her active interest in church and Sunday school and looks after her own large garden. A singer and elocutionist, she gives unsparingly of her talents and no community event is complete without a reading from Miss Richardson.

Obituary

MRS. FRANK NICHOL

ROSENEATH (ENS) —Alnwick's oldest lady, Mrs. Frank Nichol, passed away at the home of her son, Rupert Nichol, late Sunday evening in her 89th year.

Formerly Lottie Seed, she was born near Strathroy; a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Seed. Sixty-two years ago she was married to the late Frank Nichol, coming to the Nichol homestead, one half mile east of Roseneath as a bride. She spent the remainder of her life there.

A member of St. James' Anglican Church, when the W.A. was organized 50 years ago, Mrs. Nichol was the first president.

She was a charter member and life member of Roseneath Women's Institute and had the extra distinction of being president of West Northumberland District Women's Institutes. A rapid knitter and always interested in the welfare of the soldier boys, Mrs. Nichol's slogan in World War 1 was "A sock a day and my housework".

Her husband died in 1924; a son, Heber, died in France in 1918. She is survived by one son, Rupert, on the homestead; a stepdaughter, Mrs. William R. Coyle, Cobourg; a step-son, Edward Nichol of Trax, Saskatchewan; a sister, Mrs. Anna Orme, Buffalo, N.Y.

The funeral service will be held at St. James' Anglican Church at 2:30 p.m. on Wednesday, conducted by the Rev. A. J. Patstone. Burial will be in the family plot adjoining the church.

"SALADA" TEA BAGS

Sold in hundreds of millions

YOUNG COLLECTOR William Drobak, 11, works over his collection of more than 8,000 seals and labels. He gets 'em free from assorted household items, which is big reason the labels have replaced stamps as the number one hobby of youngsters.

Stamp Collecting Declines As Most Popular Hobby

By RICHARD KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The decline and fall of stamp collecting from the top spot among children's hobbies had psychologists worried. What was the reason for the spectacular drop?

The answer, according to the American Hobby Federation, is pure economics. Juvenile economics, but economics nonetheless. It seems you can't be a practising philatelist if you're phlat broke. And the high cost of living has resulted in many youngsters struggling along on a reduced allowance.

They can't afford to buy stamps—not with the rising cost of ice such—so they've had to switch to a cheaper hobby. Which is one cream sodas and comic books and reason why the favorite pastime of America's youngsters today is collecting seals and labels.

That's the result of a two-year survey of 8,414 children's hobby clubs, which the AHF just completed. The seals and labels category, not even in the top ten in the last survey, is the children's champ. And the top hobby in 1950, stamp collecting, is now only sixth on the list.

A seal and label collection consists of hundreds of such items obtained from household objects like food, cosmetics, clothing, confectionery, letters and packages. They cost nothing. The hobbyists divide them into two categories—seals are usually embossed metallic foil, while labels are made of paper with a gummed or a plain back.

BECOME VALUABLE

While they are originally free, some seals and labels have matured into obects of value. One collector somehow came in possession of an old label from a Lydia Pinkham bottle. He's since turned down offers of up to $100 from avid fans. Fans of the hobby, that is, not Miss Pinkham.

After seals and labels on the national list come: collecting autographs, model plane making, woodcraft, collecting insects stamps, painting, collecting dolls, photography, model railroading, collecting match box covers, collecting miniatures, and collecting postcards. Nine of these top 13 are collective hobbies; only model planes, woodcraft, painting and photography are creative hobbies.

The Federation has some interesting theories about why some of these hobbies are listed in the first place, and why they're going up or down in popularity.

Autographs, like the leading seals and labels, is an inexpensive hobby. For the price of a little ink and some scrap paper a youngster is a bona fide autograph collector. Which is all right if he wants bona fide autographs.

AIR AGE

Model plane making is a tribute to the air age. Insect collecting is an old favorite, and a great way to trample the zinnia bed. The Federation says painting , which has made tremendous strides in two years, has been pushed by school teachers and community centre instructors.

Doll collecting is, of course, a favorite of little girls. Most little boys wait until they're big before they go in for it. Model railroading, for some reason, is more popular in smaller cities than in larger ones, possibly because homes in smaller cities generally have more room. It's tough to have a decent model railroad installation in a 1½-room apartment.

The American Hobby Federation is emphatic about one thing. A sport, they claim, isn't a hobby. So playing or watching baseball doesn't count. Neither does throwing rocks at trains, which would have been first except for that technicality.

Test Big Guns, Shells On Range By St. Lawrence

By DOUGLAS HOW

OTTAWA (CP)—In a tranquil, marshy widening of the St. Lawrence River, Canada is building a 13-mile firing range to test the big guns and shells she is making for herself and her allies.

By September, officials of the inspection services of the Department of National Defence say they will be in full-scale operation with shells flying out into a marked-off section of what is called Lake St. Peter but which is actually a broadened St. Lawrence.

TEST GUNS, SHELLS

Already, after several months work, some testing of guns and shells is going on at the embryo range, within two miles of the quiet village of Nicolet and 35 to 40 miles from Sorel where a variety of big guns are made.

Parliament has already appropriated $1,800,000 for the range but the final expenditure is expected to be considerably beyond that.

There Canada will proof—the official term—the three-inch .50 calibre guns adopted by the Canadian, American and British navies, the 105 and 155 millimetre howitzers being adopted by the Canadian Army as well as other artillery pieces and rockets being built at Sorel, Longueuil, Que., and elsewhere.

Every gun and every shell that comes off the production lines has to go through a personality test so that its exact characteristics can be gauged and listed. Elaborate gear for checking the various reactions in the weapon and of the missile in flight will be mounted at observation posts along the marshy shore.

None of the guns or shells goes to the services until the inspection services have given their approval.

WATER, LAND CHECKS

The land chosen for the range is a mixture of farm and scrub land. It lies on three stretches of land at the northeastern end of Lake St. Peter, known locally as Isle le Domaine, Isle de la Ferme, and Isle Bougainville. The range will be mainly in the lake itself but possession is being taken of the shoreline to a depth of about one mile because each weapon and missile must be tested both on water and land.

The range will be known as the Lake St. Peter artillery proof establishment of the inspection services, the organization which checks equipment before the forces take it over.

The inspectors have been using a range at Valcartier, Que., and will continue to do so. But the new big guns have outgrown it.

Hollywood Plans Another Whirl At Shakespeare

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—William Shakespeare is being given another whirl in Hollywood. It is hoped the old boy won't be whirling in his grave after this try.

The bard has never fared too well at the hands of the Hollywood filmmakers. But this time M.G.M. is exercising the utmost care to make sure Shakespearians as well as movie fans are satisfied with its version of "Julius Caesar." Witness the facts:

1. John Gielgud, ace Shakespearian actor of England, is being imported to play Cassius.

1. Greer Garson and Deborah Kerr are playing virtual walk-ons.

3. Marlon (Mumbles) Brando will talk plainly as Marc Antony.

HAPPY CAST

Producer John Houseman, who produced Shakespeare with Orson Welles on Broadway, reported that it was easy to persuade Gielgud to play his first United States movie. Miss Kerr volunteered for her tiny part, and Miss Garson easily acceded. "While the roles of Portia (Kerr) and Calpurnia (Garson) are only about three pages, the scenes are important," Houseman explained.

Completing the cast are James Mason as Brutus and Louis Calhern as Julius Caesar.

PAST ERRORS

The producer said he encountered some opposition to a Shakespearian project, largely due to past mishaps. He explained their errors:

"'Romeo and Juliet' (1936) suffered, I believe, because it was largely created by movie people, instead of those connected with the stage. Also, Norma Shearer and Leslie Howard had no Shakespearian experience.

"Orson Welles' 'MacBeth' (1948) had three strikes against it: A limited budget; the Scotch accent; and Orson was too busy to concentrate on his performance."

But Houseman added that Laurence Olivier's "Henry V" and "Hamlet" blazed the trail for Shakespeare on film.

NAMED IN 1649

Christian Island in Georgian Bay was so named in 1649 when Jesuit missionaries led Huron converts to safety there.

Plainville WMS Hear Missionary To China

PLAINVILLE — (ENS).— The July meeting of the Plainville W.M.S. was held at the summer home of Mrs. McConnell at Pine Tree Point, a summer resident from Toronto. Over 30 members and guests were present. The president, Mrs. C. Manley, opened the meeting with a poem and conducted a brief business period, also introducing and welcoming the guest speaker for the day, and thanked the hostess.

Mrs. Stuart Herriott was leader of a joint devotional period with the W.M.S. and W.C.T.U., when the Scripture and meditation was given by Mrs. Maclean Herriott, a prayer by Mrs. John Linton, a poem read by Mrs. William Herriott, and a pleasing duet by the Misses Marion and Margaret McKinlay.

Miss Ethel Wallace, a returned missionary of 43 years in China, and now a resident of Gore's Landing, talked about her beloved college in China and some of the influence of Communism there. Her informal address was touching and most interesting. Mrs. Fred Bowman thanked the speaker, and at the close a social hour was spent, with the hostess and Mrs. Wallace Buttars' group serving lunch.

DROWNED IN TANK

Baptists' School Ends At Havelock

HAVELOCK (ENS)—A successful vacation Bible school under the auspices of the Canadian Sunday School Mission, directed by Pastor L. Bigelow and Mrs. Bigelow of Havelock Baptist Mission was held in the North school for the past two weeks. The course covered lessons on the life of Paul, handwork and the learning of scripture verses.

"Parents' Night" brought the school to a close on Friday night, when a good crowd was in attendance, certificates were presented and a good program was given by the children. Certificates were awarded to those who attended five days or more. Prize for the highest points in the senior group went to Roberta Cook and Shirley Baptie for the junior group. Other prize winners included Shirley Taylor, Marguerite Baptie and Timmie Bigelow.

Certificates of attendance were awarded to Marie Newton, Shirley Hubble, Timmie Bigelow, Shirley Baptie, Shirley Taylor, Roberta Cook, Ruth Watson, Margaret Watson, Leona Baptie. The program included a vocal solo by Shirley Baptie; a vocal duet by Shirley Taylor and Marguerite Baptie; the conversion of Paul was taught by Shirley Taylor on flannelgraph, who also was the winner of the quiz on the lessons; Roberta Cook taught the Books of the Bible by flannelgraph; a trio was sung by Dorothy Cook, Roberta Cook and Marie Newton; the sword drill was won by Roberta Cook.

A vacation Bible school will be held at the Havelock Baptist Church Mission conducted by Tom Watson of London, Ontario, from July 21 to July 25.

New Rust Attacks Grain In Prairies

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Rust Research Laboratory here yesterday identified a steam rust attacking prairie crops as Race 15B, a new and deadlier fungus for which no resistant grain has been developed.

The rust strain was first found about two weeks ago in southern Manitoba and rapidly spread into Saskatchewan.

"It appears that 15B is pretty definitely present," said Dr. T. Johnson, labratory researcher.

ALBERTA TRUCKERS STRIKE

CALGARY (CP)—About 1,000 Alberta dump truck operators went on strike yesterday, bringing to a halt practically all road building in the province. Through the Alberta Motor Transport Association, the truckers seek a two-cent increase for yard- and ton-mile hauling and an hourly rate of $4.50 for six-yard trucks.

NOMINATOR — Sen. Walter F. George, above, of Georgia, will nominate his brother Georgian, Sen. Richard Russell as the Democratic candidate for the presidency.

FAMILY HOSPITALIZED—Four-year-old Judy Cornette is visited in her Akron, Ohio, hospital bed by the six other children of Mr. and Mrs. Chester C. Cornette, of Boston Heights, O., after the ftmily's close brush with death in an auto accident. Only two of the family escaped injury when their car spun off the road and turned over four times. Left to right around the bed are: Sharon, 3, fractured skull and arm; Norman, 10, cut forehead and arm; Charles, 9, bruised scalp; Shelva, 18 months, no injuries; Karen, 8, no injuries, and Danny, 6, cut scalp. Their father's back was broken and their mother, who is pregnant, was cut badly on her leg.

Too Much Pressure Bad For Fishing, Man's Health

"If you're too busy to go fishing —you're too busy," said Pete McGillen, outdoor editor of the Toronto Telegram, in a speech at the Rotary luncheon metting Monday which ranged from a detailed outline of the life of the maskinonge to the moral, that a man's got to go fishing to keep healthy.

Humor and seriousness intermingled in Mr. McGillen's support of conseravtion of Canada's fish with special reference to muskies, bass and trout.

"The muskie is the most valuable single asset the Ontario tourist industry has," the speaker said.

He explained that realization of the importance of the conservation of this fish has resulted in the provincial government - built hatchery at Deer Lake near Havelock.

IMPROVED ON MAN

"The one instance where man seems to have improved on nature's program is in the propagation of muskies," Mr. McGillen said.

He gave the following outline of the steps taken at this hatchery:

The muskies are netted in the spring after going through a series of nets, the fish find themselves in a holding or pond net. The operators milk the female for its eggs and strip males for the sperm to fertilize the eggs.

The fertile spawn is taken taken to the Deer Lake hatchery for hatching and early upbringing.

Eighty per cent of the fry is returned to the lakes where the spawn was obtained and deposited as new stock. The remaining 20 per cent is placed in ponds to be raised to fingerling size. Into these ponds are poured thousands of soft sucker minnows and soft carp minnows. Limbs of trees with heavy foliage are placed to hide the little muskies from each other.

10 PER CENT SURVIVE

Even with all this food and the tree branches, only one fingerling in 10 survives. The others have been eaten by their brothers and sisters. The fingerlings are deposited in the lakes as new stock and placed in the heaviest weed cover where they will have the best chance of survival.

Mr. McGillen named human greed and selfishness as one of the main reasons that such fish as muskies and trout are not too numerous today. He berated the present condition of former good trout streams which he said are not only going to be useless for trout production, but are also going to be open sewers of pollution. He blamed these conditions on the removal of the forest cover.

From here the speaker drew a parallel picture in human health.

"Conservation of health is paramount if a man is to have happiness and contentment," he said. "The deterioration of a trout stream is just what is happening to many of our bodies — pressure, work, hurry and push are all parts of modern day living. These are the factors that lead to coronary thrombosis, hypertension, gastric ulcers and nervous breakdowns."

Mr. McGillen had a prescription for conseravtion of health — fishing.

"The rod bends ,the reel sings, and worry and pressure, gentlemen, are a million miles away."

Mr. McGillen was introduced by J. A. Dewart and thanked by Jack Sackville.

Ask Investigation Of Cancellation

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Trade Minister Howe was requested yesterday to institute a "public meeting" to inquire into the cancellation last Thursday of a Ford of Canada contract for the manufacture of wings for jet aircraft.

Jack Taylor, president of Local 200, United Auto Workers (C.I.O.-C.C.L.), made the request by telegram in connection with the cancellation by Canadair Limited, Montreal, of a contract awarded last December to the Ford company. The contract called for the production of wings for 576 T-33A Shooting Star trainer aircraft.

Mr. Taylor said a Canadair statement of the recognition of "certain difficulties and obstacles that could effect a satisfactory performance of the contract" constituted a "smearing inference" against the United Auto Workers.

FOUR DROWNED IN CANAL

STEWART, B.C. (CP)—Four men were drowned near this town 120 miles north of Prince Rupert during the week-end when their automobile plunged 15 feet from a mountain highway into a canal. The dead were John Brockbank, Charles T. Bradshaw, Ernest Love and H. K. Jamieson.

SURVIVES 15,000 VOLTS

VANCOUVER (CP)—A safety belt yesterday saved the life of Charlie Mussel, 21-year-old electrician, when he was knocked from a sign atop the 10-storey Sylvia Hotel here by 15,000 volts of electrical current. Mussel was checking the sign's circuit when he accidentally touched a hot wire. He suffered multiple burns on hands and arms.

Husband, Wife Silent For 2-Year Period

MANCHESTER, England (CP)—When Thomas B. Moxon, 53, was granted a divorce from his wife, Millicent, 49, it was disclosed in court here that neither had spoken a word to each other for more than two years.

During that time, however, they carried on a form of conversation through their affectionate, tail-wagging dog which divided its allegiance between its masters.

Judge Alan Walmsley described himself as "startled" by this unusual relationship.

"It appears that the dog was used, not as a means of passing on communications," he said, "but merely as an object to which remarks intended to be heard by either spouse, could be addressed."

Mrs. George Smith recently had a miraculous escape from serious injury when driving the tractor with a wagon load of baled hay into the barn floor. It went right on through the front barn doors with tractor and engine landing upside down on the concrete yard below. Her fall was broken as she caught a plank. One leg was bruised and she suffered from shock. A daughter, Joyce, was riding on the load of hay but jumped clear when she saw what was happening.

Mrs. Hilton Morton is ill in Cobourg General Hospital.

Mr. Clarence Kinsman, Toronto, is visiting his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Harold McCallister.

26 Ships Could Have Been Used Out Of Port Churchill In 1951

By E. S. JOHNSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—At least 26 ships and 10,000,000 bushels of grain could have been handled through proper allocation of tonnage on the Hudson Bay route out of Port Churchill during the abbreviated 2½-month navigation season in 1951.

This was the opinion of Sir Clement Jones, chairman of the Commonwealth Shipping Committee, based on the "considered opinion of responsible men on the spot."

21 SHIPS SAILED

The statement was made in connection with the 11th annual report on Hudson Bay marine insurance rates, released yesterday by the committee.

The report said 21 ships carrying 7,278,000 bushels of grain moved out of Port Churchill during the 1951 season. Both the number of sailings and the cargo volume were records, established without mishap.

Sir Clement, who visited the port last October, said he believes an improved performance can be attained within the approved insurance coverage dates.

Last year's season extended from July 26 to Oct. 10.

This year, however, insurance rates remain the same, except that vessels equipped with a gyro compass will receive a reduction of 25 per cent. For extension of sailing between Oct. 10-15 rates will be increased 25 per cent.

GOOD WEATHER

In an appendix to the general report Sir Clement said the last ship sailed out of Churchill Oct. 4. Yet five days later the sky was clear, the temperature around 56 degrees and rising, with a moderate southwest breeze—perfect weather.

"I took off my jacket and was photographed in my shirt sleeves to show my family and my underwriting friends at Lloyds what the sub-Arctic climate can be on Oct. 9," he wrote. "Yet alas, no ships were loading."

CANDIDATE CASTS—Republican presidential candidate Dwight D. Eisenhower enjoys a brief vacation from politics by casting for trout near Fraser, Colo., where he is resting at a cabin owned by his life-long friend, Aksel Nielson.

Alberta Election Entries Now Become Official

EDMONTON (CP)—The entries in Alberta's election race make it official today. Nominations for the Aug. 5 election close at 2 p.m. MST.

Returning officers are expected to receive papers from 182 aspirants for the 61 seats in the Legislature, each accompanied by a $100 deposit.

The Social Credit Party, in power since 1935 and seeking its fifth straight election victory, is fielding a full slate of 61 candidates. The Liberals are expected to have 54, the C.C.F. 41 and the Progressive Conservaives 12, with another dozen running under assorted labels.

FOUR SEATS CREATED

The standing at dissolution: Social Credit, 49; Liberals, 3; C.C.F. 2; Independent Social Credit, 3. The Legislature dissolved June 28 had 57 members; the new House will have four more. A redistribution bill has given Edmonton two additional members and Calgary one, and a new rural riding—Bonnyville—has been put on the electoral map.

Among the opponents of the government headed by 43-year-old Premier Ernest Manning are five Independent Social Crediters, all but one of them former government supporters in the Legislature.

They are Earl Ansley, former Minister of Education, running in Leduc; A. V. Bourcier, Lac Ste. Anne; Arthur Wray, Banff-Cochrane; H. E. Debolt, Spirit River, and A. D. Olson Wetaskiwin. Mr. Debolt is one of six regular Social Credit members of the last House who failed to win renomination. The others are not standing for re-election.

Indications are that there will be no acclamations. No candidate has been named to oppose Dr. W.W. Cross, Minister of Health, in Hand Hills, but the Liberals said they expect to have a candidate officially nominated by the time entries close.

LEADERS IN CAPITAL

All four party leaders are expected to file nomination papers in the seven-member Edmonton riding. Besides Premier Manning, the leaders are J. Harper Prowse, Liberal, the official Opposition leader in the dissolved House; Elmer E. Roper, C.C.F., and M. E. Manning, no relation of the Premier, Progressive Conservative.

The Progressive Conservative candidates are all in Edmonton and Calgary.

Two Ministers, both veterans of Social Credit's 1935 march to power under the late William Aberhart, are not seeking re-election. Nathan E. Tanner, Minister of Mines and Minerals and the architect of Alberta's oil policy, is entering private business and giving up his Cardston seat. Poor health prompted Works Minister D. B. MacMillan to forgo renomination in Lacombe.

GOT DOUBLE SOAKING

Down at the Kitney market gardens, the irrigation pipe system was put into action Sunday in the prospect of another detour of clouds and their promise of rain. Then, during the night came the rains with saturating effect, after all the artificial attention to the garden crops down east of the river.

TOURIST BOOTH

Approximately 150 people stopped at the Junior Chamber of Commerce booth Saturday to make it the busiest day of the season to date. Bill Duignan said today that about 400 stopped at the booth during the week. He also reported that tourist lodges; cottage and cabins were nearly all filled in the area.

BREAKS THUMB

Mrs. Walter James, 45, of 224 Sherbrooke St., was given outpatient treatment in Civic Hospital Saturday night for injuries received in a car accident east of Oshawa. She received a broken thumb and some cuts. The driver of the car, Gerald Newton, 25, of Reid St., hurt his knee and received a few scratches. A third passenger was uninjured. They were in collision with an eastbound car.

COMMISSION'S SIGN

Enquiries have been reaching the Utilities Commission suggesting surprise and curiosity about a sign that is being shown on the north side of Burnham St., between Hunter and Robinson Sts. A vacant business place has acquired a lettered glass bearing the words "Peterborough Utilities Commission" set in a door. Apparently it was bought from the St. Clair Wrecking people down at the old city hall, but the inscription has not yet been erased.

THORNCLIFFE WINNERS

J. J. Crowley's "Jimmy Forbes" made the second end of the daily double at Thorncliffe Saturday. It paid $8.40 to win the second heat of the harness horse races, and was hooked up for the double with the winner of the first, Lady C. Grattan, at $55.50. The double was $346.05, the biggest at Thorncliffe since the standardbreds moved in this season. And, last week Dr. Art Johnston's Lady Victoria J. won her first race at Toronto. Gadabout on Saturday paid $13.50 in first place in the seventh race. Jimmy McIntyre drove both Jimmy Forbes and Gadabout.

Boy Hit By Car, Rolled Over Twice, Bruised

Rolled over twice by a car which struck him on Hunter St., Saturday afternoon, Larry McPhee, 73 Hunter St. East, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital where his injuries were diagnosed as only minor brush burns and bruises.

William Young of Ennismore, told police he was driving east on Hunter St., when the boy suddenly darted out from the north side of the street, between two parked cars. He said he applied his brakes immediately but could not stop in time to avoid hitting the child.

Minor Flood

Heavy rain this morning overflowed storm manholes along the down town curbs. The water rose over sidewalks and was reported to have reached some cellars, if not in quantity. In the vicinity of the Churchill restaurant, breakfast-seeking customers and tourists were temporarily blocked from the front door. More than a trickle of the overflow seeped under the door of the Peterborough Floral Co.

Harold R. Scott Opens Tourist Booth

Tribute was paid to the Peterborough Junior Chamber of Commerce by the Hon. Harold R. Scott at the official opening of their new Tourist Information Bureau on Saturday morning.

Located at the C.N.R. station on Charlotte Street, the log-style booth has been finished off. Larger than the former bureau, operated for four years, the building was designed to provide better services for the tourist.

"Here we have a group of young men who will not have any direct gain from their activities, spending their time and money building and staffing this attractive office so that strangers may receive correct information as to places to stay, questions about the Kawarthas, and even where to catch the big fish," said Mr. Scott.

"Many in the city and county will benefit directly from an increased tourist traffic, all of us indirectly," said Mr. Scott. "We should do all we can to prove to the tourist that the Jaycees were right when they say this is the finest vacation district in the Dominion of Canada."

H. F. Blake, Canadian National Railways agent, said "although the location of the bureau was the last resort in Peterborough, we are happy to be able to assist the Jaycees in this important tourist service."

President of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Les Groombridge, said "the Junior Chamber has become established as the operators of a tourist service centre. Our mailbag from tourist inquiries increases every year, and the volume of business passing through the bureau is continually on the upswing."

It is five years since the Jaycees erected their first information bureau, and 1952 is the beginning of another successful period of activity in the tourist industry, said Mr. Groombridge. Tribute was paid by President Groombridge to the business interests that assisted the Junior Chamber in providing the materials for erection of the new bureau.

Hobart Sutherland, Wenonah Camp, and his staff, Wilbert Bell and Eddie Sargent, assisted the Jaycees in supervision of the building during the construction stages.

"We have received many compliments on the appearance of the new bureau," said Doug Vaisey, tourist committee chairman. "Our work in the bureau has earned the Junior Chamber great praise from the resort operators, members of the City Council, and the businessmen."

Bill Duignan, tourist bureau operator, stated that from the moment when the floor was being laid, tourists stopped at the bureau site with queries about accommodation, fishing, and vacationing.

Whitefish 9¾ Pounds Caught In Stony

A nine and three-quarter pound whitefish was caught Sunday afternoon in Stony Lake, near Crowe's Landing. Residents say they are scarce and it is the biggest that they recall having been hooked in those waters.

The fisherman was K. A. Blom of Cleveland, Ohio, who caught it while trolling in a deep channel with a rubber minnow. He was trying for large pickerel at a depth of nearly 70 feet.

Mr. Blom, who has rented a summer cottage on Stony Lake, fought it for 15 minutes. Fearing the hook would tear out of the whitefish he let it tire itself out and then lifted it into the boat. It was 26 inches long.

Boy 4, Falls Into Cellar, Badly Hurt

Skull Fractured In Tumble From Outside

Kenneth Killingbeck, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell G. Killingbeck, 348 Grady Ave., is lying seriously injured in Civic Hospital after falling into the basement of his home Saturday afternoon.

He has a fractured skull and concussion. His condition today was described by hospital authorities as "fair."

Kenneth fell through a sort of window his father has in the side of the house, at ground level. Below in the basement Mr. Killingbeck has a workshop, where, among other things, he repairs boats. The boats are brought in and taken out of the workshop through this opening.

The boy was playing in the driveway and then decided to look through the opening into the basement workshop. He lost his balance and fell four feet, striking his head on the basement floor.

He was unconscious for about five hours.

Milk Separator Erupts, Shoots Off Metal Bowl

ROSENEATH —(ENS) —Mrs. Edward George, Concession 3, Lot 13, Alnwick township, was uninjured by what appeared to be an "explosion" of some part of an electric-driven milk separator at their dairy farm this morning.

The milking machine was attached to the last two cows in the milking parlor. Mrs. George had emptied two and a half pails of milk into the large metal bowl of the separator. She then closed the switch of the separator, and started back to the milking room.

Just what happened, Mrs. George said she did not know. As she was leaving the separator room, she heard a noise that sounded like a "swish". The bowl of the separator flew up to the ceiling without loss of a drop of its content in its flight. The ceiling and the walls of the separator room were then thoroughly sprayed with the milk, and looked as if they had been freshly whitewashed.

Cause of the mishap could not be determined at the time. It was said that the thread of a small lower bowl appeared to be worn out and a rubber disc at the base was cut in two.

Parts of the machine flew about. It appeared to be damaged beyond use, but it was thought that repairs might be made.

A somewhat similar accident occurred at the George farm 26 years ago. At that time the separator was manually operated.

That was before hydro power was extended to Alnwick.

Fuel Pump Blamed For Car Accident

A faulty fuel pump was blamed for a two-car accident on Parkhill Rd., at Nicholls Oval Saturday noon which caused $250 damage.

Stanley McCormick, 489 Bellevue Ave., told police he was going east on Parkhill Rd., when his fuel pump quit just as he reached the top of the hill. He stopped.

He was directing traffic around the car and the first one that came along went around, but the driver of a second oncoming car was unable to see the McCormick car because of the first vehicle which was passing it.

The car, driven by Fred J. O'Brien, 116 Maria St., smashed into the rear of the stalled McCormick car, doing an estimated $50 damage to the rear and causing about $200 damage to the front end of the O'Brien car.

BUSES FROM ENGLAND attracted many citizens of Peterborough when they went on display at the City Hall today. Many had seen them only in pictures. Others, veterans of the Second World War, were drawn by nostalgia. The buses arrived Sunday night and many lined George St. to welcome them.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Men On English Buses Could Write a Book On Tour

George Gwynn, tall driver of one of the London Transport buses, said this morning at the City Hall he could write a book about all the experiences of the three touring double-deckers that were the centre of attention on George St. "For instance, when we were approaching Placerville at the end of our itinerary in California, we were met and surrounded by men on horses," Mr. Gwynn related.

"They were dressed like highwaymen, and were shouting and firing off pistols. We didn't know what was up. Of course we had to stop, and their leader demanded our gold and our women.

"In that excitement, another group arrived on horseback, also firing revolvers and threatening the holdup gang. It turned out that these were a Sheriff's posse. They surrounded the highwaymen, and we all went on into Placerville. The captives and the Sheriff's men led the way into Placerville, and by that time we knew it was a planned and staged holdup.

"When we reached the centre of the city, the sidewalks were lined with children. We followed the Sheriff to the city square, where the posse hanged effigies of the bandits. We were then entertained to luncheon, and we all had a wonderful time.

ANTELOPE STEAKS

"Then, there was Rock River in the State of Wyoming, in the cattle country. We were again surrounded and "held up" before entering the village. After the general reception, we were entertained at a dinner we shall always remember for the antelope steaks they served us. We went out to a nearby ranch and saw cowboys roping and branding cattle.

"They were extremely friendly people everywhere we went, and especially in the west.

"Another village I particularly remember was Velle, in Missouri. That was a rather cold spring day. A very fine school band met us nearly a mile from the village, and saluted us by playing "God Save the Queen." Then the band paraded us into the village for the community reception.

"In Denver, Col., when they found out that I was a veteran of the First World War, they had me march with them in the Memorial Day parade. Incidentally, in Ottawa last Friday, I had the honor of placing on the capital city's splendid war memorial a wreath of flowers which had just arrived fresh from London by plane.

"At Perth, this side of Ottawa, they gave us a grand reception. Another place of memory was at Champlain in Quebec when we crossed the border from the United States.

RECEPTION IN RAIN

"They gave us a warm welcome, and some of their people came along with us in cars to Montreal. In spite of the heavy rain in Montreal, streets were crowded with people under umbrellas. We had a delightful party at Champlain to celebrate our landing on Canadian soil."

Those are sketchily some of the episodes which Mr. Gwynn of Catford, London, said he could expand and extend if he were to write a travelogue of this tour.

At the City Hall this morning the London goodwill party of sixteen, including three girls, were extended a hearty welcome to Peterborough.

Charles W. Price, director of the tour, expressed regret that "we were delayed in reaching this city last night". It transpired that at Norwood a reception of unscheduled detail upset the itinerary by more than an hour and a half.

"There must have been four or five hundred people at Norwood," Mr. Price said. "They were most friendly, and of course we couldn't hurry away from them."

GEORGE ST. LINED

George St. was lined with people early Sunday evening, all the way from the City Hall to Simcoe St. and beyond. Hundreds were waiting in front of the armouries, and automobiles were everywhere.

"In spite of our delay it was a wonderful reception here," Mr. Price said, "and we are most appreciative of the patient spirit of the people who waited for us until we arrived."

Mr. Price presented Mayor Waddell with a souvenir scroll commemorating the transport bus visit and also conveyed a letter of greeting from the Mayor of Peterborough, England. The welcome was quite informal.

Mr. Price remarked that the goodwill sought by the British Travel and Transport Association in their enterprise of planning the tour of the United States and Canada had been spontaneously reciprocated everywhere.

The main purpose of the association in sending the three London double-deck buses to America was to kindle practical interest in Great Britain and its tourist attractions.

NO TROUBLE

"It has been a great experience" Mr. Price said. "The farthest south we reached was Dallas, Texas. We have travelled 10,500 miles. Thanks to the skill of our maintenance men and our drivers, we have had no engine or other trouble anywhere. Everything has gone smoothly.

"We are going as far as London, Ont., then we return east, and cross the St. Lawrence River, going directly to New York.

"We expect to find a party at Gananoque, celebrating our departure from Canadian soil. At New York the buses will be loaded on the Cunard Line freighter Parthia. It is the only vessel that could accommodate them in its hold. At that they have only two-inch clearance."

Mr. Price said: "I can't say that we are accustomed to this humidity in Ontario, but we have taken the changes of weather in our stride. We have been through ice and snow, storms, the desert and the Rockies, and now we are having a bit of humidity."

1,500 Visit City For CPR Picnic At Nicholls Oval

The 29th annual picnic of the Canadian Pacific Recreation Club was held in Nicholls Oval Saturday with approximately 1,500 in attendance. Two special trains brought the C.P.R. employees and their families from Toronto in the morning and they were taken to the Oval in city buses.

The program for the day included races for children and adults, draws and picnic lunch. Many of the children and adults walked over to Inverlea Park to swim.

During the afternoon a civic welcome was extended to the visitors by Ald. P. J. Anglesey.

There were threatening skies all day, but no rain fell to spoil the gala picnic day for the out-of-towners.

This was the fourth of the C.P.R.'s 29 picnics to be held in Peterborough. Arrangements for the picnic were made by W. F. Koehn and J. W. Harman.

During the afternoon many of the visitors and their families went downtown to shop and look about the city, admiring the store windows and the city in general.

A drowning during the afternoon marred the picnic although most of the visitors knew nothing about it. Richard Dwelly, 24, of Toronto, who came on the picnic although he was not a C.P.R. employee, apparently went in swimming in the canal just below the Lift Lock and drowned. His body was recovered Sunday.

Boy From Africa Seeks Pen Pal Here

A British West African boy of undetermined age is looking for a pen pal in Peterborough.

The Peterborough Chamber of Commerce received a letter today from Robert Kenneth Kofi Ansah, A.M.E. Zion School, P.O. Box 9, Akin Akroso, Gold Coast, British West Africa. The sender had been given a souvenir folder of Peterborough by a friend. After looking at the pictures of the city, he says that he decided to write to Peterborough.

The staff of the Chamber of Commerce are mystified, because they don't know how such a souvenir folder reached the Gold Coast.

The only solution is that someone in Peterborough has written there enclosing the folder and the folder was passed on to Mr. Ansah.

Nevertheless Robert Kenneth Kofi Ansah is looking for a pen pal and whether it is one particular person in the city he wishes to write to or not, it is hard to say. But he would probably appreciate a letter from any boy or girl in the city.

Two Children, Baby, Man Escape As Fire Breaks Out On Motor Boat

Russell Elliott Swims With Baby To Punt He Had Been Towing On Buckhorn Lake Children Jump Clear, Reach Punt First

Four people—one of them a 22-month-old baby—were forced overboard into Buckhorn Lake on Sunday afternoon when flames swept their outboard motor boat. Russell Elliott, 39, of 319 Juliet Rd., was blistered on the hands. The difficulty of swimming with his burned hands and carrying the baby through the water almost proved too much. He was exhausted by the time he reached a nearby punt, containing the rest of the party.

Johnny Jacobs, a guide from Curve Lake, saw the burning boat and Elliott trying to reach a second boat—a drifting punt that he had been towing. Jacobs pulled Elliott from the water; the swimmer had nearly reached exhausting point.

Two other children—Jim Cullen 11, and Bruce Cullen 9—were able to jump out of the fire-swept boat and swim back to the punt that was being towed. There they joined two of Mr. Elliott's children — Gerry 6, and Joy 8. Neither of the two Elliott children can swim.

ROPE CUT

This left Mr. Elliott with the responsibility of rescuing the 22-month-old baby, Peter Cullen. He was handicapped with his badly blistered hands and the fact that the towline had been cut between the burning boat and the flat-bottomed punt containing the other children.

As there were no oars or paddles in the punt it drifted away with the wind while the four young children looked on terrified.

From time to time they called out "Keep the baby's head above water. Keep her head up."

But for the arrival of Jacobs they both would probably have drowned.

Mr. Elliott is staying at a summer cottage on Little Pigeon Lake about 5½ miles north of Bridgenorth. He wanted an extra boat Sunday afternoon so he set out by outboard, with the children, to his father's lodge on Chemong Lake.

For the trip back from Chemong Lake he put his two non-swimming children—Joyce and Gerry—in the punt, and the three Cullen boys, including the baby, with him in the outboard. They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cullen, 122 Dufferin St. Both families are on holidays.

Mr. Elliott said the fire started when he was nearly home. He had gone through Herrington Channel and was between Herrington and Fox Islands on Buckhorn Lake when gasoline that was leaking from the carburettor suddenly ignited.

The motor caught fire and in his excitement to put it out Mr. Elliott accidentally knocked over a four-gallon can of gasoline.

Instantly flames leaped the length of the boat. Jim Cullen and Bruce Cullen leaped out and without difficulty swam back to the punt. Then they cut the towline and the punt drifted up the lake as Mr. Elliott, carrying the baby, struggled to reach them.

Before he jumped, Bruce handed the baby, Peter, to Mr. Elliott.

Mr. Elliott said he didn't remember how he got to the punt. "I was really beat," he said.

Mrs. Cullen said Mr. Elliott did well to keep his head in the emergency.

Car Wheel Runs Over Girl, 1½, Fractures Skull

TRENT RIVER (ENS) — Unknown to a group of friends who were chatting beside a car, an 18-months-old girl Sunday night walked behind the car and was run over. The left rear wheel is believed to have run over her head and neck.

The little girl—Wendy Buchanan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Buchanan of Toronto—is in serious condition in Civic Hospital. She has a fractured skull, concussion and internal injuries.

The accident took place in the driveway of the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. George Rigby Jr., of R.R. 2 Havelock, three miles southwest of Havelock. She has been visiting the Rigbys who are cousins.

Miss Elfrieda Jenkins, 19, a neighbor, drove into the driveway shortly before 7 p.m. Sunday to pick up a friend, Miss Audrey Bennett, who lives at the Rigby home.

DIDN'T SEE CHILD

The Rigbys were standing by the right-hand side of the car and didn't see 18-month-old Wendy toddle around behind the left rear wheel. When Miss Jenkins backed up the car she felt a bump as the wheel went over something soft.

They investigated and found Wendy lying on the ground.

She was taken to the office of Dr. W. M. Judd of Havelock and then to Civic Hospital.

Miss Jenkins is a music teacher, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Jenkins of R.R. 2, Havelock.

$400 Damage Done When Cars Collide

An estimated $400 damage resulted Saturday afternoon, when two cars collided at George and McDonnel Sts.

Thomas Kennedy, 213 Melrose Ave., Ottawa, was going west on McDonnel about 1:30 p.m., and while passing through the intersection at George St., his car collided with a southbound George St. car driven by Robert Dracup, 438 Driscoll Terrace.

Damage to the front end of the Kenney car was estimated at $100 while the left side of the Dracup car received about $300 damage.

In his report on the accident, Constable Arthur Beardsmore said the stop sign at George St., is partly obscured by leaves from an overhanging tree.

Wilson-Archer Wedding

At five o'clock Saturday afternoon in All Saints' Anglican Church Miss Patricia E. Archer and Mr. Harold G. Wilson were united in marriage with Ven. Archdeacon C. W. Balfour officiating.

The bride wore a ballerina dress with strapless bodice of white nylon net over taffeta and a short cape of white lace. Her veil of white net was cut in shamrock outline and caught to a lace headdress and she carried a bouquet of red carnations. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Archer of Peterborough and was given in marriage by her father. Only attendant was her sister, Mrs. E. Cross of Toronto, who wore a yellow dotted Swiss dress and yellow straw hat and carried a bouquet of mauve sweet peas.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilson, and was attended by his brother, Mr. Robert Wilson Jr.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 643 Chamberlain St. Her mother was dressed in blue flowered silk and wore a white straw hat and corsage of white gardenias. The groom's mother choose blue lace and also wore a white straw hat and her corsage was of pink roses.

The bride and groom are on a wedding trip east, the bride travelling in a yellow two-piece dress and wearing white accessories.

They will live at the groom's home, 421 Bethune St. on return.

Leave For Southern States After Palmer-Russell Rites

A very pretty wedding was solemnized Saturday at one o'clock in All Saints' Anglican Church as Joyce Myrtle Russell became the bride of Mr. John Henry Palmer in a ceremony performed by Ven. Archdeacon C. W. Balfour.

The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Frederick Russell of Peterborough and was given in marriage by her father. She was gowned in white satin with the very full skirt in floor length with a charming effect in a semi-train. The brocaded top with high Queen Anne collar was trimmed with tiny buttons which were repeated on the sleeves. Her fingertip veil was appliqued with tiny satin leaves and caught up with a sweetheart headdress of the white satin. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Corriene Russell was her sister's maid of honor and Miss Jean Palmer, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. They were in similarly styled frocks of pink and green brocaded satin with matching net overskirts. Their headdresses and mittens were of matching net and they carried cascades of mixed summer flowers. Flower girl was the bride's cousin Bonnie Hales. She wore a frock of yellow brocaded satin with net overskirt and headdress and mittens to match and carried a similar cascade bouquet.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Palmer of Bethany. He was attended by Mr. Robert Reid.

Ushers were Donald Russell and Charles Palmer, brothers of the bride and groom.

The church was beautifully decorated with flowers and the wedding music was played by organist Miss Margaret Flowers. Mrs. W. Beard was soloist and sang "The Lord's Prayer" before the ceremony and "Because" during the signing of the register.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 298 Braidwood Ave. Her mother was wearing a gown of grey lace over pink taffeta with matching accessories and a corsage of pink roses. As she received the guests she was assisted by the groom's mother who wore blue flowered nylon with white accessories and a pink rose corsage.

The bridal couple later left on a honeymoon trip to the southern states. Going away Mrs. Palmer was wearing a mauve nylon marquisette dress with white accessories.

On their return they will live at 296 Edinburgh St.

COOL DO-GOOD-ER

Nobody wants to sleep in the summer—or any time—with a gooey, creamed-up face. But lubrication for every skin over 20 is a must. It only takes a smitch to do good. Your skin will soak it up, and be free from any heavy greasiness.

SWEET AND COOL THE NIGHT

Sprinkle a little cologne on your pillow just before you go to bed. Powder the sheets if it's very muggy weather. Makes you feel infinitely cooler—and sleep comes more easily.

Joyce Godfrey Becomes Bride Of Louis Soles

The marriage took place in St. Luke's Anglican Church on Saturday at 11 o'clock of Margaret Joyce, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Godfrey, R.R. No. 4, Peterborough, to Louis Charles Soles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Soles, of Lakefield. Canon W J. Gilling officiated.

The altar was decorated with pink, blue and white flowers. Wedding music was played during the signing of the register by the organist, Mr. Clark Armstrong.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was gowned in an ankle-length dress of ice blue nylon and lace, the lace top extending below the waist line into the full, nylon net skirt over taffeta. She wore a fingertip veil of white net with embossed corners and a tiara of seed pearls, full length blue lace mittens, and her mother's pearl necklace. She carried her late grandmother's prayer book covered with white silk, with a nosegay of pink rose buds, lily of the valley and forget-me-nots. White satin streamers hung from the prayer book with lily of the valley and forget-me-nots entwined.

Miss Dorothy Nichols of Peterborough, was the bridesmaid. She was frocked in an ankle length dress of pink lace over taffeta. She wore pink mittens and a tiara of pink pearls and carried a nosegay of pink roses and white carnations, with pink ribbon. Bob Hampton of Lakefield was groomsman.

Lunch was served at the Empress Hotel. The bride's mother attended, wearing a dress of pale blue crepe with white accessories, and a corsage of salmon pink carnations. The groom's mother was unable to attend due to illness.

Later the bride and groom left for Cobourg, the bride wearing a mauve figured sheer dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink rose buds, white carnations and phlox. They will live at 568 Bethune St.

Honeymooners To Visit Relatives In P.E. Island

The wedding took place at seven o'clock Friday evening in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, with the Rev. C. G. Boyd officiating, of Hilda Bernice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Llewellyn, of Peterborough, formerly of Prince Edward Island, to Mr. Ernest Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Brown, of Prince Edward Island.

Delphiniums, Stephanotis and gladioli formed the floral setting for the ceremony. Mr. Christopher Gledhill played the wedding music and the soloist was Mr. Roy Wilfong. He sang "The Lord's Prayer" before the ceremony and "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

The bride was given in marriage by the groom's uncle, Mr. Earl Mills. Her gown was of white satin with lace inserts in the skirt and the bodice studded with pearls and rhinestones. It was finished with a round neckline and long, lace sleeves. A small braided headdress held her long veil and she carried a cascade of red roses.

Mrs. Roy Wilfong was matron of honor, wearing pale blue taffeta with matching braided headdress and shoulder veil, and carrying a cascade of pink roses. The groomsman was Mr. Harold John and ushers were John Murray and Horace Mills.

Leaving later to honeymoon in the United States and Prince Edward Island, the bride wore a powder blue suit with matching topper and white accessories. Her going-away corsage was of pink rosebuds.

Ferguson-Braithwaite Rites

ROSENEATH — (ENS) —St. James' Anglican Church, Roseneath, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Saturday when Merla Margaret, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Braithwaite, Roseneath, was united in marriage to John Richard Ferguson, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Ferguson, Oak Heights. The Rev. A. J. Patstone, rector, officiated.

The chancel was tastefully decorated with white hydrangea, blue delphiniums and pink roses.

Mrs. Maurice Cruse of Campbellcroft was the guest soloist. Preceding the ceremony she sang "The Lord's Prayer," and during the signing of the register, "Throught the Years." Mrs. Louis King of Warkworth played the wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white Chantilly lace and silk net over satin. The fitted bodice of lace had a nylon yoke, long sleeves coming to lily points over the hands and was buttoned down the back. The bouffant skirt of silk net over satin had lace across the top coming to points at the sides of the skirt at the hemline. Her finger-tip veil of embroidered tulle illusion was held in place by a tiara of net.

Her only ornament was the groom's gift, a pearl necklace and she carried a bouquet of white roses.

The maid of honor and bridesmaid wore similar gowns of silk net over taffeta. The maid of honor, Miss Roma Braithwaite, ssiter of the bride, wore maize silk net over taffeta with a taffeta bolero, full skirt with matching headdress and mittens. The bridesmaid, Miss Helen Braithwaite, cousin of the bride, wore a similar gown of pale green silk net and taffeta with matching headdress and mittens. The bride's youngest sister, Miss Dale Braithwaite, was junior bridesmaid wearing an orchid organdy gown, styled identically, with matching headdress and mittens. All the attendants carried nosegays of assorted sweet peas.

Mr. Clarence Ferguson of Oak Heights was his brother's groomsman. The ushers were: John Carlaw, Warkworth, and Lorne Pacey, Temagami.

A reception and dinner was held at Maple Lodge for 80 guests. The bride's mother received, wearing navy mesh over taffeta with white accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother, wearing dusty rose triple sheer with insets of lace, white accessories and a corsage of sweet peas.

For travelling the bride donned a green dotted Swiss organdy dress and white accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

On return from their honeymoon, the couple will live at Oak Heights.

Doreen Bassett Becomes Bride Of Leo Crowley

The marriage of Miss Doreen Bassett of Peterborough, daughter of Mrs. Bassett and the late George Bassett of Madoc, to Mr. Leo Crowley, son of Mrs. Crowley and the late Timothy Crowley of Hastings, was solemnized Saturday at the Sacred Heart rectory by Monsignor P. P. Butler.

The bride was wearing a white linen suit with navy accessories and her corsage was a mauve orchid. Her attendant was Mrs. William Bassett of Kitchener who wore a pale blue suit, also with navy accessories, and had a corsage of pink roses.

The groom was attended by his brother Jack Crowley of Hastings.

Luncheon was served after the ceremony in the Marine Room, Club Aragon, and a reception took place later at the home of the bride's brother Mr. Malcolm Bassett, 338 Braidwood Ave. Her mother received in a gown of heavenly blue nylon sheer, wearing white accessories and a gardenia corsage. The groom's mother wore navy sheer and black accessories and also wore a gardenia.

After a honeymoon in the United States the bridal couple will live at 533 Park St. N. The bride's choice for travelling was a blue linen ensemble.

Marie E. Foley Bride Of Carl S. Deal

A pretty wedding took place at ten o'clock Saturday morning in the Immaculate Conception Church of Marie Evelyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Foley to Carl Stanley Deal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Deal all of Peterborough. The Rev. J. O'Sullivan officiated.

The church was decorated with gladioli and lilies. The music was played by Mrs. Cyril O'Donnell and during the signing of the register, Mrs. D. Campanero sang "On This Day."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown was of brocaded satin, made with Sweetheart neckline and long tight sleeves coming to points over the hands. The long full skirt had a slight train. Her long veil of sheer net was caught in a crown of orange blossoms and fell in soft folds over the shoulders. She carried a cascade of red Bettertime roses.

Miss Marie Healey, as maid of honor, was a gown of blue, with bodice of lace and skirt of matching net over taffeta. She carried a bouquet of Pink Delight roses.

Bridesmaids were Misses Joyce Foley, sister of the bride, and Shirley Daniels, wearing gowns of yellow and mauve brocaded taffeta with matching net skirts. They all wore matching hats and mittens and carried bouquets of Queen Elizabeth roses.

The groomsman was Mr. Edward Deal, brother of the groom and the ushers were Lawrence Foley and Myron Kellett.

A reception was held in the Green Room at the Y.W.C.A. The bride's mother received in a gown of blue nylon net over taffeta with white accessories and she wore a corsage of pink and white carnations. She was assisted by the groom's mother, wearing pink nylon lace with pink and white accessories, and a similar corsage of carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Deal left afterwards on a trip to the United States. On their return they will live at 672 Cameron St.

Dark Glasses, Lorgnettes Fad For Smart U.K. Women

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON (CP)—British women are wearing eye-glasses not so much because they really need them but as a fashion fad.

Thousands of fashionable women have turned this year to dark glasses as an indispensable part of a smart summer outfit.

It seems the last consideration is to keep the sun out of the eyes. Glasses are worn in restaurants, in tube trains and buses, and under the dullest of summer skies. And it is obvious that milady gives as much thought to the choice of style and color in "blinkers" as to the clothes with which they are worn.

MEN'S VIEWS

Although British doctors and opticians warn against the constant use of dark glasses unless prescribed by an expert, and just ordinary men say they like their ladies without aids to vision, shops from London's West end to Bond streets are selling them.

In the west end, Mrs. Penny Whittaker, a tall, fair-haired dispenser designing sun glasses at an average of five guineas, finds the more futuristic the design, the better they sell.

One of the most popular styles are butterfly-wings frames that slant upwards to a sharp point, lending width to the forehead and length to a round face.

Seaside favorites are the half-moon "blinkers" with heavy side hinges and a slot through which a headscarf can be slotted to save it sliding along the frames. Pastel-shaded glasses shot with tints of silver and gold are perhaps the most common choice, but upward-tilting frames tipped with golden corners are the foremost choice of those willing to pay around 30s.

RESTAURANT WEAR

For restaurant wear, the height of fashion is jewelled frames such as the egg-shaped blue acetate blinkers with pearl-encrusted browline. And if you need the real thing, the answer is a lorgnette.

This famed dowager fashion of the 90s is the present fashionable answer for girls who need glasses only for reading. How much smarter, when faced with a menu or program, to unclip a lovers' knot of diamante from the lapel and, holding it by the long tail to the brow, flick out hinged spectacles hidden discreetly behind it, than to dig in your handbag for ordinary frames.

HOT WEATHER PROTECTION

Much as you're inclined to let make-up (all but lipstick) go hang as you work around the house these summer days, don't, say experts. Use a foundation lotion at least—to protect your skin from hot breezes, sun and the dust that's blowing.

MANY MAPLES

There are 10 different species of maple trees in Canada, the hard or sugar maple being most important for timber.

Bedtime Snack solves laxative problem

"Constipation made me sullen all day. What a change since I started to use ALL-BRAN regularly! Even my wife notices it!" writes man from Ville Montmorency, Que. If you suffer from irregularity due to lack of bulk, try a bowlful of this toast cereal every night before bed. It may bring back the youthful regularity you thought long lost. ALL-BRAN is the only type ready-to-eat cereal that supplies all the bulk you may need. It's high in protein and iron. Not habit-forming. Kellogg's is so sure you'll like ALL-BRAN that if you're not completely satisfied after 10 days, send empty carton to Kellogg's, London, Ont., and get DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK!

Suggestions For Meals Prescribed With No Salt

A casual comment about salt-free diets brought a shower of letters for more specific help with these tedious meal routines.

I can make suggestions about salt-free foods but I'm no doctor, you know. They have to do all of the prescribing. I can give your morale a boost.

Mrs. U. S. asked for a week's salt-free low-protein menus as a guide for her mother who has been placed on this diet by her doctor. I hope Mrs. Alfred L. of Pine St. sees this too.

SALT-FREE BREAKFASTS
No Protein

(1) Two grapefruit halves, salt-free cooked cornmeal porridge, saltless bread toast with pure fruit jam not preserved with benzoate of soda; tea with milk; (2) large glass fresh orange juice, saltless rolled oats porridge with milk and brown sugar, saltless bread toast with saltless butter and honey, coffee with whole milk; (3) large bowl fresh raspberries, saltless porridge of mixed whole grains ground, milk and brown sugar and dates, saltless bread toast with marmalade, tea with milk and sugar.

SALT-FREE LUNCHES—
Low Protein.

(1) Saltless tomato juice (this will have to be home canned), skim milk cheese and lettuce sandwich in saltless bread, raw carrot, junket pudding with sliced ripe banana, cocoa. (2) Saltless vegetable soup, chopped egg and lettuce sandwich on salt-free bread, half or whole chilled cantaloupe, skim milk. (3) cream of spinach soup, canned apricot and cottage cheese salad on lettuce, salt-free bread and butter, imported green seedless grapes, tea.

SALT-FREE DINNERS—
Moderately Low in Protein.

(1) 3-oz. slice broiled beef tenderloin with lemon and watercress, green beans, baked potato with saltless butter, large sliced orange, coffee. (2) 3-oz. piece breast of chicken boiled, green peas, new potato or whole new carrots, sweet cherries, tea. (3) Broiled slice of restigouche salmon with lemon and parsley, quick-cooked spinach with saltless butter, quick-cooked frozen or fresh lima beans, cucumber or celery (unless celery is prohibited), watermelon, coffee. (4) Broiled calves liver, fresh corn on the cob, cole slaw, sliced tomatoes, applesauce from new apples, tea.

Mrs. U. S. will you please watch this column for recipe for home-canned soup?

✧ ✧ ✧

Mrs. Alfred L. of Pine St. asked for information on canning salt-free tomatoes.

CANNED TOMATOES
(Without Salt)

Select firm tomatoes of medium or small size that are perfectly ripe. Scald in boiling water for 1 minute, immediately dip in cold water and remove skins and top hard core. Pack in sterile jars (boiled 20 minutes), fill with boiling water or boiling saltless tomato juice (see below) to fill empty spaces, seal. Process in hot water bath for 25 minutes for pints, 30 minutes for quarts.

CANNED TOMATO JUICE

Wash tomatoes, remove core, cut into pieces. Bring to boiling point and boil covered for 5 minutes. Force through sieve or puree strainer. Bring juice to boiling point and then pour into sterile jars and seal with sterile rubbers, and tops. Leave ½-inch headspace. Process in hot water bat 15 minutes for pints and quarts. Tighten seal, invert to cool. Never loosen seal.

Of Interest to Women

CUTE RUSSELER—By combining a loud whoop, three outsized campaign buttons and a poster, Phyllis Czarnecki gets across a hinte of who is her favorite candidate for the Democratic nomination. She is a secretary at Sen. Richard Russell's convention headquarters in the Conrad Hilton Hotel, Chicago.

Stray From Wisdom's Path So Women Refused Vote

CAIRO (AP)—Women are swayed by their feelings and affections in their judgments and are given to "straying from the path of wisdom."

Also, they are biased and incompetent—in contrast with men, who are balanced, impartial and self-controlled.

That's what the "Supreme court" of Moslem law says, ruling that for these reasons and others, women among the 275,000,000 Moslems all over the world are not entitled either to vote or hold public office.

RELIGIOUS LEADER

This decision was made by the 1,000-year-old Al Azhar University Fetwa committee. Al Azhar is the greatest religious education institution in the Islamic world. The rector of Al Azhar is Islam's highest-ranking religious figure. The Fetwa committee is the supreme authority on the interpretation of Moslem law.

The announcement followed recent agitation throughout the Moslem world, particularly here in Egypt, for women's right to vote and hold public office.

There are two kinds of authority —private and public—the decision says. Private authority, which includes the guardianship of minors, administration of property and phases of charity, is properly in a woman's domain.

But office-holding and voting, a public authority, are confined by Islamic law to men.

There is no evidence, the decision said, that women have at any time in the history of Islam been entrusted with public authority, either alone or in partnership with men.

CLAIMED NO DISTINCTION

A few weeks ago, Maulana Abdul Kalam Azad, minister of education in India and a noted authority on Islamic law, argued there is no distinction in Islam between men and women. He cited the times of Ayesha, widow of the prophet Mohamed, during which he said women exercised political and military leadership, and even the prerogatives of sovereignty.

The Fetwa committee considers the whole project unseemly.

To vote means taking part in public meetings and public speakings, the committee says. It means travelling and exposure to dangers of various kinds, it adds, and rules:

The authority to draw up laws for society and to supervise their execution requires qualities which only men possess.

DOROTHY DIX

Solving The In-Law Problem With a Home Within a Home

DEAR MISS DIX: Having read, as I so often do, of mother-in-law trouble, I wonder if the plan I have followed would help anyone.

I live, and have for the past five years, with my married daughter. However, although I live in her house, I do not live with her; I have my own housekeeping room, with my own furniture and everything I need to make me comfortable. My daughter cooks my evening meal along with hers, and either sends or brings it up to me and I eat it in my room—a room in which I am the mistress, and that last statement alone covers a lot of ground.

How my daughter keeps her part of the house is her business and hers alone. I don't have to live in it. I can truthfully say if you searched from one end of the country to another, you would not find two people more unlike than my daughter and I. I happen to be the careful, tidy type. She is happy-go-lucky, willing to let go until tomorrow what she doesn't want to do today. So you see, living completely together would be miserable for both of us.

I have a small electric stove on which I make my breakfast, which my daughter frequently comes up to share. Then we chat for a while. On Sundays and holidays her husband comes up with her, or I take the coffee into their rooms, and we have it together. Frequently my daughter and I lunch together in my room. She does most of my shopping for me, along with her own, and I do some myself. I pay her a certain sum each month to cover food expenses, and she absolutely refuses to take anything for the room, in which her husband upholds her. I could fill many pages and still not cover the advantages this system has for both of us. It is, I am sure, the best prevention against in-law trouble I know of.

MRS. W. P.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Here is a remarkably simple solution to a problem usually ranked as practically insoluble.

ONLY ONE FLAW

I can see but one flaw in it. Unless you have some outside activity, which you don't mention, being in one room all day maight be quite monotonous. Whether it is or not, you are to be congratulated on making such a happy arrangement and avoiding all the complications of a two-woman household.

Certainly almost any family could adopt the same system. Since Grandma usually has a room alloted to her, it would be a simple matter to add small kitchen equipment and let her potter around to her heart's content, getting in no one's way and keeping everyone out of hers. If the young people live in a house, the arrangement could be expanded to give mother-in-law a tiny garden outside her room where she could grow a few of her own favorite blooms, again without supervision or criticism.

However, large or small, almost any house or apartment has space that could be transformed into a housing unit for grandma where her independence can hold full sway.

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband, who is 33, and I, who will be 21, have been married four years, during most of which we have both worked. He doesn't think I am old enough or settled enough to be tied down with children. My opinion is that he doesn't want the responsibility. The thing I most want in life is a home with children. I feel that waiting until I am "old enough" is wasting time.

M. B.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: A healthy young woman of 21 is certainly old enough, and should be settled enough, to have children. Your husband's antipathy to the idea springs mainly from two things. Being much older than you, he probably doesn't relish the idea of babies disturbing his peace and, furthermore, he has grown accustomed to your pay cheque and would like to have it keep coming in. It's up to you to persuade him he's wrong on both counts.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I go to school with a girl my own age (14) who lies, steals and cannot be trusted. She likes me and always wants me to go out with her. I am from a nice family and my parents don't like me going with this girl.

B. T.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: A girl who lies and steals is no fit companion for you and I strongly urge you to follow your parents' advice and refuse to go out with the girl. If she wants to have nice friends, she must change her ways, but while she persists in acting as she does, stay away from her.

Flying Saucers Become Hats In UK's Newest Fashions

By MURIEL PENN

LONDON (Reuters)—Public interest in flying saucers is going to the head of the British housewife.

Hats being prepared for sale this autumn inevitably recall descriptions of those hitherto unidentified and, by most of us as yet unseen, objects which people in many parts of the world claim to have observed riding the skies.

Some now appear to have landed almost intact on the heads of London models. Others suggest some damage in a pancake landing, but it still seems impossible that they did anything but drop from the sky—and stay put.

RECIPE FOR HATS

Indeed the recipe for the newest hats seems to be: "Take something flat, something soft, drop from a great height and wear as it lands."

Most of the new hats carry a definitely aerial motif in the shape of birds, or at least of plumes or osprey, whether they are stiff pillboxes, floppy pancake shapes with peaked crowns and wavy brims, or just an oval-shaped half turban draped across the top of the head.

Birds, at the moment, look like dominating the autumn millinery scene. They may be made of velvet or silk or even fur—they are rarely feathered—and they may bear little resemblance either in color or shape to any known species.

But they appear in whole or in part on most fall hats.

The hollow-topped crown of one flat pillbox shown at an autumn collection was filled with a nestful of yellow birds surmounted by a thin, curled plume.

Others, less aviary-like, contented themselves with a single bird perched on top or a couple of smaller ones set one at each side.

Originality of hat design is equalled this season only by the new names given to the materials and colors in which they are made.

What used to be known as "felt" now has acquired new glamor as "peace bloom."

A new pastel shade of blue-grey boasts the name of "lazy mule," although no one can explain why, especially as mules, lazy or otherwise, are generally brown.

Boffin blue, contrary to what its name suggests, is mauve, while "old gold" now is "cognac."

But take heart. Black is still black and white—though it may be called foam white—is still white. Pimpernel, as its name suggests, is a shade of red, while bronze green, honey, citron, mimosa all speak truly for themselves.

With short hair apparently to continue into the autumn, there are few large hats for the coming season. What there are, are "shovel-shaped"—little or no brim at the back and a deep curved one framing the face at the front.

In general, however, the later in the day the hat is intended to be worn, the smaller it becomes. Some cocktail and evening models are virtually only a narrow band of velvet or silk wreathed in osprey or trimmed with upstanding plumes.
